

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

WHERE the direct and immediate object of a publication is practical utility, much explanation of the plan or design is uncalled for. It is of the nature of such works to exhibit their efficiency upon a very slight examination; and when such is not the case, some doubt may be entertained of the solidity of their pretensions. As respects condensed compilations, like the TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY, claims to superiority may also rest upon advantages, which are in some degree even independent of the extent of talent and industry exerted in their display. In the first place, the later writer enjoys all the benefit of the labours of his predecessors—their acknowledged merits, their detected errors, and all the experience deducible from the acknowledged extent of their usefulness. This vantage-ground, which originates in the very nature of things, is no unimportant one; but it may so happen, that altogether exclusively of anterior labours, the exact province of knowledge which it is intended to enter upon, has been recently partaking of the activity of general investigation and science, and increasing daily in accuracy and exactitude, not only from more widely-extended research into what has been, but into the nature of the progression, which has transferred what has been into what is. There are works of a nature—and geographical and topographical compilation are precisely of this class—in which, supposing a tolerable portion of the necessary talent and industry, the last labourer in the vineyard ought to be decidedly the most successful. One writer, indeed, may display more tact and ingenuity than another, in availing himself of these favourable circumstances; but they clearly present the same benefit to all who know how to make use of them.

The foregoing paragraph has been written with a view of deprecating any thing like the imputation of an undue wish to undervalue preceding publications of a similar description, or of advancing any peculiar personal claims to favour, by a statement of the advantages which the Editor may assume the NEW TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY to possess over previous compilations of a kindred size and pretension. A slight enumeration of these will be sufficient.

It may be primarily observed, that there is none, either upon a small or a large scale, which, with equal particularity and comprehensiveness, has thrown the whole of Great Britain, Ireland, and their insular dependencies, under one general alphabet, in such a manner as to forfeit not a single benefit derivable from their separation. Even if it be admitted, that the locality of a place, so far as relates to its situation in England, Scotland, and Ireland, be seldom unknown, the liability of referring to the wrong alphabet, is of continual recurrence, to the occasional consumption both of time and temper; while, where uncertainty may exist as to the portion of the United Kingdom, in which the place sought for is situated, the advantage is obvious and unequivocal. Whatever opinions the purchasers of this work may entertain of the extent of the improvement in this respect, its conductors can with truth assert, that it has been attended with no common addition of attention and labour to themselves. Having in consequence, therefore, purchased something like a demonstration of this fact, it is with pleasure the Editor is able to announce that this part of the plan has met with much spontaneous approbation, from parties in whom the possession of competent judgment cannot for a moment be doubted; and with whom no possible motive could exist for the expression of a satisfaction that was not felt.

A second peculiarity of arrangement, upon which the NEW TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY may advance some claim to novelty and ability, consists in the selection of such particulars to form a heading to each article, as may frequently form the sole object of occasional reference; such as distance, post-town, markets, fairs, population, &c. These may be ascertained at once, by a glance at the two or three lines under the name of the place, without the necessity of perusing the whole article, as was usually the case heretofore. It scarcely need be added, that in the consultation of books of reference, whatever can be gained in the way of time, is of primary importance, both to the student and man of business; and of some value even to parties who are neither the one nor the other.

Another point on which something more of form and precision will be found in this work than in preceding abridgments of the same nature, is the attention paid to exactitude in the topographical locality of each place as distinguished from the general one. Many points of business may be determined and governed by trustworthy accuracy, in this respect, especially in the office of the lawyer, and not unfrequently in that of the merchant or trader; seeing that especial customs sometimes belong to particular districts, as respects tolls, and other matters, by which their transactions may be materially guided. The population and other parliamentary returns which have become so abundant and particular of late years, supply many additional facilities in this direction, of which it has been endeavoured to make a proper use. It would be presumptuous to assert, that no errors can be found in this respect, because they are occasionally discoverable even in authorities of the highest character; but generally speaking, the utmost attention has been paid to clear away all technical ambiguities, and to assign to each place, the appellation by systematic rule, its due. The anomalies in this respect are striking and numerous, especially in reference to places which have rapidly grown into consequence from small beginnings; all that can be said in relation to these instances is, that the most accurate authorities have been referred to, and the results given form the best conclusions that could be deduced from a careful consideration of the state of each case.

Whatever could be acquired of the ecclesiastical divisions of the country, and especially as regards parish livings, and the patronage by which they are bestowed or enjoyed, and that not as respects England and Ireland, but Scotland also, has been collected from the best authorities, and aided by a consultation of parliamentary returns, and other documents, the particulars are indisputably afforded with considerable comparative accuracy, however it may fall short of the complete exactitude which many may deem desirable. To a certain degree the clergy claim the same privilege of being silent as to their extent of property as other people; and while this reasoning is deemed correct by the government and legislature, little more can be done than to repeat the old nominal valuations, except, when parliamentary aid having become necessary, it could only be obtained by a disclosure of the paucity of remuneration, which had led to the appeal. Thus, in the various parishes in which is stated the annual value of the living, according to the Parliamentary Return, it adverts to those not exceeding 150*l.* per annum, which have been raised by parliamentary bounty to the amount stated respectively against each.

In the topography of Ireland and Wales, the Editor has been benefited by the assistance of a gentleman, whose local information and access to proper authorities, are of no common description; and as concerns the former country, he is led to hope, that not only as relates to amplitude of catalogue, but to precision and particularity, a great superiority to all existing abridgment, on a kindred scale, will be visibly manifested. So much laxity and inaccuracy has prevailed, in relation to the minor branches of Irish topography, that all approximation to correctness must be accounted as so much gained from mistiness and obscurity. Even in the population returns, owing to the union of parishes, one is frequently selected to represent the inhabitants of several, to say nothing of villages and hamlets, to which, in detail, they scarcely afford any information at all.

Of the general execution of this compilation, it is for the Editor to state that which he has endeavoured to perform, rather than that which he has actually executed. In a few words, therefore, he may be allowed to observe, that he has sought to condense as much essential information as possible in the smallest compass in which it could be clearly conveyed; to obtain access to the best information in his power, including a direct correspondence with places of importance; and, finally, to make the best use of accessible matter, to form a convenient manual for the parlour book-case appertaining to every rank in life; to be always at hand for immediate reference, and not unfrequently of sufficient authority to supersede the necessity of application to more voluminous sources of information.

In the accomplishment of this task, some errors will incidentally occur, whatever system be adopted, or attention bestowed. The sources of misconception are at the same time not only very numerous, but instances occur in which no exertion or industry will suffice to produce a total exclusion of doubt and ambiguity. This chiefly relates to places of which the Population Returns make no mention, because the number of inhabitants is not specifically stated, but included with that of the parish or other larger division, with which it may be directly or arbitrarily connected; neither is there any other authority or authorities that can be altogether depended upon in this respect. A separate alphabet of these places, stating name, parish, hundred, and county, will form, however, a portion of the Appendix, which will also rectify and explain all the discovered omissions and inaccuracies which have been committed in the course of this undertaking.

Upon the execution of the maps given with the NEW TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY, the Editor is happily spared the necessity of dilating, as their merits, both for beauty and precision, have been universally acknowledged; and taking into due consideration the price and pretensions of the publication, they exceed any thing on a similar scale which has preceded them.

In conclusion, the Editor and his coadjutors, in conjunction with the Proprietors, have only to express their sanguine hope, that claiming the necessary allowance for the minor defects, and slight incidental errors, from which it is impossible to keep such a work entirely free, they will be regarded as having creditably redeemed the pledges with which they commenced their very laborious undertaking.

The following particulars are afforded with a view to facilitate a more satisfactory consultation of the work. The Editor is aware that much of what is here given will not be required by a considerable portion of those who may purchase it, but it is a description of information, which may be profitable to many of its younger possessors; and occupying a few pages only, will but slightly infringe upon either space or attention.

The Anglo-Saxon civil divisions of England, being in a great measure still retained, a brief explanation of the same, may not be unserviceable. The division of the country into tithings, hundreds, and counties or shires, have been generally attributed to Alfred, but it has long been admitted that the tithing and the shire existed long before, and are recognised by the laws of Ina, King of the West Saxons, at the close of the seventh century. It is now certain, and indeed undoubted, that the former patriotic sovereign systematized and completed them, and, according to Ingulphus, compiled a survey, in which the lands of the kingdom were first classed in their respective shires and hundreds, similar to the subsequent Norman one, called "Domesday Book." To form an accurate idea of these divisions, a cursory view is afforded of each.

The TITHING originally consisted of a community of ten freemen householders, who became answerable for each other. Over these ten householders thus associated, was appointed a dean, or tithing-man, who received their recognizances and held a court for the regulation of the district. It is ingeniously maintained by Mr. Whitaker, that the Saxon tithing was the origin of the manor of the present day, the judicature of which is still denominated the view of Frankpledge and the Tithing Court. Tithings, townships, and vills, are deemed synonymous terms; and Sir Henry Spelman is of opinion, that an entire vill consisted of ten freemen, or frankpledges; demi-vills of five; and hamlets of less than five.

The HUNDRED was formed by the incorporation of ten tithings, and, as proved by their great difference of territorial size, originally were formed according to the extent of free population. This being no longer the case, and the old division continuing to exist territorially, the irregularity is so great, that while several hundreds do not exceed a square mile, in area, or contain more than 1000 persons, the hundreds of Lancashire average at 300 square miles; and one of them, Salford, includes a population of 250,000. In the northern counties, formerly exposed to so much hostile invasion, a similar division was made, under the name of WARD and WAPENTAKE; the one implying a confederacy for guard and defence, and the other originating in the assemblage of the inhabitants at a public meeting, when a union with the governor was ratified, by touching his weapon or lance. The hundred court was presided over by an officer, who heard causes subject to appeal to the king's court. The petty sessions for the hundred have grown out of this jurisdiction, and a right of suing the hundred for losses by robbery, between sun and sun, formed a part of its original constitution. The ancient cantriffs or com-mots, the name of the Welsh districts, were altered into the modern hundred, by virtue of a commission under the great seal, in the reign of Henry VIII.

Intermediate divisions between the hundred and the county, and containing a greater or lesser number of hundreds, exist in various parts of England under different names, as the LATHES in Kent, the RAVES in Sussex, the PARTS in Lincoln, &c. &c. The division of a county into three of these intermediate jurisdictions, introduced the distinction of TERRITORIES, which still exist in Yorkshire under the appellation of RIDINGS. These subordinate divisions had formerly their separate officers, named Lathe-reeve, Rape-reeve, &c.

A SHIRE or COUNTY is composed of an indefinite number of hundreds under the jurisdiction, among the Saxons of an Earl or Eorldorman, to whom its government was intrusted. This government he for the most part exercised by his deputy, called the Sheriff, or Shire-reeve. This division existed a long time anterior to Alfred, although the exact period of its introduction is unknown. The word county (Comitatus) is obviously derived from the Comes, or Count of the Franks, an officer of similar rank and jurisdiction with the Saxon Earl. The office of Lord Lieutenant of the county, may be deemed a part of the remains of this dignity.

The PARISH.—Parochial districts were recognised by the laws of King Edgar, in the tenth century, which directs that the tithes of land should be paid to the church of the parish in which they were situated. According to Blackstone, by the term parish, is to be understood “that circuit of ground which is committed to the charge of one parson, vicar, or other minister, for the cure of souls.” In the early days of Christianity, parish and diocese implied nearly the same thing. Churches were usually built by the great landed proprietors for the benefit of their

PREFACE.

ntry, on which account they founded them near the manor-
e. The name of Mother Churches occurs very early to dis-tish the parish church from that of the private chapel of the to which, if it possessed a cemetery, or consecrated place rial, he might lawfully allot a part of the tithes for the sup-of an officiating minister.

though the modes of tenure introduced at the Norman quest, require no particular explanation here, a brief account ne or two terms, necessarily employed in the present work, merit attention.

BARONIES.—In the opinion of Blackstone, barons were origi-ally the same with our present lords of the manor, whose courts were till called Courts Baron. Originally all of these, who held of the king in capite, had seats in their great council, or parliament, until they became so numerous, it was necessary to divide it, and to call only the greater barons in person to parliament, leaving the smaller ones to be summoned by the sheriff to give representation, in another house—the presumed origin of the House of Commons of the shire. By degrees, the title of Baron was confined to the greater barons, or those summoned to Parliament by writ, until rendered a mere personal honour by Richard II., who conferred the peerage by letters patent.

MANORS.—The union of several manors, in one great feudal proprietor, who held his seigniorship over those which he granted to inferior persons, were usually and exclusively called Manors, until the appellation was extended, in the reign of Henry VIII., to Ampthill, Hampton Court, and Grafton, as being composed of various manors, and possessed by the Crown; though not strictly according to ancient principle, as they had not formed either baronies alone, or the capital seats of baronies.
KNIGHT'S FEE.—According to Selden, a knight's fee consisted of any given portion of land, which the king was pleased to grant for the service of one knight. It is unnecessary to observe, that this species of tenure is now practically extinct.

Mr James Mackintosh has observed, that “the far greater number of the names of mountains, lakes, and rivers, in both the British islands, are to this day descriptive and significant only in the Celtic language;” and this remark may be extended to towns, villages, and divisions of territory, in the Highlands of Scotland and in Ireland; but in the Lowlands, and throughout almost all England, the names of places are of Saxon or Teutonic origin, while in Wales and Cornwall they are derived from what may be termed Cimbri-Celtic roots. The relative sources of the local appellatives, in different parts of Britain, as well as in Ireland, will appear, not only from their general signification in the Gaelic or Gothic dialects, but also from their peculiar prefixes and terminations. The following are some of the prefixes and affixes of the names of towns, &c., which are of Cimbri-Celtic original, given by way of example :

ABER, BAR, the mouth of a river.

DISTANCES FROM LONDON.

When the first number of this work appeared, Mr. Carlisle's plan of stating all the distances from St. Paul's Cathedral was adopted; but it was found to lead to such endless misconception on the part of the subscribers, resident in places within forty or fifty miles of London, that it was thought better for practical purposes to give the measurement from the standards in the different parts of the metropolis, which have been adopted in Mogg's latest edition of PATERSON'S ROADS, agreeably to the notice laid down in the explanatory preface to that work, viz.,

- 1.—The Kent roads from the Surrey side of London Bridge.
- 2.—The Portsmouth roads, and their branches from it, from the same standard.
- 3.—The Isle of Wight roads are measured from Cowes, such distance being added to the distance of Cowes from London, by way of Portsmouth.
- 4.—The Croydon, Reigate, Brighton, and Epsom roads are measured from the Surrey side of Westminster Bridge.
- 5.—The Southampton, Dorsetshire, Devonshire, Cornwall, Wiltshire, Somersetshire, and all the other roads in the south-west of the kingdom, are measured from Hyde Park Corner.
- 6.—The Uxbridge, Edgware, Birmingham, Shrewsbury, and most of the road to the north-western parts of the kingdom, are measured from Tyburn Turnpike.
- 7.—The Barnet and great northern roads, and some of the roads in the north-western parts of the kingdom, are measured from the spot where Hicks's Hall formerly stood; a stone, in the front of one of the houses, at the end of St. John's Lane, St. John's Street, West Smithfield, pointing out the spot.

PREFACE.

Huntingdon roads, are measured from St. Leonard's Church, is are measured from the church of St. Mary, Whitechapel.

8.—The Ware and Huntingdon roads, are measured from St. Leonard's Church, Shoreditch.

ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THIS WORK.

K. B.—King's Book.

P. R.—Parliamentary Return of livings, amounting to 150*l.* per annum, supplied with a view to regulate increases of stipend, under the Act of Augmentation. This return implies that the value of all the livings not mentioned therein, with very few exceptions, is above 150*l.* per annum. As already observed, there is no return of the latter, the same ground for requiring it not existing.

Certified Value of chapelries rents on the same authority, for the same purpose.

Dis.—Discharged from the payment of first fruits.

Ded.—Dedicated.

I. after names of place, county, and province—Ireland.

S. after names of place and county—Scotland.

E. R.

N. R.

W. R.

} East, West, and North Ridings of Yorkshire.

Pop.—Population.

M. D.—Market-day.

P. T.—Post-town.

Mail dep.—Mail departs.

The figures included in a parenthesis, after the post-town, implies the distance of that town from the capitals of London, Dublin, or Edinburgh, as the specified place may be in England including the principality of Wales, Ireland, or Scotland. It is further to be observed, that the bearing given is that of the village from the post-town, not that of the post-town from the village. It is also to be understood, that as in a few instances only the exact distance of a village or small place from the respective capitals, can be given, it has been deemed more practically useful to supply that which can always be determined, namely, the distance of the capital from the post-town, and the village from the latter, which at the same time affords the most correct address to the place

NOTICES OF THE PROVISIONS OF THE REFORM ACT AS RESPECTS COUNTIES.

THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE IN COUNTIES.

No person will in future be entitled to a vote for any county, or town being a county of itself, in respect of any freehold estate for life or lives in lands or tenements, unless he shall be in the actual and bona fide occupation of such lands or tenements, or except the same shall have come to him by marriage, settlement, devise, or promotion to any benefice or office, or the same shall be of the clear yearly value of 10*l.* above all rents and charges; but persons now having, or who but for this Act might acquire a right of voting in respect of any such freehold, will not be prevented from retaining or acquiring the right, so long as he is so seised of the same lands or tenements, if duly registered, as this Act provides. (Clause 18).

All persons not subject to any legal incapacity, who are seised of lands or tenements of copyhold, or any other tenure, except freehold, of the clear yearly value of 10*l.* over and above all rents and charges payable out of or in respect of the same, will be entitled to a vote for the county in which such lands or tenements are situate. Every person entitled, either as lessee or assignee, to any lands or tenements, for the unexpired residue, whatever it may be, of any term of not less than sixty years (whether determinable on a life or lives or not), of the clear yearly value of not less than 10*l.* over and above all rents and charges; or for the unexpired residue of any term of twenty years, of the clear yearly value of 50*l.*; or who shall occupy as tenant any lands or tenements for which he shall be actually liable to a rent of 50*l.*, will be entitled to a vote for the county; but no sub-lessee or assignee will be so entitled, unless in actual occupation of the premises. (Clauses 19 and 20).

No public or parliamentary tax, nor any church, county, or parochial rate is to be deemed a charge payable out of or in respect of any lands or tenements within the meaning of this Act, nor is it necessary for any county voter to be assessed to the land-tax. (Clause 21).

Trustees and mortgagees are not entitled to vote for a county, unless they are in actual possession or receipt of the rents and profits of the trust or mortgage estate; but the cestuique trust or mortgagor in possession may vote. (Clause 23).

No person shall be entitled to a county vote in respect of any freehold premises occupied by himself, which, according to the provisions hereinafter contained, would confer on him the right of voting for any city or borough, whether he shall or shall not have actually acquired the right to vote for such city or borough in respect thereof. A similar provision exists with regard to the estate of any copyholder or customary tenant, or tenant in ancient demesne, holding by copy of court roll, or lessee or assignee, which would confer on him or any other person the right of voting for any city or borough. (Clauses 24 and 25).

No person will be entitled to vote for a county, unless he shall have been duly registered according to the provisions of this act, and no one shall be so registered in any year, unless he shall have been in actual possession of his estate, or in the receipt of the rents and profits of the same for his own use, as a freeholder, for six calendar months at least, or as a lessee or assignee for twelve calendar months, next previous to the 31st of July in such year, except where any lands or tenements which would otherwise entitle the owner, holder, or occupier, to vote in any such election, shall come to any person at any time within such respective periods by descent, succession, marriage, settlement, devise or promotion to any benefice or office. (Clause 26)

PERSONS NOW ENTITLED TO VOTE FOR COUNTIES.

1. FREEHOLDERS, comprehending (1) 40*s.* FREEHOLDERS, possessing an estate of inheritance in fee-simple, or fee-tail. A freehold estate need not consist of land only; it may be an interest arising out of lands, as rents, annuities when duly registered, tithes, shares in rivers and canals, tolls of markets or fairs. So officers, in respect of which the holder has a freehold interest issuing out of or charged upon land, gives a right to vote, as in the case of a schoolmaster or parish-clerk not liable to removal. Purchasers of the land-tax to be deemed freeholders; and sole corporations, as parsons, may vote for lands holden in their corporate capacity, but not so aggregate corporations.

2. FREEHOLDERS FOR LIFE, such as tenants by the curtesy, tenants in dower, and tenants in tail, after possibility of issue extinct; but the right of such freeholders, if they have a freehold estate of the value of 40*s.* only, is limited by this act to those who are in actual or bona fide occupation, or to those who have come into possession before or at the time of the passing of this act, by descent, devise, or any other way except purchase or gift.

3. 10*l.* FREEHOLDERS FOR LIFE generally.

4. FREEHOLDERS and BURGAGE-TENANTS, in towns being counties of themselves, are entitled to a vote in respect of their freehold estate, which, as to tenure, interest, and value, must be the same as is required for county elections.

5. COPYHOLDERS, including tenants in ancient demesne, and those holding by tenant right in the counties of Cumberland and Westmorland, possessing an estate of the clear yearly value of 10*l.*, whether of inheritance or life, are entitled to a vote by this act, which repeals the 31 George III., c. 14, s. 1, excluding them from a vote.

6. LEASEHOLDERS, comprehending lessees and assignees, possessing a leasehold of the clear yearly value of 10*l.* for the residue of an unexpired term of sixty years, or of the value of 50*l.* for a term of twenty years or under; or being liable to a bona fide yearly rent of 50*l.* Sublessees and assignees of an underlease, provided they are in actual occupation, otherwise they are not entitled.

7. TRUSTEES and MORTGAGEES, if they are in actual receipt of the rents and profits; otherwise the cestuique trusts and mortgagors are entitled. So persons having an equitable estate are, in conformity to the 7 and 8 William, c. 25, s. 7, entitled to a vote: as a vendee, who is let into possession under an agreement of which equity would compel a specific performance. 1 Heyw. 104. Male. 278. 5.

Persons entitled to a vote in respect of property situate in a borough, cannot vote in respect of the same property for a county, but there is a distinction between freeholders and copyholders, or leaseholders, in this respect. The restriction is confined to freeholders so long as they occupy the premises themselves; therefore a freeholder may have a vote for the county in respect of property in a borough, which gives his tenant a right to vote for the borough; but copyholders and leaseholders lose their right of voting under every circumstance for the county, where they, or any one in their place, are entitled to a vote in respect of property situated in a city or borough. As the inhabitants of the disfranchised boroughs do not come under either of the provisions in the act, they will, subject to the provisions in clause 25, be entitled to a vote for the county in respect of property which they possess in any such borough.

REGISTRATION AS TO COUNTIES.

Registration is exacted from every voter, be his qualification what it may; and in order to be registered, voters are required to comply with certain conditions.

County voters are required—1. To have been in legal possession, or in the receipt of the rents and profits, if freeholders, for six calendar months, and if leaseholders for twelve months, next previous to the 31st of July in each year, unless where the property comes to them by descent, &c. This provision, as respects freeholders, is in conformity with the 18 George II., except that the time of possession is changed from twelve to six months. 2. The voter must send in his claim on or before the 20th of July in each year.

DUTIES AND OFFICE OF BARRISTER AS TO REGISTRATION.

The lord chief justice of the court of King's Bench is, in the month of July or August in this and every succeeding year, to nominate for Middlesex, and the senior judge of assize, when travelling the summer circuit, is to nominate for every county, riding, parts, or division, a barrister or barristers, to revise the lists of voters for the county; and the lord chief justice of the King's Bench is to appoint as many barristers as he thinks fit to revise the lists for the city of London and the city of Westminster, and the several boroughs in the county of Middlesex; and the senior judge on the circuit is to appoint barristers to revise such lists for the several cities and boroughs in every county, and also for every city and town, and county of a city and town adjoining to any such county. The town and county of the town of Kingston-upon-Hull to be considered as next adjoining to the county of York, and the town and county of Newcastle-upon-Tyne as next adjoining to the county of Northumberland, and the city and county of Bristol as adjoining to the county of Somerset; the judges to nominate one or more barristers to revise the lists for the same city, or one barrister only for several cities or places; and in case of the death, illness, or absence of the barristers, or of insufficiency of numbers, to appoint others in their place, or by way of addition. Members of parliament and persons holding any office under the crown are, by ss. 41 and 49, not to be appointed revising barristers, and those who have been once appointed are not eligible to serve in parliament for eighteen months from the time of their appointment. (Clauses 41, 49, and 53).

Barristers appointed to revise the lists of county voters are to give notice, by advertisement in some of the newspapers circulating in the county or division, as also by a notice to be fixed up in some public and conspicuous situation in the principal place of election for the county (such last-mentioned notice to be given three days at least before the commencement of their circuit) that they will make a circuit of the county, or division, and of the several times and places at which they will hold courts—such times being between the 15th of September inclusive, and the 25th day of October, inclusive, in the present, and every succeeding year; and they are to hold open courts at the time and places so announced. And where two or more barristers are appointed for the same county, or division, they are to attend at the same places together, but to sit apart, and hold separate courts at the same time. Revising barristers for boroughs are to hold open courts within the respective cities, boroughs, or places sharing in the election therewith between the periods above-mentioned. And every such barrister for the county is empowered to insert the name of every person omitted in the lists of county voters, if it be proved to his satisfaction that the claimant gave due notice of his claim, and he was entitled on the 31st of July then next preceding;—and every barrister for the borough is to insert the name of every person omitted in the lists of borough voters who shall be also proved to have been entitled on the same day of July to have his name inserted. The barristers are also to retain on the lists the names of persons not objected to, and likewise those of persons which have been objected to, unless the party so objecting shall appear, by himself or by some on his behalf, in support of his objection,—and in that case, it must be proved to the satisfaction of the barrister that the person objected to was entitled on the said 31st of July; but if it be proved that the person was incapacitated by any law or statute from voting, then in all such cases the barristers are authorised to expunge the name of such person from the lists, and also to expunge the name of any person who may be dead, and also to correct mistakes which are proved to have been made in any of the lists, as to any particulars required by this Act to be inserted in such lists. And where the Christian name, or the place of abode, or the nature of the qualification, or the local description of the property of any person who is included in such lists is wholly omitted, which is required by this Act to be inserted, the barristers are authorized to expunge the name of such person, unless the omission be supplied before the revision of the list is completed. But no person's name is to be expunged except in the case of his death, or of his being objected to by the overseers as before mentioned, or except in the case of any such omissions, unless such notices have been given to the overseers, and also to the person objected to, as are hereafter mentioned. The barristers are moreover empowered to require any assessor, collector of taxes, or other officer having the custody of any duplicate or tax-assessment, or any overseers having the custody of any poor-rate, to produce the same before him, at any court held in pursuance of this Act. And also, to adjourn the court from time to time, so as that no such court shall be held after the 25th of October in any year; and also to administer an oath (or, in the case of a Quaker or Moravian, an affirmation) to all persons making objection to the insertion or omission of any name in the lists, and to all persons objected to, or claiming to be inserted in any such lists, or claiming to have any mistake corrected or omission supplied, and to all witnesses who may be tendered on either side. Lastly, every barrister is, upon the hearing in open court, finally to determine upon the validity of such claims and objections, and for that purpose to have the same powers, and proceed in the same manner (except where otherwise directed by this Act), as the returning officer of any county, city, or borough, according to the laws and usages now observed at elections; and the barristers are, in open court, to set their initials against the names respectively struck out or inserted, and against any part of the lists in which any mistake has been corrected or omission supplied, and to sign their names to every page of the lists so settled. (Clauses, 50, 43 and 5).

§ 37. Every barrister appointed to revise lists, under this Act, is to be paid at the rate of five guineas for every day that he shall be so employed, over and above his travelling and other expenses; and after the termination of his last sitting, he is to lay before the Lords Commissioners of his Majesty's Treasury a statement of the number of days during which he has been so employed, and an account of the travelling and other expenses incurred in respect of such employment; and the Lords Commissioners are to make an order for the amount to be paid to such barrister. (Clause 57).

The lists of voters for the county signed by the barrister as before mentioned, to be forthwith transmitted to the clerk of the peace of the county or division for which such barrister has been appointed, and the clerk of the peace is to keep them among the records of the sessions, arranged with every hundred in alphabetical order, and to cause the lists to be fairly and truly copied in the same order in a book provided for that purpose, and to prefix to every name its proper number, beginning the numbers from the first name and continuing them in a regular series down to the last name, and to complete and deliver such book on or before the 31st of October in this and every succeeding year, to the sheriff or under-sheriff of the county, to be safely kept and delivered over to his successor. The lists of borough voters to be delivered to the respective returning officers, to be fairly and truly copied into books, and the books, together with the lists, to be delivered over to their successors, according to the directions above mentioned. And every such book to be deemed the register of the electors to vote after the end of this present Parliament, for any county, city, borough, or place at any election which may take place after the 31st of October in this year, and before the 1st of November, 1833; every such book in every succeeding year is to be deemed the register between the 1st day of November inclusive, in the year wherein the register has been made and the 1st of November in the succeeding year. (Clause 54).

Upon petition to the House of Commons complaining of an undue election, the petitioner, or any person defending the return, is empowered, to impeach the correctness of the register, by proving that, in consequence of the decision of the revising barrister, the name of any person was improperly inserted or retained, or the name of any person tendering his vote was improperly omitted; and the select committee is to report their determination thereupon, and the House to carry such determination into effect, or make any other order which it may deem proper. (Clause 60).

The overseers to cause to be written or printed copies of the lists in this and every succeeding year, and to deliver such copies to all persons applying for them, on payment of a reasonable price for each copy. Clerks of the peace and returning officers in like manner to have copies of the registers written or printed for sale. The monies arising from the sale are by the overseers to be accounted for and applied to the same purposes as monies collected for the relief of the poor, and by the clerks of the peace and returning officer to be accounted for to the treasurer of the county. (Clause 55).

Persons entitled to vote for counties are to give to the overseers of every parish and township notice of their claim according to Form 2 in Sched. II. (see Appendix), or to the like effect; but no person whose name is once upon the register is required to make any subsequent claim so long as he retains the same qualification, and continues in the same place of abode. (Clause 37).

Every person who is on the register for any county, or who has claimed to be inserted in any list for the then current year, may object to any person as not having been entitled on the 31st of July then next preceding to have his name inserted in any list of voters for such county, &c.; and every person so objecting, except overseers objecting as before-mentioned, are, on or before the 25th of August in this and every succeeding year, to give, or cause to be given, a notice in writing according to Form 4. in Sched. II., to the overseers who made out the list in which the name of the person objected to was inserted, and also to give to the person objected to, or leave at his place of abode, as described in the list, or personally deliver to his tenant in occupation of the premises described in such list, a notice in writing according to Form 5 in Sched. II. (Clause 39).

Every person giving notice of his claim to vote for the county, is to pay one shilling, otherwise such notice will not be deemed valid. (Clause 51).

DUTIES OF OVERSEERS AND OTHER OFFICERS IN MAKING OUT LISTS OF CLAIMANTS, &c. FOR COUNTIES.

The sheriffs of Yorkshire, Lincolnshire, and the counties divided by this Act, to cause proclamation to be made of the several days for the elections in the several ridings, parts, and divisions of their respective counties; and they are to preside either in person or by their deputies. Sheriffs generally empowered to appoint deputies to preside, and poll-clerks to take the poll at the principal places of election, and also at the several places to be appointed for taking the polls as hereafter mentioned. (Clause 61 and 62).

The Overseers of every parish and township on the 20th of June in every year to cause notices to be fixed on the church or chapel door, then in some public or conspicuous situation, a notice according to Form 1, Schedule II. requiring all persons who claim to vote for the county or division in respect of lands or tenements situate wholly or in part in their parish or township, to send a notice of their claims, as hereafter mentioned; and by s. 38, they are, on or before the 31st of July, to make out according to Form 3, Schedule II., an alphabetical list of all persons claiming as aforesaid, and on the same day of every succeeding year, to make out a similar list of all persons who shall be then on the register, and also of all persons claiming to be inserted in such list. The list to contain the Christian name and surname, at full length, of every person, his place of abode, nature of his qualification, and the local and other description of such lands and tenements as the same are respectively set forth in his claim to vote, and the name of the occupying tenant, if stated in such claim. The overseers to sign their lists, and to cause a sufficient number of copies to be written or printed and to be fixed on the church or chapel door, or in some public or conspicuous situation, on the two Sundays next after such list shall have been made; every overseer to keep a copy of his list, to be perused by any person without payment of any fee, at all reasonable hours during the two first weeks after such list shall have been made. Places extra-parochial, or having no overseers, for the purpose of making out such lists, to be deemed to be within the adjoining parish; and when there is more than one adjoining parish, then to be within that which is least populous. (Clause 37).

Overseers, having reasonable cause to object to any claiming as aforesaid, are empowered to add the words "objected to," opposite the name of every such person, on the margin of their respective lists; and to include the names of persons objected to by third persons, as hereinafter mentioned, in a list according to Form 6, Schedule II., and to cause copies of such lists to be fixed on the church door, &c. as before directed, on the two Sundays next preceding the 15th of September in this and every succeeding year, and likewise to keep a copy of such lists for inspection, without payment of any fee, at all reasonable hours during the ten days next preceding the said 15th of September. (Clause 39).

Overseers are required to deliver the lists of county voters, together with a statement of the persons objected to by themselves and others, to the high-constable of the hundred or district in which their parish or township is situate; and the high-constables are to transmit them forthwith to the clerk of the peace of the county, who is to make out an abstract of the number of persons objected to, and transmit the same to the barristers to be appointed as hereinafter mentioned. (Clause 40).

The clerk of the peace is, at the opening of the first court to be held by the barrister for any county, riding, or division as hereinafter mentioned, to produce or cause to be produced the lists of county voters delivered to him by the high constables as aforesaid; and the overseers of every parish or township who made out the lists of voters are to attend and deliver a copy of the list of persons objected to, and to answer upon oath all questions put to them by the barrister touching any matter necessary for revising such lists. (Clause 42).

POLLING AT COUNTY ELECTIONS.

The polling at county elections, to commence at nine o'clock in the forenoon of the next day but two after the day fixed for the election, unless such day be Saturday or Sunday, then on the Monday following, and to continue for two successive days only, that is to say, for seven hours on the first day of polling, and for eight hours on the second day of polling, the poll to close at four on the second day. Sheriffs authorized to erect booths at the principal place of election, and also at each of the polling places allotted by the Boundary Act; and they are to have the names of the several parishes and places affixed on the respective booths, at which each voter is to give his vote as before-mentioned. The poll-clerks, at the close of each day's poll, after enclosing and sealing their several books, to deliver them to the sheriff or his deputy, who is to give a receipt for them, and at the commencement of the second day's poll to deliver them back so sealed; and at the final close of the poll, every deputy is to transmit them so sealed to the sheriff or under-sheriff, who is to keep them unopened until the re-assembling of the court on the day next but one after the close of the poll, unless such day be Sunday, then on the Monday following, when the numbers are to be cast up as they appear on the several poll books, and the state of the poll being declared, proclamation of the members chosen is to be made not later than two in the afternoon of the same day. (Clauses, 62, 64, 65).

EXPENSES AT COUNTY ELECTIONS.

The expenses incurred by Overseers in making out lists, &c. are to be defrayed out of the monies collected for the relief of the poor. The booths are to be erected at the joint and equal expense of the Candidates. The expense of each booth not to exceed 40l. (Clauses 56 and 91).

the Rhadyr Road, southward along this rill until it is met by the hedge on the right hand nearest to where it crosses the east lane from Tycoch; thence along this hedge to the Tycoch Stream; thence until this stream reaches the Llangurig Road; thence along this road until it is cut by the nearest hedge on the left hand; thence to a water-cut bank; thence southward until this bank reaches a hedge in the direction of the turnpike on the Pynlymmon Road; thence along this hedge to the Severn; thence until the Severn is cut by a line drawn thereto in continuation of a hedge on the northern end of Pen-y-Green; thence until this line reaches the edge of Mr. Price's Wood; thence to where Cefn Cummere Duyle meets the Pen-y-bank-Road; thence along this duyle until it joins the Clywedog; thence westward to where the Cilmachallt boundary meets a small watercourse running from Berth Lloyd Coppice; thence to the lane from Llanidloes to Gorn; thence to the hedge running along the eastern side of the Chapel House; thence to the Lletty-coch-y-nant Brook; thence until this brook is met by a small stream; thence to the spring from which the stream proceeds; thence to the nearest point in the road from Llanidloes to Barn Leasow; thence to the boundary of the borough; thence southward to where it meets Cwm Jonathan Rill; and thence to the point first described. Machynlleth comprises the township and liberties of Machynlleth, and also the detached part of the township of Isygarreg, adjoining the north-eastern boundary of Machynlleth. Montgomery comprises the old borough of Montgomery. Newton the parish of Newton, and the townships of Hendidday and Guestydd. Welshpool comprises the parish of Pool and the township of Gungwg Fechan, in the parish of Guilsfield, except the detached part of Cyfronnydd, which is in Pool. Returning officers, the bailiffs.

PEMBROKE District, co. Pembroke, comprising Pembroke, Tenby, Wiston, and Milford (new borough). Electors, old constituency of burgesses; 10l. houses 682. Population 12,366. Limits: Milford extends from Prix Pill where it falls into the sea, along this pill until it is met by Cwm Lane; thence to the Haverfordwest Road; thence until this is met by Priory Lane; thence to the 'New Road;' thence to White Lady's Lane leading to 'Haggard Field;' thence to where this lane is cut by the fence of Haggard Field; thence to the north-western corner of this field; thence to Priory Pill; thence to the White Warehouse at the head of the Rope-walk; thence along Spike Lane until it meets Conjwick Lane; thence until this lane meets another lane which was lately part of Point Field; thence to the end of this lane on the Common; thence through the westernmost point of the Fort to the sea; and thence to the point first described. Pembroke comprises the parishes of St. Mary and St. Michael, and also the space extending from where Taylor's Lake meets the boundary of St. Mary's parish, northward to where this lake joins the pill near Quoit's Mill; thence to where this pill meets this boundary; and thence to the point first described. Tenby comprises the liberty of Tenby. Wiston the old borough of Wiston. Returning officer, the mayor.

RADNOR District, co. Radnor, comprising Cefn Llys, Knighton, Knucklas, Rhayder, Presteign (new borough), and Radnor. Electors, old constituency burgesses; 10l. houses 455. Population 8110. Limits: Cefn Llys comprises the old borough of Cefn Llys. Knighton the old borough of Knighton. Knucklas the old borough of Knucklas. Presteign the ancient lordship, manor, and borough of Presteign, together with any parts of the township of Presteign and of the chapelry of Discoyd as are without this lordship, manor, and borough, and also the space extending from Norton Brook where it falls into the Lug to where the Wignore and Ludlow Road is met by that to Kinsham village; thence to where the right-hand branch of the Clatter Brook falls into the Lug; thence to the point first described. New Radnor comprises the old borough of New Radnor. Rhadyr, or Rhaydrwy, extends from where the old boundary would be cut by a line drawn straight from Rhayder Church to the bridge over the Gwynllin Brook on the Aberystwith Road to this bridge; thence to the weir or dam-head; thence along the southern bank of the mill-dam until it is cut by the eastern fence of the Gwynllin Field; thence along this fence to the Grist Mill yard-gate belonging to David Evans; thence to another gate at the south-eastern corner of the yard; thence to the north-eastern corner of Ty Newidd or New House; thence to where the old borough boundary would be cut by a line drawn straight from this house to the bridge over the Wye; and thence to the point first described. Returning officer, the bailiff.

SWANSEA, New District, co. Glamorgan, comprising Swansea, Aberavon, Kenfig, Loughor, and Neath. Electors, old constituency of burgesses. 10l. houses 1200. Population 18,833. Limits: Aberavon extends from where the Avon falls into the sea, south of the town, northward, along the boundary Hayod-y-Porth, to a stone fence nearly opposite to a small round pool; thence along this fence until it meets a path leading to a small cottage; thence along this path to a ford across a brook opposite Maragam Chapel; thence along the road to Dyffrynucha, until it meets the rail road from Pni-bach copper-works; thence northward along this road as far as a stream; thence until this stream runs into the Avon; thence to where a stream running through Cwm Bychan Ravine falls into the Avon; thence along this road to the boundary of Baglan; thence southward until this boundary meets that of Aberavon parish; thence westward until this boundary is left by that of the old borough ; thence along this boundary to that of Havod-y-Porth, and thence southward to the point first described. Kenfig comprises the old borough of Kenfig. Loughor, the old borough of Loughor. Neath extends from the Neath, where it is left by the old borough boundary, along this boundary, to the point where Caerwell ditch joins the Neath ; thence along this ditch to Hcol-morfa lane ; thence until this lane joins the Merthyr high road ; thence until this road is left by the Pontardawey road ; thence until this road is joined by Rheol-y-glow lane ; thence until this lane meets a brook ; thence along this brook until it meets Rheol-wern-fraith lane ; thence along this lane until it is cut by the fence of Cae-canddaw field ; thence along this fence until it meets a brook running to Nantlyws ; thence along this canal, until it crosses the Clydach stream ; thence along this stream until it joins the Neath ; thence to the point first described. Swansea extends from where the northern boundary of St. John's parish is crossed by the road to Llangefelach church, northward, along this road, until it is joined by Rheol-y-coap lane ; and thence until this lane or its continuation joins the Neath Turnpike-road ; thence northward along this road as far as a road leading towards Clas Mont farri ; thence along this road, until it is met, opposite to the Penlan road, by a track leading to a well-head ; thence by this track to the well-head ; thence along the stream flowing from it, until it falls into the Nant Velin stream ; thence along this stream, until it crosses a road from Morriston ; thence along this road, until it reaches the bridge over the Tawey ; thence eastward, along the Neath road, until it is met, near the Star public-house, by a lane ; thence along this lane, until it meets the boundary of St. Thomas, near Tregwl ; thence eastward, along this boundary, until it meets that of the town and franchise ; and thence westward to the boundary of St. John ; and thence to the point first described. Returning officer, the mayor.

The words "northward," "southward," used in the above descriptions of the boundaries, denote the direction in which any boundary immediately proceeds from the point last described, but not throughout to the next point. Where a road is mentioned, it means the principal road ; where a line is said to be drawn from or to an object, it implies to the centre of the object. Every building through which a boundary is made to pass, is to be included within that ; and where the boundaries of more than one place pass through the same building, then it is to be considered as within that which before this Act was entitled to return members ; and if neither or both return members, then within that the area whereof is the smallest. Wherever any road, lane, path, river, &c., is mentioned as being cut by or passed through, &c., the middle of such road, &c., is always to be understood. By the words "sea" and "sea-coast," are to be understood the low-water mark. No place is to include any detached part, if in consequence of including it, the boundary of such place would not be continuous ; unless before the passing of this Act the detached part had, for the purposes of election, formed part of that place. It is provided that misnomers, or inaccurate descriptions are not to prevent or abridge the operation of this Act, if it be so designated as to be commonly understood ; and for the purpose of identifying the descriptions with their subjects respectively, they are to be held applicable to such subjects as they existed on the 1st of July, 1831.

ELECTIVE FRANCHISE IN BOROUGHES.

All persons not subject to any legal incapacity will be entitled to a vote in any city or borough, who as owner or tenant shall occupy any house, warehouse, counting-house, shop, or other building, either separately or jointly with any land within such city or borough, occupied therewith by him as owner or as tenant under the same landlord, of the clear yearly value of 10*l*., if duly registered, but no person can be so registered in any year unless he shall have occupied such premises for twelve calendar months next previous to the 31st of July in such year, nor unless such person shall have been rated in respect of such premises to all rates for the relief of the poor in the parish or township where such premises are situate, nor unless all the poor's rates and assessed taxes payable in respect of such premises shall have been paid on or before the 20th day of July in such year, nor unless such person shall have resided for six calendar months next previous to the 31st of July in such year, within the city, borough, or place sharing in the election as aforesaid, or within seven statute miles of the same. (Clause 27).

The premises giving a title to vote for a borough need not be the same, but may be different premises occupied in succession ; and when there are joint occupiers of any premises, each of such occupiers subject to the conditions above-mentioned, will be entitled to a vote in respect of the premises so jointly occupied, in case the clear yearly value of such premises shall be of an amount which, when divided by the number of such occupiers, shall give a sum of not less than 10*l*. for each and every such occupier. (Clauses 28 and 29).

Any person occupying premises in a borough may demand to be rated to the relief of the poor in respect of the premises so occupied by him, whether the landlord shall or shall not be liable to be rated, and upon his so claiming and actually paying or tendering the full amount of the rates that may be due in respect of such premises, the overseers of the parish or township in which such premises are situate are hereby required to put the name of such occupier upon the rate for the time being, and in case of their neglect or refusal, such occupier is to be deemed to have been rated to the relief of the poor. This clause further provides that the landlord's liability to pay the rate, by virtue of any Act of Parliament, is not to be varied or discharged in case the tenant makes default. (Clause 30).

Freeholders or burgage tenants previously having a right to vote for any city or borough, being a county of itself, to retain that right if duly registered; but no person can be so registered in any year in respect of any freehold or burgage tenement, unless he shall have been in the actual possession thereof, or in the receipt of the rents and profits for his own use, for twelve calendar months next previous to the 31st of July in such year, except where the same shall have come to him by descent, &c., as provided in Clause 26; nor unless he shall have resided for six calendar months, as directed in Clause 27. This enactment is not to be deemed to vary or abridge the provisions heretofore made relative to the right of voting for any place being a county of itself, in respect of any freehold for life or lives, and moreover is to extend to freeholds within the boundaries of such city or town, as the same shall be settled by the future Boundary Act. (Clause 31).

Every person who would have been entitled, if this Act had not passed, to vote for any city or borough not included in Schedule A, as a burgess or freeman, or in the city of London as a freeman and liveryman, to retain his right of voting if duly registered; but no person can be so registered in any year, unless he shall, on the 31st of July in such year, be qualified in such manner as would entitle him then to vote if such day were the day of election, and this Act had not been passed, nor unless he shall have resided for six calendar months, as prescribed within such city or borough, or seven miles from the place where the poll for such city or borough shall heretofore have been taken, nor unless where, being a burgess or freeman of any place sharing in the election for any city or borough, he shall have resided for six months within such place as aforesaid, or within seven miles of the place mentioned in conjunction with such place as named in the second column of Schedule E 2. But no person admitted as a freeman since the first day of March, 1831, will be entitled to vote as such, unless admitted in respect of birth or servitude, and in this case the right must be derived from or through some person who is or was entitled to be a freeman previous to the 1st of March, 1831, or who at any time may acquire the right by servitude. The freemen or burgesses of Swansea, Loughor, Neath, Aberavon, and Kenfig, who had heretofore a right to vote for the borough of Cardiff, are no longer to retain that right, but are in future to vote for the borough composed of the five towns mentioned in Clause 10. (Clauses, 32, 27, and 10).

Every person having now a right to vote for any city or borough, except those in Schedule A, may retain such right so long as he shall be qualified as an elector according to the usages and customs of such city or borough, or any law now in force. But he must be duly registered; and in order to entitle him to be registered, he must reside according to the provision given in the last section. And if the name of any such person shall be omitted for two successive years from the register, his right is to cease for ever, unless the omission shall have been in consequence of his receiving parochial relief, or being absent on his Majesty's service in a naval or military capacity. (Clause 33).

All persons having now a right to vote for the borough of New Shoreham, Cricklade, Aylesbury, or East Retford, in respect of any freehold wheresoever situate, are, to retain such right, subject to the provisions mentioned in last section, except that, in order to be entitled to registration, they must have resided for six months within the place, or seven miles thereof; and as to all persons now having a right to vote for the borough of New Shoreham, in respect of any freehold situate in the borough of Horsham, or for the borough of Cricklade, in respect of any freehold situate in the borough of Malmesbury, as such boroughs may respectively be defined by the future Boundary Act, they are to be inserted in the list of voters hereinafter directed to be made by the overseers of that parish or township within the borough of New Shoreham, or Cricklade, as defined by this Act, which shall be next adjoining to the parish or township in which such freeholds shall be situate, and if adjoining to two or more parishes, then such persons are to be inserted in the list of voters of the least populous of such adjoining parishes. (Clause 34).

No person will be entitled to vote for any city or borough (not being a county of itself) in respect of any estate of freehold acquired since the 1st of March, 1831, unless it shall have come to him since that day, and previously to the passing of this Act, by descent, succession, marriage, marriage settlement, devise or promotion to any benefice or office. (Clause 35).

No person will be entitled to be registered in any year who shall, within twelve months next previous to the last day of July in such year, have received parochial relief or other alms which now by law disqualify from voting in elections. (Clause 36).

PERSONS NOW ENTITLED TO VOTE FOR CITIES AND BOROUGHES.

1. Occupants, whether as tenant or owner of any building, or any building and land

(but not of land only) of the yearly rent of 10*l.*: and where the amount of the rent is paid upon buildings and land, they must be held under the same landlord.

2. Liverymen and Freemen of the city of London, and freemen and burgesses of corporate towns or boroughs, who have been admitted as freemen on or before the 31st of March, 1831, are, by the new Act, to retain their former right. So, likewise, those who derive their right by birth or servitude from freemen, with this distinction, that the right of birth must be derived from freemen admitted or entitled so to be, before that day and year; but the right in respect of servitude may be derived from those who become freemen at any time.

3. All persons possessing any prior right to vote in cities and boroughs are to retain their right. The qualification of inhabitants in boroughs are various, some requiring one, and others many qualifications. In some, leaseholders, and in others, copyholders have a right of voting. Those entitled to a vote in respect of inhabitancy, extend to Pot-wallahs, or persons furnishing their own diet, whether as householders or lodgers. 3 Lud. 159; 1 Dougl. 370: Householders, or those who have the control of the out-door. 2 Peck. 211. Inhabitants paying scot and lot, that is, those who are assessed and contribute to the poor. This right is strictly confined to the person of the voter, and is to continue only so long as he shall remain qualified to vote according to the usage of the place for which he votes, not in any wise to affect the election of members for the two Universities of Oxford and Cambridge; nor the act entitle any person to vote in the election of members for the city of Oxford or town of Cambridge in respect of the occupation of any chambers or premises in any of the colleges or halls of those two Universities. (Clause 78).

REGISTRATION AS TO CITIES AND BOROUGHES.

Borough voters are required—1. To be rated to the poor; but if the overseer refuse or neglect to rate any person on demand, a tender of the rates will be as effectual as an actual payment would have been. 2. To pay all rates and assessed taxes on or before the 20th of July in each year, which shall have become due previously to the 6th of April next preceding. Before a freeman and liveryman of London is entitled to vote, he must have been, by 11 G. 2, c. 18, upon the livery twelve calendar months, and have paid his livery fines, and not have been discharged within two years from paying any of the rates and taxes payable by the citizens of London, or within that time have received any alms whatever. 3. To reside within the town for which he is entitled to vote or within seven miles, for six calendar months next previous to the 31st of July in such year. 4. If his name be omitted in the list made out by the overseers, he must give the overseer notice on or before the 25th of August in such year. 5. If his claim be objected to, he must attend, either in person or by attorney, at the Barrister's Court, to have the objections removed. (For Duties and Office of Barrister as respects the registry of the Electors of Cities and Boroughs, see the same head as relate to Counties, page 17).

DUTIES OF OVERSEERS AND OTHER OFFICERS IN MAKING OUT LISTS OF CLAIMANTS FOR CITIES AND BOROUGHES.

Overseers of every parish or township situate wholly or in part within any city or borough, on or before the 31st of July in this and every succeeding year, to make out, according to Form 1 in Schedule I, an alphabetical list of all persons entitled to vote for such city or borough, in respect of the occupation of premises of the clear yearly value of 10*l.*, and another alphabetical list, according to Form 2 in Schedule I, of all other persons, except freemen, who may be entitled to a vote for such city or borough in respect of any other right whatsoever. Such lists to contain the christian and surname at full length, together with the nature of his qualification; and where any person is entitled to vote in respect of any property, then the name of the street, lane, or other description of the place where such property may be situate, is to be specified in the list; and where the person is entitled to a vote in any other respect, then the name of the street or place of such person's abode is to be specified in the list. The overseers to sign the lists, fix up copies, and keep copies for inspection as before directed. Also, by s. 45, extra-parochial places are to be deemed to be within the adjoining parish or township, as before. For the purpose of making out such lists, overseers are empowered, by s. 51, to have access to any duplicate or tax-assessment books for their respective parishes and townships, upon request made by them, at any reasonable time between the 1st of June and 31st of July, in this and any succeeding year, to any assessor or collector of the taxes having custody of the same.

The town-clerks of every city or borough, or place sharing in the election for any city or borough, are required, by s. 46, to make out, according to Form 3 Schedule I, a list of the freemen entitled to vote for such city or borough; a copy of such list to be fixed on the door of the town-hall, or in some other conspicuous situation, on the two Sundays next after such lists shall have been made out, and a copy to be kept for inspection, as before directed. Where there is no town-clerk, or he is dead or incapable of acting, matters required to be done by this Act may be done by any person performing similar duties, or by the chief civil officer of such city, borough, or place.

Overseers required to make a list, according to Form 6 in Schedule I, of all persons whose names shall have been omitted in borough lists and claiming to be inserted, and also of all persons objected to by third persons as hereinafter mentioned, according to Form 7 in Schedule I; and town-clerks are to make out a list of all persons so claiming as freemen, according to Form 8 in Schedule I., and also of all persons as freemen so objected to, according to Form 9 in Schedule I. Copies of such lists to be fixed up by the overseers and town-clerks as before directed. Overseers and town-clerks likewise to keep a copy of such lists for inspection, without payment of any fee; and also to deliver a copy of such lists to any person requiring the same, on payment of one shilling for each copy.

For providing a list of such of the freemen of the city of London as are liverymen of the several companies entitled to a vote, the returning officers of the city are, on or before the 31st of July in this and every succeeding year, to issue precepts to the clerks of the several companies, requiring them to make out a list, according to Form 1 in Schedule K, of the freemen of London, being liverymen of the respective companies, who are entitled to a vote; and every such clerk is to sign such list, and transmit the same with two printed copies to such returning officers, who are to fix one copy in the Guildhall and one in the Royal Exchange. Clerks of the said livery companies are to have a sufficient number of such lists to be printed at the expense of the respective companies, and to keep the same for inspection as before directed. In the case of persons omitted and claiming to be inserted in such lists as hereafter mentioned, the returning officers are to include their names in a list, according to Form 2 in Schedule K, and cause it to be fixed up in the Guildhall and the Royal Exchange on the two Mondays next preceding the 15th of September in this and every succeeding year. Returning officers and the clerks of the several companies are to keep copies of such lists for inspection, without payment of any fee, during the ten days next preceding the said 15th of September. Persons omitted in the lists of the freemen and liverymen of London, or objected to who claim to have their names inserted, are to give notice according to Form 1 in Schedule K, or to the like effect, to the returning-officer and the clerk of the company in the list whereof he claims to have his name inserted. And every freeman objecting to another is to give notice, &c. to the person objected to according to Form 3 in Sched. K.

Persons whose names have been omitted in any borough list, and who claim to have their name inserted, are, on or before the above-mentioned day, to give notice according to Form 4 in Sched. I, (see Appendix), or to the like effect, to the overseers of their respective parish, or, if he claim as a freeman of any borough, to the town-clerk. And every person, whose name is inserted in any borough list of voters, may object to others as not entitled, and the person so objecting is to give a notice in writing as above directed, according to Form 5 in Sched. I, and to the person objected to, &c. according to Form 6 in Sched. I. (Clause 47).

Overseers and town-clerks and the returning officers of the city of London, are to produce their respective lists before the barristers, and the clerks of the several livery companies of the city of London, and the town-clerk of every other city, borough, or place sharing in the election therewith, and the several overseers within every city, borough, or place, are to attend and answer upon oath as abovementioned. (Clause 50).

POLLING AT ELECTIONS FOR CITIES AND BOROUGHES.

Polling at elections for all boroughs in England except Monmouth, to commence on the day fixed for the election, or at latest on the third day after, and to continue for two days only, as before prescribed for the county elections. The booths may be situated either in one place or at several places, and are to be divided into compartments, so that no greater number than 600 be allowed to poll at any one compartment. To have the names of the several parishes affixed on each, and public notice of the situation and allotment of the different booths are to be given two days before the commencement of the poll by the returning officer, and the poll-clerks are to observe the directions before given as to the sealing of the poll-books and delivering them to the sheriff or his deputy. Immediately on the final close of the poll, or the day after, unless it be Sunday, the returning officer is openly to break the seals of the poll-books, and, after casting up the numbers, to declare the state of the poll, and proclaim the Members, as before directed. (Clause 68).

EXPENSES FOR ELECTIONS AT CITIES AND BOROUGHES.

Expenses incurred by overseers in making out lists, &c., to be defrayed out of the monies collected for the relief of the poor; and those incurred by the returning officer of any city or borough, for the copying and printing of lists and registers, to be defrayed by the overseers out of the same monies.

The booths to be erected at the joint and equal expense of the candidates, with whom the returning-officer may make a contract if he thinks fit. The expense for each booth to be erected for any parish or place not to exceed 25*l*. Deputies are to be paid two guineas each by the day, and poll-clerks one guinea, at the expense of the candidates; but if any person is proposed without his consent, the party proposing him is to pay his share of the said expenses, as if he were a candidate. Electors for cities and boroughs are to pay one shilling annually, which will be levied as money applicable for the relief of the poor. (Clauses 66 and 71).

OF THE RETURNING OFFICERS OF CITIES AND BOROUGHES.

The persons described in Schedules C and D are to be the returning officers at elections for the boroughs with which they are respectively named; and for those boroughs in the same schedules for which no returning officer is named, the sheriff of the county is, within two months after the passing of this Act, and in every succeeding year, in the month of March, by writing under his hand, to be delivered to the clerk of the peace of the county, within one week to be by him filed and preserved with the records of his office, to nominate and appoint for each of such boroughs a fit person being resident therein, to be the returning officer, until the succeeding March; and in the event of his death, or incapacity to act, then upon notice thereof, to nominate a fit person in his stead. No person after the expiration of his office will be compellable to serve the office again for the same borough; nor is any one qualified to serve as a Member of Parliament compellable to serve as a returning officer, if within one week after having notice of his appointment, he makes oath of such qualification before any justice of the peace. Persons in holy orders, churchwardens, and overseers of the poor are disqualified from serving the office of returning officer, and any person nominated to be a returning officer cannot be an overseer during the period of his office. In case any of the boroughs in Schedules C and D should be incorporated by charter, the mayor, or other municipal officer, will, in that case, be the returning officer. (Clause 11).

The sheriff of the Isle of Wight, or his deputy, is to be the returning officer for the Isle of Wight, and the portreeve of Swansea to be the returning officer for the borough composed of Swansea, &c. The returning officer of the borough of Monmouth to appoint deputies for the towns of Newport and Usk, and the returning officer of the shire towns and boroughs in Schedule E is to appoint deputies for the places sharing respectively with them. The portreeve of Swansea is to appoint deputies for the other towns composing with it the new borough, and if there be a mayor or other municipal officer for either of these towns, he is to be appointed the deputy. All deputies to have the same power to administer oaths, or appoint commissioners to administer them, as returning officers now have by law. The sheriff or his deputy is empowered to act in places of extraordinary, as in those of ordinary jurisdiction. (Clauses, 66, 73, and 74).

Sheriffs and other returning officers to cause true copies of the register of voters to be made for the use of each booth, and to certify under their hands such copies to be true. Likewise authorised to close the poll before the expiration of the time fixed by this Act; and if the proceedings at the election be interrupted by riot or open violence, adjourn the poll until the next day, or until such time as the obstruction or interruption has ceased; and any day on which the poll is so adjourned is not to be reckoned as one of the days of polling; but wherever the poll is adjourned by any deputy of any sheriff, or other returning officer, such deputy is forthwith to give notice of such adjournment; and the state of the poll is not to be finally declared until it be transmitted to the returning officer. (Clauses 72 and 70).

The lists, when finally settled by the revising barristers, to be transmitted to the clerks of the peace, as respects the county voters, and to the returning officer as respects the borough voters, which are to be copied into a book before the 31st of October, to form the register for the ensuing year. (Clause 31).

PROVISIONS APPLYING GENERALLY TO COUNTIES, CITIES, AND BOROUGHES.

All laws, statutes, and usages now in force respecting elections, to remain and be in full force, except as far as any of the said laws are repealed or altered by this Act. If any sheriff, returning officer, barrister, overseer, or any person whosoever, wilfully disobey, or contravene any provision of this Act, he is liable to be sued in an action of debt for the penal sum of 500*l.*, or for any less sum which the jury may think just to be paid for his offence; and the defendant in such action is, on conviction, to pay such penal sum, with full costs of suit, to the party who may sue for the same, but no such action can be brought by the party actually aggrieved, provided always, that no such action shall be brought except by a person being an elector or claiming to be an elector, or a candidate, or a member actually returned, or other party aggrieved: provided also, that the remedy hereby given against the returning officer shall not be construed to supersede any remedy or action against him according to the law now in force. (Clauses 71 and 76).

Persons incapacitated to vote by the old law are equally so under this act. These are, aliens, unless made denizens by letters patent, or naturalized by act of parliament; infants; idiots; lunatics, except during lucid intervals; women; persons convicted of felony, or perjury and bribery, by 2 Geo. II., c. 24, s. 6; peers, except Irish peers; revenue officers, by 22 Geo. III., c. 41, s. 23; police magistrates and officers, by 3 Geo. IV., c. 55, s. 14, 10 Geo. IV., c. 45; persons receiving parochial relief, unless families of militia-men on actual duty by 18 Geo. III., c. 59, s. 25. Receiving of private charity affects the right of voting only in particular cases where it is deemed to be equivalent to the receiving of parochial relief.

In all cases yearly value of the estate giving a right to vote must be clear of all charges; but rates and taxes by the new as well as the old law are not deemed charges; and by this act, which repeals the clause in 20 Geo. III., c. 17, an assessment to the land-tax is not necessary. The value of an estate is what a tenant would give for it; not what the owner occupying it would make of it himself. Where interest paid on a mortgage reduces the value below the required amount, it will invalidate the vote.

No nomination to be made, or election holden, for any city or borough, in any church, chapel, or other place of public worship; but sheriffs may use houses or buildings instead of booths; and the returning officers in the city of London are to take the poll of the liverymen at Guildhall. (Clauses 68 and 71).

Persons claiming to be inserted in any lists, or objecting to others, are required to attend either in person or by some one on their behalf; but it is expressly provided, that no person is to be attended by counsel at any courts held by revising barristers. And if any person take a false oath or make a false affirmation in the barristers' courts, he is to be deemed guilty of perjury, and punishable accordingly. (Clauses 42, 50, and 52).

No other inquiry permitted to be made at the time of polling, except the three following questions, to be put by the returning officer: 1. Are you the same person whose name appears as A. B. on the register of voters now in force for the county of ———, riding, or city, &c., as the case may be. 2. Have you already voted, either here or elsewhere, at this election for the county of ———, &c. 3. Have you the same qualification for which your name was originally inserted in the register of voters now in force for the county of ——— [or, specifying in each case the particulars of the qualification as described in the register]. If any person wilfully make a false answer to any of the above mentioned questions, he is to be deemed guilty of an indictable misdemeanour, and punished accordingly; and the returning officer is (if required on behalf of any candidate) to administer an oath or an affirmation in the following form: i. e. "You do swear [or being a Quaker or Moravian, do affirm], that you are the same person whose name appears as A. B. in the register of voters now in force for the county of ——— [or for the riding, &c.], and that you have not before voted, either here or elsewhere, at the present election, for the said county, &c. So help you God." No other oath is to be required of any elector, either in proof of his freehold, age, or other qualification; and no one is to be excluded from voting, unless it appears to the returning officer, upon putting such questions, that the person claiming to vote is not the same person whose name appears on the register, or that he has previously voted at the same election, or has not the same qualification for which his name was originally inserted, or unless the person shall refuse to take the above oath or affirmation, or that against bribery, or any other oath now required by law and not hereby dispensed with. (Clauses 42 and 50).

No person to vote in respect of any property situate in any parish or place, except at the booth allotted, as is hereinafter mentioned, for such parish or place; and if no booth be allotted for the same, then at any of the booths for the same district; and in case any parish or place happens not to be included in any district, then the votes in respect of property in such parish are to be taken at the principal place of election for the county, riding, part, or division. Persons voting for any city or borough to poll at the booth allotted for the parish, district, or part, wherein the property may be situated in respect of which he claims to vote; or in case he does not claim to vote in respect of property, then wherein his place of abode as described in the register may be; but if there be no booth in such place, then the votes may be taken at any of the booths. (Clauses 64 and 68).

Under the words "city or borough," to be understood all corporate towns, cinque ports, districts, or places in England and Wales which are entitled, under this act, to return members, as also the town of Berwick-upon-Tweed. The words "returning-officer" are to apply to any person performing that office, by whatever name or title he may be called. The words "parish or township" extend to every parish, township, vill, hamlet, district or place maintaining its own poor. "Overseers of the poor" extend to all persons executing those duties, under whatever designation; and all matters directed to be done by the overseers may be lawfully done by the major part; and any notice required by this act to be given to the overseers, may be delivered to any one, or left at his place of abode, or sent by the post, addressed by a sufficient direction. Matters to be done by or with regard to justices of the peace, sessions of the peace, or clerks of the peace, for, and treasurers of counties, to extend to the justices, &c. for the several ridings of Yorkshire and parts of Lincolnshire; and the clerk of the peace for the borough of Newport, in the Isle of Wight, is to be taken for the clerk of the peace of the county of the Isle of Wight; and the respective justices, &c. are empowered to do all matters required by this act within places of exclusive jurisdiction as without. No misnomer or inaccurate description of any person or place named or described in any schedule annexed to this act, or in any list or register of voters, or in any notice required by this act, to prevent or abridge the operation of this act, provided that such person or place shall be so designated as to be commonly understood. (Clause 79).

Register is to be conclusive as to the qualification of the voter, and is not to be questioned at the election, nor any scrutiny made; but a voter who is excluded by the register from the register may, nevertheless, tender his vote. Three questions are to be put to the voter, if necessary, and an oath administered. The polling, neither for the county nor the town, is to last for more than two days. (Clause 46).

ABSTRACT OF THE LEADING CLAUSES OF THE ACT.

ENLARGEMENT OF THE REPRESENTATION.

By Clause 1. Fifty-three Members to be returned in future for Scotland, of whom thirty shall be for the several or conjoined shires, or stewartries, mentioned in the act; and twenty-three for the several cities, burghs, and towns; and districts of cities, burghs, and towns, mentioned in the act.

By Clause 2. The burghs of Peebles and Selkirk no longer to form part of the district to which they previously belonged, but to form parts of the counties of Peebles and Selkirk respectively. The burgh of Rothsay in the same manner to cease to form part of a district, and to be deemed part of the shire of Bute.

By Clause 3. Thirty Members to be returned for counties, agreeably to Schedule A, and one by each of the two combined shires described in Schedule B.

By Clause 4. Of the twenty-three Members to be returned by each of the combined cities, burghs, and towns, described in Schedule C, one is to be returned by each of the cities, burghs, and towns, described in Schedule D; and one in each of the districts or sets of cities, burghs, and towns described in Schedule E.

QUALIFICATION OF ELECTORS.

By Clause 6. No one to acquire the right of voting either in shires, or in cities, burghs, and towns, other than by qualifications described in this Act, except only those who were on the roll as freeholders at the passing of the Act, or who previous to the 31st of March, 1831, have become the owners or superiors of lands affording the qualification to be so enrolled.

By Clause 7. Claims for registration to be possessed by every person not subject to legal incapacity; shall be entitled to be registered as directed in the Act, and thereafter to vote at any election for a shire in Scotland, who, in the present or in any future year, shall have been, for a period of not less than six calendar months next previous to the last day of July in any future year, the owner (whether he has made up his titles, or his interest, or not), of any lands, houses, feu duties or other heritable subjects (except debts heritably secured) within the said shire, provided the subject or subjects on which he so claims shall be of the yearly value of ten pounds, and shall actually yield or be capable of yielding that value to the claimant, after deducting any feu duty, ground, annual, or other consideration which he may be bound to pay or to give or account for as a condition of his right, provided he be, by himself, his tenants, vassals, or others, in possession of the said subjects, and be either himself in the actual occupation or in receipt of the profits and issues thereof to the extent above-mentioned; provided always, that where the whole profits and issues of any such subject do not arise annually, but at longer intervals, the worth and amount of such occasional profits shall be taken into computation in estimating the annual value: provided also, that where any property which would entitle the owner to be registered and to vote as above shall come to any person, within the said period of six months by inheritance, marriage, marriage settlement, or mortis causa disposition, or by appointment to any place or office, such person shall be entitled to be registered on the first occasion of making up the list of voters next following such succession or acquisition.

By Clause 8. Elections for shires, where two or more persons are interested in any subject to which a right of voting is for the first time attached by this Act, as life-renter and as fiar, the right of voting to be in the life-renter and not in the fiar; and all joint owners to be entitled each to vote in respect of their joint property within the shire, provided the share or interest of each joint owner is of the yearly value of ten pounds, but not otherwise; provided also, that husbands shall be entitled to vote in respect of property belonging to their wives, or owned or possessed by such husbands after the death of their wives, by the courtesy of Scotland.

By Clause 9. Tenants in lands, houses, or other heritable subjects, entitled to be registered, and to vote at elections for the shires in which the said heritable subjects are situated, provided each tenant (whether joint or several) when the sheriff proceeds to consider his claim for registration, shall, for a period of not less than twelve months next previous to the last day of July, shall have held such subjects whether in his personal possession or not, under leases or other written title, for a period of not less than fifty-seven years (exclusive of breaks) at the option of the landlord or for the lifetime of the tenant, where the yearly value of such tenant's interest, after paying the rent and other consideration due by him for his said right, is not less than ten pounds; or for a period of no less than nineteen years where the clear yearly value of such tenant's interest is not less than fifty pounds; or where such tenant shall, for the period of twelve months, have been in the actual personal occupancy of any such subject, where the yearly rent is not less than fifty pounds; or where the tenant, whatever the rent may be, has truly paid for his interest in such subject a price, grassum, or consideration of not less than three hundred pounds: provided always, that where the rent is payable in whole or in part in grain, the value shall be estimated according to the average fiars of the counties in which the heritable subjects are situated for the three preceding years, and where payable in any other species of produce, according to the average market prices of the neighbourhood for the same period; and the said values being once so fixed at the time of registering or refusing to register shall be held as settled for the whole period of the lease; where the right to any such lease as would entitle the tenant to be registered and to vote as hereinbefore provided shall come to any person, within the preceding twelve calendar months above specified, by inheritance, marriage, marriage settlement, or mortis causa disposition, such person shall be entitled to be registered on the first occasion of making up the lists of voters next following such succession or acquisition: that no sub-tenant or assignee to any sub-lease for fifty-seven or nineteen years to be entitled to be registered or to vote in respect of his interest under such lease unless he shall be in the actual occupation of the premises thereby set.

By Clause 10. That from and after the end of this present parliament the members who are to be returned to serve in any future parliament for any single city, town, or burgh, on which the right of returning a member or members is by this Act conferred, shall no longer be elected by the town councils of such cities, burghs, or towns, but directly by the several individuals on whom the right of electing such members to serve in parliament is by this Act conferred; and where the election is by districts or sets of cities, burghs, or towns conjoined, the right of electing shall no longer be in the town councils or corporations of the said cities, burghs, or towns, or in delegates appointed by them, but in the individual voters on whom the right of election is by this Act conferred; and the member to serve in parliament for any such district shall be returned according to the majority of individual votes given in the whole district.

By Clause 11. Every person, not subject to any legal incapacity, entitled to be registered and to vote at elections for any of the cities, burghs, or towns, or districts of cities, burghs, or towns, who shall have been, for a period of not less than twelve calendar months next previous to the last day of July, in the occupancy, either as proprietor, tenant, or life-renter, of any house, warehouse, counting-house, shop, or other building within the limits of such city, burgh, or town, either separately or jointly with any other house, warehouse, counting-house, shop, or other building within the same limits, or with any land owned and occupied by him, or occupied under the same landlord, and also situate within the same limits, shall be of the yearly value of ten pounds: provided always, that the claimant shall have paid, on or before the twentieth day of July in any year, all assessed taxes which shall have become payable by him in respect of such premises previously to the sixth day of April then next preceding: provided also, that no such person shall be entitled to be registered or to vote in the present or any future year unless he shall have resided for six calendar months next previous to the last day of August in the present or the last day of July in any future year within such city, burgh, or town, or within seven statute miles of some part thereof: persons so resident entitled to be registered and to vote if they are the true owners of such premises as are herein-before mentioned, within such city, burgh, or town, of the yearly value of ten pounds or upwards, although they should not occupy any premises within its limits, or although the premises actually occupied by them should be of less yearly value than ten pounds; and that the husbands of such owners shall be entitled to vote, either in the lifetime of their wives, or after their death, if then holding such property by the courtesy of Scotland, no person entitled to be registered or to vote for any city, burgh, or town who shall have been in the receipt of parochial relief within twelve calendar months next previous to the last day of August in the year 1832, or next previous to the last day of July in any succeeding year.

By Clause 12. Premises in respect of which any person shall be deemed entitled to vote in the election for any city, burgh, or town, or district, shall not be required to have been the same premises for the whole twelve months of his occupancy, but may be different premises (but always of the requisite value) occupied in succession by such person; provided such person shall have paid all the assessed taxes legally exigible from him in respect of all such premises; and that where such premises shall be of the yearly value of twenty pounds or upwards, and shall be jointly occupied by more than one person, each of such joint occupiers shall be entitled to be registered and to vote, provided his share and interest in the same shall be of the yearly value of ten pounds or upwards.

REGISTRATION.

By Clause 13. Claims to registry, agreeably to the form in Schedule P, to be presented to the schoolmaster, or person officiating for him, of the parish in which the property on which the claim is made is situated. Printed forms for that purpose to be supplied to the schoolmaster by the sheriff clerk, who is to deliver copies of the same to each applicant, on the payment of sixpence, such forms to be filled up and returned to the schoolmaster, who shall place a list of the same at given times upon the church door, and annex to each list a notice of the times and places where the sheriff shall examine the claims, against which no objections shall have been lodged, as also of those persons who claim to be registered for the county, and of the persons who intend to object to the claims of others. Note of objection to be signed by persons by whom it is presented, and to be in the form of the first part of Schedule H. Notice to be served by the objector to the party against whom he objects, within two days after having lodged such objections. The parishes of Tulliallan, Culross, and Logie in the county of Perth, and the parish of Alva in the county of Stirling, for the purposes of this bill, be held to form parts of the county of Clackmannan; and the parishes of Muckhart and Fossoway in the county of Perth, for the purposes of this Act, to be held to form parts of the county of Kinross.

By Clause 14. Each sheriff between the twelfth day of September and the fifteenth day of October in the present year, to examine and decide upon the merits of all claims for registration within his county; and that for this purpose the sheriffs of the counties of Aberdeen, Ayr, Argyle, Fife, Inverness, Lanark, Forfar, Perth, Renfrew, and Ross and Cromarty shall hold open courts during this period at not less than three several towns or places in their said counties; and the sheriffs in all the other counties shall hold open courts at not less than two several places, which places shall be so selected as to be most convenient for the claimants in the different districts of the said counties.

By Clause 15. Every person claiming a right to vote for a member or members to serve in parliament for any city, burgh, or town, or district, or cities, burghs, or towns, in Scotland, shall give in a claim subscribed by himself or his agent, and accompanied by such written title as he may choose to produce, to the town clerk of the city, burgh, or town within which the premises in respect of which he so claims are situate, which claim shall be in all respects in the same form as is hereinbefore directed as to claims to vote for a county, and shall be issued, received back, marked, and entered in a book or register by the town clerk on the same terms and in the same manner in all respects as the claims for county votes are hereinbefore directed to be issued, received back, marked, and entered by the several parish schoolmasters and sheriff clerks of each county. Where there is no town clerk, the duty to be performed by a person nominated by the sheriff of the county.

By Clause 16. The town clerks or persons officiating for them, to place the lists on the church door, and to act in the same manner with respect to claims and objections as the schoolmaster, in respect to similar claims and objections in relation to votes for counties.

By Clauses 17 and 18. Claims, objections, &c., to be laid before the sheriff by the 12th September, in the year 1832, who shall, after due examination, admit those which are admissible and reject the remainder.

By Clause 19. No written pleadings in any case allowed in support of claims or objections; but when the sheriff shall reject any claim to which no objection has been offered, and when he shall hear parties upon any claim to which any objection has been offered, he shall make a note of the statement of fact, and of the pleas founded on, and of the names of the witnesses, and shall affix his signature to the deeds, writings, and other documents produced by the parties in support of such claim or objection; and it shall not be competent to support any appeal upon any ground of fact or of law not set forth in such note of the sheriff, or to produce any witnesses not named in the said note, or any deeds, writings, or other documents to which the signature of the said sheriff is not affixed.

By Clause 2. That on or before the 15th day of October in the present year, each sheriff clerk shall complete his alphabetical lists or registers of voters for the county : provided always, that on or before the said 15th day of October each sheriff clerk, being the keeper of the roll of freeholders for the county of which he is clerk, shall transfer the names of all the freeholders standing on such roll after the passing of this bill to the said lists or registers of voters, without requiring any claim to be presented on behalf of such freeholders ; and if any election shall take place for such county before the said register shall be corrected at the next yearly revisal, as hereinafter provided, the votes at this first election shall be taken according to this first alphabetical register, an authenticated copy or copies of which shall accordingly be sent for this purpose to each of the polling places appointed for the county : provided always, that at all future elections which shall take place after the yearly correction of such registers, the votes shall be taken according to the last completed register.

By Clause 21. On or before the 12th day of October, 1832, the town clerk to complete alphabetical lists of voters in the same manner as the sheriff clerks of counties, and within three days transmit a copy to the town clerk of the city, burgh, or town, at which the election is to take place, who shall forthwith combine and reduce the whole into one list or register of voters for the whole district, those for each burgh being always kept together, to be kept by him in the said principal burgh, for the purpose of reference and inspection ; and if any election shall take place for such district before the said registers shall be corrected at the next yearly revisal, as hereinafter provided, the votes at such election shall be taken in each burgh according to their first alphabetical registers for such burgh, the originals or authenticated copies of which shall accordingly be sent to each of the polling places that may be appointed in each such burgh : provided always, that in all future elections the votes shall be taken according to the last completed and corrected register, as hereinafter enacted.

By Clause 22. Each sheriff once every year after the present year to examine and correct his said registers ; and each sheriff clerk, and town clerk, within the county, shall, for this purpose, in the month of June, and between the tenth and twentieth days thereof in every such future year, give public notice, by advertisements affixed to the church doors of all the county, burgh, and town churches within the shire respectively ; and also, if they shall see cause, by advertisement in the newspaper of greatest reputed circulation in the shire, to all persons intending to claim to be registered, or to object to the title of any voter already on the register, to give in their several claims, titles, and objections to the schoolmasters and town clerks, as such claims, titles, and objections respectively are by this act directed or authorized to be given in on or before the twentieth day of July then next ensuing, after which no such claims or objections shall be received ; and when the new claims are so given in, the schoolmasters, and the sheriff, and the sheriff clerk, and several town clerks, within each county, shall deal with and dispose of them in the same order and manner, both as to publication of the claims and notices to objectors, and as to the periods or intervals at which they shall severally be received, notified, and disposed of, as is above provided with regard to the first or original claims for registration under this act ; the claimants for counties being at liberty to lodge their written titles with the sheriff clerk at any time previous to the tenth day of August, and that the whole claims, objections, and titles, shall be laid before the sheriff on or before the twelfth day of that month, who shall decide upon their merits between that day and the fifteenth day of September thereafter ; and that, in so far as regards claimants in burghs, the several town clerks shall affix the lists of new claimants, with the notices hereinbefore directed, to the church doors of their burghs on or before the twenty-sixth day of July in each such year ; that the objections to such claims shall be given in on or before the tenth day of August thereafter, and that the whole claims, objections, and titles shall be laid before the sheriff on or before the twelfth day of the said month of August, who shall examine and decide upon the same on or before the fifteenth day of September in each such year ; the said sheriffs always proceeding to three or to two several places, as above provided, in their several counties, and notifying to the sheriff clerk on or before the fifteenth day of July in each such year, the days at which they are to hold their courts at each of the said places, of which days written notice shall be given by the sheriff clerks to each town clerk and parish schoolmaster in the county on or before the eighteenth day of July in each such year ; provided always, that the sheriffs shall upon this occasion correct any mistakes or omissions which may be pointed out or discovered in the registers in the name, residence, or condition of any person already registered or otherwise ; and each sheriff clerk shall for this purpose be obliged to keep a correct copy of the register for the county at some convenient place in the head burgh of the shire ; and each town clerk shall keep a copy of the register for his burgh at some convenient place in the said burgh, which several registers shall, for a period of ten days next after the twentieth day of June in each year, be open to the inspection of all persons who may desire to see the same, without payment of any fee for such inspection ; and each sheriff shall, on or before the fifteenth day of September yearly, have his said registers finally corrected and completed, and arranged as above directed in the alphabetical order of the voters' names, with the several columns of particulars thereto annexed, as in the Schedule G to this Act annexed ; and after the said fifteenth day of September no change shall be made by any sheriff on his registers for that year, except only in consequence of the judgment of one or other of the courts of review hereinafter provided.

By Clause 23. And be it enacted, that the sheriff's judgments, granting or refusing registration, shall, so long as they remain unaltered, be conclusive of the rights of parties claiming or objecting as above, but that it shall be competent to any party considering himself aggrieved by any such judgment, to appeal and apply for an alteration thereof, he always giving notice in writing to the sheriff clerk or town clerk, and to the opposite party where the claim has been disputed, of such his intention to appeal, within five days after the judgment complained of, and producing evidence of such notice to the judge of appeal before entering on its merits.

By Clause 24. All the judgment of the sheriffs on all appeals on the first registry under this Act shall be pronounced by the 25th day of November, 1832; and the registers to be corrected accordingly.

By Clause 25. Courts of review or final appeals, to be formed of the sheriffs of the counties of Edinburgh, Haddington and Linlithgow, who are to hold a court at Edinburgh at the same hour previously announced, between the fifteenth and twenty-fifth day of September in each year, and finally to determine on all appeals before the twentieth day of October thereafter, and to amend the registers accordingly.

By Clause 26. In all elections after the end of this present parliament, every qualified person whose name shall appear in the last corrected register, and none other, shall be entitled to vote; and it shall not be competent to inquire on that occasion into any other facts except those of the party tendering the vote being truly the individual mentioned in the said register, of his being still possessed of the qualification there recorded, on his own account, and not in trust for or at the pleasure of any other person, and of his not having previously voted at that election; the inquiry into these facts to be confined to the putting to the person so tendering his vote, if the sheriff shall be required so to do on behalf of any candidate an oath, or, if he be a Quaker or Moravian, a solemn affirmation, in the form of the Schedule I. to this Act annexed; and it shall not be competent at any such poll or election to put to any registered voter any other oath or affirmation whatsoever, except only the oath or affirmation against bribery, which, if required on the part of any candidate, shall then be put by the sheriff in the form of Schedule K to this Act annexed: provided always, that any person who has claimed to be registered, but whose claim has been rejected by the sheriff or court of review, may, notwithstanding, tender his vote at any election where such register is in force, and the sheriff or his substitute shall enter any vote so tendered, with the name of the person for whom it is given, distinguishing the same from the votes given by persons on the register, so that it may be in the power of any election committee to give effect to such vote in deciding upon the validity of any disputed election; but no scrutiny shall be allowed by or before any returning officer with regard to any votes given or tendered at any such election.

REGULATIONS FOR POLLING PLACES.

By Clause 27. That within three months after the passing of this Act, each sheriff shall divide his county into convenient districts for polling, following, as nearly as possible, the boundaries of parishes, baronies, or other known subdivisions, and shall appoint a particular polling place for each such district, which place shall be selected so as to be most accessible to the voters in the district; and such polling places shall in no case be more in number than fifteen for any one county, and shall be so arranged as that no more than six hundred persons or thereabouts shall poll at any election at any one place; and each town-clerk shall, in like manner, appoint one polling place in every city, burgh, or town, of which he is clerk, in which the number of voters does not exceed six hundred or thereabouts, and shall, wherever the number of registered voters in any such city, burgh, or town, shall exceed six hundred or thereby, divide the said city, burgh, or town, into convenient districts, and appoint a convenient polling place in each such district, so as that no more than about six hundred persons shall poll at any election at any such place; and each sheriff clerk shall, within fourteen days after the sheriff has so divided his county into districts for polling, make up a distinct list of the said districts and the polling place appointed in each, and shall cause copies of the said lists to be affixed to the doors of all the country parish churches in his county; and each town-clerk shall, within the same period, affix lists of the polling place or polling places within his burgh to all the church doors within the same; and every voter shall poll at the polling place of the district within which the premises, or any part of them, in respect of which he claims to vote, may be situate, except only where such polling place shall be in an island, distant more than ten miles from the mainland of any county, in which case the voters not resident in such island may poll at the polling place for the district in which the county town is included.

By Clauses 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, and 34, are enacted provisions regulating the issue of writs and process of election, which being lengthy directions of mere routine, it is not deemed necessary to particularly enter into.

By Clause 35. No person not now on the roll of freeholders admitted to claim or to vote at the election for any shire in respect of any subject situate within the limits of any city, burgh, or town, entitled to send or to contribute towards sending a Member to Parliament; nor any person admitted to claim or to vote in the election for any city, town, or burgh, in respect of any subject not situate within the limits of the said city, town, or burgh.

By Clause 36. No sheriff entitled, from and after the passing of this Act, to vote at any election for any Member of Parliament for the county of which he shall be sheriff; and no sheriff substitute, and no sheriff clerk, or deputy sheriff clerk, entitled, from and after the passing of this Act, to vote or to be elected at any election for a Member to serve in parliament for the shire of which he is the sheriff substitute or sheriff clerk; and no town-clerk or depute town-clerk, entitled to vote or to be elected for the city, burgh, town, or district, in which he is such clerk; and no sheriff substitute, sheriff clerk, or town-clerk, after the passing of this Act, directly or indirectly, to act as an agent for any candidate in any matter connected with or preparatory to any election for the county or burgh respectively in which such person shall be respectively sheriff substitute, sheriff clerk, or town-clerk.

By Clause 37. From and after the end of this present parliament the eldest sons of Scotch-peers shall be entitled to be registered and to vote at all elections for Members of Parliament for Scotland, and shall also be entitled, though not so registered, to be elected to serve as such Members for any county, city, burgh, or town, or district of burghs, in Scotland; and that after the end of this present Parliament no Member for any county in Scotland shall be required to be qualified as an elector or to hold any superiority within such county.

By Clause 38. If any sheriff, sheriff substitute, sheriff clerk, town-clerk, or any person whatsoever shall wilfully contravene or disobey the provisions of this Act, he shall for such his offence be liable to be sued in the court of session by any registered voter, candidate, Member actually returned, or other party aggrieved, for the penal sum of five hundred pounds; and the jury before whom such action shall be tried may find their verdict for the full sum of five hundred pounds, or for any less sum which the said jury shall think it just that such party defender should pay to such party pursuer; and the defender in such action, being convicted, shall pay such penal sum so awarded, with full costs of suit, to the party who may sue for the same, without prejudice, however, to the right of any party aggrieved by the misconduct of any sheriff as returning officer to recover such damages for a false return as he may be entitled to at common law or by virtue of any statute now in force: provided that every such action shall be raised within four calendar months next after the cause of action has arisen.

By Clause 39. That every person claiming to be registered shall, at the time of making such claim, pay a fee of two shillings for the use of the sheriff clerk or to the town-clerk receiving such claim; out of which monies the said clerks respectively shall be obliged to provide all the books, and to perform all the clerk's business necessary for making up the registers, and making copies thereof for the different polling places in the shire or burgh.

By Clause 40. That the monies which are now in use to be allowed to the sheriffs in their accounts with the exchequer for executing writs for elections shall continue to be allowed to them on such accounts; and that all halls, rooms, booths, or other places hired, constructed, or prepared for taking the polls shall be so hired, constructed, or prepared by contract with the candidates, at their joint and equal expense: provided always, that the expense of such hiring or construction at any one polling place for a county, shall not exceed the sum of thirty pounds, nor the sum of twenty pounds at any one polling place in any city, burgh, or town; and the candidates shall further be bound to pay and contribute among them to each poll clerk one guinea per day, and in like manner to contribute and pay a certain fee to each sheriff or sheriff substitute, for superintending the polls, the amount of which fee shall in no case exceed the sum of three guineas per day for each such sheriff or substitute; and the candidates, in all cases where a poll has been demanded, shall in like manner be bound to defray the necessary expenses incurred by the sheriff or sheriff clerks or town-clerks in the transmission of precepts, intimations, poll books, or other communications required or enjoined by this Act; and if any person shall be proposed as a candidate without his consent, the person so proposing him shall be liable to defray his share of all these expenses in like manner as if he had been a candidate himself.

By Clause 41. That each sheriff shall be entitled to make a charge for the time and labour employed in investigating and disposing of the claims and objections above specified, either originally in his own county, or there or elsewhere as a judge of appeal, which charge shall not be more than five guineas for every period of eight hours employed by him or by any assistant sheriff or advocate, to be appointed in the manner by this Act authorized and directed, exclusively, in any such investigations, over and above his or their reasonable travelling expenses; provided always, that no charge shall in any case be allowed for a greater number of hours so employed by such sheriff and by such assistants in originally deciding on the claims in any one county than thirty periods of eight hours for each such sheriff and assistant respectively.

By Clause 42. That when any sheriff who is hereinbefore required to examine and decide on the claims for registration within his county, or to whom any writ for election is directed, shall be incapacitated from acting by sickness or unavoidable absence, one of his ordinary substitutes may act in his stead, provided he holds a substitution specially authorizing him to do so; provided also, that if the sheriffs of the counties of Edinburgh, Lanark, Fife, Forfar, Aberdeen, Perth, Ayr, Inverness, Renfrew, or Orkney and Shetland, or any of them, shall, after the passing of this bill, represent to the lord president of the court of session, that by reason of the great number of claims of registration presented or likely to be presented in such counties, it will be impracticable for them, without assistance, to dispose of such claims within the period limited by this bill, then and in that case it shall be competent to the said lord president, being satisfied of the correctness of such representation, and he is hereby required, to nominate and appoint one or more other sheriffs or advocates of at least four years' standing to assist in disposing of the said claims within the said counties or any of them; and all judgments pronounced by the said assistant sheriffs or advocates shall be liable to be appealed from as if they had been pronounced by the sheriff of the county.

By Clause 43. That the notices required by this bill to be given at church doors shall not be necessary at any of the churches in the islands of North Uist, South Uist, Barra, Harris, or Eigg, in the county of Inverness, nor at any of the churches in the island of Lewis, in the county of Ross, nor at any of the churches in the islands of Tiree, Coll, or Gigha, in the county of Argyle, nor at any of the churches in the county of Orkney and Shetland, except such as are in what is called the 'mainland' of Orkney and Shetland respectively.

By Clause 46. That the word "sheriff" shall be held to include the word "stewart;" and the words "sheriff substitute" shall be held to include the words "stewart substitute;" and that the words "shire" or "county" shall be held to include the word "stewartry;" and the words "sheriff clerk" shall be held to include the words "stewart clerk," and "sheriff clerk depute," and "stewart clerk depute;" and the words "town clerk" shall be held to include the words "town clerk depute:" provided also, that no misnomer or inaccurate description of any person or place in any writing made in the form of any schedule to this bill annexed, or in any list or register or notice made under authority of this bill, shall in any way prevent or abridge the operation of this bill, provided that such person or place shall be so designated in such writing, list, register, or notice as to be commonly understood.

By Clause 47. That all laws, statutes, and usages now in force respecting the right of electing, the qualifications of electors, and the actual election of Members to serve in Parliament for that part of Great Britain called Scotland, shall be and the same are hereby repealed in so far as they are inconsistent or at variance with the provisions of this bill: provided always, that the same shall be in force in all other respects whatsoever.

By Clause 48. That if a dissolution of the present Parliament shall take place after the passing of this bill, but before the 1st day of December in the present year, in such case such persons only shall be entitled to vote in the election of Members to serve in a new Parliament for any county, city, burgh, or town, or district of cities, burghs, and towns, as would have been entitled to be inserted in the respective lists under this Act, if the day of election had been the day of making out such lists; and all persons are entitled to vote in such election, although they may not be registered according to the provisions of this bill, and the polling for any county may be fifteen days, and for any city, burgh, town, or district for eight days, any thing in this Act to the contrary notwithstanding.

NEW GALLOWAY.—From a point on the road to Kells church which is distant 500 yards (measured along such road) to the north of the north-western corner of the town house, in a straight line drawn due east to a point 300 yards distant; thence in a straight line to a point which is distant 300 yards due west from a point on the Kirkcudbright road which is distant 400 yards (measured along the Kirkcudbright road) to the south of the town house; thence in a straight line, through the said point on the Kirkcudbright road, to a point which is distant 300 yards due west therefrom; thence in a straight line to a point which is distant 300 yards due west from the point first described; thence in a straight line to the point first described.

STRANRAER.—From that point on the shore of Loch Ryan which is due north-east of the point at which the two roads from Stranraer to Leswalt meet, in a straight line, through the point at which such two roads meet, to a point 700 yards beyond the same; thence in a straight line to the point at which the road from the church to Portpatrick meets the road from the meeting-house to Portpatrick; thence in a straight line to a point on the Dumfries road which is distant 700 yards (measured along the Dumfries road) from the point at which the same is met by the road from the meeting-house to Portpatrick; thence in a straight line, drawn due north-east, to the shore of Loch Ryan; thence along the shore of Loch Ryan to the point first described.

WHITHORN.—From a point on the Portwilliam road which is distant 200 yards (measured along the Portwilliam road) to the west of the point at which the same leaves the Wigton road in a straight line to a point on the Glasserton road which is distant 500 yards (measured along the Glasserton road) from the point at which the Isle of Whithorn road leaves the same; thence in a straight line to a point on the Isle of Whithorn road which is distant 500 yards (measured along the Isle of Whithorn road) from the point at which the same leaves the Glasserton road; thence in a straight line to a point on the road or street called the Raw, leading in a south-easterly direction from the town house, 500 yards distant therefrom (measured along the said road); thence in a straight line to a point on the Garlieston road which is distant 200 yards (measured along the Garlieston road) from the point at which the same leaves the Wigton road; thence in a straight line to the point first described.

WIGTON.—From a point on the sea shore, on the north-east of the town, which is distant 400 yards (measured along the shore) to the north of the point at which the Croft-en-Reich burn joins the sea, in a straight line to the point, at Traumond ford, at which the Glenluce road meets a road to Bladenoch; thence in a straight line to a point on the Bladenoch water which is distant 100 yards (measured along the Bladenoch water) above Bladenoch bridge; thence down the Bladenoch water to the point at which the same joins the sea; then along the sea shore to the point first described.

Boundaries of the foregoing Districts, form a portion of Schedule M, in the Scottish Reform Act.

RULES FOR ESTABLISHING THE LIMITS MENTIONED IN THE FOREGOING SUMMARIES, AS SETTLED BY CLAUSE 5, AND SCHEDULE M, IN THE REFORM ACT.

I. That the words "northward," "southward," "eastward," "westward," shall respectively be understood to denote only the general direction in which any boundary proceeds from the point last described, and not that such boundary shall continue to proceed throughout in the same direction to the point next described:

II. That when any road is mentioned merely by the name of the place to which such road leads, the principal road thither from the city, burgh, or town, of which the boundary is in course of description shall be understood:

III. That whenever a line is said to be drawn from, to, through, or in the direction of, or any distance to be measured from or to, an object, such line shall, in the absence of any direction to the contrary, be understood to be drawn from, to, through, or in the direction of, or such distance to be measured from or to, the centre of such object, as nearly as the centre thereof can be ascertained:

IV. That every building through which, or through any part whereof, any boundary hereby established shall pass shall be considered as within such boundary: provided always, that if the boundaries of any two or more of the cities, burghs, and towns, whereof the boundaries are hereby described, shall pass through the same building, or any part thereof, such building shall be considered as within that one of such two or more of the said cities, burghs, and towns, which was before the passing of this bill entitled to return members or a member to serve in parliament; or if neither or more than one of such two or more of the said cities, burghs, and towns shall have been so entitled, then within that one of them whereof the area as hereby established is the smallest:

V. That whenever any boundary by this bill established is said to pass, or any distance to be measured, along any street, road, lane, or loarning, or up, down, or along any river, stream, canal, or burn, the middle (as nearly as the same can be ascertained) of such street, road, lane, loarning, river, stream, canal, or burn, shall be understood:

VI. That the middle of any street, road, or lane shall be understood as the middle of the carriageway along the same:

VII. That when any boundary by this bill established is said to proceed, or any distance to be measured, along a street, road, or lane, or up, down, or along a river, from or to an object, such boundary shall be understood to proceed, or such distance to be measured (as the case may be), from or to that point in the middle of such road, lane, or river from which the shortest line would be drawn to the centre of such object, as nearly as the centre thereof can be ascertained:

VIII. That the point at which any wall, march, boundary, street, road, lane, loarning, avenue, railway, walk, path, river, stream, canal, or burn is said to meet, join, cross, reach, or leave any march, boundary, street, road, lane, loarning, avenue, railway, walk, river, stream, canal, or burn shall be understood as that point at which a line passing along the middle of the march, boundary, street, road, loan, lane, avenue, railway, walk, river, stream, canal, or burn, so met, joined, crossed, reached, or left, would be intersected by a line drawn along the middle of the wall, march, boundary, street, road, lane, loaning, avenue, railway, walk, path, river, stream, canal, or burn so meeting, joining, crossing, reaching, or leaving, if such line were prolonged sufficiently far; and that the point at which any burn or river joins any firth or the sea shall be understood as that point at which a line passing along the low water mark of such firth or the sea would be cut by a line to be drawn along the middle of such burn or river, if such line were prolonged sufficiently far; and that the point at which a burn or feeder joins a loch shall be understood as that point at which a line drawn along the shore of such loch would be cut by a line drawn thereto along the middle of such burn or feeder:

IX. That when a line is said to be drawn to a road, lane, river, stream, or canal, such line shall be considered as prolonged to the middle of such road, lane, river, stream, or canal:

X. That by the words "sea" and "shore" shall be understood the low water mark:

XI. That if any deficiency shall be found to exist in the line of any boundary described in the said schedule to this bill annexed by reason of the intervention of any space between any two immediately consecutive points, such deficiency shall be supplied by a straight line to be drawn from the one to the other of such two immediately consecutive points.

COUNTIES.

Tenure—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

- CLASS I.
 50/. Freeholder.
 20/. Freeholder.
1. In fee, of which 20 years' possession, or enjoyment, without payment of rent, is prima facie evidence.
2. In tail.
3. For life or lives.
4. Whether the claimant holds singly or jointly with others.
5. Whether the estate be legal or equitable; that is, whether it is or is not vested in a trustee, or mortgagee; or whether the lands are held under a lease or conveyance, or under an article, or contract for a lease or conveyance.

Occupation and Residence as to the foregoing Titles.

Need not occupy.

Receipt of Rents or Profits as to the foregoing Titles.

1. Must be in possession of the premises, or in receipt of the rents or profits, for six months before registry. [Let every person, nevertheless, seek the franchise and serve his notice, whose title shall have accrued within six months of the probable actual time of registry.]
2. All those whose title shall have come by descent, succession, marriage, marriage settlement, devise, (i. e. will,) or promotion, are expressly made entitled at once to register, by the reform act.
3. If the mortgagee, or trustee, of the lands be in actual possession, or in receipt of the rents, he can register, and the mortgagor or cetui que trust, cannot.
4. If the mortgagor, or cetui que trust, be in possession, or in receipt of the rents or profits, he can register, and the mortgagee, or trustee cannot.

- Each must be freehold; that is,
1. Held in fee.
2. Or in tail.
3. Or for life or lives.
4. And the claimant can register, whether he be entitled singly, or jointly with others, provided his share or interest be, bona fide, of the yearly value of 50/. or 20/.

Occupation and Residence as to the foregoing Titles.

Need not occupy any lands.

Receipt of Rents or Profits as to the above Titles.

1. Must be in the receipt of the rent for six months before registry. [Let him, however, serve his notice, if his title shall have accrued at any time within six months of the probable actual time of registry.]
2. And see above, in this column, title 1, observations 2, 3, and 4, which apply here.

Tenure—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

- 10/. Freeholder.
- 1, 2, 3, 4. The tenure must be as above, title 1, observations 1, 2, 3, and 5, in this column.
5. Let the claimant serve his notice, whether he holds singly, or jointly with others; and whether he does or does not hold under a lease made after the 19th July, 1832.
6. A mortgagee or trustee, in possession, can register.
7. The mortgagor, or cetui que trust, if in possession, (although the estate is vested in a mortgagee or trustee,) can register.

Occupation and Residency as to the foregoing Title.

1. Must occupy. If lands by tilling or grazing. If a house by residing. If both house and land, by residing in the house, or by tilling, or grazing the land.

2. Let the claimant serve his notice and claim his franchise, although he has sublet a part of the premises, if he tills or grazes, or otherwise occupies, so much as is worth him bona fide 10/. a-year, howsoever estimated; for instance, if he has sublet a part of a profit rent, he may apportion the rent, so that if what he retains is of the value to him of 10/. yearly, he can register.

Receipt of Rents and Profits as to the foregoing Title.

Receipt of rent is not sufficient. But if part be sublet let the claimant still serve his notice. Let him take some friend with him to the Sessions who knows the premises, and will support his own statement, if necessary, of the value of what he occupies.

more—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

1. This franchise exists where a person is entitled to any lands or tenements for any residue of any term which was originally created for a period of sixty years or upwards, worth 10/. a-year; or any lands or tenements for any residue of any term which was originally created for a period of fourteen years or upwards, worth 20/. a-year. This value is to be estimated as mentioned below. (See "Further Directions.")

2. The claimant so entitled can register, however small the portion is of the term which remains.

3. If a lease be made for lives and years, and the lives are dead, and any of the years are unexpired, the claimant may register. If the lease be for years determinable upon lives, the claimant may register.

4. He may be the original lessee.

5. He may be the assignee of the original lessee, that is, he may derive from the original lessee either under a will or as next of kin; or by a deed or article; or by all these ways.—

He is an assignee under the act, if the whole residue that remains of the term is vested in him, or in a trustee for him, upon trusts which give him (the claimant) a subsisting interest in the rents or profits. He is an assignee under the act if he is married to the person who, when he married her, was entitled to the premises for the residue of the term, provided no settlement was then made, or the property has not since been disposed of.

6. He may be a sub-lessee or an assignee of a sub-lessee; that is, he has the franchise whether his landlord be or be not the owner of the fee, or ground landlord.

7. He may hold singly, or jointly with others, and can register if his share or interest be respectively bona fide of the yearly value mentioned above; i. e. 10/. yearly if held for any residue of a term of sixty years; or 20/. yearly if held for any residue of fourteen years.

8. He can register whether the estate be legal or equitable, as above stated in this column, title 1, observation 5, which applies here.

9. and 10. See above under this head, title 3, observations 6 and 7, which apply here.

Receipt of Rents and Profits as to the foregoing Titles.

1. If he be the original lessee of the term, or the assignee of such lessee, and if he holds immediately under the owner of the fee, (or ground landlord,) he need not occupy.

2. If he be a sub-lessee, or the assignee of a sub-lessee, (that is, if his immediate landlord holds under another landlord,) the claimant must occupy for six months before registry.

3. It is, however, of importance to remember that the reform act makes payment of rent prima facie evidence that the person to whom it is paid is the owner in fee. If, therefore, the claimant, when he appears before the barrister, shall be found not to know who is the owner in fee, his statement that he pays rent to his immediate landlord, will give him a right to register, though he does not occupy, unless it be shown in evidence that his immediate landlord does not hold in fee.

Receipt of Rents and Profits as to the foregoing Titles.

1. If he be the original lessee or the assignee of such original lessee, and if he holds under the head landlord or owner in fee, receipt of rent for six months before registry will be sufficient. He may, however, occupy.

2. It will be sufficient if the claimant be in the receipt of rent out of part, and occupies the remainder.

3. If this interest came to him even within the six months, by will, marriage, marriage settlement, or succession, he may register.

4. If the claimant hold under a middleman, let him nevertheless serve his notice, and at all events insist upon his right to register, if any part of the premises which he occupies be, considering the manner in which he has disposed of the remainder, of the value of 10% yearly; and let him take a friend with him to the Sessions, who knows the premises, and will be able to support his own statement of their value.

Tenure—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

le 5.—10%. Leaseholder or any residue of any term of twenty years or more.

1. This franchise exists where a person is entitled to any lands or tenements for any residue of any term which was originally created for a period of 20 years, or upwards, worth 10% a-year. The value is to be estimated as mentioned below. (See "Further Directions.")

2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10. All the observations under this head, title 4, apply here, except observation 1.

Occupation and Residence as to the foregoing Title.

1. Must occupy for six months before registry; but a single day's occupation will suffice, if he became entitled by will, marriage, marriage settlement, or succession.

2. Let the claimant serve his notice, if any part which he occupies be, considering the manner in which he has disposed of the remainder, of the value of 10% yearly; and let him take a friend with him to the Sessions, who knows the premises, to support his own statement of their value.

Receipt of Rents and Profits as to the foregoing Title.

Receipts of rents will not suffice.

e 6.—10%. Copyholder.

This franchise exists where a person is seized at law or in equity, of any lands or tenements of a copyhold tenure, for any life or lives, or for any larger estate, of the clear yearly value of 10% or upwards, above all rents and charges payable out of or in respect of the same. It is a very rare tenure in Ireland. It is believed not to exist in any county of a city, or county of a town, but if it does so exist, it gives a franchise there as well as in a county.

Occupation and Residence as to the foregoing Title.

Need not occupy.

Receipt of Rent and Profits as to the foregoing Title.

Must be in receipt of the rents or profits for six months before registry, unless he derives title as above, in this column, title 1, observation 2.

Tenure—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

a 4.—10%. Leaseholder or any residue of any term of sixty years or more.

Leaseholder for any residue of any term of fourteen years or more.

1. This franchise exists where a person is entitled to any lands or tenements for any residue of any term which was originally created for a period of sixty years or upwards, worth 10%. a-year; or any lands or tenements for any residue of any term which was originally created for a period of fourteen years or upwards, worth 20%. a-year. This value is to be estimated as mentioned below. (See "Further Directions.")

2. The claimant so entitled can register, however small the portion is of the term which remains.

3. If a lease be made for lives and years, and the lives are dead, and any of the years are unexpired, the claimant may register. If the lease be for years determinable upon lives, the claimant may register.

4. He may be the original lessee.

5. He may be the assignee of the original lessee, that is, he may derive from the original lessee either under a will or as next of kin; or by a deed or article; or by all these ways.—He is an assignee under the act, if the whole residue that remains of the term is vested in him, or in a trustee for him, upon trusts which give him (the claimant) a subsisting interest in the rents or profits. He is an assignee under the act if he is married to the person who, when he married her, was entitled to the premises for the residue of the term, provided no settlement was then made, or the property has not since been disposed of.

6. He may be a sub-lessee or an assignee of a sub-lessee; that is, he has the franchise whether his landlord be or be not the owner of the fee, or ground landlord.

7. He may hold singly, or jointly with others, and can register if his share or interest be respectively bona fide of the yearly value mentioned above; i. e. 10%. yearly if held for any residue of a term of sixty years; or 20%. yearly if held for any residue of fourteen years.

8. He can register whether the estate be legal or equitable, as above stated in this column, title 1, observation 5, which applies here.

9. and 10. See above under this head, title 3, observations 6 and 7, which apply here.

Receipt of Rents and Profits as to the foregoing Titles.

1. If he be the original lessee of the term, or the assignee of such lessee, and if he holds immediately under the owner of the fee, (or ground landlord,) he need not occupy.

2. If he be a sub-lessee, or the assignee of a sub-lessee, (that is, if his immediate landlord holds under another landlord,) the claimant must occupy for six months before registry.

3. It is, however, of importance to remember that the reform act makes payment of rent prima facie evidence that the person to whom it is paid is the owner in fee. If, there-

3. The claimant need not reside in the city or town, if he otherwise occupies the premises, within the meaning of the act, as above expounded.

4. And he should serve his notice, if he be the owner or tenant of a house which is in the care of his servants, or occupied by any of his family.

Receipt of Rent or Profits as to Nos. 1, 2, and 3 of the foregoing Title.

1. No receipt of rents will suffice.

2. But if part be let, and if the claimant retains a shop, warehouse, or countinghouse, which, alone, or together with any land occupied therewith by him, as tenant under the same landlord, is of the value of 10*l.* yearly, he is entitled to register and vote, and should serve his notice accordingly.

3. If the part retained by him be not a shop, warehouse, or countinghouse, let him nevertheless serve his notice, describing the holding as a house.

Tenure—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

title 8.—40*s.* Freeholder, 1, 2, 3, 4. The tenure may be as stated in title 1, observations 1, 2, 3, and 5.

5. No person can vote as a forty-shilling freeholder who has derived his title since the 1st of March, 1831, unless he has so derived title by descent, succession, marriage, marriage settlement, devise (i. e. will) or promotion to a benefice or freehold office.

6. To serve his notice whether he holds singly, or jointly with others.

Occupation and Residence as to the foregoing Title.

1. Must occupy the premises in respect of which he claims a franchise, unless he holds for lives renewable for ever, or under a lease for ever, or in fee farm, or in fee, or paying no rent save quit and crown rent, in any of which cases he need not occupy.

2. But he must have resided in the city or town, or within seven miles of the usual place for holding elections, for six months before registry.

3. In every instance in which the claimant would be entitled to register under the former law, and held the lands before the 1st of March, 1831, or has since derived title to serve his notice, although not already registered, and contend before the barrister that the word "registered" in the oath Schedule C, No. 9 of the Reform Act, must be expunged, as repugnant to the 10th section.

Receipt of Rents and Profits as to the foregoing Title.

Receipt of Rents will not suffice, unless the claimant holds under a lease for lives renewable for ever, or under a lease for ever, or in fee farm, or in fee, or paying no rent save quit or crown rent; in any of which cases receipt of rents or profits is sufficient without occupation.

Tenure—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

title 9.—Freemen.

1. Freemen by birth, servitude, or marriage, or by any statute, whensoever admitted.

2. Honorary freemen if admitted on or before the 30th of March, 1831, but not otherwise.

Residence as to the foregoing Title.

Must reside in the city or town, or within seven miles of the usual place for holding elections, for six months before registry.

CLASS II.

COUNTIES OF CITIES AND COUNTIES OF TOWNS.

THESE ARE — CARRICKFERGUS, CORK, DROGHEDA, DUBLIN, GALWAY, KILKENNY, LIMERICK, AND WATERFORD.

In Counties of Cities and Counties, and Counties of Towns, any person can register and vote in respect of any franchise which, if it were in a County, would give a vote for such County. The franchises contained in CLASS I. are therefore all to be here referred to. In addition to these, there are in Counties of Cities and Counties of Towns the following franchises :

Tenure—Estate—Quality of Franchise.

Titles 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, for which see CLASS I.

Title 7. —10%. Householder.

1. This franchise exists, where any person in a city, town, or borough, occupies, as tenant or owner, within the electoral district any house, warehouse, countinghouse, or shop, which, separately or jointly with any land within such district, occupied therewith by him, as tenant under the same landlord, or as owner, is, bona fide, of the clear yearly value of 10% or upwards.—2 and 3 W. IV., c. 88, sections 5 and 7.)

2. It is totally immaterial by what tenure the claimant holds; whether as owner or as tenant at will, or by the week, or month, or year; whether he pays rent, or holds rent-free; whether he holds by a verbal or a written contract; or whether, by his contract, the cesses, rates, or taxes are to be paid by him or by his landlord.

3. A shop, a warehouse, a countinghouse (as a banker's, merchant's, or attorney's office), gives the franchise as well as a dwelling-house.

4. A butcher's stall in a market, (as an instance) is plainly a shop, within the meaning of the statute.

5. Such shop, warehouse, or countinghouse, may, it is considered, be in an upper story, or even in a cellar (if of sufficient value) as well as on the ground floor.

6. It has been considered, that in estimating the value of the holding, no deduction whatever is to be made for rent, charges, cesses, rates, or taxes, and in fact, that the rent, in the absence of any other test, may be taken as a measure of the value; for instance, that if the claimant pays 10% a-year rent for holding, and it is worth that sum yearly, and no more, the occupier may register.

7. The claimant should serve his notice if he occupies a house, a warehouse, or a countinghouse, which either alone, or together with any land, (as a yard, garden, &c. occupied with it by him as tenant under the same landlord, or as owner, is worth, bona fide, 10% a year, as it stands.

8. He should serve his notice and seek his franchise, whether he holds singly or jointly with others. Joint tenants and tenants in common appear plainly to be entitled to this franchise, if they hold and occupy bona fide; and if the holding be worth 10% multiplied by the number of owners who tenant or own it, in common.

9. The estimate of value may be made by taking into account any land, yard, out-office, &c. occupied with the house, warehouse, countinghouse, or shop, by the claimant, as tenant under the same landlord, or as owner.

Occupation and Residence as to Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4, of the foregoing Title.

1. The claimant must occupy for six months before registry.

2. The mode of occupation will vary according to the nature of the holding. If it be a dwelling-house the proper occupation is residence. If it be a shop, and it be used for exhibiting goods for sale, that will be sufficient occupation, though nobody resides on the premises. If it be a warehouse, the keeping of goods stored there is an occupation, though there be no residence. And if it be a countinghouse, the use of it by the claimant or his clerk, at the usual times of business, is a sufficient occupation, without residence.

FURTHER DIRECTIONS.

VALUE.

1. In all the freehold, leasehold, and copyhold franchises the property is to be estimated at the prescribed value over and above all rent and charges; but no public or parliamentary tax, county, church, parish cess or rate, or any cess or rate upon any townland, or division of any parish, barony, or half-barony, is to be deemed "a charge" in so estimating that value. [35 Geo. III. c. 29, s. 51; 4th Geo. IV. c. 55, s. 7; 10 Geo. IV. c. 8, s. 2; 2 and 3 Wm. IV. c. 88, s. 10.]

2. The value of the holding which gives the 10% household franchise is not directed by the act to be estimated by any reference to rent or to charges of any kind. See title 7, head, Tenure.

3. The value of rent charges is to be over and above all charges. No public, &c. tax, nor county, &c. cess or rate, is to be taken into account in estimating this value.

4. In every case where the claimant's franchise requires occupation, whether as freeholder, leaseholder, or householder, he should insist upon his right to register, although he has demised, or otherwise bona fide disposed of, a part of the holding, if that portion which he retains (whether it consists of a house or of part of a house, or of land) is of the required value. That value may be estimated, by considering the rent, or other profit derived from the disposition made of the unoccupied part, as increasing the value of the portion occupied; and as (in the case of leaseholds and freeholds) applicable in reduction of the rent or charges that affect the premises.

PAYMENT OF GRAND JURY CESS AND MUNICIPAL CESSES, RATES AND TAXES.

1. This is necessary in the household franchise only. In this case the claimant, when he tenders his franchise for registry, must swear that not more than one half year's grand jury or municipal rates, cesses or taxes are due or payable by him in respect of the premises for which he seeks to register.

2. The grand jury cess is sufficiently known.

3. "Municipal cesses, rates, and taxes."—Considerable difficulty exists in construing these terms. Until the meaning of the act shall be settled by decision, or by a resolution of the House of Commons, the only safe course, and that to which the claimant is earnestly advised, is to take care that all the cesses, rates, or taxes payable in respect of the holding on which he relies for the household franchise, have been paid, leaving, at the utmost, not more than a half year's portion of any of them due.

4. The statute makes no express provision for the case of a householder holding under a contract by which his landlord is bound to pay the rates, cesses, or taxes. In all cases of this nature the claimant ought to see that his landlord has paid, or require him at once to pay them. If the landlord neglects to do so after notice, the claimant should himself discharge them, and insist on being allowed them out of his next gale of rent. The payment may be made at any time before registry. In any case the notice to be served.

5. The occupier should, in no instance, wait for a demand of the rate. He should immediately ascertain its amount, (if he has not already done so,) and pay it. He should, in no case, be satisfied with a tender. He should actually deposit the amount, and should do this, either through the medium of another person, or by himself, in presence of a witness or witnesses, in case any difficulty exists, or is apprehended, in procuring a receipt acknowledging the payment.

DIRECTIONS FOR FILLING AND SERVING THE ABOVE.

1. In the first column write the NAME [Christian name and surname] of the claimant, his DESCRIPTION [viz. his trade, as "shoemaker," or business or occupation as "merchant," "grocer," "shopkeeper," "farmer," or his rank or degree, as "esquire," "gentleman," "yeoman,"] and his RESIDENCES, [i. e. his present or usual place of abode].
2. In the second column state the right in which the claimant seeks his franchise, by one of these general words, "freeholder," "leaseholder," "householder," "freeman," "rent-charge." The term "householder" will apply here, although the holding is in the next column described as a shop, &c.—the former being the general term which the Act gives to the owner of that franchise.
3. In the third column state—1st. The description of the property to be described with as much brevity as is consistent with accuracy, thus—"a piece or plot of land," "a shop,"
"a warehouse," "a countinghouse," "a shop and land," "a shop and premises," "a rent-charge issuing out of a piece of land." 2d. The situation. If in a county, state the barony, parish, townland, [if known,] and the street, or denomination or place, as "situated at" [the name of the place, or the name by which the lands are known,] in the townland of                      in the parish of                      and barony of                      .'' If in a Circular Road."

If possible, the barony to be in EVERY case stated in describing property in a county.
The arrangement of booths at the place of polling is directed by the act to be made with reference to the number of voters appearing registered in the books of the clerk of the peace for baronies and half baronies. See 2 and 3 W. IV., c. 88, s. 51. This reason does not exist for specifying the baronies in cities, towns, or boroughs. Nevertheless let it be stated when known.

In all cases, such description should be given as will be sufficient to enable a person desirous of investigating the franchise to find out, with ordinary diligence, the spot in respect of which it is claimed.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

1. The claimant (or some person authorized by him) to sign his (the claimant's) name at the foot of the notice. It may be filled up and served by any person. It ought to be filled up by or in the presence of some person who will enter on the margin, headed "Check memorandum," the substance of the notice. That person should serve the notice, and preserve the memorandum (on which he should enter the day of service,) in order to be able to prove such service, if that should become necessary, either to remedy any miscarriage in the office of the clerk of the peace, or to recover the penalty of 100*l.* given by the statute for every act in contravention of its provisions. These forms may be bound up in books for more convenient use, in the offices where the notices are prepared, and the notices, when several are filled, may be cut out and served in counties, upon the clerk of the peace or his deputy, or upon the high constable of the barony; and in cities, towns, and boroughs, upon the clerk of the peace who, in counties of cities and counties of towns, is called the town-clerk. It should be served by the clerk or agents who has filled up the forms, and entered the substance or copy of the notice on the check memorandum. This is the course of business adopted at the office of the Dublin Registry Committee.

2. Whenever any doubt exists in which of several capacities the claimant can register, and there is not time for due investigation, let two or more notices be served. This should, of course, be avoided, unless a reasonable doubt exists. These double notices should, in all cases, be dated the same day, and be served at one and the same time. This will take away all excuse from the officer for contravening the provisions of the Act, by not posting a claimant in each capacity, which he is unquestionably bound to do, under a penalty of 100*l.* for each omission.

3. It is of importance that in counties of cities, and counties of towns, every person who has a freehold or leasehold franchise should serve a notice claiming as such, because these franchises do not require payment of rates, cesses, or taxes. On the other hand, every such person should also, if qualified, serve his notice as a householder, to guard against any miscarriage of the former; for the proof of the household franchise is so easy, that failure is hardly possible when the right to it exists. Whenever a householder has any reasonable ground for claiming as a leaseholder or freeholder, he should serve his notice in each capacity. In no case should a householder omit to claim as such.

4. In all cases when it is practicable, the deeds (leases or assignments) should be inspected, in order to determine the capacity in which the claimant should serve his notice; viz., whether as freeholder, or leaseholder, or rent-charger; and also, in order to enable any intelligent person who superintends the registry, to advise the claimant, whether he must occupy; whether receipt of rents be sufficient to entitle him to vote; and (if there be time) what documents or proofs he should be prepared with at the sessions.

5. Where the franchise has been registered before, the certificate of the former registry, or the affidavit of it, (of which the clerk of the peace has the custody,) is prima facie evidence of the franchise. Such previous registry should (except in the case of a 30l. freehold) be within eight years. Notice should be served on the clerk of the peace, a convenient time before the sessions, to produce the affidavits of those persons who intend relying on the former registry, but who have lost their certificates. It is recommended that every person who has not his certificate of his former registry, shall, if possible procure one. Difficulties may be interposed to his so doing. It may be right to state, that the clerk of the peace in every county is bound, within ten days after request of any freeholder, to give an attested copy of the registry of all the freeholders, on being paid at the rate of three pence for every hundred names (35 Geo. III. c. 29, s. 43; 45 Geo. III. c. 59, s. 11; 10 Geo. IV. c. 8, s. 29). A similar provision is made by the 4th Geo. IV. c. 55, s. 20, respecting counties of cities and counties of towns. And in boroughs by the 35th Geo. III. c. 29, s. 58, the book of registry is to be open between the hours of twelve and two in the day time for the inspection of any registered inhabitant, (except on Sundays and feast days,) on the clerk of the peace receiving twenty-four hours' notice, and a fee of one shilling; and the clerk of the peace is bound, at the requisition of any person having, or claiming a vote in the borough, to give him a copy of the registry book, or of any part of it, at the charge of two pence for every four registered inhabitants; and is further bound, on ten days' notice, to furnish any such person with a copy of the index to such registry book, at the charge of one penny for every ten names of inhabitants contained in such copy.

6. Observe, that any person who has property, freehold or leasehold, within the electoral boundaries of any city, borough, or town, situated in the county, and of such value and term as would otherwise give him a vote for the county, may register a county franchise, provided such property do not consist of a house, or warehouse, &c., (or a house and premises held with it,) which would give him a householder's franchise in the city, town, or borough. This observation applies to no county of a city, or county of a town, except so much of the electoral district of Dublin as consists of portions of the county of Dublin within the Circular-road. To these portions of the Dublin electoral district this observation applies.

Finally, let these three things be especially remembered :

1st. That no man can vote at the next Election, who shall not serve his Notice twenty clear days before the 10th of October next.

2d. That whenever a man has reasonable grounds for claiming a franchise in one or other of several capacities, and a reasonable doubt exists as to the capacity in which he may be able to establish his franchise, he should serve duplicate notices (delivered together to the clerk of the peace or his deputy) accommodated to each capacity ; but this should of course, not be done unnecessarily, nor where reasonable doubt does not exist.

3d. That although the franchise be doubtful, STILL THE NOTICE SHOULD BE SERVED.

the Royal Assent on the 7th day of August, 1832.

ABERCONWAY. See Conway.

ABERCORN, shire of Llandithgow, S.

P. T. Llandithgow (17) 5 m. NE & E. Pop. 1011.

A parish watered by the Cornle and Meikhope Burns, which unite here, and pursue a downward course, between proximate heights, to a beautiful opening, where the stream enters the Firth of Forth. The church and village are pleasantly seated upon an angular point, overlooking the Firth and the coast of Fife, at an elevation of seventy feet above its level. The living is in the presbytery of Llandithgow, and synod of Lothian and Tweeddale; patron, the Earl of Hopetoun. The parochial school is noted as a place of learning. This parish abounds in lime-stone of superior quality, free-stone, iron-stone, and coals. Here stood one of the most ancient monasteries in Scotland, mention being made of it as the residence of a bishop in the seventh century. The castle, originally a Roman fort, and of great strength, was demolished during Earl Douglas's rebellion in 1455. This barony belonged to the celebrated partizan of Wallace, Sir John Graham, who fell at the battle of Falkirk, opposed to Edward I. in 1292, since when it has had many noble owners; and by purchase in 1668, became the property of an ancestor of the Earls of Hopetoun. The seat and domains of Hopetoun House occupy nearly two-thirds of the parish. It has been asserted that the wall of Antoninus extended into this parish; but, from the authority of Bede, it seems more probable that its eastern extremity rested at the point upon which Blackness Castle stands. Abercorn gives title of Marquess to a branch of the house of Hamilton.

ABERCROMBIE, shire of Fife, S.

P. T. Pittenweem (22) 1 m. W. Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of St. Monance, district of St. Andrews, situated on the Firth of Forth. The coast abounds with rocks of free-stone, lime-stone, and iron-stone; and the interior with seams of coal and a profusion of game. This was formerly a parish of itself, but since its annexation to that of St. Monance, the church and village have gone to decay, though the manse and glebe are situate here. Abercrombie gives title of Baron to Lord Abercrombie.

ABERDALGIE, shire of Perth, S.

P. T. Perth (30) 3 m. SW. Pop. 400.

A parish, with Duplin united, situated along the northern side of the river Earn; soil, although various, in general fertile. The living is in the presbytery of Perth, and synod of Perth and Stirling; patron, the Earl of Kinnoul. The church, erected by the late earl, is one of the neatest in Scotland, and is now the burial place of the family. The neighbourhood abounds with free-stone. Near the church are traces of an ancient building, called Camp Castle, which belonged to the Lords Oliphant, whose ancestors held the barony by grant of David II.

ABERDARE, co. Glamorgan, S. W.

P. T. Merthyr Tydfil (171) 4 m. SW. Pop. 700. Pairs for cattle, April 10; Whitmonday; Nov. 14.

A parish in the hundred of Miskin, including the hamlets Cefnennar, Cwmdare, Forchaman, and Llywdrod. The church is ded. to St. John Baptist; living, a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff; ann. val. by P. R. 89*l.*; patron, vicar of Llantrissaint. Here are several extensive iron works. This place gave birth to Julian Ddu ab Dafydd ab Owain, a poet of the fifteenth century, a rich and a generous patron of the bards; also to the Rev. Edward Evan, an eminent dissenting divine, philosopher, and poet, whose knowledge of the Bardic lore greatly contributed to the preservation of the commemorative institution to the day of his death, June 21st 1798.

ABERDARON, co. Caernarvon N. W.

P. T. Pwllheli (236) 20 m. SW. Pop. 1721.

A parish in the hundred of Conantmen, situated at the fall of the river Daron into Caernarvon bay. Formerly pilgrims flocked hither in great numbers to embark for Bardsey Island, and the church, ded. to St. Hywyn, was much frequented as a sanctuary. Living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bangor; valued in K. H. 32*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*; ann. val. by P. R. 97*l.* 10*s.*; patron St. John's college, Cambridge.

ABERDDAW EAST, co. Glamorgan, S. W.

This extensive county forms a part of the most eastern portion of Scotland. It is bounded on the north and east by the German Ocean, on the south by Perthshire, Angus, and Kincardineshire, and on the west by the shires of Banff, Moray, and Inverness. It was anciently divided into the districts of Mar, Garioch, Formartin, Strathbogie, and Buchan; but the more formal and modern division is into the districts of Aberdeen, Alford, Deer or Buchan, Ellon, Garioch, Kincardine O'Neil, Strathbogie, and Turrell. The ancient district of Mar is usually deemed the centre of Scotland, being at the greatest distance from the sea on all sides. The higher portion of it is peculiarly rugged and mountainous, several of the hills, some of which are of volcanic origin, rising from 2,000 to 4,000 feet above the level of the sea, and one of them, called the Buck, or Cabrath, reaches the height of 5377 feet. Extensive natural forests occupy the ascent of many of these hills, some of which are scarcely accessible to human footsteps. The country is more level towards the east and north east, although for the most part moorish and barren. Nothing, however, can be more interesting and picturesque than the wild scenery of this region, which affords some of the most grand and striking views in Scotland. It is in this part of the county that the Don and Dee take their rise; flowing eastwardly through a more fertile country into the German Ocean. The district of Buchan, which lies chiefly on the east and northern coasts, is not so hilly as that of Mar, but being nearly destitute of wood, it presents a bleak and barren appearance. The remainder of the county is more fertile and capable of cultivation. The coast is generally very rocky, and a part of it, lying to the south of Peterhead, is rendered peculiarly awful by the stupendous precipices, undermined by the remarkable caves on the coast called the Bullers or Boilers of Buchan, which form a large oval cavity of the depth of about one hundred feet, into which terrific pit boats are sometimes drawn and dashed to pieces. The soil is very various; the higher districts abounding in moorland, as already described, and the lower in clay and sand; but both the one and the other have been much ameliorated by the improvements in husbandry, introduced of late years by the zeal and example of many spirited proprietors. The climate is deemed less severe than the northern position of the county might seem to indicate; the winters being accounted less cold, and the summers less warm than in the south of England. Besides the Don and the Dee, it is watered by other streams of magnitude, the principal of which are the Ythan, the Bogie, the Urie, the Ugie, the Cruden, and the Deveron, the last of which forms a part of its boundary on the side of Banff. Nearly the whole of these rivers abound in salmon, but especially the Dee and the Don, the revenue from which is considerable to the landholders and others, in whom the right of property is invested. The coast also produces excellent fish, the catching of which affords employment for a great number of fishing vessels from the ports of Frazerburgh, Peterhead, and Aberdeen. This county contains the city of New Aberdeen; the royal burghs of Old Aberdeen, Kintore, and Inverury; with several handsome towns, the principal of which are Peterhead, Frazerburgh, Huntly, Keith, and Old Meldrum. Among its landed proprietors are found some of the most ancient and considerable families of Scotland, including the noble houses of Gordon, Aberdeen, Errol, Aboyne, Fife, and Kintore. The valued rent of the county is 235,654. Scots; its real land-rent has been estimated at 133,632. New Aberdeen trades with the Baltic, the West Indies, and North America. Until of late years very little was manufactured in this county except woollen stockings, for the knitting of which the female natives have always been greatly celebrated. More recently linen and sail cloth manufactures have been introduced into Aberdeen, Peterhead, and Huntly; and all other branches appear to be gradually following. Both trade and manufacture have been much benefited by the formation of the New Aberdeenshire canal, extending from the harbour of Aberdeen to the bridge of Don, as also by two additional bridges across the Dee, erected by the parliamentary commissioners for Highland roads and bridges. Aberdeenshire produces some of the rarer specimens both of vegetable and mineral productions. Of the latter, the granite quarries in the neighbourhood of Aberdeen have been found the most valuable; many thousand tons of stone being annually shipped from thence to London. Mill-stone, blue slate, marble, limestone, manganese plumbago, green amianthus, asbestos, talc, mica, schistus, jasper, cairngorm stones, emeralds, amethysts, garnets, beryl, agate, and rock crystal, are all productions of this extensive county, or occasionally found in it. Amber is also picked up on the shore near Buchan, and onyx pebbles and fossil shells on the coast north of Peterhead. In the river Ythan, which discharges itself into the sea about twelve miles north of the Don, is a pearl fishery, where pearls of considerable value have been sometimes obtained. There are several mineral springs with medicinal properties, of which those of Peterhead and Pannanich are most celebrated. The remnants of antiquity scattered over the county consist principally of cairns, tumuli, the ruins of druidical temples, and of a few castles of later days, which will be adverted to in the account of the parishes to which they belong. The shire returns one member to parliament, and another is sent by the burgh of Aberdeen, in conjunction with Inverhervie, Montrose, Aberbrothock, and Brechin.

ABERDEEN NEW, or ST. NICHOLAS, shire of Aberdeen, R. Pop. (see succ. art.)

A parish in the district of Aberdeen, including the town of New Aberdeen, which occupies the whole of it, except a portion to the S.E. extending towards the sea. The surrounding country, which is hilly without being mountainous, abounds in quarries of excellent granite; and the more immediate soil, although naturally thin and sterile, has been rendered deep and productive by good husbandry. Two miles S. of the town is a fine bridge of seven arches over the Dee, erected in 1724, in lieu of the original one, built in 1530, by bishop Dunbar, which had gone to decay. On the west of the town is a chalybeate spring, called the Well Spa. Foot-Dee, a populous village, forming one of the quarters of the parish, possesses a chapel of ease. The parish church, originally dedicated to St. Nicholas, was rebuilt in 1751. It contains two places of worship, served by four ministers, each with a stipend of 150*l.* per ann. Livings in the presbytery and synod of Aberdeen; patrons, magistrates and town council. (See succ. art.)

ABERDEEN NEW, shire of Aberdeen, R.

Kilisburgh 181*½* m. N.E.; Peterhead 23 m. N.W.; Stonehaven 14 m. N.E.

Pop. 20,000. Mem. of Pt. 1. Fairs, 1st Tu. May, 1st and 2nd Dec.; 2d Tu. June; last Tu. Aug. Races in the month of Sep.

A royal burgh, the capital of the shire, and chief city of the north of Scotland. It is situated near the discharge of the Dee into the German Ocean, on ground rising into a gentle slope from the sea, and is comprised within the parish of St. Nicholas (see preceding art.) and district of Aberdeen. It is a large and handsome town, the principal streets being spacious, with rows of lofty houses, constructed with granite from the neighbouring quarries. In the centre is the market place, an oblong square of considerable dimensions, on the north side of which stand the town-house and prison, each surmounted with a spire, and the latter consisting of a square tower 120 feet high. Opposite the town-house is the elegant office of the Aberdeen bank, formed of polished granite, which with the Mason's lodge, and other handsome buildings, render this part of the town extremely striking. Two remarkably fine streets form the entrances from the north and south, the latter of which, called Union-street, passes over a deep ravine by an extended arch of cut granite, the span of which is 132 feet, and height 29 feet. This street, which contains the Assembly-rooms, and numerous houses of the best description, presents a fine view of the square and ancient cross, an octagonal stone erection, ornamented with bas-reliefs of the kings of Scotland, from James I. to James VI. Besides the parish church of St. Nicholas, which is a handsome modern edifice, built of freestone, there are five chapels of ease, and fourteen or fifteen places of worship for dissenters. The harbour, which at one time was very dangerous, owing to the frequent shifting of a bar of sand, is now rendered safe by a wide pier on the north side of the river, constructed of granite, after a plan by the celebrated engineer Smeaton. It extends to the length of 1200 feet, and gradually increases in thickness and height as it advances into the sea. More recent expensive improvements have rendered the harbour still more commodious and secure. Near the pier are two batteries, erected in 1762, which command the entrance in the event of warlike attack. The entire city is paved, watered, and lighted with gas under the inspection of thirteen commissioners, chosen by the inhabitants, pursuant to an act of parliament passed in 1795, which board have power to form assessments to defray the expenses. Aberdeen is said to have been a royal burgh since 823, but the most ancient charter extant is one granted by William the Lion towards the close of the twelfth century. It received the name of New Town when rebuilt by king David Bruce, after being burnt down by the English. Several monarchs have successively granted it charters; but at present the civil government is vested in a provost, four bailies, a dean of guild, a treasurer, a town-council, and seven deacons of the incorporated trades. It sends one member to parliament in union with Aberbrothock, Brechin, Inverhervie, and Montrose. The inhabitants of this city carry on a very considerable business both in trade and manufacture. The latter include cotton, linen, and woollen in their various branches, but more particularly brown linen, canvas, sail-cloth, sheeting, hosiery, carpeting, coarse yarn, bleached and coloured thread, with nails, cordage, and most of the articles connected with ship-building, which is also much pursued. The foreign trade is principally carried on with North America, the West Indies, the Mediterranean, and the Baltic; the imports being chiefly from the latter. The coasting trade is still more extensive, and the whale and other fisheries employ much shipping, so that upon the whole between three and 400 vessels, collectively of the burden of 40,000 tons, belong to this port. The articles exported are grain, meal, thread, hosiery, cotton and linen goods, salmon, pickled pork, and granite to London. Of exported salmon the fisheries on the Don and Dee annually supply an average of 2,000 barrels. A navigable canal of 18 miles from this place to the Don is highly favourable to inland communication. Here are two banks, an insurance office against fire, and most of the kindred establishments appertaining to an active and commercial community. This city has long been celebrated as a seat of learning, by possessing the Marischal College and University, founded by George Earl Marischal, in 1530. It was originally endowed for the support of a principal and two professors of philosophy, but by subsequent donations the establishment has been extended to three proceptors of philosophy, and others for divinity, mathematics, natural history, medicine, and the oriental languages, with several bursaries for poor students. The buildings, which are situated in Broad-street, consist of lecture-rooms, a public school for conferring degrees, a common hall, a library, an observatory, and a museum of natural history and antiquities. It is governed by a chancellor, rector, dean of the faculties, regent and principal. Number of students, about two hundred. Since the attainder of Earl Marischal, the crown is the superior, but never interferes. Here is also a good and ably conducted Free Grammar School. The charitable institutions are numerous and well supported. The chief of them consist of a poor-house, Gordon's hospital, founded in 1730, by a merchant of that name, for the education of from 60 to 80 boys; Lady Drum's charity, founded in 1663, for unmarried women; that of the guild brethren, which grants pensions to decayed tradesmen; an infirmary; a lunatic asylum; and three dispensaries. Added to these, all the incorporated trades possess funds for the assistance of their unfortunate brethren. Besides the city prison, there is a spacious house of correction; and barracks without the town for 600 soldiers. The ancient religious institutions in this city were numerous, and the remains of some of them still claim the attention of the antiquary. Jamieson, the celebrated Scottish painter, was a native of this city.

ABERDEEN, OLD, or OLD MACHAR, shire of Aberdeen, S. Pop. 18,312.

A parish of considerable extent, comprehending the space which lies between the rivers Dee and Don, with the exception of that occupied by the parish and city of New Aberdeen. The aspect of the county is extremely pleasant and agreeably diversified with gentlemen's seats, villas, and plantations, rendered still more picturesque by the undulating nature of the surface. There are also some very considerable cotton factories. A fine gothic bridge of one arch crosses the Don, built by Bishop Cheyne in 1281. This parish includes the city of Old Aberdeen; the living, which is in the presbytery and synod of Aberdeen, is served by two ministers with a stipend of 150*l.* per ann. each; patron, the Earl of Fife. See succeeding article.

Edinb. 123 m. N.E. New Aberdeen 11 m. N.

Pop. 1831. M. D. Thursday.

Fairs, Thurs. bef. Easter, & 24 Tues. in Oct.

A royal burgh, formerly called Aberdon, in the parish of Old Machar and district of Aberdeen, anciently an episcopal see. It is pleasantly situated on an eminence near the Don, and at nearly the same distance from the sea as New Aberdeen. It is said to have been a place of considerable importance in the 9th century, but no records are extant prior to 1151, when David I. translated the see of Northach to Aberdeen, and erected it into a free burgh of barony, holding directly of the crown. This charter, which was often renewed by succeeding kings, was finally confirmed by one from King George I. which vested the power of electing their own magistracy in the free burghers of the town. It is governed at present by a provost, three bailies, a treasurer, and council, with the deacons of six incorporated trades. King's college, a large and stately fabric on the east side of the town, forms its principal distinction and ornament. It was founded in 1494, by Bishop Elphinstone, under the authority of a bull from Pope Alexander, granted on the application of James IV., who, in conjunction with the bishop, very richly endowed it. Bishops of Aberdeen were chancellors ex officio until the abolition of episcopacy, when the patronage became vested in the crown. The building contains a chapel, library, museum, common-hall, and rooms for lectures; to which has been added, a row of modern houses for the accommodation of professors and resident students. There is a garden to the college, and a house and garden for the principal. Several bursaries for poor students are supported by an annual revenue of 700*l.* The university is governed by a chancellor, a rector, a principal, a sub-principal, and a procurator, with professors of divinity, civil law, medicine, Greek, humanity, natural philosophy, and the Oriental languages; number of students about 150. Various attempts have been made to unite the colleges of the Old and New Town of Aberdeen, but always without effect. The first principal of King's college was the celebrated Hector Boece, or Boethius. The existing church of St. Machar is a remnant of the once magnificent cathedral, erected on the site of a former one, by Bishop Kinnemonth, in 1357, which, with a valuable library, fell a sacrifice to the religious animosity of the reformers. Its remains consist of two antique spires, and an extensive aisle, in which divine service is still performed. The revenues of the bishopric were once very ample, and the cathedral was very rich in gold and silver plate. The remaining public buildings consist of a town-house, a trades-hospital for decayed freemen and their widows, and an hospital for twelve poor men, founded in 1542, by Bishop Dunbar. On the west of the town is a modern free grammar school, and on the sea coast a fort, and the remains of a castle, destroyed by Oliver Cromwell. Aberdeen gives the title of earl to a branch of the noble family of Gordon.

ABERDOUR, shire of Aberdeen, S.

Edinburgh 120 m. N.E. Fraserburgh 8 m.

Pop. 1425.

A parish and post-town in the district of Deer, situated upon the Firth of Moray, the coast of which is bold and rocky and deeply indented with coves. The parish, which includes the villages of Auchmedden and Durdargue, contains much moss and muir, interspersed with patches of fertile land. It is watered by three rivulets or burns, upon the principal of which, the Dour, and at its confluence with the Firth, stands the village. It is inhabited chiefly by fishermen, and had once a good harbour for small craft, which is now much impaired. The church is a very ancient edifice. The living, formerly a vicarage, is in the presbytery of Deer, and synod of Aberdeen; patron—Gordon, Esq. proprietor of that part of the parish east of the church, where, amid fine plantations, stands his elegant seat, called Aberdour house. The Earl of Aberdeen possesses the western district. On a rocky precipice overhanging the Firth are the ruins of Dundargie castle, noted as having sustained a long siege during the captivity of King David Bruce, in 1336, and for its ultimate surrender by the English earl of Buchan to the regent Murray.

Edinburgh 9 m. N.W. Pop. 1400.

A parish, sea-port, and post-town, in the district of Dunfermline, situated on the north side of the Firth of Forth, and on the great road to the Highlands. It includes the islet of Inch Colm, and is a place of great antiquity, with a safe and commodious harbour, and a regular ferry to and from Leith. In the summer much company resort hither for sea-bathing, and a general post-office is established here. Muslins and coarse linens are manufactured in this village, and some tons of kelp upon the coast, the vicinity of which abounds in coal, lime-stone, freestone, and superior iron-stone and fine petrifications. The living is in the presbytery of Dunfermline and synod of Fife; patron Earl of Morton; the church is in good repair. There is an hospital for four widows, founded by Anne countess of Moray; also a parochial school. Upon the eastern bank of a beautiful serpentine rivulet, which falls into the Forth, stands the venerable castle of Aberdour, successively the property of the Viponts, the Mortimers, the Douglasses, and of William, lord of Liddesdale, surnamed the Flower of Chivalry, who in the reign of David II. conveyed it to the ancestor of its present owner, the Earl of Morton. The elegant seat of Hill-side, commanding fine views of the Forth and the Lothian, is also contiguous to the village. On Inch Colm stood a monastery, the remains of which, with the island itself, have been long possessed by the noble family of Moray, with the title of St. Colm.

ABERDYFI, co. Merioneth, N. W.

P. T. Aberystwith (200) 9 m. N.
Pop. with Pa.

A small township in the parish of Penall, in the hundred of Estinamer. It is situated at the mouth of the river Dyfi, across which there is here a ferry. The harbour is good, but owing to the prevalence of southerly winds, the entrance is impeded by the shifting of the bar to the north, or Cardigan side of the river,

ABEREDOW, co. Radnor, S. W.

P. T. Buith (173) 4 m. N.E. & S. Pop. 311.

A parish in the hundred of Colwyn, the petty sessions for which are sometimes held here. It is situated upon the river Edw, noted for its fine trout. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Brecon, diocese of St. David's; charged in K. B. 12l. 13s. 4d.; patron Bishop of St. David's, church ded. to St. Gwydd. At the union of the rivers Edw and Wye, are the remains of a castle, the last residence of Llewelyn ap Griffith; who, driven to extremity, and determined on an effort to escape hence and join the lords of Llandovery, caused the shafts of his horse to be reversed, in order to baffle pursuit, but, being betrayed by the smith, he was overtaken and put to death in a field beyond Buith. Near the castle is Llewelyn's cave cut in the rock, a place of refuge to which he used to retire when beset with dangers.

ABER-ERCH, co. Carnarvon, N. W.

P. T. Pwllheli (230) 4½ m. E.N.E. Pop. 1400.

A parish in the hundred of Dirbun, situated, as its name implies, near the mouth of the river Erch, which falls into Cardigan bay. Church ded. to St. Cwida. The living is a dis. vicarage (with Penrhos chapelry annexed) in the archdeaconry of Carnarvon and diocese of Bangor; valued in K. B. 6l.; ann. val. by P. R. 105l.; patron Bishop of Bangor.

ABERFFELDY, shire of Perth S.

Edinburgh 77½ m. N.W. Pop. with Weem.

A village in the parish of Weem, situated on the river Tay, in the great road to the Highlands. A general post-office and a muslin manufactory are established here, owing to which the place is much improved. It is surrounded with thick woods of hazle and birch; and in the vicinity are the remains of a druidical temple, and the burn and romantic falls of Moness.

ABERFFRAW, co. Anglesey, N.W.

P. T. Bangor (230) 14 m. W.S.W.

Newburgh, 6 m. W. Pop. 1201

Market days. Fairs, March 7; Wed. aft. Trinity; Oct. 23; Dec. 11 for cattle.

A sea-port town and parish, partly in the hundred of Maltraveth, and partly in the hundred of Menai. It is situated at the mouth of the river Ffraw, which falls into St. George's Channel, and has a good harbour for small vessels. Its principal trade is fishing; and the shore sand is used for manure. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Anglesey, diocese of Bangor; charged in K. B. 20l. 15s. 10d.; patron, the King, as Prince of Wales. The church, supposed to have been built in 636, is ded. to St. Benno; and another, called the Bailiff's church, was rebuilt in 1729, by Sir Arthur Owen, Bart. and endowed as a school, with 4l. per annum, for educating six children in the Welsh language. At Dindryfal, in this parish, are the ruins of Cappel Mair, or Mary's Chapel. This was formerly the residence of the Princes of North Wales, whose courts of justice, and the Eisteddfodd, or Assembly of the Bards, were held here. Glass rings, and other Druidical relics, have been dug up in the neighbourhood.

ABERFOIL, shire of Perth, S.

Stirling, 19 m. WNW. Pop. 720.

A parish and village, situated at the confluence of the small river Foil, or Foil, with the Forth. The parish consists of an extensive valley, bounded by lofty mountains, some of which are covered with valuable oaks, while others afford excellent pasture for sheep. It is watered by Lochs Ard, Catharine, and Con, formed by the river Teith, which has its rise on the borders of this parish. These lakes abound with fish; and the rocks produce marble, granite, limestone, and slate. The living is in the presbytery of Dunblane, and synod of Perth and Stirling; patron, the Duke of Montrose, the proprietor of the parish. Here are, besides the parochial school, two others, founded by the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge. Nothing can exceed the beauty of the landscape and mountain scenery in this neighbourhood, which vie with the grandeur of Loch-Catherine, the Trossachs, and Callender. It is also eminently calculated for the researches of the botanist, from the number of rare plants with which it abounds.

ABERFORD, W. R. co. York.

London 106 m.; Tadcaster 5½ m.

Leeds 11 m. Pop. of Pa. 900. Of To. 570.

Fairs, last Mon. in April and May; first Mon.

in Oct.; Mon. after Oct. 18; and Nov. 1 for cattle, sheep, and pedlary.

A market-town and parish, the former being partly in the parish of Sherburn, and the whole in the wapentakes of Skyrack (lower division) and Barkston Ash, and liberties of St. Peter, York. It is situated upon the Cock, on the great northern road, on the banks of which river was fought the famous battle of Towton, in 1461, so called from a village in the vicinity. The town consists of a long straggling street, in the north of which are the remains of a Norman fortification, called Castle-Carey, and the whole is in the line of the ancient Roman road. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of York, valued in K. B. 6l. 1s. 8d.; church ded. to St. Richard; patronage in Oriel College, Oxford. In 1738, Lady Elizabeth Hastings bequeathed a small endowment for a school, which is now become a national one, on the plan of Dr. Bell. In the days of Camden, it was celebrated for a pin manufactory, which has been long discontinued. This town is curiously situated, as respects township. The west side is in Aberford-cum-Parlington, the east of the same end is Lotherton-cum-Aberford; and the north of the river is Aberford alone.

ABERGAVENNY, co. Monmouth.

London 113 m. Monmouth 14 m. SW.

Fairs, May 11, lean cattle and sheep; first

Monday after Trinity, linen and woollen cloths; Sept. 23, horses, hogs, and flannel.

A market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, supposed to be the Gobanium of Antoninus. It is very finely situated on the conflux of the Gaveny, and the Usk at the foot of the Derry, one of the hills which sustain the towering cone called the sugar-loaf. The town, which is built in a straggling and irregular manner, is pleasantly interspersed with trees, and has a fine bridge of fifteen arches across the Usk. On an eminence, near the southern end of the town, is the ruins of the castle, which is more remarkable for the beauty of the view from its elevated terrace, than from any remnant of its former extent or magnificence. Traces of the ancient wall are also still visible. The church is a large gothic structure, the choir of which remains in its original state, with stalls for a prior and his monks, formed of oak, and rudely carved. Living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff, valued in K. B. at 10l. 0s. 7½d.; church ded. to St. Mary; patron (1829) T. Swinnerton, Esq. There is also a Roman Catholic chapel, and several meeting-houses for dissenters. It is governed by a bailiff, recorder, town-clerk, and twenty-seven common-councillors, chosen from among the principal inhabitants; and the petty sessions for the lower division of the hundred of Abergavenny is held here. It is a place of much resort, being the thoroughfare from the west of Wales to Bath, Bristol, and Gloucestershire. Its principal manufacture is flannel, and its annual fairs for cattle are well attended. There are several iron works in this neighbourhood, the mountainous portion of which abounds in coal and iron.

ABERGELE, co. Denbigh, N. W.

London 218 m. NW; St. Asaph 7 m. W. Pop. 2217.

M. D. Sat. Fairs, April 2; day bef. Holy

Thursday; Aug. 20; Oct. 9, for cattle.

A sea-port, market-town, and parish, in the hundred of Isdulas. It is situated on the Irish sea; and the town being much resorted to for bathing, has, of late years, considerably increased in size and population. The church is ded. to St. Michael; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of St. Asaph; valued in K. B. 12l. 9s. 9½d.; patron, Bishop of St. Asaph. The cattle fairs held here are large, and well attended.

ABERGORLECH, co. Carmarthen, S. W.

P. T. Llandilo-Vawr 203 7 m. N & W.

Pop. with Llandilo-Vawr.

A chapelry to the vicarage of Llandilo-Vawr, hundred of Cathinog, situated on the brook Gorlech, near its confluence with the river Coethi. The living is a curacy in the archdeaconry of Carmarthen, diocese of St. Davids; ann. val. by P. R. 70l.; patron, the vicar of Llandilo-Vawr.

ABERGWILLY, co. Carmarthen, S. W.

London 216 m. P. T. Carmarthen 2 m. E & N.

Pop. 2183. Fairs, Oct. 2d and 27th for cattle, horses, and pedlary.

A town and parish in the hundred of Elvet; the parish including the hamlets of Crag Glas, Fyneu, Glann Tywi, Ifengil, and Ystym-Gwili. It is situated on the rivulet Gwili, near its fall into the Towy, and governed by a portreeve, chosen annually at a court leet, halden for the Bishop of St. David's, as lord of the manor of Fynew. The church, ded. to St. David, was made collegiate in 1247, by Bishop Beck; but in 1541 Henry VIII. annexed to it his new-built college at Brecknock. It is said there were formerly several chapels in this parish, of which that of Llanfihangel-Wehwily remains, and the ruins of another, called Chapel Bach. The living is a dis. vicarage, in the archdeaconry of Carmarthen, diocese of St. David's, valued in K. H. 3l. 6s. 8d., ann. val. by P. R. 108l.; patron, Bishop of St. David's. Here is a free school, endowed for the education of twelve children, and also the palace of the diocesan.

ABERHAFFESP, co. Montgomery, N. W.

P. T. Newtown (174) 4½ m. W b N. Pop. 352.

A parish in the hundred of Newtown, situated near the junction of the rivers Hafesp and Severn. Church ded. to St. Cynog; the living is a dis. rectory, in the archdeaconry and diocese of St. Asaph, valued in K. H. 9l. 6s. 8d.; patron Bishop of St. Asaph.

ABERHALY, co. Montgomery, N. W.

A township in the parish of Tregynon. Pop. returned therewith.

ABERMARLES, co. Carmarthen, S. W.

P. T. Llanoverry (100) m. Pop. with Pa.

A township in the parish of Llanbadarn. This estate belonged to the ancient family of Abermarles, who charged it with five guineas per annum towards teaching poor children to read and write.

ABERLADY, shire of Haddington, S.

P. T. Haddington, (10) 5½ m. NW. Pop. 1033.

A parish and village situated on the Leddie, or Pesser, at its confluence with the Forth; below the village this little river bears the name of Luffness water, which at high tides is navigable for craft of seventy tons burthen. Extending along the shore, there is a tract of sandy ground called Links, abounding with rabbits, and otherwise productive; but the middle is exceedingly poor and sterile. The living is in the presbytery of Haddington, and synod of Lothian and Tweeddale; patron, the Earl of Wemyss, proprietor of the barony. The ancient church was taken down in 1773, and the present edifice, erected upon its site, contains a monument to Lady North and Grey. Gosford, a magnificent seat of the Earl of Wemyss, and Balmerieff, the residence of Lord Elibank, are in this parish.

ABERLYFNI, co. Brecon, S. W.

P. T. Hay (140) 4 m. W b S. Pop. 100.

Formerly a parish, but now a hamlet in the parish of Glasbury, hundred of Talgarth. It is situated on the river Lysni, and contains the ruins of an ancient chapel.

ABERNANT, co. Carmarthen, S. W.

A parish and township in the hundred of Elvet, lying on each side the river Cywyn, including the chapelry of Convilis Elvet. Church ded. to St. Lucin; the living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Carmarthen, diocese of St. David's; valued in K. H. 7l. 13s. 4d.; ann. val. by P. R. 61l. 10s.; patron (1829) W. St. Loe, Esq., and another alternately.

ABERLEMNO, shire of Forfar, S.

P. T. Forfar (34) 3½ m. NW. Pop. 1010.

A parish watered by the river Leunio, which, pursuing an easterly course, crosses the Gathlaw boundary, and discharges itself into the South Esk. The higher grounds are heathy, but the surface in general is flat and fertile, though almost destitute of wood. The quarries produce moor stone, free stone, and slates in abundance. The living, formerly a vicarage with Auld Barr, is in the presbytery of Forfar, synod of Angus and Mearns; patrons, the crown, and Smith of Methven alternately. The church is neat and commodious. In the church-yard stands an ancient obelisk, nine feet high, rudely and elaborately carved; and on the road between Brechin and Forfar are three others of similar construction, said to commemorate victories over the Danes. Here are several tumuli and a pool called Grave Loch, wherein human bones, warlike instruments, &c. have been found. A mile E. from the church are the noble ruins of Melgund Castle, erected by Cardinal Beaton, and near it, "The Mount of Melgund," whereon the ancient barons sat in judgment.

ABERLOUR, shire of Banff, S.

P. T. Morlich (140) 4½ m. W. Pop. 1030.

A parish, situated on the south side of the river Spey, where it receives the turbulent burn of Lour. The soil is fruitful, the river affords fine salmon and trout, and the mountain of Bell-Rinnes abounds with game; the living, formerly a prebend with Skir-Durstan, is in the presbytery of Aberlour, and synod of Moray; patron the Earl of Fife. The church is very ancient. At Kinnermonie are traces of an ancient religious house.

ABERNETHY, shire of Perth, S.

Newburgh (40) 2 m. W b S. Pop. 1701.

Fairs, Feb. 12; 4th Wednesday in May; and 2d Thursday in Nov.

A town and parish situated in the Gledil hills, and extending into Cupar district, shire of Fife. The soil is fertile, beneath the surface of which, at a depth of about six fathoms, runs a stratum of moss, intermixed with trees, varying from one to three feet in thickness. It is watered by many streams, the chief being the rivers Tay and Earn, at the confluence of which stands the town. This very ancient place is said to have been founded in 456, by Nectan I, king of the Picts, whose capital it was, and residence of the metropolitan, till the overthrow of the Pictish monarchy by the Scots, in 518, when Kenneth III. translated the see to St. Andrews, which became the seat of the primacy during episcopacy in Scotland. In 854, the cathedral was made collegiate, and belonged to the Culdees, who founded an university here; but in 1273, it was a priory of canons of the Augustine order, and has lately given place to the present handsome edifice which is built upon its site; the living is in the presbytery of Perth, and synod of Perth and Stirling; patron the Earl of Mansfield. Abernethy is a burgh of barony, formerly possessed by the Earls of Angus, but now by Lord Douglas, who annually receives the feus. It is governed by two bailies and fifteen councillors, under a charter of privileges, granted in 1476, by the Earl of Angus, Lord of Abernethy, and renewed in 1628 by the then Earl. Here is a place of worship for anti-burghers, and a parochial school. Linens and Silesias are manufactured here, and sent in considerable quantities to the Perth market. A boat is constantly employed in ferrying across the Tay to the coast of Gowrie, and many others in fishing, each worked by two men. In the church-yard is a remarkable round tower, similar to another at Brechin, seventy-four feet high, and forty-eight in circumference, the ancient use of which is unknown. East of the town are the remains of a castle, which belonged to the Lords of Abernethy in 1320, and of which Lord Douglas is now the proprietor. Among the hills to the SW. stands Balvaire Castle, the ancient and present property of the Murrays, to whom it gives the title of baron.

ABERNETHY, shrs. of Elgin and Inverness.

P. T. Grantown (135) 5 m. S. Pop. 1903.

A parish, united with Kincardine, watered by the river Spey, the burns Aultmore and Dualg, and by the rapid river Nethy, which at times is flooded, at others filled with ice, so as to be impassable; it rises in the Cairn Gorum mountains, celebrated for the production of a beautiful kind of topas, known as Cairn Gorum-stone. See Cairn Gorum. The climate is good, and the surface mountainous, with a diversity of corn-fields, forests of fir, yielding superior timber and fuel, and hills which afford pasture for sheep and cattle, with free-stone and granite in abundance. The Gaelic language only is used here. The church is a handsome edifice, contiguous to which is a large building, in the form of a parallelogram, called Castle Roy, of which nothing satisfactory is known. The living is in the presbytery of Abernethy, and synod of Moray; patron the Earl of Seafield.

ABERNYTH, shire of Perth S.

P. T. Dundee (10) 10 m. W. Pop. 200.

A small parish, the living of which is in the presbytery of Dundee, and synod of Angus and Mearns; patron the crown. The soil, a great part of which is poor and gravelly, has recently been rendered highly productive by the use of lime, an improved course of agriculture. Here is a church in good condition and a parish school. In this parish there is a remarkable fall of water of ninety feet perpendicular, and also two caverns, and as many druidical circles.

ABER-PERGWN, co. Glamorgan, S. W.
P. T. Neath (198) 92 m. NE.

A chapelry to the vicarage of Cadoxon, in the hundred of Neath, population returned therewith.

ABER-PORTH, co. Cardigan, N. W.

P. T. Cardigan (235) 7 m. NNE. Pop. 221.

A parish in the hundred of Trerddar, pleasantly situated in a cove on Cardigan bay. Numerous small craft belong to this place, and carry on a good trade in limestone, coal, culm, &c. between Liverpool, Milford, and the intermediate ports; many are employed also in the herring fishery, which is in a flourishing state. Church ded. to St. Cynfil. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Cardigan, diocese of St. David's; valued in K. R. 5l. 13s. 9d.; ann. val. by P. R. 7l. 2s. 6d.; patron Bishop of St. David's.

ABER-RHIW, sometimes called Berrie, co. Montgomery, N. W.

P. T. Welsh Pool (160) 5 m. SBW.
Pop. 2334.

A parish and township in the hundred of Newtown, including the additional townships of Alt, Brithdir, Bryncamysir, Cil, Cil Cychwyn, Faenor, Fridd, Garthmill, Llan-Dinier, Llifor, Pen Rhyn, and Trwst Llywelyn. It is situated at the confluence of the river Rhiw with the Severn, near to which stands an ancient stone pillar dedicated to St. Benno, the patron saint of the church. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of St. Asaph; charged in K. R. 13l. 6s. 8d.; patron Bishop of St. Asaph. There is an endowment in land for a free school, and this is one of the joint parishes which maintain the work-house at Forden. The petty sessions for the hundred are held here. Faenor Park, which more than a century ago was alienated from the Devereux family (Viscounts Hereford) is in this parish.

ABER-RUTHVEN, shire of Perth, S.

P. T. Auchtermaler (34) 2 m. NE.
Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of Auchtermaler. Here the river Earn receives a tributary stream called the Ruthven, which abounds in trout, and turns eleven mills in its course.

ABERTARFF, shire of Inverness, S.

P. T. Fort Augustus (131) m. Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of Holeskine, situated near Fort Augustus, at the fall of the river Tarf, into Lochness. It was formerly a vicarage, and now gives name to a presbytery in the synod of Glen-Elg. The warlike clans of the Cummins, Frasers, Kennedys, Macdonalds and Macgregors inhabited this district, which formed part of the ancient possessions of Beaulieu Priory.

ABERYSKIR, co. Brecon, S. W.

P. T. Brecon (171) 2½ m. NW & W.
Pop. 141.

A parish in the hundred of Merthyr, situated on the river Yceyr near its fall into the Usk. Church ded. to St. Cynidr. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's; valued in K. H. 3*l*. 6*s*. 3*d*.; by P. R. 135*l*.; patron (1829) Viscount Ashbrook.

ABERYSTWYTH, co. Cardigan, S. W.

London 304 m. Pop. 3334. M. D. Mon. Sat.
Mail arr. 7 l. dep. 5 a. Pairs, 1st Mon. in May and Nov. chiefly for hiring servants.

A market-town and sea-port in the hundred of Glennar Glynn, and also a township in the parish of Llanbadarn Vawr. It is situated at the confluence of the rivers Ystwith and Rhyddol, where the former falls into the sea in the bay of Cardigan. The erection of the castle, of which some vestiges still exist, is attributed to Edward I. It is seated on a craggy eminence which projects into the sea, west of the town, and commands a magnificent view of the whole line of Welsh coast within Cardigan bay. The streets are steep and uneven, and the houses, being chiefly formed of dark slate, present a very singular appearance. The town-hall is a handsome building. There is only one church, which is a modern erection by subscription: living, a perpetual curacy, valued in diocesan report of 1809, at 14*l*. 2*s*.; patron, the vicar of Llanbadarn Vawr, of which parish it was an ancient chapel. The town was incorporated by Edward I., and is governed by a mayor, recorder, and common council. It is one of the contributory boroughs to Cardigan, in conjunction with which town, Lampeter and Aftar, it sends a member to parliament. For some years past, its celebrity, as a summer retreat and bathing place, has been annually increasing, to which the beauty of the neighbourhood, and the commanding prospects all around, very greatly contribute. The roads to it have also been made excellent, and the usual amusements of plays and assemblies during the season, increase its attractions for summer visitants. A bar at the entrance of the harbour prevents the access of vessels of large burthen; but between two and three hundred of the aggregate burthen of 8000 tons and upwards, belong to this port. The chief occupation of this shipping is to transport the lead and calamine of the mines of Plinlimmon, with oak bark, and the flannel and lousery manufactured in the vicinity. Most of these articles are conveyed to Bristol and Liverpool, whence grain, lime, groceries, and porter, are received in return. There was formerly a herring fishery on the coast, and fishing is still pursued with considerable advantage by the natives of this town. Seven miles S. of Aberystrwith, on the sea-coast, a great extent of 6*sq* land has been recently recovered by drainage; embankments, twelve miles long, been formed; besides two navigable cuts, with a road of three miles, and a stone bridge complete.

ABERYSTWYTH, co. Monmouth.

P. T. Aberegeenny (143) 6 m. SW. & W.
Pop. 4636.

A parochial chapel in the upper division of the hundred of Aberegeenny, subordinate to the rectory of Llanewarth, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff; church ded. to St. Peter; patron, the rector of Llanewarth. The opening of collieries, and erection of forges in this vicinity have produced an extraordinary increase of the male population since the returns of 1811.

Pairs 1 Mon. in Lent; 8 May; 20 June;
8 Aug.; 19 Sep. cattle; Mon. before Old Michaelmas statute; and 11 Dec. horses and cattle. Mem. of P. I.

A market and borough town in the hundred of Horner, called by the Saxons Skenrethesham. It is situated on a branch of the Ista, and received its present name from an abbey originally founded during the Saxon heptarchy. So highly favoured was this monastery, the monks of which were Benedictines, that at its dissolution it was possessed of 10 manors, and its annual revenue amounted to 1876*l*. 10*s*. 9*d*. The town consists of several well paved streets, which terminate in a spacious market-place, celebrated for extensive dealings in corn. Over the market-house, in the centre, is a handsome hall of freestone, where the summer assizes for the county are holden; Reading being the assize town for those of Lent. The principal business carried on is malting, which is much assisted by the navigation of the Thames, which is open to London. The only manufacture of consequence is for that of sail-cloth, canvas, and sacking. Pursuant to a charter of Philip and Mary, the corporation consists of a mayor, two bailiffs, nine aldermen, and sixteen assistants, elected by the inhabitants. The town sends one member to parliament, who is also chosen by all the inhabitants paying scot and lot, without receiving alms or charity. Returning officers, the mayor and bailiffs; number of voters, about 500. Owing to this diffusion of the elective franchise, Abingdon is one of the few boroughs over which no paramount influence is exercised. It is divided into two parishes, in the archdeaconry of Berks, and diocese of Sarum. St. Helen, a dis. vicarage, valued in K. H. at 29*l*. 15*s*. 3*d*.; patron, the king; and St. Nicholas, a dis. rectory, valued in K. H. 7*l*.; ann. val. P. R. 18*l*. 18*s*. 6*d*.; patron, the Lord Chancellor. There is a Free Grammar School, founded in 1562, by John Roysse, citizen and mercer of London, for the education of 63 children of Abingdon, which school has been further benefited by donations, which render the entire revenue 322*l*. 11*s*. 3*d*. It is entitled to the benefit of four exhibitions at Pembroke College, Oxford, and is a flourishing school, although few scholars now remain on the foundation. Here are various almshouses and charitable endowments, the principal of which are that of Christ's Hospital, standing in the place of the ancient brethren of the Holy Cross, which allows 6s. per week each, and clothing once in two years, to thirteen poor men and women; and the hospital of St. John the Baptist, for the maintenance of six poor persons. There is also a charity school. Abingdon gives the title of Earl to the noble family of Bertie.

the barony of Coshma, and partly in the barony of Kenry. This parish constitutes part of the union of Croon, and contains two churches, one of them old and ruinous, the other of modern date ; the living, a vicarage, value in K. B. 5*l*. 5*s*. sterling, is in the diocese of Limerick and province of Cashel. The town is pleasantly seated on the river Maig, navigable for large barges, across which is a substantial bridge of nine arches. The country around affording the most agreeable and romantic scenery, inter-sprinkled with the richest pasturage. On the south side of the town stands an embattled steep, with considerable other remains of a monastery of Trinitarians, founded in the reign of Edward I. by the Earl of Kildare, for the redemption of captive Christians.
On the opposite bank of the river, are the steep and ruins of a Friary of the Augustine order, founded prior to 1315, by another earl, a descendant of the former ; the simple elegance and freshness which pervade this venerable Gothic relic, render it extremely interesting to the architect and antiquary.

ALBANS, St. co. Hertford.

London 21 m. NW.; Hertford 12½ m. W b H. Pop. within liberties, 4,372; within and without, 8050. M. D. Nat. Mem. of Pt. 2. Fairs, 25th and 26th March; 10th and 11th Oct. for horses, cows, sheep, and hiring servants.

A borough and market-town, in the liberties of St. Albans, or hundred of Cuslio. It is situated on the river Ver, or Muses, and consists of three parishes, parts of two of which extend beyond the limits of the borough. It is said to have been the site of the ancient British metropolis of Cassibelanus, and is very near that of the ancient Roman Verulam, mentioned by Tacitus, being the same as the Saxon Watlingceaster, so called, because seated on the road called Watling-street. It was here that Queen Boudicca made her celebrated assault upon the Romans, and failed, after an immense slaughter of 70,000 men. In 795, Offa, king of Mercia, erected an abbey here, in memory of St. Alban, the British proto-martyr, which subsequently obtained great privileges, and became very rich, the revenues, at the dissolution, amounting to upwards of 2500*l.* per ann. In this abbey the town originated, which early obtained considerable importance. It was incorporated under a mayor and burgesses, by a charter granted by Edward VI. A subsequent one given by Charles II. vested the government in a mayor, twelve aldermen, and twenty-four assistant burgesses, with a high steward, recorder, town-clerk, and other officers. This borough possesses a district or liberty, which, both in civil and ecclesiastical matters, exercises a jurisdiction peculiar to itself. It includes the parishes of Barnet, Sandridge, Redburn, Colindale, Sheepshole, Bushey, Elstree, Langley-Abbots, Sarret, Walden-Abbots, Hoxton, Reding, Norton, Rickmansworth, and Watford. It has a good delivery four times a year, on the Thursday after the quarter sessions at Hertford. The town is divided into four wards, with a constable and a churchwarden to preside over each. It has been represented in parliament from the earliest period; the elective franchise is in the mayor, aldermen, and freemen, by birth or servitude, and resident housekeepers paying rent and lot. The paramount influence in the borough was long shared by the Earls of Spencer and Verulam, but of late years the electors have been left very much to themselves. There are three parishes, all of which are in the archdeaconry of St. Alban's and diocese of London; the living of St. Albans, in the abbey church, is a dis. rectory, val. in K. B. 10*l.* patrons, the corporation; that of St. Peter's, a vicarage, ann. val. P. R. 150*l.*; patron, Lord Verulam; and that of St. Michael, a dis. vicarage, charged in K. B. 9*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*; patron, Bishop of Ely. In this church is the tomb of the great Lord Bacon. The abbey church, which claims particular attention for its size, beauty, and antiquity, is constructed of Roman brick, to which age has given the appearance of stone. A stone screen erected before the communion-table in 1161, is much admired for the richness and lightness of its sculpture. The tombs of the founder, Offa, and Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, are shown here, and not many years ago, the leaden coffin, containing the body of the latter was opened, and the corpse found nearly entire. The other edifices in this borough are no way remarkable; the principal are the town-hall and market-house, in the former of which is held the quarter-sessions for the town, the court of requests, and the monthly sessions of the mayor and aldermen. The market is well supplied with wheat. There is a free grammar-school, with other schools for more general education, with several charitable institutions, the principal of which consists of nine almshouses for thirty-six decayed men and women, each of whom receive a pension of 10*l.* per annum, founded by the celebrated Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough. St. Alban has been greatly improved of late years by paving, lighting, and repaving, but the town is much less distinguished for beauty than the vicinity around it. Little remains of the ancient Verulam, but a small part of its wall and some earth works; but the Roman antiquities discovered on the site from time to time have been very numerous. The noble family of Grimston takes the title of earl from Verulam, as does that of Beauchamp the title of duke from St. Albans.

ST. ALBAN'S HEAD, co. Dorset.

A remarkable sea-mark on the coast of Dorsetshire, in the parish of Worth Matravers, in the Blandford division of Roshorw hundred. On the cliff near the head, which is 147 yards high, a chapel is erected on a single pillar and four circular arches. This place is sometimes called St. Aldhelm's Head.

ALBANY, a mountainous district in Scotland, comprising those of Glenorchy, shire of Argyll; Athol and Breckinshaw, shire of Perth; and a part of Tachbar, shire of Inverness. It anciently gave the title of Duke to a prince of the blood royal of Scotland, and latterly to his royal highness the late Duke of York.

A parish and market-town in the Alcester division of the hundred of Barlichway. It is situated at the confluence of the two small rivers, Alne and Arrow, having a bridge over each. It is supposed to have been a Roman station, Roman coins, urns, and similar relics, having been frequently found here.

The Roman way of Ikenild St. also passed through it; and, from its situation, it is deemed the Alana of Richard of Cirencester. It was anciently a borough by prescription, and of some note in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries; when it became the property of the Beauchamps, and afterwards of the Grevilles. The living is a dis. rectory, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Worcester; valued in K. B. at 14*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.*; church, a fine gothic structure, ded. to St. Nicholas; patron, the Marquis of Hertford, who is lord of the manor, and holds his courts in the market-hall. The market is well supplied with corn; and the manufacture of needles is largely carried on here. Here is a free school, founded by Walter Newport, in the reign of Elizabeth; and various almshouses and small charities, originating in different benefactors. Traces of the site of an abbey, founded in the reign of King Stephen, to the north of the town, are still visible.

ALDERNEY, Island of Circum. 8 m. Pop. estimated at about 1100.

Lat. 49° 45' N. Lon. 27° W.

A small island on the coast of Normandy, to which Duchy it once belonged. It is situate about seven miles from Cape La Hague, eighteen miles N.E. of Guernsey, and about thirty miles from the nearest point of the English coast. The town, which is in the centre of the island, contains about 200 houses of the same general description, but inferior to those of Guernsey and Jersey, with a handsome church. There is a small harbour on the southern coast, about two miles from the town, and an ancient fort on the eastern, with a house attached. The air of this island is healthy, and the soil very fruitful in grain, the raising of which forms the principal occupation of the inhabitants. Much of this produce is sent to the English markets, but little is received in direct return, the inhabitants purchasing principally from Guernsey. Alderney is also celebrated for a valuable breed of milch cows. The people are industrious, but a custom, similar to that of gavel-kind, by keeping the land in very small parcels, precludes them from becoming individually rich. Like those of the adjacent islands, they are governed by laws and a magistracy of their own; and their habits, appearance, and manners more resemble those of the natives of France than of England; the French language being also still retained. Like Jersey and Guernsey, this island is ecclesiastically annexed to the see of Winchester. The strait called the Race of Alderney, which separates it from the French coast, is very dangerous in stormy weather, owing to a ledge of rocks termed the Caskets, which produces several eddies, much dreaded by mariners. It was on these rocks that Prince William, son of Henry I. and a great body of nobility in his suite, were cast away and drowned; and in 1744, a similar fate befel the Victory, of 110 guns, which foundered, and the whole of its crew, of 1100 men and their commander Admiral Sir John Balchen, perished.

ALLEN (Bog of) Leinster, I.

An extensive district of moor and bog, occupying portions of the counties of Dublin, Kildare, King's County, Queen's County, and Meath. A great part of it has been brought into cultivation, within the last few years, by drainage; and when so recovered, it is well adapted for pasturage and the production of corn. In 1821, a considerable portion of it floated for the distance of four miles, and destroyed some of the best cultivated land in Queen's County. The grand and royal canals pass through the bog, and by facilitating the carriage of its produce, tend materially to encourage its improvement.

ALLOA, shire of Clackmannan, S.

Edinburgh 31 m. WNW; Stirling 5 m. E.
Pop. 3377. M. D. Wed. Sat. Fairs, 2d Wed.
Feb. May, Aug. and Nov.

A considerable sea-port, market-town, and parish, pleasantly situated on the northern bank of the Forth; the limits of the port extending to the neighbouring creeks of Cambus, Clackmannan, Kennet Pans, Kincardine, and Manor; and on the opposite bank to those of Airth, Dunnore, Fallin, and along the coast of Stirling. The parish includes the villages of Cambus, Tullybody and the colliery. The living, with the parish of Tullybody annexed, is in the presbytery of Stirling, and synod of Perth and Stirling; patron, the Crown. The town was a place of note in the time of Robert I., and the tower of Alloa to the south of it, the walls of which are still standing, was erected in the thirteenth century. This tower, and the lands of Alloa, were exchanged in 1365, by David II. with Lord Erskine, for another estate, since which time it remained the favourite residence of the Erskines of Marr until very lately. Alloa is irregularly built, and the streets, for the most part, are close, narrow, and crooked. It is, however, well paved, cleansed, and lighted. It carries on a considerable trade with the Baltic and Holland, as well as a great deal of coasting trade; and possesses a custom-house. It also exports a great quantity of coals; and has two yards for ship-building, and a dry dock fit for the repair of vessels of 400 tons burthen. Besides some large distilleries and breweries, there are tanneries, brick and tile factories, glass works, and some hundred looms, employed by the manufacturers of Glasgow, and for home consumption. It is governed by a baron-bailie, and the sheriff keeps his court here. The church is a large building, with no pretensions to architectural beauty; and there are several chapels for seceders. Sir Ralph and Sir Robert Abercrombie were both born in this parish.

ALNWICK, co. Northumberland.

London 204 m. N. & W.; Newcastle 31 m. N. & W. Pop. 5027. M. D. Sat. Mail arr. 10.30 a. Mail dep. 8 l. Fairs, Palm Sun. Eve, for shoes, hats, &c.; May 17, horses and horned cattle; last Mon. July, do. and linen and woollen cloth; 1st Tu. in Oct. and Oct. 24, horses and cattle; and Sat. before Christmas-day, for shoes, hats, and woollens.

A market-town and parish on the high road from London to Berwick, usually regarded as the capital of the county. It is situated partly in the southern division of Hamboorough ward, and partly in the eastern division of Copeland ward. It is built irregularly on the declivities of a hill, near the river Alne, over which a handsome stone bridge was built by the late Duke of Northumberland. This town has a spacious market-place, and a considerable town-hall, in which the sessions and county courts are held, and the members of parliament for the county elected. It is paved, watched, and lighted under an act passed in 1821. Although the county town, the assizes are held at Newcastle. The town is governed by a bailiff and four chamberlains, who are chosen every year out of a common council of twenty-four. The bailiff is nominated by the Duke of Northumberland, by virtue of his ancient office of Constable of Alnwick castle. The latter, for many centuries a fortress of great strength, and the family mansion of the Percys, stands on an eminence on the south side of the Alne, opposite to the town, and commands a beautiful view of the country. The walls are flanked with sixteen gothic towers, the battlements of which are ornamented with figures of ancient warriors. It is very celebrated in border history, and peculiarly fatal to the kings of

ALP

Scotland, of whom Malcolm II. and his son Edward fell before it, and William, surnamed the Lion, was taken prisoner. The mansion has lately undergone a complete repair, great attention having been paid to the restoration of the gothic ornaments in their original style. The chapel has been rendered extremely beautiful by the introduction of a ceiling, in imitation of the celebrated one of King's College, Cambridge. There is also a handsome window, on the model of one at York minster, and the walls are painted in the manner of those of the cathedral at Milan. The custom of making freemen at Alnwick, which is very ludicrous, is attributed to a piece of humorous revenge on the part of king John, for having endured considerable personal inconvenience from the mucky state of the roads. Those who are to be made free, assemble in the market-place on St. Mark's day, each man dressed in white, with a white cap, and a sword by his side. From this place they proceed on horseback, headed by the four chamberlains, attired in the same manner, to the Town Moor, where they alight, and all rush through a muddy pool, which ceremony performed, they change their soiled habiliments and return to the town. The living is a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry of Northumberland, and diocese of Durham; certified value 12l.; by P. R. 106l. The church is ded. to St. Mary and St. Michael; patron, the Duke of Northumberland. There is a free-school, supported by a revenue arising out of the tolls, and various minor charities. Here are also several congregations of dissenters.

London 37½ m. SW b W.; Southampton 19 m. NE. Pop. 1219. Market, Thurs.
Fairs, last Thurs. July, & Oct. 17, sheep, &c.
Mail arr. 3.30 f. dep. 11.30 a.

A market-town and parish within the liberty of the same, in the north division of the hundred of Alton; seated on the river Itchin, at no great distance from its source. It was anciently a much more populous place than at present, the navigation of the river having, at one time, extended from Southampton to this place; whereas, at present, it ceases at Winchester. The town is divided into two parishes, of which that of Old Alresford is deemed the mother church. The living of New Alresford is a perpetual curacy, and a peculiar of the Bishop of Winchester (see article, Old Alresford). The town, which formerly sent a member to parliament, is governed by a bailiff and eight burgesses; and the petty sessions are held here. There is a manufacture of linseys of some consequence; but, generally speaking, the trade of this town has much decayed. At Tichburn-hall, about two miles distant, the seat of Sir Henry Tichburn, there has been bestowed annually, on Lady Day, from the reign of Henry II., a gift to every applicant of 2d., in bread or money; of which bounty, in some years, no less than 1700 persons have partaken.

ALVA, shire of Stirling, S.

Stirling (33½) 7 m. NE. P. T. Alloa, 3 m. N. Pop. 1150.

A parish and village, watered by the river Devon, and by many smaller streams from the Ochil hills, over a great portion of which the parish extends, the village being seated in the valley below. The hills are verdant, and feed vast flocks of sheep, at the foot of which a variety of minerals have been discovered, as coal, cobalt, arsenic, iron, copper, lead, and a very valuable vein of silver ore, besides which, large quantities of native malleable silver have been dug up, and a part of it converted into sacramental vessels for the use of the church. This edifice was built and dedicated to St. Servanus in 1631. The living is in the presbytery of Stirling and synod of Perth and Stirling; patron, the proprietor of the barony and of the elegant house and grounds of Alva. Here are several spinning and fulling-mills; blanket and plaid manufactures have been carried on for a long period, and lately have been much extended.

P. T. Banff (163) 2½ m. S. Pop. 1070.

A parish, intersected by the river Deveron, which, after winding through a beautiful valley, suddenly becomes contracted by the two Crags of Alvah, and deepens to eight or nine fathoms. Near these lofty and rugged precipices a magnificent arch has been thrown across the river, so as to connect opposite sides of the park belonging to the Earl of Fife. On the west is the lofty hill of Alvah, which serves as a land-mark to those who approach the coast of Banff; and in this part of the parish bridges have been built over several dangerous ravines. The living is in the presbytery of Turreff, and synod of Aberdeen; patron, the Earl of Fife. The church is very ancient, and ded. to St. Durstan. Near the remains of an old castle, said to have been erected by the Earl of Buchan, are the ruins of a chapel, also a well of ancient repute, now neglected.

B. 5*l.* 16*s.* 5½*d.*; and in P. R. 105*l.*; church ded. to St. James; patron (1829) Rev. W. Edlowes. Here are the ruins of an ancient castle of Norman construction, which appears to have been a fortress of great strength and magnitude. A large increase in the inhabitants of this parish has been produced by the great number of workmen employed by the Earl of Shrewsbury in beautifying the abbey.

ALVIE, shire of Inverness, S.

P. T. Pitmarie (118) 13 m. NE. Pop. 261.

An extensive parish, forming part of the district termed Badenoch, or Bushy, from the copers with which it abounds. It is intersected by the great road from Inverness to Edinburgh, also by the river Spey, which, near the centre of the parish, receives the tributary waters of the Fessie, the principal inhabited parts lying along the banks of those rivers. The village of Alvie is on the margin of a loch, formed by the expansion of the Spey, a few miles below its source, and abounding in the finest trout. The church is much decayed. Here were formerly several chapels, of which not one remains, but the minister occasionally performs divine service in the kirk of Inch for the accommodation of the greater portion of his flock, who reside contiguous thereto. The living is in the presbytery of Abernethy, and synod of Moray; patron the Duke of Gordon. At Raita there is a large artificial cave, and several tumuli on each side the high road. Near Loch-Alvie is the burial place of the Macphersons, and an elegant seat, named Belleville, built by the late James Macpherson, Esq., so celebrated for his contested translation of Ossian.

A hamlet in the parish of Althorp, in the western division of Manley wapentake, parts of Lindsey. It is a chapelry to Althorp, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln.

AMERSHAM, or AGMONDESIAM, co. Bucks.

London 252 m. WNW.; Buckingham 23 m. SE & S. Pop. 2012. M. D. Tu. Mail arr. 6 30 f. Mail dep. 9 30 a. Fairs, Whit Mon. and Sep. 9, for sheep. Meats, Pt. 2.

A borough, market-town, and parish, in the hundred of Burnham. The town, which is seated in a vale, by the river Colne, consists of one long street intersected by a short one, at which point stands the church. The town-hall is a brick building, supported by pillars and arches, with a lantern and clock. This borough sent members to parliament in the reign of Edward I., but neglected the right for nearly 400 years, when it was restored on petition. The elective franchise is in the inhabitants paying scot and lot, but the whole of them being tenants to the lord of the manor, his nomination is implicitly attended to. Returning officer, the constable of the court leet. Much black lace is made here, and the market is well attended. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Bucks and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 48*l.* 16*s.* 1½*d.*; patron (1829) Tyrwhitt Drake, Esq. It is deemed one of the best livings in the county. Here is also a free-school, the scholars of which are entitled to three exhibitions in Corpus Christi college, Oxford, bequeathed in 1620, by Dr. Challoner, a canon of Windsor. There are likewise four almshouses, and other minor charities.

AMESBURY, or AMBRESBURY, co. Wilt.

London 77½ m. WSW.; Salisbury 7½ m. N.
Pop. 310. M. D. Frid. Mail arr. 11 f. Mail
dep. 4 a. Fair, May 17, June 22, Dec. 12, for horses, sheep, and horned cattle.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name. It is situated on the river Avon, and is said to owe its name and origin to an Abbey, founded by the British prince Ambrosius, which abbey was afterwards changed into a convent of Benedictine nuns. Some remains of it are still visible. There is little trade in this town, which is principally supported by travellers and posting; the living is a perpetual curacy and donative, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor; certified value 40*l.*; ann. val. P. R. 100*l.*; church ded. to St. Mary. In this parish, and within two miles of the town, is the celebrated ancient British monument of Stonehenge. Different opinions exist among antiquaries as to the application of this structure; but the majority deem it to have been a Druidical temple, or grand tribunal of justice. The outer circular range seems to have been formed of twenty-four enormous stones, seventeen of which are still standing, and seven on the ground. The inner circle consisted of nineteen stones, eleven of which are still upright, and the remainder prostrate. The inner circle is about eight feet from the outer one, forming a walk between the two of 300 feet in circumference. The height of the stones are from eighteen to twenty feet, their breadth from six to seven feet, and their thickness about three feet. The whole appears to have been originally surrounded with a trench, across which there were three passages. Round it are numerous barrows and tumuli, in which skeletons and military weapons have been found. The appearance of the entire is singularly striking, and conjecture has been at a loss to account for the means by which such vast bodies could be conveyed here, and placed without machinery in so elevated a position. A society of nuns, of the order of St. Augustine, from Flanders, have taken up their abode at a house which occupies a part of the site of the ancient nunnery, possibly attracted by a notion of the sanctity of the place. Near the town is the once celebrated seat of the Dukes of Queensbury, built by Inigo Jones, and subsequently improved by the Earl of Burlington. Clay for tobacco-pipes abounds in this neighbourhood, and the river Avon produces fish, which are much admired, called knack. Traces of a Roman camp are also still visible in the vicinity. Amesbury gave birth to the celebrated Addison.

AMLWCH, co. Anglesey, N. W.

London 201 m. NW.; Birmingham 20 m. NW.
Pop. 3292. Fair, Nov. 12, cattle.

A sea-port town in the parish of the same name, in the hundred of Twerelyn. It is situated on the north coast of the island of Anglesey; and from a small village, by the discovery of the rich mine of copper in the Parys mountain, has been augmented into a town of considerable size. The aspect of this celebrated mountain is very rude, and the suffocating fumes which issue from it render it bare of vegetation. It is supposed that the Romans obtained copper ore from this place, as some vestiges of what are supposed to have been their operations are still traceable. The discovery of the great riches of the site was not however made until March 2, 1768, by the leasees of Sir Nicholas Bayley, afterwards Earl of Uxbridge. The Rev. Edward Hughes, proprietor of another part of the same ridge, was soon after equally successful. The substance of the mountain being ore, it has not been worked like other mines, by shafts and levels, but by direct excavation; but either the plenty has comparatively failed, or it has been deemed prudent to bring the metal to market less freely, the works not being near so flourishing as heretofore; only 1500 hands are now employed. Lead and zinc ore are also found in the Parys mountains, the former of which produces no inconsiderable quantity of silver. Unfortunately the want of coal at hand renders the smelting process very expensive, and much ore is shipped off to Liverpool and Swansea. The port of Amlwch is formed by a chasm between two rocks, very small, but capable of receiving vessels of 200 tons burthen; it is, however, dangerous of access during high northern winds. The town is chiefly inhabited by miners. The parish of Amlwch is about seven miles in extent; living a perpetual curacy (with Llanwenllyso chapelry annexed) in the archdeaconry of Anglesey, and diocese of Bangor; certified val. 20*l.* 12*s.*, ann. val. P. R. 200*l.*; patron, the Bishop, to whom see the great tithes belong. The present church, which is dedicated to St. Elbeth, is a modern building, erected at the expense of the Parys Mine Company, and consecrated in 1801. A number of small islets appear off the port, which are little more than the summits of ledges of rocks, one of which, termed the easternmost Mouse, forms a good direction to the harbour, until close to the shore.

AMPTHILL, co. Bedford.

London 15½ m. NW.; Bedford 8 m. S b W.

Pop. 1527. M. D. Thurs. Fairs, May 4, and Nov. 30 for cattle. Mail arr. 6 f. Mail dep. 8. 30 a.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Redbornstoke, pleasantly situated between two hills in the centre of the county. The principal streets, which cross each other at right angles, are neat and regular, and there is a handsome market-house of modern erection. Here is an obelisk of Portland stone, forming a receptacle for a pump; as also a Gothic cross, erected in 1774, in memory of Catherine of Arragon, by the Earl of Upper Ossory, then proprietor of Ampthill Park, once the residence of that ill-treated queen. The employment of the greater part of the inhabitants is connected with agriculture; but a portion of them are concerned with trade, and the town also contains an extensive brewery. The living is a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry of Bedford and diocese of Lincoln, charged in K. B. 10*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; church ded. to St. Andrew; patron (1829) Lord Holland. Here is a school for the education of thirteen children, and almshouses founded by Mr. Cross, once principal of New College, Oxford, for ten poor men and women, who also receive an annual allowance. Ampthill Park to the west of this town, now the seat of Lord Holland, was constituted a royal domain by Henry VIII., who named the annexed estates the "Honour of Ampthill." The old castle in which Queen Catherine resided, stood on higher ground than the present mansion, which is a superb edifice, with wings, and a flight of steps leading into a handsome hall. The park, to which that of Houghton is now united, is spacious, and supplies some very pleasing prospects. At the entrance from Ampthill a pear-tree is shewn, under which Sir Philip Sidney is reported to have written a part of his Arcadia.

AMPTON, co. Suffolk.

P. T. Bury (71) 5½ m. N b E. Pop. 117.

A parish in the hundred of Thedwestry; living, a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry of Sudbury and diocese of Norwich; value in K. B. 5*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 121*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*; church ded. to St. Peter; patron (1829) Lord Calthorpe, the proprietor of Ampton Hall, a fine seat in the parish. The village contains almshouses for unmarried women, erected and endowed by a female member of the Calthorpe family.

AMROTH, co. Pembroke, S. W.

P. T. Narberth (255) 4½ m. E. Pop. 684.

A parish in the hundred of Narberth; church ded. to St. Elidyr. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's; valued in K. B. 3*l.* 18*s.* 6½*d.*; by P. R. 81*l.* 3*s.*; patron (1829) Mrs. Ann Cullen.

AMULRIE, shire of Perth, S.

P. T. Crieff (56) 11 m. N. Pop. with Dull. Fair, first Wed. in May.

A small village and district belonging to the parish of Dull, situated twelve miles therefrom, and watered by the river Bran. It is intersected by the great military road from Stirling to Inverness, and is noted for the great fair holden annually as above noted.

AMWELL GREAT, co. Hertford.

P. T. Ware (20) 1½ m. SE b S. Pop. 1116.

A parish in the hundred of Hertford, the name of which is supposed to be derived from Emma's Well, a fountain of pure water, which issues from a hill, and forms one of the sources of the New River. The church is erected on the same eminence, the picturesque beauty of which has been celebrated by the pleasing poet, usually called Scott of Amwell, both from his residence in this village, and the name which he gave to his poem. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Bedford, and diocese of London; value in K. B. 6*l.*; ann. val. P. R. 138*l.*; church ded. to St. John the Baptist; patron (1829) R. C. Elwes, Esq. In a small islet formed by the

New River, is a monument erected by Mr. Mylne, the architect, to the memory of the ill-requited Sir Hugh Middleton, who, although assisted both by Parliament and the city of London, impoverished himself by affording the metropolis the admirable supply of water, which serves the wants of the inhabitants of upwards of 40,000 houses. In the church lies interred the poet Warner, author of "Albion's England."

AMWELL, LITTLE, co. Herts.

P. T. Ware (204) 1½ m. S.E. & S. Pop. 236.

A chapelry to the parish of All Saints, in the town and hundred of Hertford.

ANAMILT, co. Down, Ulster, I.

P. T. Rathborough (30) 2½ m. S.E. Pop. 2520.

A parish, partly in the barony of lower Iveagh, and partly in the barony of Kincelarty. The living is a rectory, in the diocese of Down and archdiocese of Armagh. About 270 children receive education here, including a charity-school, endowed with 1000*l.* by the late Thomas Jameson, and the Sunday school. The church was built at the sole expense of the Marquis of Downshire.

ANAMULT, co. Kilkenny, Limerick, I.

P. T. Gowran, (60) 9 m. S.W.

Pop. included with Danesfort.

A parish in the barony of Shillelogher, situated on the river Nore. The living is a rectory and constituent part of the union of Kells, in the diocese of Ossory and archdiocese of Dublin.

ANBALLY, co. Galway, Connaught, I.

P. T. Tuam (116) 7 m. S. Pop. 143.

A village in the parish of Kilmoylan, barony of Clare.

ANCASTER, co. Lincoln.

P. T. Grantham (116) 6½ m. N.E. Pop. 420.

A parish in Loveden wapentake, parts of Kesteven; living, a dis. vicarage, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln; value in K. B. 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 128*l.*; church ded. to St. Martin; patron (1829) Rev. J. Jowett. Many antiquaries regard Ancaster as the Camennæ of Antoninus. Here may be traced many vestiges of a Roman station, and a great number of coins have been dug up at different times, so that at one time the inhabitants became a kind of dealers in them. Ancaster once gave the title of Duke to the head of the Bertie family, but the dukedom is now extinct.

ANCROFT, co. Pal. of Durham.

P. T. Berwick (227) 6 m. N. Pop. 1370.

A parochial chapelry in the hundred of Islandshire; living, a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry and diocese of Durham, in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter.

ANCRUM, shire of Roxburgh, S.

P. T. Jedburgh (45) 2½ m. W.S.W. Pop. 1204.

A village and parish in the district of Jedburgh, intersected by the river Ale, which falls into the Forth above Ancrum bridge, on the Jedburgh road. This river abounds with delicious trout, is crossed by two bridges, and at the village, which is seated on its southern bank, assumes an elliptic form highly picturesque. The soil is rich, well cultivated, and productive; and several quarries of excellent free-stone are wrought here. The living, formerly a rectory, with Long Newton annexed, is in the presbytery of Jedburgh and synod of Merse and Teviotdale; patron, Sir John Scott; church in good order. This parish contains the most commodious country school-house in the presbytery. The Roman road from York to the Firth of Forth traverses within the northern boundary, and on a rising ground to the eastward are traces of a Roman camp. A little below the village, on the margin of the Ale are the venerable remains of a building termed Malton walls, said to have belonged to the ancient Knights of Malta, near which human bones are frequently disturbed by the plough. In the vicinity of Ancrum House there are several remarkable caves, having apertures to the outside of the bank close to the river, for the escape of smoke. Ancrum gives title of Earl to the Marquis of Lothian.

ANDERBY, co. Lincoln.

P. T. Alford (141) 6 m. E. & N. Pop. 220.

A parish in the Marsh division of the hundred of Calceworth, parts of Lindsey; living, a dis. rectory united with Cumberworth, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln; value in K. B. 13*l.* 2*s.* 10½*d.*; church ded. to St. Andrew; patron, Magdalen College, Cambridge.

ANDERSON, or ANDERSTONE, co. Dorset.

P. T. Blandford Forum (103) 6½ m. S. & E. Pop. 70.

A parish in the hundred of Coomba Ditch, Blandford division; living, a dis. rectory, a peculiar of the Dean of Salisbury; value in K. B. 6*l.* 19*s.* 1*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 140*l.*; church ded. to St. Michael; patron (1829) L. D. G. Tregonwell, Esq.

ANDERSTON, shire of Lanark, S.

P. T. Glasgow (12) 1 m. W. Pop. with Glasg.

A village in the parish of Barony, containing a chapel of ease in the presbytery of Glasgow, and synod of Glasgow and Ayr. This is a populous place and forms part of the suburbs of the city of Glasgow.

ANDERTON, co. Pal. of Chester.

P. T. Northwich (172) 2 m. N.W. Pop. 210.

A township in the parish of Great Budworth, in the hundred of Bucklow, situate near the river Weaver and the Grand Trunk Canal.

ANDERTON, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

P. T. Wigan (206) 2 m. N. Pop. 422.

A township in the parish of Standish and hundred of Leyland.

ANDOVER, co. Southampton.

London 63 m. W.S.W.; Southampton 22 m. N. & W. Pop. of Pa. 3419. Of To. 4123. M. D. Sat. Mail arr. 4 f. dep. 10 a. Mem. of Pt. 2. Pairs, Fri and Sat aft Mid Lent, cheese, horses, and leather; May 13, leather; Nov. 13, sheep, horses, leather, and cheese.

A borough, market-town, and parish in the hundred of the same name, situated on the river, Anton, near the borders of the Downs. It is supposed to have been the Andarcon of the Romans, an opinion which is countenanced by the remains of several ancient encampments in the vicinity, and by the Roman road from Winchester to Cirencester which passes through the town. The corporation claims an antiquity as remote as the reign of John, but the charter under which it now exists was granted by Queen Elizabeth. It consists of twelve capital and twelve assistant burgesses, from the former of whom a bailiff and two other magistrates are elected annually. There are also a recorder, town clerk, and other officers. Formerly the elective franchise was possessed by the inhabitants at large, but in 1689 it was confined by a vote of Parliament to the corporation only, which is chiefly under the influence of the representatives of the Earl of Portsmouth. The town is large, and two of the streets are wide and handsome. There is also a spacious modern town-hall, supported by arches, under which is held the weekly market. The church, which stands at the north of the town, is a large Gothic building, consisting of a nave, side aisles, and chancel, with a transept on the north, and a low tower rising from the centre. It existed in the time of the Conqueror, and is dedicated to St. Mary; living, a vicarage, with the chapelry of Foxcote annexed, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; charged in K. B. 17*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.* The patronage is possessed by Winchester College. The principal charitable institutions are an hospital for six poor men, founded by John Potten, Esq. in the reign of William III.; a free-school, founded by John Hanson, Esq. in 1569, and a charity school for thirty boys. A considerable trade is carried on here in malt, leather, and the manufacture of shalloon; and the town being a great thoroughfare is much benefited by posting and the passage of travellers. The great annual fair of Weyhill (which article see) is also held within four miles of it, and as it lasts for fourteen days, it causes much money to be spent in Andover. In addition to the several small Roman encampments in the immediate vicinity, there is a very large one on the summit of Bury-hill, two miles to the SSW.

ANDREAS, Isle of Mann.

P. T. Ramsay, 3 m. NW. Pop. 2220.

A parish which formerly contained the most ancient church on the island, it has been demolished, and another built on its site. The living is a rectory and an archdeaconry in the diocese of Sodor and Mann. Here is a spacious encampment, said to have originated during the civil wars between Charles I. and the Parliament.

ANDREWS, ST. co. Down, Ulster, I.

P. T. Kirkcubbin (123). Pop. 7317.

A parish in the barony of Ards, situated upon Strangford Lough, and including the town of Kirkcubbin, also the town and parish of Ballyhalbert, the parish and village of Ballywalter, and the parish of Innishargry; all which are united by act of parliament to the vicarage of St. Andrews, and constitute the corps of the Prebend thereof. It is valued in K. B. at 26*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.* sterl., and is in the diocese of Down, and province of Armagh. The church stands near the centre of the union, and is in good repair. More than 450 children receive education here. The Abbey of St. Andrew de Stokes, or Black Abbey, a priory for Benedictine monks, was founded here by the celebrated John de Courcy, who made it a cell to the abbey of Lonky, in Normandy. At the general suppression, its possession was seized by the O'Neils, on whose rebellion they became vested in the crown, and, in 1639, were annexed to the see of Armagh.

ANDREWS, ST. LLAN BRIDE, shire of Elgin, S.

P. T. Elgin (167) 12 m. E. Pop. 934.

A parish, to which the ancient parish of Llan Bride was annexed prior to the Reformation. The surface is plain and fertile, with here and there a hillock covered with verdure or plantations. The living of Moray is in the presbytery of Elgin and synod of Moray; patron, the Crown. Here is a chalybeate spring of ancient celebrity, though not much resorted to at present.

ANDREWS, ST., shire of Fife, S.

Edinburgh 20 m. N & E.; Cupar, 9 m. E. Pop. 4969. Fairs, 2d Thurs. in April (O. S.) 22d May (O. S.) 1st Tues. July (O. S.) 1st Aug. (O. S.) and 30th Nov. (O. S.) Memb. of Pt. (with other burghs) 1.

A royal burgh and parish in the district of the same name, the former anciently the seat of the metropolitan of Scotland, and still of an university. The parish, which is about ten miles in length, and three broad, is for the most part fertile, and in a high state of cultivation; it rears many cattle and a few sheep. The burgh is pleasantly situated on a ridge of rocks projecting into the sea, at the bottom of the bay which bears the same name, and viewed in the favourable direction, it has the appearance of great elevation and grandeur. It consists of three principal streets and a few lanes. In the former are many elegant houses, but they are so interspersed with others in a state of ruin and decay, they do not appear to correspond to advantage. The recent erection of a new square and other buildings will probably lead the way to still greater improvements. St. Andrews was erected into a royal burgh by David I., and its privileges were confirmed by Malcolm II., in a brief charter, which is still in the possession of the corporation. The latter consists of a provost, four bailies, a dean of guild, a treasurer, fourteen guild councillors, a deacon-convenor, and the deacons of seven incorporated trades. It sends a member to Parliament in conjunction with the burghs of Cupar, Dundee, Perth, and Forfar, and the number of voters is five. This burgh has been the scene of many memorable transactions in the civil as well as the ecclesiastical history of Scotland. In 1298 a parliament was held here by Edward I., and in 1309, by King Robert Bruce. It is asserted that it was a bishop's see as early as the sixth century, but it was not until 1141 that it was rendered archiepiscopal by Sixtus IV., at the request of James III. The revenues of this see in 1561 have been estimated at 10,000*l.* of our present money, and an Augustine monastery founded in 1120, by Bishop Robert, was still richer. The Dominicans, Observantines, and other religious orders, also possessed flourishing establishments in this burgh, all of which, together with the magnificent cathedral, founded in 1159, by Bishop Arnold, were destroyed by the reformers, irritated by the merciless persecutions of Cardinal Beaton, and excited by the energetic enthusiasm of John Knox. The ruins of antiquity from these causes are peculiarly striking, and give an exalted notion of the former magnificence of the place. The existing parish church is said to have been erected in 1112, but it was almost rebuilt in 1797. The exterior has no pretensions to architectural elegance; but it is conveniently fitted up within, and in the south aisle is a magnificent monument to the memory of Archbishop Sharpe, assassinated in 1679. The living, which is in the presbytery and synod of Fife, consists of two charges; the appointment of one rests with the Crown, the other is nominated by the corporation. The university of St. Andrews was founded by Bishop Wardlaw in 1411. It formerly consisted of three colleges; that of St. Salvador, which was founded in 1455, by Bishop Kennedy; that of St. Leonard's, founded by Prior Hepburn in 1512; and St. Mary's, which originated with the two Beaton, but did not commence lectures until 1567. The college of St. Leonard was pulled down in 1717, and the site built over; the establishment being united to that of St. Salvador. In the chapel of St. Salvador, which is used as a parish church to St. Leonard's, is a much admired tomb of the celebrated Bishop Kennedy. The college of St. Salvador and St. Leonard, now called the United College, is governed by a principal, and professors of Latin, Greek, logic, moral philosophy, mathematics, history, and medicine. There are sixteen foundation bursaries, twenty-three bursaries in the gift of individuals, and the patronage of eight parish churches. St. Mary's College has a principal, and professors of divinity, church history, and oriental languages; with eight foundation bursaries, and eight in the gift of individuals. Adjoining to, and on the east of, St. Mary's College, is the university library, which contains upwards of 20,000 volumes. The university is governed by a Chancellor, elected by the principals and professors of the two colleges. St. Andrew's had once an extensive foreign trade, as well as in the herring and white fisheries; but at present very few vessels belong to it, owing to the narrowness and defects of the harbour. Its manufactures, which are inconsiderable, consist principally of Osnaburghs, canvas, and linen; no small number of the inhabitants are also employed in the construction of golf balls. The chief remnant of antiquity, besides the ruins of the cathedral and monasteries, is the castle, to the north of the town, founded in 1200. It appears from its remains to have been a quadrangular building, surrounded in the east and north by the sea, which has washed part of it away. It has been rendered famous by several events in Scottish history, and contains a dungeon, cut out of the solid rock, used as a prison, and often as a grave for the victims of ecclesiastical tyranny. The assassination of the great persecutor, Cardinal Beaton, in this castle, and the ignominious precipitation of his remains into the above-mentioned dungeon, supply one of the most remarkable instances of sudden and awful retribution in modern history.

AND

AND

ANDREW, ST. co. Glamorgan, S. W.

P. T. Cardiff (163) 5 m. S.W. Pop. 526.

A parish in the hundred of Dinas Powis. The name of the village, which is situated near the mouth of the Severn, is also Dinas Powis. ANDREWS, ST., shire of Orkney and Shetland.

P. T. Kirkwall (327) m. Pop. 837.

A parish in the island of Mainland, joined to the peninsula of Dear-Ness, by a narrow isthmus a mile long, and having a good harbour named Ingness Bay. The inhabitants are chiefly employed in the fisheries, agriculture being neglected by reason of the boggy nature of the soil and bleakness of the hills, which are covered with heath, and afford shelter to various kinds of game. The living is in the presbytery of Kirkwall and synod of Orkney; patron, Lord Dundas. A new church has been recently built here, under the authority of the commissioners for building churches in the Highlands of Scotland; to facilitate the communication with Kirkwall, a stone bridge of two arches was some years since erected over a dangerous rivulet in this parish.

Dioc. of Bangor. Prov. of Canterbury.

This island, which forms one of the six counties of North Wales, is situated at the north western extremity of the principality. It is washed on three sides by the Irish sea, and separated from Carnarvonshire on the east by the narrow serpentine strait of Menai, from three quarters to half a mile broad. Its form is irregular, being indented with numerous small bays and creeks, which gave it some maritime importance under its native princes. It received various appellations from the ancient Britons, the most prevalent of which was Mon, signifying remote, Latinised by the Romans into Mona, and changed by the Saxons into Angles-ey, or the Englishman's Island. It formed the principal establishment of the Druids in Britain, until invaded A. D. 59, by the Romans, under Suetonius Paulinus, who caused their groves to be cut down, and stationed a garrison to ensure obedience. A general revolt of the province ensuing, the entire subjection of the island was not effected until a few years afterwards. It then surrendered to Julius Agricola, who, opposed by the influence of the Druids, and shocked at their sanguinary rites and human sacrifices, partly from policy, and partly from humanity, extirpated the order. On the retirement of the Romans, in the fifth century, the British princes recovered their ascendancy, and although sometimes temporarily mastered by the Saxons, Danes, Irish, and Normans, the island always reverted to native sway, and was even regarded as the seat of the sovereignty of North Wales, until the final extinction of Welsh independence, by Edward I. The ancient division of the island was into three cantreds, which, on the junction with England were subdivided into the modern comots or hundreds of Llyfson, Maltreath, Menai, Talybolion, Twerclyn, and Tyndæthway. The only borough town is Beaumaris, a seaport, which sends one member to Parliament, in addition to one for the county. The remaining market-towns are Llangefni, Newborough, Llanerchymedd, Holyhead, a sea-port, and latterly Amlwch, also a small sea-port, which from its vicinity to the Parva copper-mines, has risen during the last forty years into considerable importance. Besides the ports already enumerated, there are various small bays and harbours on the coast, the chief of which are Dulas bay, Red Wharf bay, Camlyn bay, Abersraw, near which stood one of the three royal residences of Wales, and Maltreath. The climate of Anglesey is mild, and the sea-breezes render the weather more temperate than in the other counties of North Wales; although, from the same cause, the weather is less clear. It is watered by twelve small rivers, the principal of which are the Cefni, the Alau, the Fraw, and the Dulas. That part of the island, which borders on the Menai, the site of the terrific Druidical groves, is still finely wooded. The interior, on the contrary, owing to the great scarcity of fuel, has been rendered nearly devoid of wood; and the greater part of the island possessing little of hill or dale beyond a gentle and undiversified undulation of surface, its general aspect is uninviting and cheerless. The land is, nevertheless, good, and, under proper management, highly productive, as respects both tillage and pasturage, which have latterly much improved. The soil is of three sorts; a sandy loam, a stiff reddish earth, approaching to clay; and a black soil, productive of good turf, the chief fuel of the labouring classes. The manure consists chiefly of lime and sea-sand; the principal products are corn and black cattle, and of the former mostly barley and oats, great quantities of which are shipped for Liverpool. About 25,000 head of black cattle (exclusive of sheep and hogs) are annually supplied to the English markets, where they are much admired for their flavour and tenderness, produced by the short bite of the pasture on which they feed. Before the erection of the suspension bridge, the passage of the extensive droves of cattle at the five authorised ferries of the Menai, was a very extraordinary sight; being made to swim over, guided by the drivers in boats. Butter, cheese, hides, tallow, wax, and honey, also form great articles of trade here; but of manufactures, strictly speaking, there are few of any importance; the linen and woollen cloths made in the island, being chiefly for domestic consumption. Next to agriculture, and the rearing of cattle, mining affords most employment to the labouring population. The discovery of the rich veins of copper and lead in the Parys mountain (see article Anglesey) at one time supplied occupation to 1500 families, and was followed by an increase of wealth and prosperity throughout the island. The peninsula on which Holyhead is seated, being the nearest point of land to Dublin, has caused that place to be the general resort of travellers to the Irish capital. On this account, in 1810, the government, anxious to facilitate the intercourse between the capitals of England and Ireland, subjected the whole line of road from London to Holyhead to the consideration of a parliamentary committee. The result was the erection of the magnificent suspension bridge across the Menai, at Bangor Ferry (see art. Menai), and the formation of an entirely new line of road thence to Holyhead. Both these alterations, but especially the substitution of the bridge for the ferry, the passage of which was not unfrequently very dangerous, have not only advanced the object for which they were undertaken, but proved eminently beneficial to the landed interest of Anglesey. The sea-passage from Holyhead to Dublin is about sixty miles, which is now traversed by steam packets daily in about six hours (see art. Holyhead). In addition to the various sources of occupation already mentioned, a great number of persons are employed in catching fish and wild fowl round the coast. The former include herring, cod, turbot, whiting, plaice, salmon, lobsters, crabs, oysters, and almost every species of shell-fish in great abundance. The latter comprise almost all kinds of aquatic and migratory birds which are compatible with the climate and latitude. In speaking of the natural productions of Anglesey, its mineral treasures claim leading attention. Besides the celebrated mines of copper, and veins of lead, the Parys mountain produces silver, galena, calamine, sulphur, zinc, alum, and native vitriol of lead. Other parts supply red and green serpentine—the verde antico of the mineralogists, red and blue ochres, green magnesian slate, green amianthus, or brittle asbestos, and coal; although the last very scantily, which adds greatly to the expense of mining, and renders fuel very dear. A great number of plants, deemed rare by the botanist, are found in various parts of the island, many of which will be noticed in the account of the parishes in which they have been found. The shore also abounds in some of the most highly prized marine productions; and is especially celebrated for the variety and beauty of its sea-shells. Anglesey is as interesting to the antiquary as to the natural philosopher; the ancient British vestiges in particular are very numerous, including no less than twenty-eight cromlechs, or Druidical altars, together with circles, monumental stones, entrenchments, and other remains of a similar description, both British and Roman, which will exact attention in their proper places. Several of the parish churches, of which the whole seventy-four stand near the coast, with various monastic remains, also deserve examination on the score of antiquity. Of modern works of note, the suspension bridge across the Menai may vie with the most remarkable in the British dominions. Plas-nenydd, a fine seat belonging to the Marquis of Anglesey, Haron Hill, the seat of the late Lord Bulkeley, with other villas on the shore of the Menai, are also well worthy inspection. The magnificent prospect from the same vicinity of the alpine chain of Carnarvonshire mountains is very fine, extending from the bold and craggy Penmon Mawr on the north, to Traethmawr on the south, which line gradually advances until the eye of the beholder rests on the summit of Snowdon; and as gradually declines until terminated by the three lofty hills called the Rivals. There are several small islands on the coast of Anglesey, but they are altogether unimportant, except Pristholme on the east, and Skerries on the north points of the island, on the last of which stands a light-house. Both these islets are celebrated for the immense concourse of sea-fowls, especially the puffin, which has obtained for Pristholme the name of Puffin Island. Anglesey gives the title of Marquis to the representative of the Paget family; the honourable reward of the first and present Marquis, for his gallant bearing in the command of the cavalry at the battle of Waterloo.

ANGLEZARKE, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

P. T. Bolton (107) 2 m. Pop. 913.

ANNAGHDOWN, co. Galway, Connaught, I.

P. T. Galway (183) 7½ m. N. Pop. 2072.

A parish in the barony of Clare, including several villages, the principal of which are Aughelogan and Shankill. The living is a vicarage, val. in K. B. 11. 15s. sterling, forming part of the union of Killoscobe, in the archdiocese of Tuam, and is holden with the deanery, which is val. in K. B. at 61. sterling. About 100 children in the whole, receive education here. An abbey was founded here prior to the seventh century, of which St. Meldan was then abbot. St. Brendan subsequently founded a nunnery, the steeple of which was erected in 1238. Another abbey stood here for white canons of the Premonstransian order, and a Franciscan friary; subordinate to which were the monasteries of Connaught and Ulster; also the college of St. Brendan, for the support of four priests.

ANNAGHIDUFF, co. Leitrim, Connaught, I.

P. T. Carrick on Shannon (77) 3 m. SE.

Pop. 3702.

A parish, partly in the barony of Leitrim, including the town of Drumma, and partly in the barony of Mohill, including the village of Drumod. It is situated on the river Shannon. The living is a rectory and vicarage in the diocese of Ardagh and archdiocese of Armagh. The church was anciently an abbey founded in 766. The number of children receiving education is 170, the Hibernian Society schools at Drumma and Drumod inclusive.

ANNALONG, or HANALONG, co. Down, Ulster, I.

P. T. Kilkeel (81) 3 m. NE.

A village and small sea-port in the parish of Kileue, barony of Mourne, situated at the fall of a river of the same name into the Irish sea. Here is a tolerable shelter for boats under twenty tons burden.

ANNAN, shire of Dumfries, S.

Edinburgh 70 m. S. Pop. 4100.

A royal burgh, sea-port, market-town and parish, situated on the river Annan, over which here is a bridge of five arches, near its conflux with the Solway Firth, and two ferries across the Firth to the opposite coast of Cumberland. It has a fine natural harbour, with depth enough for ships of 300 tons to anchor within half a mile of the town, and for smaller craft to approach the commodious quay recently built near the bridge. This port is under the jurisdiction of the Customs at Dumfries, and its commerce, chiefly confined to coasting, employs about 800 men of shipping. The soil of this parish, well cultivated, and yields an early harvest; the roads are excellent, the quarries abound with free-stone, lime-stone, and granite, and the moor produces peat, which, with coal, is commonly used for fuel. The ring is in the presbytery of Annan and diocese of Dumfries; patron the Earl of Argyll. Annan is a well-built town, containing several spacious streets of modern date, a church newly erected and surmounted by an elegant spire, a town-house with a spire, and markets contiguous. It is one of the most ancient burghs in Scotland, being governed, under charter of King Robert Bruce, by a provost, two bailies, a treasurer, a dean of guild, and nine councillors, and in connexion with Dumfries, Kirkcubright, Lochmaben, and Sanquhar sends one member to parliament. Many of the inhabitants are employed in carding and spinning cotton. The stately castle built by the Bruce's was demolished at the accession of James VI. to the English crown, some traces of which are still remaining. During the border warfare Annan and its vicinity was the scene of many conflicts between the contending parties.

ANNAN, a river of Scotland, rising on the border of Tweeddale, and running a course of thirty miles falls into Solway Firth below the town of Annan. It affords salmon and other fish in great plenty.

ANNANDALE, shire of Dumfries, S.

A fertile valley intersected by the river Annan. It is twenty-five miles long by fourteen broad, the lower part containing several traces of Roman occupation. A few years since a new village sprung up, upon the estate of General Dixon, which is now in a prosperous state. Annandale gave the title of Marquis to the Johnstones, which at present is dormant.

ANNAT, shire of Perth, S.

A decayed village in the parish of Killmaddock, in which a chapel of ease formerly stood. It is demolished, but on Kirkhill are traces of the burial-ground. Annat House stands on the bank of a beautiful rivulet of the same name, remarkable for its cascades.

ANNATRIM, Queen's co. Leinster, I.

P. T. Monrath (80) 2½ m. SW. Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of Offerlane, barony of Upper Ossory, situated upon the river Nore. An abbey was founded here in 550. It is now used as the parish church.

ANNESLEY, co. Nottingham.

P. T. Mansfield (128) 2½ m. NW.

Pop. of Pa. 307. Of To. 328.

A parish, including the township of Felly, in the north division of the hundred of Broxtow, situated on the borders of Sherwood forest. The living is a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry of Nottingham and diocese of York; certified value 201.; ann. val. P. R. 301.; church ded. to All Saints; patrons Mr. and Mrs. Musters. This manor gave name to the family of Annesley sometime earls of Anglesey, who possessed it at the time of the conquest, and from whom the present proprietor is descended.

ANNEY, one of the Scilly islands. It is at present uninhabited, owing to the encroachments of the sea; the traces of ancient houses being visible at low water. Several stone basins, used by the Druids in their ceremonies, are also found in various parts of the islet, which is principally composed of rock, with a little pasture land between the ridges.

ANSLEY, co. Warwick.

P. T. Nuneaton (100) 5 m. W b N. Pop. 729.

A parish in the hundred of Henlingsford; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Coventry, and diocese of Litchfield and Coventry, value in K. B. 6*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; by P. R. 127*l.* 18*s.*; church ded. to St. Laurence; patron, Francis Newdigate, Esq. A fine park is attached to Ansley Hall, the manorial seat, and the church, which exhibits some remains in the early Norman style, has at the west end a remarkably handsome tower.

ANSLOW, or ANNESLEY, co. Stafford.

P. T. Burton-on-Trent (125) 3½ m. WNW. Pop. 270.

A township in the parish of Rolleston, in the hundred of North Offlow.

ANSTEY, co. Herts.

P. T. Barkway (34) 3 m. SE. Pop. 440.

A parish in the hundred of Edwinstree; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Middlesex and diocese of London; charged in K. B. 21*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*; patron, Christ College, Cambridge. Here was formerly a castle, built in the reign of the Conqueror, which was demolished in that of Henry III., and the parish church formed of the materials. The artificial mount, on which stood the keep of the castle, still remains surrounded by a moat. The Roman road, called Ermin Street, passes through this village.

ANSTEY, co. Leicester.

P. T. Leicester (96) 4 m. NW.

Pop. of Anstey 741. Of Anstey Pastures 11.

A chapelry in the parish of Thurstaston, hundred of Goscote-West; living subordinate to, and annexed to the rectory of Thurstaston. The village is built on the banks of the Soan. Anstey-Pasture is extra-parochial.

ANSTEY, co. Warwick.

P. T. Coventry (91) 5 m. NE. Pop. 205.

A parish in the county of the city of Coventry; living, a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Coventry; not in charge; ann. val. P. R. 12*l.* 4*s.*; patron, the Lord Chancellor.

ANSTEY, co. Wilts.

P. T. Hindon (91) 5 m. SE. Pop. 327.

A parish in the hundred of Dunworth; living, a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury; not in charge; church ded. to St. James; patron, Lord Arundel. The church is supposed to be the oldest in the diocese; an old barn with gothic windows standing near it, is deemed part of an ancient house of hospitalers, founded in the reign of John.

ANSTEY EAST, co. Devon.

P. T. Dulverton (161) 3 m. WSW. Pop. 171.

A parish in the hundred of South Molton; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter; charged in K. B. 11*l.*; church ded. to St. Michael; patrons Mayor and Corporation of Exeter.

ANSTEY WEST, co. Devon.

P. T. Dulverton (161) 4 m. NW. Pop. 220.

A parish in the hundred of South Molton; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter; val. in K. B. 10*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 135*l.*; church ded. to St. Peter; patrons Dean and Chapter of Exeter.

ANSTON, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Worktop (146) 6½ m. W. Pop. 776.

A parish and township, formed of the union of North and South Anston, in the southern division of the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill. The living is a perpetual curacy and a peculiar of the see of York; certified value 10*l.*; ann. val. P. R. 33*l.*; church ded. to St. James; patron the Chancellor of York.

ANSTRUTHER-EASTER, shire of Fife, S.

Edinburgh 35½ m. NE b N.; Crail 4 m. W. Pop. 1090. Fairs, 1st Tues. after 11th April, July 5, and Nov. 12.

A royal burgh, sea-port, market-town, and parish, in the district of St. Andrew's, situated on the coast of the north sea. Its harbour, one of the best in the neighbourhood, was formerly subject to the port of Kirkcaldy, but in 1710 a custom-house was established here. In 1753 the quay was constructed, and the expences defrayed by a tax of two-pence Scotch, levied upon every pint of ale brewed or sold in the burgh. Grain is the chief export, the imports are mostly from the Baltic and the Netherlands. Ship building and tanning are carried on to some extent, and is the principal occupation of the inhabitants. This town, which is well supplied with provisions, lies low and in a confined situation, which causes the streets to be inconveniently narrow, crooked, and dirty, with the exception of that running along the quay. It is governed by three bailies, a treasurer, and fifteen councillors; and in conjunction with Anstruther Wester, Crail, Kilrenny, and Pittenweem, sends one Burgess to Parliament. The parish does not extend beyond the burgh, it having been separated and made distinct from the parish of Kilrenny in 1636, when its church was erected. The living is in the presbytery of St. Andrew's and synod of Fife. Patron Sir John Anstruther, Bart.

ANSTRUTHER-WESTER, shire of Fife, S.

Edinburgh 35 m. NE b N.; Anstruther E. ½ m. SW b S. Pop. 429.

A royal burgh, sea-port, and parish, in the district of St. Andrew's, situated on the North Sea, at the mouth of a rivulet which separates it from Anstruther-Easter. The harbour is inconsiderable, but there is a creek near it called West Haven, which is much resorted to by fishermen. Here was formerly a profitable salmon fishery, but white fish and lobster are chiefly taken at present. The living is in the presbytery of St. Andrew's, and synod of Fife; patron,

Sir John Anstruther, Bart. The church is very ancient. The town was erected into a burgh of barony in 1554, and into a royal burgh in 1583. It is governed by three bailies, a treasurer, and eleven councillors; and, in conjunction with Anstruther-Easter, Crail, Kilrenny and Pittenweem sends one Burgess to Parliament. Anstruther suffered much by the civil wars, during the reign of Charles I.; and subsequently by two terrible inundations of the sea.

ANTHONY, ST. co. Cornwall.

P. T. Falmouth (260) 8½ m. S. & W. Pop. 220.

A parish in the hundred of Kerrier; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Cornwall and diocese of Exeter; value in K. B. 4*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 50*l.*; patron the King.

ANTHONY ST. co. Cornwall.

P. T. St. Mawes (207) 6 m. Pop. 179.

A parish in the western division of the hundred of Powder; living, a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry of Cornwall and diocese of Exeter; ann. val. P. R. 50*l.*; patron (1829) the earl of Falmouth.

ANTINGHAM, co. Norfolk.

P. T. North Walsham (123) 3 m. NW. Pop. 777.

A parish in the hundred of North Erpingham; living, a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry of Norfolk and diocese of Norwich; value in K. B. 6*l.* 3*s.* 1½*d.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patron (1829) Lord Suffield. In the same inclosure with the church of St. Mary once stood another church, ded. to St. Margaret, of which part of a tower alone remains. The two parishes have been consolidated.

ANTONINUS' WALL, a Roman fortification, constructed across the isthmus which separates the Forth and Clyde, by Lollius Urbicus, lieutenant of Antoninus, to connect a chain of forts erected by Agricola, for the defence of the southern parts of Scotland. It consisted of a ditch from twelve to fifteen feet wide, and a wall chiefly of earth, but of stone at the weakest points. It was afterwards termed Grime's Dike, from the name of a Scottish chieftain, who first broke through it. It is now nearly demolished by the plough.

ANTONY WEST, or ST. JACOB'S, co. Cornwall.

P. T. Devonport (216) 1½ m. SW. Pop. 2012.

A parish in the south division of the hundred of East; living a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Cornwall and diocese of Exeter; value in K. B. 12*l.* 17*s.* 8½*d.*; church ded. to St. James; patronage in the Carewe family. The vicinity of this place to Devonport and Plymouth renders it the residence of a great many officers and others connected with the dockyards and navy, on which account the population has of late years much increased.

ANTRIM, co. Antrim, Ulster, I.

Dublin 103 m. N. Pop. of Pa. 3129.

Of To. 2405. Fairs, May 12, and Nov. 12.

A town in the county and parish of the same name, situated at the north-end of Lough Neagh, partly in the upper half barony of Antrim, including therein the village of Parkgate, and partly in the upper half barony of Tuome. The town is pleasantly seated on the Six-mile-water, over which there is a bridge. The linen manufacture affords employment to about half the inhabitants. The living is a vicarage episcopally united to the rectory of Temple Patrick, in the diocese of Connor, and archdiocese of Armagh; patron, the Marquis of Donegal, possessing the rectorial tithes. There is a handsome church with a spire, a market-house, and Roman Catholic chapel. About 650 children are educated in the schools of this parish, one of which, on the Lancasterian plan, is attended by thirty boys and sixteen girls. Antrim was anciently the see of a bishop, and prior to the Union, a borough, which sent two members to the Irish Parliament. Durtract, a disciple of St. Patrick, founded an abbey here; and here is a very perfect specimen of the round towers so frequently to be met with in Ireland. In the vicinity stands a noble castle of the Earl of Massarene; also, on the bank of the Lough, Shane's Castle, nearly destroyed by fire, the romantic residence of Earl O'Neill, whose gallant predecessor fell at this town, during the rebellion in 1798, in an action with the rebels. There is a new line of road opened for this town to Belfast, from which great benefit must result.

ANTRIM, co. Ulster, I.

N. to S. 34 m., E. to W. 33 m. No. of Acres 420,000. Barons 14. Parishes 77. Boroughs 1. Market Towns 15. Mem. of Pt. 2. Pop. 202,000. Diocese of Down and Connor. Archdiocese of Armagh.

This county is bounded on the east by the Irish channel; on the west by the counties of Londonderry and Tyrone; on the north by the northern ocean; and on the south by Lough Neagh, and the county of Down. The general soil of the plains and valleys is strong loam, interspersed with patches of gravel and sand; but the mountainous parts are basalt or limestone rock, or covered with heath and bog. The highest hill (Knoll Lade) is 1820 feet above the sea, and the surface of the county generally is elevated on the sea-side and depressed in the centre. Its great extent of sea-coast produces considerable scientific variety, and there is much picturesque beauty in the most fertile parts of the interior, of which the vale of Lagan, between Belfast and Lishburn, is not to be surpassed for rural beauty, good cultivation, and elegant country villas by any part of the British dominions. The principal rivers in this county are the Ravi, the Braid, the Glenwherry, the Main, the Six-Mile-Water, the Crumlin, the Glenevy, the Carey, and the Glenshesh. Of these all but the last two fall into Lough Neagh. The Carey and the Glenshesh unite, and reach the sea at Ballycastle, which also receives the water of several smaller mountain streams. The channels of the more important rivers, the Bann and the Lagan, which in different directions form the boundaries of the county, are likewise much swelled by tributary streamlets, which take their rise in the mountains. Lough Neagh is one of the largest lakes of fresh water in Europe, being twenty miles in length, by twelve in breadth. Though it receives no less than eight rivers, it has only one visible outlet, which ultimately forms the river Bann, that falls into the sea at Colerain. Lough Neagh, although so extensive, is nowhere deeper than eleven fathoms. The trade upon the Lough has been much increased of late years by three navigable canals, one of which reaches the sea at Carlisleford, another at Belfast, and a third takes a westerly direction inland. The county is divided into the baronies of Upper and Lower Antrim; Upper and Lower Belfast; Carey; Upper and Lower Dunluce; Upper and Lower Glenarm; Killybegs; Upper and Lower Massareene; and Upper and Lower Tuome. The principal towns are Antrim, Belfast, Carrickfergus, Lisburne, and Randalstown. Belfast is of first-rate commercial importance. The chief manufacture of the county is linen, which is carried on in various parts of it. Its mineral productions of a profitable class are nearly confined to coals and limestone. Its natural curiosities are more abundant. The principal of them is the justly celebrated Giant's Causeway (which art. see), a gallery of basaltic columns at Cape Pkenskin, a little to the east of it, and the colossal prisons at Fairhead, near Ballycastle, are also remarkably striking. Several interesting remains of antiquity are found in different parts of the county, especially the ruins of Dunluce Castle, seated on an isolated rock on the northern coast, which has been perforated by the waves into a natural cavern. The walls of many abbeys are also still standing, and the romantic vale of Glenarm abounds with objects which bear names connected by tradition with that of the real or fabulous poet Ossian, the son of Fingal. Antrim sends three members to Parliament, two for the county, and one for Belfast.

P. T. Northwich (173) 5 m. NNW. Pop. 433.

A township in the parish of Great Budworth and hundred of Bucklow.

ANWICK, co. Lincoln.

P. T. Sleaford (115) 5 m. ENE. Pop. 246.

A parish in Flaxwell wapentake, parts of Kesteven; living, a dis. vicarage united to Brauncewell, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 5l. 3s. 11½d.; church ded. to St. Edith; patron (1829) Marquis of Bristol.

ANWORTH, stewartry of Kirkcubright, S.

P. T. Gatehouse (101) 1 m. SW. Pop. 643.

A parish watered on the east by the river Fleet, which here falls into the Solway

Firth, and intersected by the great reef from Carlisle. The soil upon the coast is productive, but the interior being uneven, and covered with heath, is chiefly appropriated to pasture for sheep. On the eastern bank of the river is the town of Gatehouse, which is connected by a bridge with a village in this parish. The living is in the presbytery of Kirkcubright and synod of Gallargy. Patron, Sir David Maxwell, Bart. Church in good repair. From the castle of Cardross looking towards a bay at the mouth of the Fleet the prospect is very fine. The ancient tower of Rusco, on the bank of the river, is still inhabited, and on the summit of a hill SE. from the church are the remains of a vitrified fort. Cairn-Hurrah, a hill partly in the parish of Kirkcubright is elevated about 1100 feet above the sea.

ANY, or KNOCKANY, co. Limerick, Munster, I.

P. T. Bruff (133) 4½ m. E. Pop. 4267.

A parish in the barony of Small County. The living is a vicarage, value in K. B. 6l. 1s. 6d. sterl., united to the vicarages of Ballylough, Ballynatoona, Ballynard, Hospital, Kilfrish and Long, in the diocese of Ely, and archdiocese of Cashel. Upwards of 400 children are educated here, including a school of seventy-five boys, and forty-five girls, supported at the expense of Count de Salis. Here are two of the Earl of Desmond's strong castles, and the ruins of an Augustinian friary for Eremites, founded in the reign of Henry II.

APETHORPE, co. Northampton.

Pop. including Whitefield 401.

A hamlet in the parish of Deerhurst and hundred of Westminster.

APPIN, shire of Argyll, S.

Edinburgh 123 m. W & N. Pop. 2403.

A town and parish in the district of Lorn. It is of great extent, and watered by the rivers Creran, Duror, Badickelish, Larnoch, and Leven, by several inland lochs, and by those great inlets of the sea, Loch Linne, Loch Creran, Loch Eil, and an arm of Loch Linne, called Loch Leven, all abounding in fish. A ferry, on the way to Fort William, constantly plies across Loch Leven, in the vicinity of which is wrought a quarry of superior blue slate. Here is a general post-office. The living, including the ancient parish and island of Lismore, is in the presbytery of Lorn, and synod of Argyll. The church being small, a new one has been erected under the authority of the commissioners for building churches in the Highlands of Scotland. Apple House, belonging to the Marquis of Tweeddale, is surrounded by stately woods, adjoining to which lie immense masses of quartz. Inversatel House is a fine seat of Macdonald of Glencoe; Loch Eil, the residence of the chief of the Camerons; and Airds, in the midst of beautiful plantations, the seat of Mr. Campbell, the owner also of the picturesque ruin Castle Stalker, which stands on an islet in Loch Linnhé.

APPLEBY, co. Lincoln.

P. T. Glasford Bridge (150) 7 m. NW.
Pop. 331.

A parish in Manley wapentake, north division, parts of Lindsey, situate near the river Ancholme, which has been rendered navigable to the Humber. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 10*l.* 4*s.*; church ded. to St. Bartholomew; patron (1829) Charles Winn, Esq. The Roman road from Stamford and Lincoln passes through this village; it is cast up a great height, and in some places seven yards broad.

APPLEBY, GREAT and LITTLE, co. Derby and Leicester.

P. T. Ashby-de-la-Zouch (115) 6 m. SW.
Pop. 1761.

A parish, partly in the hundred of Repton and Gresley, in the county of Derby, and partly in that of Sparkenhoe, in the county of Leicester. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Leicester and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 20*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*; church ded. to St. Michael; patron (1829) Thomas Wilkes, Esq. This populous village connects the four counties of Leicester, Derby, Stafford, and Warwick. Here is a free grammar-school for 100 boys, founded by Sir John Moore in 1697.

APPLEBY, co. Westmoreland.

London 270 m.; Carlisle 30 m.; Penrith 10 m. Pop. of Ps. 1311. Of To. 874.
M. D. 8*st.* Mult. arr. 2.47 l. dep. 10.25. 2.
Memb. of Parl. 2. Fairs, Whitson-eve for horned cattle; Whit-Mon. for linen cloth; June 10, for cattle and sheep; Aug. 10, for horses, sheep, and linen cloth.

A borough, market-town, and parish in East ward, but having separate jurisdiction. The town is situated on the river Eden, by which it is nearly encompassed; and is supposed by some antiquaries to occupy the site of the Roman station, Annaballa. It has been the county town since the reign of the Confessor; and the assizes are held here. It has several times been assailed by the Scots, who burnt it in 1388; and in 1598, it suffered greatly from a pestilence; since which time it has never recovered its former size and consequence. The present town consists of one broad street, irregularly built on the slope of a steep hill, at the upper end of which stands the castle, of early Norman, if not of Saxon origin; and at the lower, the parish church. The ancient cloisters, or market-houses, were pulled down in 1811, and a handsome gothic edifice erected by Smirk in their stead. There are also a town-hall and gaol; and at each end of the town is a stone obelisk, or cross. Appleby received charters from Henry II., John, and Henry III., all which were given up to James II.; since which time it has subsisted as a borough by prescription. The corporation at present consists of a mayor, twelve aldermen, two bailiffs, sixteen capital burgesses, a recorder, town clerk, and other officers. It has sent two members to Parliament from the reign of Edward I., the right of election for which is in the holders of about 100 burghage-tenures, all of which are the property of the Earls of Thanet and Loudale, who at present possess the joint patronage of the borough. The town formerly possessed two parishes, which are now united. The livings of both are vicarages, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Carlisle; that of St. Laurence charged in K. B. 9*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*; and that of St. Michael, alias Bongate, 20*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*; patrons of the united parish, or St. Laurence, the Dean and Chapter of Carlisle. Here is a free grammar-school, founded by Queen Elizabeth, open to all the children of the town, on the payment of 2*s.* 6*d.* per quarter to the master. It possesses five scholarships, founded by the Earl of Thanet, at Queen's College, Oxford; and is entitled to participate in five exhibitions of 60*l.* per annum, at the same college, on the foundation of Lady Elizabeth Hastings. Here is also a hospital for thirteen widows, founded by the celebrated Anne, Countess of Pembroke and Montgomery, heiress of the Cliffords, the possessors of Appleby Castle for several centuries; and from a marriage with whose eldest daughter, it descended to the family of Tufton, Earl of Thanet. The principal part of the present castle, which is of a square form, was built in 1686, by Thomas, Earl of Thanet, out of the ruins of a part of the former. Appleby Castle held out against the Parliament army, under the influence of its owner, the aforesaid Countess Anne; but in 1648, was constrained to yield. The church of St. Laurence, which was nearly rebuilt by the same spirited lady, contains a noble monument to her memory. The market of Appleby is one of the best supplied with corn in the vicinity; but it possesses little trade, and no manufacture of importance.

APPLECROSS, shire of Ross, S.

P. T. Lochvarren 14 m. W. Pop. 3703.

An extensive parish stretching along the Atlantic, and divided by mountainous ridges into three natural districts; the vallies are fertile, the hills yield pasturage for cattle and abound with a variety of game, and the ocean supplies fish in plenty. The prosperous state of the herring fishery has of late much increased the population, prior to which separate occupations were unusual, every man being his own architect, boat-builder, fisher, farmer, weaver, shoemaker, &c. A rich copper-mine, and also quarries of superior lime-stone are wrought in this parish. The Gaelic is the only language spoken or preached. The living is in the presbytery of Locharron and synod of Glenelg; patron, the Crown. A new church has been recently built under the authority of the commissioners for building churches in the Highlands of Scotland. Near the shore are some natural caves and the remains of an ancient Danish fort.

APPLEDORE, co. Devon.

P. T. Bideford (201) 2 m. N.

Pop. with the rest of Pa. of Northam 2230.

A small sea-port town in the parish of Northam and hundred of Shebbear, situate on the coast of Barnstaple bay, at the mouth of the rivers Towbridge and Taw. It is the first harbour within the Bar of Barnstaple, to which port it is subordinate. Owing to the beauty of the surrounding scenery it is becoming fashionable as a bathing-place. A regular steam-packet from Swansea and Bristol is established on this coast, which is celebrated in history by the landing and defeat of Hubba the Dane, in the reign of King Alfred.

APPLEDORE, co. Kent.

London 61 m. S.; Tenterden 6 m. S.W. & S.
Pop. 330. M. D. Tues. Fairs, Jan. 11, and 4th Mon. in June for cattle and pedlary.

A parish and market-town in the hundred of Blackburn, lathe of Scray, situate on the banks of the river Rother. It was a place of some maritime importance in the reign of Alfred, but never recovered the effects of a French invasion in that of Richard II.; at which time it is said that the sea flowed up to the town, but the harbour having since been lost, it is now chiefly inhabited by graziers and others employed in the marshes to which it is closely contiguous. The living is a vicarage, with Ebony chapelry annexed, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Canterbury; charged in K. H. 217; church ded. to St. Peter; patron, the Archbishop of Canterbury.

APPLEDRAM, co. Sussex.

A village in the barony of Trughenackmy, parish of Mac Elligot. Near it are the ruins of Bally Carthy, and Kiltin Castles, and the mansion of the Bleunersassetts.

ARBURGH, shire of Forfar, S.

P. T. Aberbrothock (20, 2½ m. W & S.
Pop. 1062.

A parish situated on the coast of the North Sea, and intersected by a glen, at the bottom of which runs the Elliot, a stream turning several mills in its course, and an object of peculiar beauty. The soil is fruitful, and yields an early produce. The living is in the presbytery of Aber-Brothock and synod of Angus and Mearns. Here is a mineral water found to be efficacious in scorbutic and rheumatic complaints. The ancient castle of the Panmures is much admired for the romantic beauty of its situation.

ARBURFIELD, co. Berks.

P. T. Wokingham (21) 4 m. WSW. Fair, Oct. 8, for cattle. Pop. 245.

A parish in the hundred of Sonning; living, a rectory and a peculiar of the Dean of Salisbury; charged in K. B. 7l. 19s. 8d.; church ded. to St. Bartholomew; patron (1829) Lord Braybrook.

ARBROATH, or ABERBROTHOCK, shire of Forfar, S.

Pop. 5017.

A parish, including the greater part of the burgh of the same name. The soil is fertile around the town; and a considerable extent, which is otherwise, has been covered with thriving plantations. About half a mile west from the town is a chalybeate spring, which is much visited. Living, in the presbytery of Aberbrothock and synod of Angus and Mearns; patron, the Crown. (See next art.)

ARBROATH, or ABERBROTHOCK, town of Edinburgh 56 m. NE. Dundee 16 m. F.F.N. Montrose 12 m. W & S. Pop. 2072. Fairs, 21 Jan., 2d Wed. June, and 21 July. Mem. of Pt. 1.

A royal burgh, the greater part of which is in the above parish, and the remainder in that of St. Vigrans. It is situated in a small plain near the confluence of the river Brothock with the German Ocean, surrounded with eminences which command extensive views of the Firths of Tay and Forth, and of the elevated parts of Fifeshire. The town consists of one main street, running north and south from the sea, and several more, of less consideration, constructed with little regularity. There is also a suburb on the west side of the Brothock, consisting of several small streets of recent construction, at the end of one of which is a chapel of ease. The new town-house is a handsome building, on the erection of which the old one was transformed into a guildhall, coffee-room, and public library. The harbour is altogether artificial, but well sheltered by a long pier. It admits vessels of 200 tons burthen at spring-tides, but at other times those of 100 only. It is defended by a battery of six twelve-pounders, erected in 1782, and has a signal-tower which communicates with the Bell lighthouse. The port of Arbroath is very ancient, but its situation was originally more to the eastward, the site of which is still named the Old Shore-head. This town is supposed to have been erected into a royal burgh by William the Lion, about 1186, but that charter being lost, it was renewed by James VI. in 1589. It is governed by a provost, two bailies, a treasurer, and fifteen councillors, and has seven incorporated trades. It sends a member to Parliament in conjunction with Aberdeen, Montrose, Inverhervie, and Brechin. The prosperity of this place anciently depended upon the magnificent abbey founded here by Wil-

Ham the Lion, and dedicated to the memory of Thomas à Becket, the venerable remains of which are extremely picturesque and excite great admiration. The monks were of the Tyronensian order, and enjoyed great privileges. It is noted in Scottish history as the seat of the Parliament under Robert Bruce, which addressed so spirited a remonstrance to the Pope for the countenance which the Holy See afforded to the invasion of Edward I. Its last abbot was Cardinal Beaton, after whose death it fell a prey to the religious zeal of the reformers, at which time its revenues exceeded 3000*l.* per ann. The town declined with the abbey until 1736, when commerce began to revive and the manufacture was undertaken of bluebushes, brown linens, and sail cloth, which has eminently succeeded and forms the principal employment of the inhabitants. About fifty vessels of from 60 to 160 tons burthen belong to this port, which are chiefly employed in the Baltic and coasting trades. This town gives the title of Baron to the Duke of Hamilton.

ARBURY, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

P. T. Newton (103) 2 m. S.

Pop. including Houghton and Middleton townships, 200.

A township in the parish of Winwick and hundred of West Derby.

ARBUTHNOT, shire of Kincardine, S.

P. T. Bervie (214) 2½ m. NW. Pop. 995.

A parish watered by the river Bervie, which runs through a highly picturesque valley, where stands the elegant mansions of Arbuthnot and Allardyce. The living is in the presbytery of Fordoun and synod of Angus and Mearns; patron, Viscount Arbuthnot. The church is a venerable fabric of Ashlar Work, and contiguous to it is a fine aisle, the dormitory of the Arbuthnots, to whom this parish gives the title of Viscount. The celebrated Dr. Arbuthnot, contemporary with Pope and Swift, owes his birth and early education to this place. Jaspers have been found in the vicinity, and here are several weak medicinal springs.

ARDAGH, co. Longford, Leinster, I.

P. T. Longford (71) 2 m. SE. Pop. 600.

Fairs, April 2 and Aug. 24.

A parish, partly in the barony of Ardagh, and partly in the barony of Moydow. The living is a rectory in the diocese of Ardagh and archdiocese of Tuam; church in good condition. Ardagh was formerly a bishop's see, founded in the fifth century, and val. in K. B. 117. In 1658 it was annexed to the bishopric of Kilmore, but again separated therefrom in 1741, and united to the archbishopric of Tuam, though the diocese of Elphin intervenes. At present it is a deanery, and has an archdeacon but no chapter. It comprises thirty-seven parishes, twenty-two of which are in co. Longford. Eleven glebe-houses have been erected by grants from Parliament since the Union. The Crown presents to one of these parishes, a lay patron to one, and the bishop to thirty. St. Patrick founded an abbey here in the fifth century, the first abbot of which was his nephew, St. Mell, the alleged author of "A Treatise on the Virtues and Miracles of St. Patrick." A friary of Franciscans stood here in 1521, but when or by whom founded is unknown. Upwards of 400 children receive education here, including the free-school of thirty-two boys and eighteen girls, of whom twenty are taught at the dean's expense.

ARDBOE, co. Tyrone, Ulster, I.

P.T. Stewartstown (104) 5 m. NE. Pop. 7303.
A parish, partly in the barony of Dungan-non, and partly in the barony of Loughinssholin, co. Londonderry. It is situated on Lough Neagh, and has an ancient church in good condition. The living is a rectory, val. in K. B. 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, in the archdiocese of Armagh. Here are the ruins of a superb monastery, founded by St. Colman, whose relics were preserved in the abbey until 1166, when great part of the building was destroyed by fire; the walls of a church, and a cross bearing several inscriptions, are still standing. There are four schools in this parish, attended by about 450 pupils, two of them free-schools, and the others supported by the Hibernian Society.

ARDBRACCAN, co. Meath, Leinster, I.

P. T. Navan (30) 2½ m. W. Pop. 3013.
A parish and village in the barony of Lower Navan. It was formerly a place of considerable strength, and one of the ancient bishoprics which now form the see of Meath.
In 1786, Bishop Maxwell built the magnificent palace here, which is the principal residence of the diocesan, and contributed largely towards the erection of the parish church, one of the finest structures of the kind in Ireland. The living is a rectory, united to the rectories of Churchtown, Clonmaduff, and Liscarton, and to the vi-carages of Martyr and Retain, in the diocese of Meath and archdiocese of Armagh.
Here is a charter-school, containing forty boys, and in the vicinity several Roman Catholic schools attended by about 140 pupils. The abbey, founded by St. Bruccan, who died in 650, was long used as the parish church; an ancient square tomb still stands in the church-yard, sacred to the memory of Bishop Montgomery; and an unassuming slab covers the remains of the celebrated eastern traveller, Bishop Pococke, interred in 1765.

ARDCANDRIDGE, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

P. T. Wexford (04) 3½ m. W b N. Pop. 101.

by the river Shannon. The living is a rectory and a vicarage, val. in K. B. 2*l.* sterling, being the corps of the Prebend of Ardcanny, val. in K. B. 2*l.* Irish, in the diocese of Limerick and archdiocese of Cashel; church in good condition. Here is a charter-school, supported by parliamentary grant. About eighty children receive education in this parish.

ARDCARN, co. Roscommon, Connaught, I.

P. T. Boyle (107) 3½ m. ESE. Pop. 3407.

A parish and village in the barony of Boyle.
The living is a rectory and vicarage, val. in K. B. 5*l.* 10*s.* sterling, in the diocese of Elphin and archdiocese of Tuam. Upwards of 380 children attend the schools in this parish; Lord Lorton supports one of thirty-eight boys, and Lady Lorton one of fifty-three girls; his lordship also supports another of forty boys and thirty girls, on the townland of Drimconille. A Benedictine nunnery anciently stood here, also an abbey of regular canons, supposed to have been founded by Benidh, Bishop of Ardcarua, who died in 523.

ARDCARN, co. Meath, Leinster, I.

An ancient castle in the barony of Upper Duleek.

ARDCATH, co. Meath, Leinster, I.

P.T. Drogheda (30) 0½ m. 88W. Pop. 1523.
Fairs, May 7, June 21, and Oct. 27.
A parish in the barony of Upper Duleek.
The living is a vicarage, val. in K. B.
6*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* Irish, forming part of the union of Julianstown, in the diocese of Meath and archdiocese of Armagh. The ancient church, in which there was formerly an incorporated chantry for the perpetual celebration of divine worship, was ded. to the blessed Virgin. About fifty children receive education in this parish.

ARDCAVAN, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

P. T. Wexford (01) 1½ m. NE. Pop. 702.
A parish in the barony of Shelmalier, situated on the northern shore of Wexford Haven, over which there is a ferry. The living is a vicarage, forming part of the union of Ardecollum, in the diocese of Ferns, and archdiocese of Dublin. From sixty to seventy children receive education here.

ARDCHATTAN, shire of Argyll, S.

P. T. Bunawe (113) 4 m. NW. Pop. 1003.
A parish situated on the great estuary Loch Etive, the margin of which is beautifully fringed with natural woods. It is intersected by the rivers Awe, Etive, and Kinloss, abounding with salmon and trout. The surface yields good pasture though consisting chiefly of mountains, one of which Ben Crnachan, ranks with the loftiest in Scotland.
The living is in the presbytery of Lorn and synod of Argyll; patron, the Campbells of Loch Eil, whose elegant modern mansion stands amidst fine plantations. Here stood Beregonium, the ancient metropolis of Scotland, said to have been founded by Fergus II.
The walls of an old priory remain, and a portion of its site is used as a burying ground.
Robert Bruce, who kept possession of this part of the country long before he became master of the whole, and held a Parliament here. Druidical remains, cairns, and obelisks, are numerous in the vicinity.

ARDCLACH, shire of Nairn, S.

P. T. Forres (157) 12 m. S b W. Pop. 1287.
A parish intersected by the river Findhorn, a stream so rapid as to be impassable without risk, except at Dulsie-bridge, on the great military road from Edinburgh to Fort George. The surface is mountainous, and covered with heath, interspersed with wood, which affords shelter to various kinds of game; but cultivation is little known. The living is in the presbytery of Nairn and synod of Moray; patroness, Mrs. Bradie, of Lethen, who generously supports a school for spinning in this parish. Great improvements have been recently effected, through the exertions of Major Cunningham, in the branch roads and bridges of this and the contiguous districts.

ARDCLINIS, co. Antrim, Ulster, I.

P. T. Newton-Gleus (116) m. N & W.
Pop. 1208.

A parish in the Upper half barony of Glenarm, situated in a mountainous district upon a rivulet, which becomes subterraneous before it falls into Red bay, in the North Channel. The living is a rectory, united to the rectory of Aghberton, from which it is distant thirty miles; the union forming the corps of the treasurership of Connor, being in that diocese, and archdiocese of Armagh. Parish contains 9,500 acres, half of which is unprofitable mountain. About seventy children receive education in this parish.

ARDCOLLUM, co. Tipperary, Munster, I.

P. T. Carrick-upon-Suir (110) 7½ m. WNW.
Pop. included with Kilmurry.

A parish in the barony of Iffa and Offa, watered by the river Suir. The living is a rectory impropriate, and vicarage, forming part of the union of Carrick-upon-Suir, in the diocese of Lismore, and archdiocese of Cashel.

ARDCOLLUM, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

ARDEE, co. Louth, Leinster, I.

Dublin 13 m. N & W.; Dundalk 10 m. SW.
Pop. of To. 3544. Of Pa. 3361. Fairs, June 6, Aug. 20, Oct. 23, and Dec. 1.

A market-town and parish in the barony of Ardee. The living is a vicarage, value in K. B. 10*l.* 10*s.* 4*d.* sterling, long since united to the vicarages of Shanless, Smarmour, and Stackallen, and more recently to the rectory and vicarage of Kildemock, in the archdiocese of Armagh. Church in good repair. The town is intersected by the great north road from Dublin to Londonderry, and was anciently encompassed by walls, which, with the stately castle erected in the twelfth century, by Roger de Pippard, Lord of Athlerdee, rendered it a place of some strength; its site, termed Castleguard, is a steep mound of earth, ninety feet high. The same baron founded, in 1207, an hospital for Crouched Friars, of the Augustinian order; and his descendant, Ralph, a friary for Carmelites, in the reign of Edward I. About 300 children attend the schools here, two of which are of Erasmus Smith's foundation, one for either sex, on the Lancasterian plan, they each contain about eighty pupils. Arder formerly had the privilege of sending two members to the Irish Parliament. It gives the title of Baron to the noble family of Brabazon, Earls of Meath.

ARDENINE, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

ARDERSIER, shire of Inverness, S.

P. T. Port George (164) 12 m. E. Pop. 1207.

A parish situated on the Moray Firth, including part of the village of Campbell Town. The precincts of Fort George formed part of this parish prior to 1746, when it was separated, and purchased by the Crown; but the garrison is included above. The soil is fertile; the air, however, is extremely piercing, and fuel scarce. Several boats are employed in fishing, the produce of which, with what the farms yield, find a ready sale at the Fort. The living is in the presbytery of Nairn and synod of Moray; patron, Lord Cawdor. A remarkable Roman sword, and the head of a spear, have been dug up in the vicinity.

ARDERYTH. See Airdrie.

ARDFERT, co. Kerry, Munster, I.

P. T. Traler (187) 4 m. NNW.
Pop. of Pa. 2276. Of To. 629.
Fairs, Mar. 27, Whit. Mon., July 9.

A town and parish in the barony of Clamaurice. This was an ancient bishopric, established in the fifth century, and subsequently incorporated with that of Aghaloe, so as to form but one diocese, which extends over the whole county, including a part of Cork, and is in the archdiocese of Cashel, value in K. B. 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* sterling. In 1665 the see, thus united, was annexed to the bishopric of Limerick, and has ever since been held in commendam therewith. Its diocesans were styled Bishops of Kerry.

The chapter is composed of a dean, a precentor, a chancellor, a treasurer, and an archdeacon, who are patrons of the living, an entire rectory, and contribute equal sums towards the curate's salary. The cathedral, the only church entire, is used also for parochial purposes. It had formerly a university. Here is an Hibernian society school, of forty boys and twenty one girls, including which, more than 130 children have the benefit of education in this parish. Near the cathedral stood a handsome circular tower, the loftiest in Ireland, which fell to the ground in 1771. A. D. 1179 the town was destroyed by fire, with its superb abbey, founded in the sixth century, by St. Brendan, on the site of which Thomas, Lord Kerry, in 1253, erected another for Franciscan monks, and was buried therein in 1280. Of this sumptuous edifice there remain the walls of the steeple, the choir, a portion of the cloisters, the dormitory, and chapel for morning prayer, with a fine figure of St. Brendan in alto relievo. The ruined churches contain many tombstones bearing ancient inscriptions and decorations. Ardferri gives title of Viscount to the noble family of Crosbie.

B. 3*l*. sterling, united to the rectory of Rochestown, and the vicarages of Mullogh, Neddans, and Newcastle, and is the forty-seventh benefice in the archdiocese of Cashel. There is no glebe house in the union. Church of modern erection. In the sixth century St. Finian founded an abbey of regular canons, to which Mac Cuillinan, the noted archbishop and monarch of Munster, in 903, bequeathed an ounce of gold and another of silver, with his horse and arms. A monastery of Franciscans stood here; also there yet remains an ancient castle, built by King John in 1186.

ARDGLASS, co. Down, Ulster, I.

P. T. Killough (100) m. SE & S. Pop. 976.

A sea-port town and parish in the barony of Lecale, situated on the Irish sea, opposite to Peel Castle, Isle of Man, being the nearest part of Ireland to that island. It was anciently a place of considerable strength and importance, a valuable military post in the civil wars, but has of late years fallen much to decay. There is no church. The living is a rectory, united to the rectory of Ballyphilip, forming part of the corps of the chancellorship of Down, the third benefice in the diocese of Down, and archdiocese of Armagh. Here is a school on Erasmus Smith's foundation, for thirty boys and thirty girls. Ardglass gives title of Viscount to the noble family of Barrington. Near this port 1000 persons are engaged in the fisheries; and harbour improvements have been made at the expence of W. Ogilvy, Esq. and the Fishing-board. Here is a light-house, exhibiting a fixed light, red towards the sea, and bright towards the harbour.

P. T. Yougal (134) m. S. & W.

Pop. P. div. 2004. W. div. 2761. Val. 403.

A parish and village in the barony of Decies-within-Drum, situated upon a bay of the same name, in St. George's Channel, and including the village of Crobally. It is of great extent, and for the most part mountainous, uncultivated, and thinly inhabited. The living is a rectory, value in K. B. 10*l.*, and a vicarage value 6*l.*, episcopally united to the vicarages of Ballymacurt and Ringa-guona, being the corps of the prebendship of Lismore, the second benefice in the diocese of Lismore, and archdiocese of Cashel. The rectorial tithes are vested in the Duke of Devonshire, and the rector is canonically resident on a glebe of seventy-two acres. More than 180 children receive education here. Ardmore is said to have been anciently a bishopric, of which St. Declan, whose festival is observed July 24, and St. Ullan were successively bishops in the fifth and sixth centuries. Here are the remains of two churches; the most venerable of the two stood on a cliff overlooking the sea, and is completely in ruins. The other, nearly as ancient, stands a mile to the NW., the chancel of which is used for divine worship to this day. It was a noble fabric, supported by massive columns, having the body separated from the chancel by a fine gothic arch, which yet remains, and denotes the antiquity of its erection. In the church-yard is the dormitory of St. Declan, and St. Declan's stone, which is said to have carried his bell and vestments from Rome. Here is a handsome round tower, upwards of 100 feet high, and 40 in circumference.

ARDMORE-HEAD, co. Waterford, Munster, a promontory on St. George's Channel, situated in Lat. 51.56 N. Long. 7.41 W.

ARDNAMURCHAN, shire of Argyll, S.

P. T. Arasaig (100) m. Strontian (120) m.

Pop. 2172. Fairs, May 19 and Oct. 12.

A very extensive parish, divided into five districts, viz.—the peninsula of Ardnamurchan, i. e. the Point of the Great Sea; so called from a headland at its western extremity; Sunart, in which is the village of Strontian; Arasaig, including the village of the same name; Moidart and South Moidart; the three latter being in the shire of Inverness. It is bounded on the south by Loch Sunart, an estuary which separates it from the Isle of Mull, and is watered by the loch and river Sheil, which falls into the Atlantic at Castle Tioram. The surface is rugged and precipitous, and consists of high moors and mountains, the loftiest of which does not exceed 3000 feet. It produces fine specimens of talc, garnets, asbestos, lead, and a new mineral, termed strontites, somewhat resembling barytes. The living is in the presbytery of Mull and synod of Argyll; patron, the Duke of Argyll. Two new churches have been recently erected in this parish, under the authority of the commissioners for building churches in the Highlands of Scotland. Mingacey Castle is falling to ruin. Castle Tioram was demolished by fire in 1715, and in 1746 every other habitation and all the cattle were destroyed by the troops. Kinloch-Moidart, the modern built and elegant seat of the Macdonalds, stands in this parish.

Glasgow, 20 m.; Saltcoats 1 m. N.

Irvine (684) 8 m. W. b N. Pop. 3103.

A sea-port and parish in the district of Cunningham, the parish including part of the town of Saltcoats. The living is in the presbytery of Irvine and synod of Glasgow and Ayr; patron, Lord Montgomerie. Ardrossan is seated upon a point of land on the eastern coast of the Firth of Clyde, has an excellent harbour, secured by two piers of great extent, and a canal affording regular communication with Glasgow and the intervening towns. Its convenient situation for commerce and pleasure, has rendered it a thriving well-built place. The church, which stands contiguous to Saltcoats, is an elegant and commodious structure. A large and handsome hotel, warm and cold baths, &c. have been erected for the accommodation of those who resort hither in the bathing season. Lime and stone being procured upon the spot, building is cheap, and the town daily rises in size and importance. Coal is found here in abundance. Its ancient castle is in ruins, and on an eminence are the remains of an old encampment. Ardrossan gives title of Baron to the noble family of Montgomerie, Earls of Eglintoun.

A parish in the barony of Strabane, watered by the river Moyle, and a branch of the Mourne, including the towns of Magheracerrigan and Newtown Stewart, also the village of Ardstraw Bridge. In ancient times this was the see of a bishop, which, prior to 1210, was united to Clogher, but from that date to the present it has formed part of the bishopric of Derry. The living is a rectory and vicarage, value in K. B. 301. sterling, in the diocese of Derry, and archdiocese of Armagh; it is the most valuable in the patronage of the University of Dublin. The parish contains 32,000 acres, one-third of which is bog and mountain. The church is in good repair, and its tower surmounted by a spire. Upwards of 850 children receive education in this parish, including two schools, established by the Hibernian Society, and attended by about 170 pupils. It also contains three Roman Catholic chapels, besides eight places of worship for different other sects. An ancient custom prevails here of making bonfires on Midsummer eve, and driving cattle round them; a superstition derived from the Druids, but not peculiar to this district alone. The river Derg joins the Mourne at this place.

ARDSTRAW - BRIDGE, co. Tyrone, Ulster, I.

ARGALL, shire of, S.

N. to S. 115 m.; E. to W. 23 m. No. of Acres, 1,212,500. Pop. 97,316. Districts 3. Parishes 40. Royal Burghs 2. Memb. of Pt. 2.

A maritime county in Scotland, bounded on the north by Inverness-shire; on the south by the Irish sea and the Clyde; on the east by the shires of Perth and Dunbarton; and on the west by the Atlantic Ocean. It was anciently called Argathain, and is said to have formed part of the ancient Caledonian kingdom, while the rest of Scotland was in possession of the Scots and Picts. It was subsequently much infested with predatory invaders, and was the scene of the exploits of Fingal and his lowers, the locality of many of which are still pointed out by tradition. For a long time this shire scarcely formed part of the kingdom of Scotland, having been subject to the Macdonalds of the Isles, who assumed regal and independent authority, until mastered by King Robert Bruce. The surface of Argyllshire, like that of the rest of the Highlands, is mountainous, bleak, and dreary; in some places covered with heath, and in other exhibiting bare and rugged rocks, heaped upon one another with great but picturesque irregularity. The mountain of Ben Cruachan is one of the highest in Scotland; and about Ben Lomond there are several which are little inferior. The hills and forests abound with fallow deer, stags, roes, and almost every sort of wild game. The coast, although rocky, being indented with navigable bays and lakes, affords safe harbours for shipping. The district of Cowal is nearly surrounded by Loch Long and Loch Fyne, which are inlets from the sea; and there are several lakes of fresh water in the interior. All these abound with fish, the taking of which employs the greater part of the inhabitants. The salmon fisheries are peculiarly beneficial to their proprietors. The summits of the hills and some of the glens are bare of pasture; but the sides of the mountains and borders of the lakes supply food to numerous herds of black cattle and sheep, the rearing of which, next to the fisheries, occupies the chief attention of the native population. Agricultural produce is principally confined to barley, oats, and potatoes. Iron, copper, and lead, are produced in various parts of the county; and the iron works in particular have proved very profitable since the opening of the Crinan canal. A great variety of beautiful marbles are found here; as also free-stone, coal, and large quantities of fine blue slate. The new metal strontites was discovered at Strontian in this shire, whence its appellation. The leading articles of export are sheep, cattle, horses, fish, slate, and kelp. The chief manufactures are leather, kelp, the weaving of wool, and the smelting of ore. The roads have been greatly improved of late years, and the establishment of steam-packets between Glasgow and Inverary has proved exceedingly beneficial and convenient. The five districts in this county are called Kintyre, Knapdale, Cowal, Lorn, and Argyll-proper. The two royal burghs are Inverary and Campbelltown, which in conjunction with Ayr and Rothsay send a member to Parliament; and the county returns another. A number of isles are attached to this shire, the principal of which are Tyrie, Coll, Mull, Iola, Jura, Staffa, and Isola, which will be described in their proper places. On the deposition of the Macdonalds their estates and titles were bestowed on the Campbells, who have ever since retained them. To the head of that great clan and family Argyll gives the titles of Duke and Earl.

ARKLOW, co. Wicklow, Leinster, I.

Dublin, (40) m. S & E. Pop. of Pa. 6310. (1774, 2000. Pa. 11, Aug. 9, Sept. 23, and Nov. 13.

A sea-port, market-town, and parish, in the barony to which it gives name. It is delightfully situated on the south bank of the Dyora, which is crossed by a bridge of nineteen arches, near its confluence with the Irish sea; the harbour is bad, but might be improved by embankment, or by continuing the course of the river from the bridge. About 100 boats and fifty small vessels are employed in the herring fishery, the only occupation for the people in this place. Here is a very beautiful church, designed by the late F. Johnston. The living is a rectory and vicarage, episcopally united to the vicarage of Enniscorthy and curacies of Kilbride, Killahurley, Kilman, and Temple-michael, in the dioceses of Dublin and Glendalagh and archdiocese of Dublin. The rectorial tithes of three of the curacies should be restored, conformably to the will of Archbishop King; they are now in the use of Dublin. Arklow is the 103d benefice in the diocese. Here is a Charter-school for twenty-three girls, and nearly 600 children attend the other schools in this parish. In the rebellion of 1798 this town suffered much from an attack by the insurgents. Arklow gives the title of Baron to the noble family of Butler, Earls of Ormond, whose ancestors built a castle here and founded a superb monastery for Dominicans, the ruins of which are now inconsiderable. About five miles from the coast, and opposite to the town, are extensive sands termed Arklow Banks, where abundance of fish are taken. Here is a permanent barrack and a Roman Catholic chapel. No glebe-house, but half a rood of glebe in the town.

ARMAGH, co. Ulster, I.

N. to S. 30 m. E. to W. 70 m. No. of Acres, 181,150. Barones, 6. Parishes, 65. Cities, 1. Market towns, 11. Pop. 107,527. Mem. of Pt. 2. Diocese and Archdiocese of Armagh.

This county is bounded on the south-west by Monaghan; on the west by Tyrone; on the north by Lough Neagh; on the east by Down; and on the south-east by Louth. The vicinity of the city is rendered beautiful and picturesque by a gentle undulation of hill and dale; and in this quarter the soil principally consists of a rich loam, interspersed with limestone and limestone gravel. The northern part of the county bordering on Lough Neagh consists principally of extensive bogs of great depth, with a remarkably black soil. On the southern limits extends a range of dark mountains called the Fews, very little of which has been subjected to cultivation. One of these mountains, termed Slieve Gullion, is the highest, except one, in the province; and from its summit commands views of a great extent of finely watered country, interspersed with small towns, and cultivated demesnes, the scene being terminated by the bay of Dondalk, where the acclivity terminates. The rivers of most note in this county are, the Blackwater, which partly separates it from Tyrone; the Upper Barn, which rises in the county of Down, and discharges itself into Lough Neagh; the Callan; the Camlin; the Cushier; the Fleury; the Fano; the Newtown-Hamilton; the Tallwater; the Taro, and the Tynan. The chief lakes are Carlongh and Lough Clay. There are also several streams of a minor description, and this abundance of water is extremely beneficial to various branches of industry, by the facilities it affords to mills and bleaching grounds. The manufacture of linen is carried on very extensively, and gives employment to a large proportion of the inhabitants. The eight baronies are denominated, Upper and Lower Fews; Upper and Lower Orior; O'Neilland East and West; Armagh, and Turaney. The chief towns are Armagh, Lurgan, Charlemont, Market-Hill, Portadown, Tandragee, and Tynan. In the vicinity of the last town is a lead-mine, the only mineral production of much importance yet discovered; although it is supposed, from the number of chalybeate springs in the mountainous districts, that iron might be found, if sought for. Fossils are stated to exist in great variety, although hitherto little investigated. The botanist will also find specimens of several of the rarer kind of plants. The remains of antiquity, setting aside the city of Armagh, consist chiefly of the ruins of castles and abbeys, and of some very ancient churches. On the summit of Slieve Gallien is a cairn of stones, which forms the roof of a singular cavern of artificial construction, seemingly intended for other than sepulchral purposes. Armagh sends three members to the Imperial Parliament; two for the county, and one for the city.

ARMAGH, co. Armagh, Ulster, I.

Dublin 62 m. N & W. Pop. of Pa. 31,343.
Of City 8,203. M. D. Tu. and Sat.
Memb. of Parl. I. Valrs, May 21, July 10, Aug. 12, Tu. bef. Oct. 10, and Nov. 20.

Anciently a city, and still the seat of the primacy of all Ireland, and the county town. It is situated in the parish of the same name, which occupies portions of the baronies of Armagh, Upper and Lower Fews, O'Neel-land, and Turaney. The city stands on the acclivity of a lofty mountain, round the base of which runs the river Callan, in its progress to the Blackwater. The summit is crowned by the cathedral, a large gothic building, 190 feet from east to west, and 125 from north to south. It took its origin in an abbey, founded by St. Patrick, for regular canons of the order of St. Augustine. Armagh, which was once an extensive and popular place, contained many other religious establishments previously to the Reformation; and, in consequence, experienced a great decline on their suppression by Henry VIII. From that time, the decay of the place was gradual, until the acquirement of the primacy, by Dr. Richard Robinson, afterwards Lord Rokeby, who repaired the cathedral, and almost renovated the town; he also built a new parish church, and established a school for the education of children on the modern system, which has obtained great reputation, and is supported by lands in the county, valued, in 1801, at £1,117. 10s. 5d. per annum. The same munificent prelate erected an observatory, which he supplied with astronomical apparatus and a library. The Archbishop's palace, a modern edifice of great simplicity, was likewise erected by him, on the globe land adjacent this city, and considerable additions have been made to it by Lord J. Beresford, the present primate. A handsome county court-house has been lately built at the foot of the same hill; on which stands the observatory, where the assize and other county business is transacted. On the west of the city, there is a charter or charity-school, founded in 1758; as also a public infirmary and other charities. The ecclesiastical province, or archdiocese of Armagh, extends into the counties of Armagh, Derry, Meath, Louth, and Tyrone.

The chapter consists of a dean, precentor, chancellor, treasurer, archdeacon, four prebendaries, and eight vicars-choral. It is charged in the K. B. at 400*l.* per annum, but it is said to be worth 20,000*l.* The primate's lands amount to 101,000 acres. The living of the parish of Armagh is a rectory; charged in K. B. 25*l.*; patron, the Archbishop. The city is governed by twelve burghers, who, as deaths occur, elect to the vacancy. These alone enjoy the elective franchise; and uniformly elect the nominee of the archbishop. The city contains a large Roman Catholic and Presbyterian chapels; as also places of worship for Presbyterian seceders and Methodists. There is much linen manufactured in the town and its vicinity; and the average weekly sales of that article on the Tuesday market-day are very large.

A village in the parish of Kilninian, Isle of Mull, situated at the fall of the water of Aros into Mull Sound. It has a good harbour and a regular post-office communication with Oban. The Royal Bounty Committee has established a missionary here. The stately castle, formerly occupied by Macdonald, Lord of the Isles, is now in ruins.

ARRAN, shire of Bute, S.

Length 24 m. Breadth 10 m. Bute 8 m. S. Saltcoats, 16 m. W. Pop. 6341.

An island in the firth of Clyde, comprising two parishes, see Killbride and Kilmory. It is indented with several fine harbours, the principal of which on the west side are Blackwater-foot and Loch Ransa, and on the east Broadwick and Lamblash, each of which is the resort of numerous vessels for shelter in stormy weather; the latter describes a beautiful semicircle, defended by three islets and would contain 500 sail at once. At the northern extremity of the island is a noted sea-mark, termed the Cock of Arran, and to the southward of Lambhagh, a light-house on the isle of Plada. The coast is bold and rugged, the surface hilly, and intersected by good roads, and the soil hard and pebbly, though it produces oats, barley, and potatoes in abundance. Marl, lime-stone, iron-stone, free-stone, marble, slate, and bluish coal are here in profusion. On the summit of Gnatfield, a mountain 2810 feet above the level of the sea, are found peculiar diamonds called Arran stones, with some fine specimens of jasper, agate, calcoporum, and Scotch topaz. The white fish and herring fisheries are flourishing, and employ many hundreds of hands. Excellent salmon and trout abound in the lakes and in the rivers flowing therefrom. The hills afford shelter for wild deer and pasture for black cattle, of which 1000 head are annually transported to the shire of Ayr. Considerable quantities of kelp are manufactured here, and the inhabitants are further employed in working up wood for their domestic purposes. The Erse was the only language spoken till lately, but the English is now pretty generally used, twelve schools having been established on the island for teaching it. It is governed by the same laws as the rest of the shire. The Baron Baillie's Court has power to fine as high as twenty shillings; to decide matters of property, value forty shillings and under; to imprison for one month; and to cause offenders to be placed in the stocks two or three hours in the day-time. Invalids formerly resorted hither for the benefit of its salubrious air and the excellence of the whey from goat's milk. Brundwick Castle stands upon an eminence overlooking the bay of Brundwick, amidst fine plantations. It was anciently an important fortress, but is now modernized and occupied by the agent of the Duke of Hamilton, who is proprietor of the whole island, excepting two small farms. Some places retain the name of Fingal, of whom and Ossian, tradition still speaks, and it is said that the latter died here. It also afforded refuge to Robert Bruce and his faithful followers during his adverse fortune. Several cairns and Druidical temples lie scattered over the island.

ARRAN ISLES, co. Galway, Connaught, I.

A group of three islands, situated at the entrance to Galway bay, in the Atlantic ocean. Largest, Arranmore, comprises 1,607 acres; the next, Inishmaan, 1,300; and the least, Inis Leir, 900; longevity is common in each of them.

ARRANMORE, NORTH, co. Donegal, Ulster, I.

Lat. 55.6 N. Long. 9.27 W. Pop. 700.

An island in the barony of Boyleagh, parish of Templecrone, situated upon the NW.

coast of the Atlantic, one mile west of Rutland. The surface rather undulatory, comprises 2,000 acres, subdivided into very small portions. The chief occupation of the inhabitants is agriculture and kelp-making. Manganese and iron-stone can be had here in abundance. There is a light-house on this island, exhibiting a fixed bright light.

ARRANMORE, co. Galway, Connaught, I. Pop. 1770.

An island and parish in the barony of Arran, situated in the Atlantic ocean, at the mouth of Galway bay. It is the chief of the cluster termed the South Arran Isles, and is about five miles long by two broad, containing three villages and seven hamlets. The living is a rectory, forming part of the union of Hallynakill, in the archdiocese of Tuam. St. Enna or Ende caused ten churches to be built upon this island, of one of which he was Abbot, the rest being subordinate thereto. He died in the sixth century, and his festival is kept March 21st. This, as well as the two adjacent islands, is the property of — Digby, Esq. of Landenstown, and produce a rent of 2,500*l.* per annum; and the three islands continue in a more primitive state than North Wales, or than any other part of Britain. Here are remains of Druidism, open temples, altars, stone pillars, sacred mounts and raths, miraculous fountains and sacred groves. The religion is entirely Roman Catholic, and the language Celtic (of which the Irish is but a dialect). The surface of Arranmore is elevated 360 feet above the sea, is undulating and fertile, and contains 4,607 acres. Agriculture and fishing are the chief employments. Good oats are raised, sheep fed, and the most esteemed calves are reared here. The varieties of fish are very great, to aid in which pursuit, the Fishing-board have erected a pier 450 feet in length, on the island, where 100 vessels of forty tons burden may ride safely. There are forty-one open boats and seventeen row-boats, belonging to the port. Kelp forms a chief article of commerce, and puffin-hunting is found profitable. Costume here also is original; the boots called "Poppooties," made of untanned leather, are probably the most curious. The principal curiosities are the puffin-holes, Kilmory fort, and Great Kevin's-head. This is the station of a preventive water-guard; and there is a light-house, exhibiting a revolving light of a bright colour.

ARRETUN, co. Southampton.

P. T. Newport (20) 2 m. S E. Pop. 1737.

London 55 m. SSW.; Chichester 10 m. E. Pop. 2511. M. D. Wed. and Sat. Mem. of Pt. 2. Mail arr. 7 40 f. Mail dep. 5 30 a. Fairs, May 14, cattle and hogs, August 21, hogs, cattle, and sheep, Sep. 25, cattle and sheep, Dec. 17, cattle and pedlary, 2d Tu. in every month for cattle.

A borough, market-town, and parish in the hundred and rape of the same name, situated on the declivity of a hill, on the north bank of the river Arun, over which there is a bridge. It consists of two principal streets, one of which runs north and south, and the other westward from their point of union. Many of the houses rebuilt by the Duke of Norfolk are in the castellated style. The first mention of Arundel and its celebrated castle occurs in the will of king Alfred, by whom it was bequeathed to his nephew Adhelm. It was subsequently held by various members of the blood-royal, and other potent barons, until it passed into the possession of the Fitzalans, Earls of Arundel, from whom it was conveyed by marriage into that of the Howards, Dukes of Norfolk, with whom the paramount influence still remains. The charter, by which the town is governed, was granted by Queen Elizabeth. It consists of a mayor and twelve burgesses, with other officers, the former of whom is annually chosen at a court-leet of the lord of the manor. He has the authority of a justice of the peace, and no writ can be executed in the borough without his indorsement. This town has sent members to Parliament from the reign of Edward I., the right of election being possessed by all the inhabitants paying scot and lot; returning officer, the mayor; number of electors about 200; patron, the Duke of Norfolk. Here was formerly a harbour capable of containing vessels of 100 tons burthen, but it has been much damaged by the sea. Great quantities of timber, for ship-building, are however still shipped from this place, which has but little other trade, but is much benefited in summer by the visitors who resort to it for sea-bathing. The living of Arundel is a dis. vicarage, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Chichester, value in K. B. 5*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*; patron, the Duke of Norfolk; church ded. to the Holy Trinity, and formerly collegiate. The church is an ancient Gothic structure, with transepts, from the centre of which rises a low tower. Here are four monuments to as many Earls of Arundel, of the Fitzalan family, and others to various members of the Howards. The celebrated castle stands on a knoll, partly formed by nature, and partly by art, on the north-east side of the town. The present magnificent structure may be deemed almost a complete renovation of the ancient building, which had become little better than a heap of ruins when the late Duke of Norfolk determined to make it his principal baronial residence. The primitive castle was deemed impregnable in the feudal times, and in consequence is greatly celebrated in the civil broils by which they are so much distinguished. In the reign of Henry VI. on being restored to the Fitzalan family, an act of Parliament was passed to annex to the possession of this castle and honour the dignity of Earl, without further creation. The free-stone employed in the present building is of a heavy brown cast, to make the new assimilate the better with the remains of the old building, and nothing has been neglected to render it one of the most magnificent and interesting noble residences in Great Britain.

ARVAGH, co. Cavan, Ulster, I.

P. T. Killishandra 8 m. SSW. Pop. 280.

A village in the barony of Tullaghonoho, parish of Killishandra. About eighty children receive education here.

ARVANS, ST., co. Monmouth.

P. T. Chepstow (136) 3 m. NW. Pop. of Pa. 307. Of To. 280.

A parish and township, partly in the upper division of the hundred of Caldecott, and partly in the upper division of the hundred of Rayland. The living is a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff, certified value 10*l.*; ann. val. P. R. 65*l.*; patron, the Duke of Beaufort.

ASAPH, ST., or LLAN ELWY, partly in co. Denbigh, and partly in co. Flint.

London 208 (by Coventry) NW.; Chester 20 m.; Denbigh 5 m. Pop. 2755. M. D. Sat. Fairs, Easter Tues., July 15, Oct. 16, Dec. 26, for cattle.

A city and parish, the latter partly in Isdulas hundred, extending into that of Yale, co. Denbigh, but mostly in the hundred of Rhuddlan, co. Flint, including the townships of Bodengan Cilowen, Gwernygryn, Talar, Faenol, Bodlewyddan, Pengwyrn, Brynpolyn, Gwernglefryd, Cyrchynen, and Rhyllon in the latter, and the townships of Meriadlog and Wickwer in the former county. The city is seated on the decline of a pleasant eminence, between the rivers Clwyd and Elwy, which renders the first appearance striking, although consisting of little more than a single street. The see is supposed to have originated in St. Kenitgern, bishop of Glasgow, an exile from Scotland, who, returning to his own country, was succeeded by St. Asaph, from whom both the diocese and town took its name. From the death of the latter, in 596, little is known of the succession of bishops, until the thirteenth century; and even, subsequently, in the wars of Owen Glendower, the town and cathedral were nearly destroyed by the ravages of warfare. In the reign of Henry VIII. the see was charged at 187*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.* nett, which remains its present val. in K. B., but more properly estimated at about 1,500*l.* per ann. Here are a dean, archdeaconry (united to the bishopric) a chancellor, six prebends, four canons, four vicars-choral, four lay clerks, and other officers; and the diocese includes parts of the shires of Denbigh, Flint, Montgomery, Merioneth, and Salop. The deanery is valued in K. B. 45*l.* The living of the parish of St. Asaph is a vicarage in the gift of the bishop; the church stands in the lower part of the town, and serves for the use of the parishioners, the cathedral not being used for parochial purposes. The latter was built about the close of the fifteenth century; it consists of a choir, a nave, two aisles, and a transept. Several very eminent men have been bishops of St. Asaph, including Drs. Isaac Barrow, William Beveridge, and Samuel Horsley, the former of whom founded an almshouse for eight poor widows. Bishop Hughes, who died 1600, was also a great benefactor, and founded and endowed the Free Grammar-school. The vicinity of St. Asaph possesses several land proprietors who have afforded great encouragement to agriculture, including the late Dean Shipley, who stimulated the practical farmers to emulation by premiums and other encouragement. To this spirited dignitary, so well known in the history of the law of libel, a handsome and impressive monument has been recently erected in the cathedral.

ASBY, co. Westmoreland.

P. T. Appleby (270) 4 m. S. b W. Pop. 421.

The fairs for horses begin two or three days before the Fair-day.

A market-town and parish, partly in each of the hundreds of Morleston and Litchurch, and of Appletree and Wirksworth, on the borders of Staffordshire. This town is pleasantly situated in a rich valley on the eastern side of the Dove, over which is a stone bridge. It is divided into two parts by a rivulet, called the Henmore, the most southern of which division is termed Compton, the ancient Campdene. The town is neat, but exhibits nothing remarkable in its buildings. It was a royal manor at the time of the conquest, and became subsequently a part of the duchy of Lancaster until sold by Charles I. The living is a dis. vicarage, united to the rectory of Mapleton, in the archdeaconry of Derby and diocese of Lichfield and Coventry; val. in K. B. 5l. 4s. 7d.; ann. val. P. R. 65l.; patron, the Dean of Lincoln. The church, dedicated to St. Oswald, is supposed to have been finished in the thirteenth century. It contains many monuments to the Cokaines, Bradburns, and Boothbys, successively possessors of the manors. The free grammar-school was founded in the reign of Elizabeth by Sir Thomas Cokaine, and other natives, for children of the town and neighbourhood, as also a second for the poorer class of children of both sexes. Here are likewise a chapel and a neat row of almshouses, founded in 1800, by a native named Cooper, who made a fortune in London, for six poor men and women; besides several other hospitals for decayed housekeepers, including one for the maintenance of four clergymen's widows. This town has a considerable trade in cheese and malt, and many horses and cattle are sold at its fairs. Much lace is made here, and the iron and cotton factories in the neighbourhood employ a great many persons. The beautiful and romantic glen, called Dovedale, is within a short distance of this town.

B. 8l. 13s. 4d.; church ded. to St. James; patrons, Dean and Chapter of Canterbury. This village gives name and the title of Earl to the representatives of the ancient family of Ashburnham, who possessed this manor before the conquest. In the church are preserved the shirt and white silk drawers in which Charles I. was executed, and the watch which he gave to Mr. John Ashburnham on the scaffold. They were bequeathed by one of his descendants to the clerk of this parish for ever, and are exhibited as great curiosities.

A borough, market-town, and parish in the hundred of Teignbridge. The town is situated in a valley, surrounded by hills, about half a mile from the river Dart, and consists principally of one long street, through which is the high road from London to Plymouth. The houses are neat, and for the most part covered with slate, which abounds in the vicinity. In the reign of James I. the manor belonged to the Crown; but it has since passed through various private hands. The town, which is governed by a portreeve, chosen at the court leet and baron of the manor, is a borough by prescription, and was constituted one of the four stannary towns of Devon, by a charter of Edward I. In the twenty-sixth of the same reign it sent two members to Parliament, but only returned members once subsequently until 1610, when its privilege was finally restored. The right of election, until 1707, was in the inhabitants paying scot and lot, but it was then restrained to the holders of certain burgage tenures, all which being in the hands of two individuals, who own the freeholds, the apparent number of voters, about 200, is merely nominal; returning officer the portreeve; patrons, Lord Clinton and

Sir Lawrence Palk, Bart. Here is a handsome church, built in the form of a cross, with a tower ninety feet high, terminating in a small spire. In the chancel are several stalls as in collegiate churches; it is ded. to St. Andrew. The living is a vicarage, and a peculiar of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, in whom the patronage is vested. It is charged in K. B. 30*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.* There are several productive tin and copper-mines in the vicinity, and an extensive manufactory of serge in the town; and the Tuesday market is held chiefly for wool and yarn. Ashburton gives the title of Baron to the family of Dunning.

Of To. 2037. M. D. Sat.

Fairs, Shrove Mon. Easter Tu. Whit-Tu. 4
Last Mon. in Sep. Nov. 10 noted for large-sized horses, cows, and sheep.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of West Goscote, situated in a fertile valler on the borders of Derbyshire, through which runs the small river Gilwiskaw. It takes its distinctive appellation from the ancient family of the Zouches, who came into possession of the manor in the reign of Henry III. It subsequently devolved to the crown, which granted it to the noble family of Hastings, in right of whom the Marquis of that title possesses it at present. The town consists of one principal street, from which branch several smaller ones. It is governed by a constable and two headboroughs, chosen annually. The church, ded. to St. Helen, is a handsome ancient edifice, built of stone, consisting of a nave and two aisles, separated by four lofty arches, springing from fluted pillars. The living is a dis. vicarage, with Blackfordby annexed, in the archdeaconry of Leicester and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 14*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.*; patron, the Marquis of Hastings. Here are also places of worship for the Calvinistic and Wesleyan Methodists, Presbyterians and others. A free grammar-school was founded in this town by Henry, Earl of Huntingdon, in 1567; and another free-school, for twenty-six boys, by Isaac Dawson, in 1669. The manufactures established here are chiefly those of cotton and woollen stockings, and hats. There is likewise a good trade in malt; and the fairs are celebrated for the sale of fine horses and cattle. The ruins of Ashby Castle, of great note in former times, and which received Mary Queen of Scots as a prisoner, and her son James and his Queen, as guests, are still visible. It was built by the Lord Hastings so hastily executed by Richard III.; and dismantled during the civil wars in the reign of Charles I. The parish, which is very large, includes the hamlets of Blackfordby and Horthorpe, and also the extra-parochial lordship of Alton-Grange. It likewise contains a mineral spring, called Griffydun. The celebrated Joseph Hall, Bishop of Norwich, was born in this parish in 1574.

M. D. Sat. Fairs, 1st and 3d Tues. in every month, for cattle; May 17, Aug. 2, wool; Sep. 9, Oct. 12 and 21 for horses, cattle, and pedlary.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Chart and Longbridge, in the lathe of Scray. It is pleasantly situated on a gentle eminence, near the confluence of the upper branches of the river Stour, over one of which there is a bridge, and contains many handsome houses. The manor received the privilege of a market so early as the reign of Edward I. The town is governed by a mayor, and possesses a court of record for the recovery of debts not exceeding twenty marks. The church, ded. to St. Mary, is a spacious and handsome fabric, consisting of a nave, aisles, and three chancels, with a lofty and well-proportioned tower. There are several ancient monuments, and especially one of a Countess of Athol, who died in 1365, whose effigies exhibit the female costume of that age in a very remarkable manner. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Canterbury; charged in K. B. 18*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Rochester. The ancient college, founded by Sir John Fogge, owner of the manor, in the reign of Edward IV., was dissolved so early as that of Henry VII., and the house given to the vicar for a residence, and it still exists, although latterly much modernised. Here is a free grammar-school, founded by Sir Norton Knatchbull in the reign of Charles I., and various minor charities. The inhabitants of this town and its vicinity are much engaged in the rearing and fattening of cattle, for the sale of which its markets and fairs are much celebrated. Ashford gave birth in 1616 to the Rev. Dr. John Wallis, the celebrated decypherer and mathematician, who was the son of one of its vicars.

London 53 m. ESE.; Maidstone 20 m. SE. b E.; Canterbury 11 m. SW. Pop. 2773.
M. D. Sat. Fairs, 1st and 3d Tues. in every month, for cattle; May 17, Aug. 2, wool; Sep. 9, Oct. 12 and 21 for horses, cattle, and pedlary.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Chart and Longbridge, in the lathe of Scray. It is pleasantly situated on a gentle eminence, near the confluence of the upper branches of the river Stour, over one of which there is a bridge, and contains many handsome houses. The manor received the privilege of a market so early as the reign of Edward I. The town is governed by a mayor, and possesses a court of record for the recovery of debts not exceeding twenty marks. The church, ded. to St. Mary, is a spacious and handsome fabric, consisting of a nave, aisles, and three chancels, with a lofty and well-proportioned tower. There are several ancient monuments, and especially one of a Countess of Athol, who died in 1365, whose effigies exhibit the female costume of that age in a very remarkable manner. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Canterbury; charged in K. B. 18*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Rochester. The ancient college, founded by Sir John Fogge, owner of the manor, in the reign of Edward IV., was dissolved so early as that of Henry VII., and the house given to the vicar for a residence, and it still exists, although latterly much modernised. Here is a free grammar-school, founded by Sir Norton Knatchbull in the reign of Charles I., and various minor charities. The inhabitants of this town and its vicinity are much engaged in the rearing and fattening of cattle, for the sale of which its markets and fairs are much celebrated. Ashford gave birth in 1616 to the Rev. Dr. John Wallis, the celebrated decypherer and mathematician, who was the son of one of its vicars.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

London 140 m. NW.; Manchester 7 m. E.; Pop. of Pa. 25,007. Of To. 9721. M. D. Wed. discontinued. Fairs, March 22, April 29, July 25, and Nov. 26, for horned cattle, horses, and toys.

A parish in the hundred of Salford, containing the town of the same name, and the additional townships or districts of Audenshaw, Hartshead, and Knott-Lanes, with the populous hamlets of Boston, Charles-town, Dukinfield, Fairfield, Hay, Horst, Luzley with Toweracre, Mosley, Staley-Bridge, and Smallshaw. The town, which is built on the north bank of the river Tame, consists of several narrow streets. It has been much enlarged of late years by the extension of the cotton and woollen factories, which branches of manufacture, but more especially the latter, are carried on in this town and parish to a great extent. There are also several collieries in the vicinity, which employ a great many persons; and together with the peat from Ashton Moor, on the west of the town, render fuel very plentiful. The manor of Ashton was for a long time in the possession of a family of the same name, which possessed an exclusive jurisdiction, even to the extent of capitally convicting and executing. It subsequently was conveyed by marriage to the ancestors of the Earl of Stamford, its present and chief proprietor. The canal navigation, which passes through this town to Manchester, Rochdale, and Lancaster, is peculiarly favourable for the conveyance of coal and other weighty commodities, and in various ways proves extremely beneficial to the inhabitants. The living of this parish is a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Chester; charged in K. B. 267. 13s. 4d.; church ded. to St. Mary; patron (1829) the Earl of Stamford. A new chapel has been lately added, under the authority of the Act for building new churches, the ministry of which is in the patronage of the Rector of Ashton. At the village of Fairfield, in this parish, is a settlement of Moravians, who have built themselves a large place of worship. The males are mostly spinners and weavers, who form a very industrious and orderly community.

ASHTON-IN-MACKERFIELD, co. Pal. Lancaster.

P. T. Newton (251) 2½ m. NW. Pop. 5674.

A township and chapelry in the parish of Winwick, in the hundred of West Derby. The living is a perpetual curacy annexed to the rectory of Winwick, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Chester; certified value, 17. 12s.; ann. val. P. R. 1197. The inhabitants of this village are chiefly employed in the manufacture of cotton and hardware, and in the neighbouring collieries; the latter of which have materially increased the population since the census of 1811.

ASHTON-UPON-MERSEY, co. Pal. of Chester.

P. T. Stockport (176) 9 m. WSW.

Pop. of Pa. 1924. Of To. 875.

ASHWELL, co. Herts.

P. T. Baldock (37) 4 m. NNE. Pop. 913.

A parish in the hundred of Odsey, situate on the river Rhee, on the borders of Cambridgeshire. It is supposed to be of Roman origin, and was also an ancient demesne of the Saxon kings. The manor was ultimately granted to the see of London, to which it still belongs. The living is a rectory, valued in K. B. at 22*l.* 3*s.* 6½*d.*; patron, the Bishop of London. The church, which is ded. to St. Mary, has been lately rebuilt. There are remains of an ancient fortification, called Arbury Banks, in this neighbourhood, in which Roman coins have been frequently discovered. Many sepulchral urns have been also found in repairing the high north road in this vicinity, in which there are several stone quarries. Ashwell, supposed to be so called from certain springs at the south end of the town, which are shadowed by ash-trees, was once a market-town; and it is expressly called a borough in Domesday Book.

ASHWELL, co. Rutland.

P. T. Oakham (35) 3½ m. N. W. Pop. 220.

A parish in the hundred of Alstoe; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Northampton and diocese of Peterborough; valued in K. B. at 20*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patron (1829) Viscount Down.

P. T. Dingwall (174) 3 m. Pop. 2002.

An extensive parish situated on the Minch Chunnel in the North Sea, having two or three good harbours, and including a number of islands. The coast presents a succession of high and broken precipices, while the surface, equally romantic, exhibits a wild confusion of lofty mountains, masses of barren rock, heaths, mosses, lakes, and rivers, with here and there a cairn or Druidical temple to complete the scene. Here are quarries of beautiful white marble and limestone, which, with rearing cattle and fishing afford employment to the inhabitants, who are all connected by alliance. Songs in praise of Fingal and his heroes are still chaunted here in the Gaelic tongue, to the airs of which children are early taught to dance. This district was formerly a forest of the ancient Thanes of Sutherland. The living is in the presbytery of Dornoch, and synod of Sutherland and Caithness; patron, the Crown. The church is at Achnahighash, but there is another preaching place at Torbreck, near Loch Inver, and a new church has been recently built under the authority of the commissioners for building churches in the highlands of Scotland.

ATHELNEY, Isle of, co. Somerset.

P. T. Bridgewater (139) 7 m. Pop. with Pa.

A small isle formed by the junction of the Tone with the Parrot, in the parish of Lyng, and hundred of Andersfield, between Bridgewater and Langport. It is celebrated as the retreat of the great and virtuous Alfred, when temporarily subdued by the Danes, being surrounded by marshes, which when flooded rendered it nearly inaccessible. Here, when he recovered his authority, he founded the abbey of Athelney, for a body of monks of the Benedictine order; the abbot of whom enjoyed great privileges, although not deemed a lord of Parliament. Not a vestige of the building now remains; but fragments of architecture and sculpture have been dug up, which show that it was a building of considerable consequence. Many curious relics of antiquity have been discovered here, and among the rest, the head of a golden spear, supposed to have been the gift of Alfred to the abbey, and an amulet of enamel and gold, now in the Museum at Oxford; a legend on which expresses, that it was made by that patriotic king's command.

ATHELSTANEFORD, shire of Haddington, S.

P. T. Haddington (16) 3 m. N. Pop. 900.

A parish and village intersected by the Cog-tal burn, having the river Puffer on the north, and Lugdown burn on the south. The parish also includes the villages of Drein and Gilmerton. The soil is light and gravelly, but well cultivated and fruitful. The inhabitants are chiefly employed in agriculture; and at the new and flourishing village of Gilmerton there is a woollen manufacture of variegated cloth bearing the same name. The living is in the presbytery of Haddington, and synod of Lothian and Tweeddale; patron, Sir Alexander Kinloch, Bart., who has a fine mansion at Gilmerton. Garleton House, though in a ruinous state, was once a magnificent residence, and commands a noble prospect over East Lothian. Home, the author of "Douglas," and Blair, author of "The Grave," were ministers, and the latter a native, of this parish. Here are vestiges of an extensive Danish camp, and the ruins of a chapel built by the Knights Templars, and dedicated to St. John.

ATHENRY, or ATHENREE, see Kingstown, co. Galway, Connaught, I.

Dublin 121 m. W b S.; Galway 10 m.
Pop. of Pa. 10,977. Of To. 1003.
Fairs, May 5, July 2, and Oct. 28.

A market-town and parish; the latter being partly in the barony of the same name, including the town, with the village of Moan Bawn; partly in the barony of Clare, including the villages of Myro and Ubridbeg; partly in the barony of Tyaquin, including several small villages; and extending into the baronies of Dunkellin and Kilconnel. The living is a consolidated rectory and vicarage, with Monivea chapel of ease; value in K. B. 17*l.* 2*s.* sterling. It is episcopally united to the chapelry of Abbert and Duy Mac Loughney, in the archdiocese of Tuam; the church at Athenry, and a chapel at Monivea, in good condition. Upwards of 450 children receive education; and there is a charter-school of eighty girls in that part of the parish situated in Tyaquin barony. The town, which was established by an English colony, was anciently of some note, having been encompassed with walls, and possessed of a university. It was an incorporated borough, governed by a portreeve, and returned one burgess to the Irish Parliament. It gives title to the noble family of Birmingham, premier barons of Ireland, the second of whom, in 1241, assisted in founding a superb monastery, the ruins of which has recently been converted into barracks. In 1464, the Earl of Kildare erected a Franciscan friary here. A battle was fought in the vicinity of this place, in 1315, between the English and the Irish, which ended in the defeat of the latter.

ATHERINGTON, co. Devon.

P. T. Torrington (184) 7 m. N.E. Pop. 823.

A parish in the hundred of North Tawton with Winkley; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Barnstaple, and diocese of Exeter; charged in K. B. 26*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patron (1829), Francis Bassett, Esq.

ATHERSTONE, co. Warwick.

London (through Coventry) 103 m. N.W. Warwick 34 m. N.E. Pop. 2132. M. D. Tu. Mail at. 8 41 for. Mail dep. 5 36 aft. Fairs, Ap. 7, for horses, cows, and sheep; July 14, Holiday; Sep. 19, for horses, cows, and cheese; Dec. 4, for horses and fat cattle.

A market-town in the parish of Mancetter, of which it is a township in the Atherstone division of Henlingford hundred. It is situated on the Roman road called Watling-street, and chiefly consists of one street, in which there are several substantial dwellings, and a commodious market-house of modern erection. This town was given at the conquest to the monks of Bec in Normandy, who obtained for it a market and an annual fair, which brought it into consequence. It is only nine miles from the famous Bosworth field, and the secret conference was held in it between the Earl of Richmond, whose troops occupied the town, and the two Stanleys, on the night before the battle, which deprived Richard III. of his crown and his life. A religious house was founded here for friar-barnits of the Augustine order in the reign of Edward III.; the church of which forms the present chapel of ease to Mancetter. The living of this chapel is a perpetual curacy in the patronage of the vicar of that parish, of the certified value of 11*l.* 5*s.*; ann. val. P. R. 109*l.*; chapel ded. to St. Mary. A free grammar school was founded here in the year 1573, by Sir Wm. Devereux and others, which is held in the chancel of the friary. Here are manufactories of hats, ribbons, and shalloons; and much business is done at the four annual fairs, that in September bring the most considerable in England for the sale of cheese. The passage of the Coventry canal uniting with that of the Trent and the Mersey within a hundred yards of the town, adds very considerably to its trading facilities. The poet Drayton, author of the "Polyolbion," was a native of Atherstone.

ATHERSTONE-UPON-STOUR, co. Warwick.

P. T. Stratford-upon-Avon 63.3 m. S. Pop. 81.

A parish in the Kington division of the hundred of Kington, situated on the river

Stour, near its junction with the Avon. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Worcester; charged in K. B. 13*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*; patron and incumbent (1829) the Rev. Thomas Cox, D.D. Dr. Thomas, the continuator of Dugdale's Antiquities, resided in this village, which has been confounded with the market-town of Atherstone by several topographical writers, who have copied the error from one another.

ATHERTON, or CHOWBENTS, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

P. T. Newton (251) 7 m. N.E. Pop. 4143.

A township and chapel in the parish of Leigh and hundred of West Derby. It possesses several cotton manufactories and iron works, which, with the collieries in the vicinity, afford employment to the chief part of the inhabitants. The living of the chapel is a curacy, not in charge, exempt from visitation; ann. val. P. R. 140*l.*; church ded. to St. John the Baptist; patron (1829) R. V. Atherton, Esq. A branch of the Bridgewater canal passes near this place.

ATHLEAGLE, co. Roscommon, Connaught, I.

P. T. Roscommon (93) 4 m. S. Pop. of Pa. 4279. Of village 416. Fairs, June 11, and Sep. 24.

A parish and village in the barony of Athlone, the former extending into the barony of Allin, co. Galway, and watered by the river Suck. The living is a vicarage, val. in K. B. 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, and united to the vicarages of Puerty and Kilbegnet, in the diocese of Elphin and archdiocese of Tuam. About 160 children receive education in this parish. An abbey anciently stood here.

ATHLONE, co. Roscommon, Connaught, I.; co. Westmeath, Leinster, I.

Dublin 73 m. W. N. Pop. of St. Peter's Pa 9130; of St. Mary's 6063—Total 15,193. Of To. 7512. Memb. of Parl. 1. Fairs, first Mon. at 6th Jan.; March 21; Wed. bet. Ascension; and first Mon. in Sept.

A borough and market-town, partly in the parish of St. Peter's, barony of Athlone; and partly in the parish of St. Mary's, barony of Brawney. These parishes are separated by the Shannon, which intersects the town, and forms what is termed the English and the Irish towns, the first being seated on the left, and the latter on the right bank of the river, which is crossed by an ancient well-built bridge, the principal pass that connects the two provinces. The living of St. Peter's is a vicarage; value in K. B. 2*s.* sterling; in the diocese of Elphin and archdiocese of Tuam, with a church in good repair; and that of St. Mary's, a vicarage in the diocese of Meath, and archdiocese of Armagh, having also a church complete. Here is a charter-school for forty boys. Athlone is governed by a sovereign, a vice-sovereign, two bailiffs, a recorder, a deputy, and a town-clerk; and returns one burgess to the imperial Parliament. It is conveniently situated for trade; and is a strong military post, having, on the NW. height, considerable fortifications, which command the passages of the river at all points. Here are commodious barracks for a garrison of 2000 men, two magazines, and an armoury containing 15,000 stand of arms; and in the vicinity a canal, one mile in length, which connects Loughrea with the river below the town; also a celebrated chalybeate spring. Athlone, in 1690, withstood the siege of King William's army, though flushed with the victory of the Boyne; but in the year following, it capitulated to General de Ginkle, to whose descendants it gives title of Earl. Two ancient monasteries stood here, one in each parish.

ATHLUNNY, co. Meath, Leinster, I.

P. T. Navan (30) 3 m. S. & E. Pop. 817.

A parish in the barony of Skreen, watered by the river Boyne. The living is a vicarage; value in K. B. 6l. 2s. Irish, forming part of the union of Navan, in the diocese of Meath and archdiocese of Armagh. Here are the ruins of a church and also of a noble castle.

ATHOL, shire of Perth, S.

In length 45 m. In breadth 30 m.

A mountainous and rugged district, situated in the central Highlands, and comprehending a great portion of the ancient Caledonian forest. In the eighth century it constituted with Stormont the possessions of a Pictish prince. It contains several lakes and richly-cultivated valleys, and in the extensive forest of Athol game of various kinds are abundant. There are no towns, but many villages lie interspersed throughout the country. Athol gives title of Duke to the ancient and illustrious house of Murray. His Grace possesses the greatest part of the district and resides at Athol House, a princely mansion seated on an eminence at the foot of which runs the turbulent stream Garrie. It is of great antiquity and formerly an important fortress, noted for having caused the battle of Killcrankie in 1689, and withstanding several weeks' siege against the partizans of the Pretender in 1746, prior to the battle of Culloden. See Blair-Athol.

ATHY, co. Kildare, Leinster, I.

Dublin 40 m. SW. Pop. 3023.

Fairs, Mar. 17; Apr. 25; June 9; July 25; Oct. 10, and Dec. 11.

A market-town in the barony of Narragh and West Rheban, situated partly in the parishes of Churchtown, Athy St. John, and Athy St. Michael. It is seated on the banks of the navigable river Barrow, which is here crossed by a bridge, and the inhabitants carry on a considerable traffic with the city of Dublin and intervening places, by means of a branch of the grand canal, which, diverging at the nineteenth lock, extends to this town, and connects the Barrow with the Liffey. Athy was incorporated by James I. in 1613, is governed by a sovereign, two bailiffs, and a town clerk, and prior to the union sent two burgesses to the Irish Parliament alternately with Naas; it is the assize town for the county. Here is a free-school, and at others upwards of 270 children receive education. The remains of its ancient castle have been converted into a prison. A priory for Crouched Friars formerly stood on the western side of the river, and a Dominican Friary on the opposite bank.

AUCHENCAIRN, stewardry of Kircudbright, S.

P. T. Kircudbright (89) 7 m. E b S.

Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of Kerwick, situated upon a fine bay of the same name, the bed of which at low water exhibits a surface of sand so smooth and firm that horse races have been held upon it. On the west side vessels of any burthen may lie in perfect safety.

AUCHENCRAW, shire of Berwick, S.

P. T. Press (43½). Pop. with Pa.

Ayton (47½) 3 m. NW.

An inconsiderable village in the parish of Coldingham, formerly more populous.

AUCHENLOCH, shire of Lanark, S.

P. T. Kirkintilloch (40) 2 m. S. Pop. with Pa.

A small village in the parish of Cadder, in under ward. Here is a school endowed with 325*l.* sterling, and land for a house and garden, of which the heritors of the parish are patrons.

AUCHENMALLY, shire of Wigtown, S.

P. T. Glenluce (114) 4 m. SE b S.

Pop. with Pa.

A fine bay in the parish of Old Luce, which at a small expense might be converted into a secure harbour for ships of burthen.

AUCHINDOIR, shire of Aberdeen, S.

P. T. Clatt (120) 4 m. WSW. Pop. 260.

A parish, including the ancient parish of Kearn, in the district of Alford. It is watered by the river Bogie, which abounds with trout. The surface is mountainous, and affords good pasturage, with a variety of game in plenty. The Buck, a mountain 2377 feet above the level of the sea, is situated on the boundary. Free-stone, limestone, and a bluish species of asbestos, are found here; living, in the presbytery of Alford and synod of Aberdeen; patron, Earl of Fife. Craig, the residence of Mr. Gordon, is surrounded by extensive plantations and other great improvements.

AUCHINLECK, shire of Ayr, S.

P. T. Old Canmore (61) 1½ m. NW.

Pop. 1924. Fair, last Tu. in Aug. for lambs.

A parish in the district of Kyle, watered by the rivers Lugar and Ayr, on the banks of which the soil is fertile, but in general the face of the country is naked and bleak, the district of Glenmore, extending eight miles, being covered with heath, and another termed Ayr's Moss extends five miles, producing nothing but peats. Coals, limestone, free-stone, and a fire-proof stone used for ovens, &c. are found in plenty. Here is also a lead mine, said to be rich in silver. Living, in the presbytery of Ayr and synod of Glasgow and Ayr; patron, Boswell of Auchinleck, the situation of whose elegant residence, built of hewn stone, is extremely romantic and pleasant. Upon a point of rock on the margin of the Lugar are considerable remains of an ancient castle of the Boswells, the grounds about which have recently been planted for timber.

AUCHLOSSEN LOCH. See Loch Auchlissan.

AUCHMEDDEN, shire of Banff, S.

P. T. Mortlach (140) 3 m. WNW.

Pop. with Aberlour.

A small village in the parish of Aberlour, situated on a creek of the Moray Firth, at the confluence of the burns Auchmedden and Troup. It had formerly a small harbour, with a pier, which through neglect is demolished by the continual agitation of the water, and the basin rendered almost useless in stormy weather even for the few fishing boats that belong here. Superior millstones are hewn out of a terrific cliff on the sea-coast.

AUCHMITHY, shire of Forfar, S.

P. T. Aber Brothock (58) 3½ m. NE.

Pop. about 200, with St. Vigean's.

A fishing-village in the parish of St. Vigean's, situated upon a high rock on the coast of the North sea. It is an irregular place, but contains some good buildings, and has an open harbour, with a level beach, convenient for hauling up the fishermen's boats to secure them from the surge. Here is a noted cavern termed Gaylet Pot, into which the sea flows.

AUCHTERARDER, shire of Perth, S.

Edinburgh 51½ m. NW. Pop. 2070. Fairs,

March 10; 24 Tu. in July; Aug. 3; Oct. 1;

Nov. 24, all O. S.

A parish and village intersected by the great

Perth and Glasgow road; the parish includes the additional villages of Aber-Ruthven, Norland-Park, and Mill-Town, and comprises part of the Ochil hills, which afford good sheep pasture, and plenty of game, while the lowlands, watered by the river Earn, are fruitful in corn. Stone for building, and a peculiar sort of thin slate are found here. The living is in the presbytery of Auchterarder and synod of Perth and Stirling; patron, Earl of Kinnoull. A general post-office is established at the village, which extends a mile in length, and suffers a scarcity of water. Four hundred looms are employed here in the manufacture of linen and cotton for the Glasgow trade, besides which making and distilling are carried on to a considerable extent. This place had anciently the privileges of a royal burgh, some of the houses being still held by burghage tenure. In the vicinity are traces of Roman fortifications, the ruins of a castle or hunting-seat of King Malcolm Canmore, and the remains of a chapel, ded. to St Mungo, the ancient parish church.

AUCHTERDERRAN, shire of Fife, S.

P. T. Kirkaldy (12) 8 m. N.W. Pop. 1200.

A parish in the district of Kirkaldy, including the village of Loch-Gellie, which is situated on a lake of the same name, and about three miles in circuit. The lands are chiefly appropriated to pasturage. Coals, free-stone, and lime-stone, are found in abundance, and here is a mineral spring, formerly of some note, though now disused. A bank for savings has been established. The living is in the presbytery of Kirkaldy and synod of Fife; patron, Lord Balmuto.

AUCHTERGAVEN, shire of Perth, S.

P. T. Perth (20) 3½ m. N.W. Pop. 1270.

Fairs, last Tues. in Apr.; last Wed. in May; 2d Wed. in Aug.; Oct. 12; and Nov. 22. A parish, including the village of Stanley, which see. It is intersected by the Perth and Dunkeld road, and consists chiefly of hills, moirs, and moors, though great agricultural improvements have recently been made; living, in the presbytery of Dunkeld and synod of Perth and Stirling; patron, the Crown.

AUCHTERHOUSE, shire of Forfar, S.

P. T. Dundee (10½) 7 m. N.W. Pop. 625.

A parish, including the villages of Dronlaw and Kirk-Town, situated on the south side of the Sidlaw hills, and intersected by the Dundee and Meikle road. The soil is moorish, but by the application of marl it has been rendered fertile, and it is chiefly enclosed. The living is in the presbytery of Dundee and synod of Angus and Mearns; patron, the Earl of Airly. On the Whitesorts, north of the church, are traces of an ancient fortress, the area of which is two acres, surrounded with stone walls and a deep fosse. Auchterhouse, a seat of the Earl of Airly, is falling to decay; contiguous to it stands a ruined tower, which, it is said, was once very lofty and gave name to the parish.

AUCHTERLESS, shire of Aberdeen, S.

P. T. Turreff (12½) 4½ m. S. Pop. 1530.

A parish in the district of Turreff, watered by the river Ithan. The soil is fertile and yields early crops; living, in the presbytery of Turreff and synod of Aberdeen; patron, the Crown. Church a handsome structure erected in 1740. Here are some Druidical circles in good preservation, and an extensive Roman camp near Glen-Mallen, with other remains indicating its having been a strong and important military station, and, according to some writers, the Ad Itunam of the Romans.

AUCHTERMUCHTY, shire of Fife, S.

Edinburgh 31 m. Falkland 3½ m. N. & W. Cupar 9 m. W. Pop. 2724. Market, Tues. disused. Fairs, 1st Thurs. in Apr.; July 12; Aug. 21; and 1st Tues. in Nov.; each much resorted to.

A town and parish in the district of Cupar, the parish including the village of Duneshall. To the northward the surface is hilly, covered with heath, but the southern part lies low and is abundantly fruitful. Free-stone is plentiful, and the bridges and roads are excellent. The living is in the presbytery of Cupar and synod of Fife; patron, Moncrieff of Myers. The town retains the privileges of a royal burgh with the exception of sending a member to Parliament. By charter of James IV., renewed by James VI., it is governed by three bailies, fifteen councillors (one being the treasurer) and a town clerk. The annual income of the corporation, which is considerable, arises from the custom of fairs, rents of mills, &c. Here is an extensive manufacture of coarse linen. In the vicinity is Myers, the seat of the ancient family of Moncrieff.

AUCHTERTOOL, shire of Fife, S.

P. T. Kirkaldy (12) 4 m. W. Pop. 326.

A parish and village in the district of Kirkaldy, situated on the burn Toul or Teel, which issues from the lake Camilla, abounding in perch. The surface is uneven but well cultivated, and the quarries afford free-stone and lime-stone in plenty; living, in the presbytery of Kirkaldy and synod of Fife; patron, Earl of Moray. At the village there is an extensive ale and porter brewery, a great part of which is sent to Glasgow and Greenock for exportation. Castle Camilla, which stands on the margin of the lake, is noted as having been the rendezvous of the lairds of Fife in the rebellion of 1715.

AUCHVERN, shire of Ross, S.

P. T. Glenelg (10½) m. N. & E. Pop. with Pa.

A farm in Glenelg in the parish of Kintail. It was once a populous town, but in 1715 it was overwhelmed and demolished by a terrible mountain torrent, and has since become a grazing district.

UCKLAND BISHOP. See Ep. Auckland.

UCKLAND, ST. ANDREW, co. Pal. of Durham.

P. T. Bishop Auckland (10½) 1 m. S. & E. Pop. of Pa. 8223. Of To. 110.

AUDELEY END, co. Essex.

P. T. Ruffron-Walden (47) 1 m. WSW.
Fair, August 5, for cheese.

A magnificent seat now possessed by Lord Braybrooke, to whom it was bequeathed by Lord Howard. The present mansion, although stately, forms but a small part of the original structure, which was built by Thomas, Lord Audley, lord treasurer to James I. as a palace for that monarch, who on declining to occupy it, quaintly observed that it might be supported by a treasurer but was too great for a king. It subsequently was inhabited by the Earls of Suffolk, one of whom sold it to Charles II., but the purchase-money not being duly paid, it was re-granted to the Suffolk family, who pulled a great part of it down. There are some distinguished original portraits by Holbein, Kneller, and other masters, in the state apartments of this mansion. The grounds at Audley Hall are pleasantly diversified with hills and dales, and the river Granta forms an attractive feature in the front of the house.

AUGUSTUS, FORT, shire of Inverness, S.

Edinburgh 131 m. N.W. Pop. with Parish.
Fairs, 2d Mon. in June; 2d Th. in August.

A regular fortification in the parish of Boleskine, constructed upon a peninsula formed by the rivers Oich and Tarf, both of which fall into Loch Ness here, at its western extremity, the former having a stone bridge of three arches. It consists of four bastions, contains commodious barracks for the garrison, and has daily communication by water with Inverness, whence is drawn its chief supplies. This post is not remarkable for great strength, being environed by lofty heights and mountains, but it is a spot well adapted for pleasure. In 1746 it fell into the hands of the Pretender's partizans, who demolished what they could, and then evacuated the place. Roman coins have been found here.

AUKBOROUGH, co. Lincoln.

P. T. Barton (167) 10½ m. W. Pop. 428.

A parish in the northern division of Manley wapentake; living, a dis. vicarage, united with Whitton, in the archdeaconry of Stow and diocese of Lincoln; valued in K. B. 10l.; ann. val. P. R. 100l.; church ded. to St. John the Baptist; patrons, alternately the Bishop of Lincoln and T. Goulton, Esq. Traces of a Roman camp and vicinal road exist in this parish, in one angle of which stood a Roman castle, 300 feet square, which from the extent of view, is supposed to have been a watch-tower over the adjacent counties. Here also antiquaries place the town called by the Romans Aguis. Many curious fossils are found here.

AUKLEY, co. Nottingham.

P. T. Bawtry (133) 3 m. N. Pop. 297.

A township in the parish of Finningley, in the Hatfield division of the hundred of Bassetlaw.

AULDEARN, shire of Nairn, S.

P. T. Nairn (107) 2½ m. S.E. Pop. 1523.
Three annual markets, one on 21st June.

A parish and village situated on the coast of, and at the confluence of a branch of the Nairn, with the Moray Firth, in the vicinity of which the ground is fertile, but receding from the sea it becomes hilly and less productive. Here are considerable beds of marl and peat. Living in the presbytery of Nairn and synod of Moray; patron, James Brodie, Esq. of Brodie. Lathen, a fine seat of Mrs. Brodie, and Bonth, belonging to the family of Dunbar, are in this parish. Roman arms of brass have been found in one of the mosses.

AULT-HUCKNALL, co. Derby.

AUSDALE, shire of Caithness, S.

P. T. Berriedale (233) 4 m. SW.
Pop. with Pa.

A small Highland village in the parish of Latheron.

AUSKERRY, shire of Orkney and Shetland.

Stronsay 3 m. N. Pop. none.

One of the Orkney islands, forming a part of the parish of Stronsay, and appropriated to the pasturage of cattle and sheep. Here are the ruins of a chapel, and of a small house termed Monk's house. Much kelp is manufactured on the shore.

AUST, or AUST-CLIVE, co. Gloucester.

P. T. Thornbury (120) 4 m. WSW. Pop. 102.

A tything and chapelry in the parish of Henbury, in the hundred of Upper Henbury. The living is a curacy in the archdeaconry of Gloucester and diocese of Bristol; certified value 20l.; patronage with the vicarage of Henbury. This village is situated amidst the salt marshes on the banks of the Severn, over which river there is a ferry to the mouth of the Wigan. It is called the Old Passage, to distinguish it from the New Passage, which is two miles lower down the river. It was at this place Edward I. passed to hold a conference with Llewellyn, the last prince of Wales.

AUSTELL, ST., or AUSTLE, ST., co. Cornwall.

London 213 m. WSW.; Truro 14 m. NNE.; Launceston 21 m. NW. Pop. 6173. M. D. Fel. Fairs, Whit-Thur. and Nov. 30, for oxen, sheep, and cloth. Mail arr. 12 25 aft. Mail dep. 10 27 f.

A market-town and parish in the east division of the hundred of Powder. It is situated on the eastern side of a hill, at the bottom of which runs a small rivulet, that has been rendered very servicable to the tin manufactories of the vicinity, by the aid it has been made to afford to machinery. This town, in consequence of its nearness to the great tin mine of Polgooth, has increased from comparative insignificance within the last sixty years, during which time the high road has been carried through it from Plymouth to the Land's End. It is also much benefited by the holding of the Blackmore Court, which is the most considerable of the Stannary Courts. The town possesses but little beauty, the streets being narrow and inconvenient, but it has a good modern market-house, and the church, ded. to St. Austell, is a handsome fabric, and rendered remarkable by various fanciful carvings of apostles and others in different parts of the structure, to decypher which has afforded no small exercise of ingenuity to the observant antiquary. The living, united to that of Blazey, is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Cornwall, and diocese of Exeter; charged in K. B. 81. 13s. 4½d. patron, the King, as Duke of Cornwall. Here are manufactories of coarse woollen cloth, but the inhabitants are chiefly occupied in mining, and by the pilchard fisheries in the bay of Austell, the latter of which engross immense attention during the season. In the environs are quarries of porcelain clay, which is sent to the Staffordshire and other potteries. Here are chapels for various classes of dissenters, and most of the social distinctions of a busy community. Queen Elizabeth gave the original charter for holding a market here, and assigned the tolls to the relief and maintenance of the poor, the revenue from which has now become considerable.

AUSTERFIELD, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Bawtry (153) 1½ m. NNE. Pop. 212.

A township and chapelry in the parish of Blyth, in the south division of the hundred of Strafforth and Tickhill. The living is a curacy in the archdeaconry of Nottingham and diocese of York; certified val. 15l. 10s. 4d.; patronage with vicarage of Blyth. It has been supposed by some antiquaries that a great battle was fought here between the Britons and the Romans under Ostorius, and that Austerfield is derived from his name.

AUSTELSON, co. Pal. of Chester.

P. T. Northwich (173) 4 m. WSW. Pop. 61.

A township in the parish of Acton, in the hundred of Nantwich.

AUSTHORPE, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Alford (141) 4 m. NW. Pop. 108.

A parish in the Wold division of the wapentake of Louth Esk, parts of Lindsey; living, a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln; valued in K. B. 5l. 13s. 4d.; ann. val. P. R. 102l. 5s.; church ded. to St. Margaret; patron (1829) Robert Vince, Esq.

AUTORSKYLE, shire of Cromarty, S.

A district of the extensive parish of Loch Broom, situated on the southern margin of that estuary in the Minsh channel.

AVEBURY, or ABURY, co. Wilts.

P. T. Marlborough (74) 8½ m. W. Pop. 688.

A parish in the hundred of Selkley; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Sarum; valued in K. B. 9l.; church ded. to St. James; patron, the Lord Chancellor. This village is celebrated for the remains of a Druidical structure of the nature of that at Stonehenge, but supposed to be more ancient and in its original state more stupendous. According to Stukely it consisted of 630 stones, independently of a huge cromlech about a mile to the north, and was so extensive as to include the whole of the present village within its circumference. It was surrounded by a broad ditch and lofty vallum without the ditch, which ridge or vallum, it is thought, was intended for spectators to view the ceremonies within the area. Within the ditch was a circle 1400 feet in diameter, formed of 100 upright stones from fifteen to seventeen feet high, and about forty feet in circumference, placed at a distance of twenty-seven yards from each other. Within this circle were two circles, each consisting of two double concentric arches composed of the same number of stones, and exhibiting a similar arrangement. There were two entrances to the grand circle, consisting of double rows of 100 upright stones each, placed at equal distances and extending a mile in length, one of which was terminated by another double concentric circle of smaller dimensions, and the other by a larger stone than the rest. Of this vast structure, very little now remains, the stones having been broken up, and the discovered fragments employed in the repairs of roads and construction of houses. The church of Avebury is of high antiquity, but the character of the edifice has been confounded by modern alterations. The vicinity of Avebury abounds with tumuli, cromlechs and barrows, besides those already described. The Roman tumulus, called Silbury Hill, which is 1680 feet in circumference and 170 feet high, from its conical shape and isolated position, forms a striking contrast to the undulating chalk hills by which it is surrounded.

AVE

AVELEY, co. Essex.

P. T. Purfleet (18) 8 m. NE. Pop. 733.

Fair, Easter Monday.

A parish in the hundred of Chafford; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Essex and diocese of London; valued in K. B. 14l. 10s. 3d.; church ded. to St. Michael. The patronage formerly belonged to Cardinal Wolsey, and on his disgrace was given to the Dean and Chapter of St. Pauls, by whom it is still retained. This village was formerly a market-town.

AVEN, shire of Banff, S.

A river flowing from Loch Aven, which falls into the Spey at Inveraven.

AVEN, shire of Lanark, S.

A river issuing from the above source on the border of the parishes of Galston and Sorn, which falls into the Clyde at Hamilton-bridge.

AVEN, or AVON, shire of Dumbarton, S.

A river rising in the parish of Cumbernauld, and running along the eastern boundary of the shire of Stirling, falls into the Firth of Forth near Borrowstowness.

AVENHURY, co. Hereford.

P. T. Bromyard (123) 2 m. SSE. Pop. 332.

A parish in the hundred of Broxash; living, a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Hereford; charged in K. B. 7l. 8s. 9d.; church ded. to St. Mary; patron, the Lord Chancellor.

AVENDALE, shire of Lanark, S.

P. T. Strathaven 3s. Pop. 3030.

A parish in middle ward, including the town of Strathaven, where the road between Edinburgh and Ayr, and that between Glasgow and Dumfries intersect each other. It is watered by the rivulet Pomilion, and by the Aven, which next to the Clyde is the largest river in Lanark, and is crossed by three bridges in this parish. On its banks the soil is fertile, considerable tracts of moor having been converted into arable; and on the south side are traces of a Roman road for several miles. Limestone and some coal are found here; living in the presbytery of Hamilton and synod of Glasgow and Ayr; patron, the Duke of Hamilton. There are three ancient chapels in this parish, and upon an eminence near the rivulet stands a decayed castle, the residence of Anne, Duchess of Hamilton, in Cromwell's time, said to have been built by Lord Brandale, grandson of Murdoch, Duke of Albany, in the fifteenth century.

AVENING, co. Gloucester.

P. T. Tetbury (99) 3½ m. N & W. Pop. 1118.
A parish in the hundred of Longtree, including a part of the chapelry of Nailsworth. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Gloucester; charged in K. B. 24l.; patron and incumbent (1829) Rev. Dr. Brooks. The church, which is ded. to St. Mary, is built upon a rising ground, in the form of a Norman cross, with a tower in the centre. The chief part of the inhabitants are in the clothing line. There are several barrows in this parish in which human skeletons have been found, and in a field adjoining Gatcombe Park is a large tumulus, with a stone at each end and a huge one at the summit, called Longstone, regarded by tradition as a monument to the memory of Long, a Danish chieftain.

AVERHAM, co. Nottingham.

P. T. Newark (141) 2 m. W & N. Pop. 191.
A parish in the wapentake of Thurgaston; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Nottingham and diocese of York; charged in K. B. 20l.; church ded. to St. Michael; patron (1829) J. Sutton, Esq. On a monument to Sir William Sutton, once lord of this manor, it is quaintly recorded that he had sixteen children, and an equal number of each sex; of whom the one half cherished to heaven their father; and the other, Remained behind him to attend their mother.

AVETON-GIFFORD, co. Devon.

P. T. Modbury (204) 3 m. SE. Pop. 921.
A parish in the hundred of Ermington; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Totness and diocese of Exeter; charged in K. B. 38l. 1s. 8d.; church ded. to St. Andrew; patron (1829) James Pitman, Esq.

AVEMORE, shire of Elgin.

P. T. Pitman (1124) 12½ m. NE. Pop. with Pa. A small village in the parish of Duthel, situated on the western bank of the Spey, in the great road to the Highlands. Here is a good inn, and in the vicinity an entire Druidical temple.

A parish in the hundred and division of Pawley; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; charged in K. B. 11l. 11s. 10½d.; church ded. to St. Mary; patron, the Bishop of Winchester.

AVOCH, shire of Ross, S.

P. T. Fortrose (101) 5 m. S W & S. Pop. 1221.
A parish, formerly comprehended within the ancient district of Ardmearoch, or the Black Isle, and including the villages of Kirkton, Milltown, and Seatown. It lies along the northern coast of the Moray Firth, has a new harbour and other modern improvements consequent upon the great extension of the herring fishery and the manufacture of linen and Cambric. Here are quarries of good free-stone, and in Muncheby bay one of a hard red stone, which supplied the materials for the construction of Fort George, and is easily accessible to boats; living, in the presbytery of Chanonry and synod of Ross; patron, Mrs. Brodie, of Lethen. Rosehaugh, in this parish, is a fine seat of Sir Roderic Mackenzie, Bart., around which are well cultivated grounds and beautiful plantations. On Ormoudy hill are the ruins of an ancient fabric, termed Douglas Castle.

AVON, co. Wilts.

P. T. Chippenham (93) 3 m. NE. Pop. 10.
A chapelry in the parish of Christian-Malsford, to the rectory of which it is subordinate; living, a curacy; valued in K. B. 11. 11s. 4d.

AVON, a river which rises near Tetbury, in Gloucestershire, and running through a part of Wiltshire enters Somersetshire near Bath. Passing that town and Bristol it proceeds in its course to the Severn, into which river it falls at King's Road, nine miles below Bristol.

AVON, a river which takes its rise in Wiltshire, and passing through Salisbury enters Hampshire at Charford. Then proceeding by Fordingbridge and Ringwood, it discharges itself in Christchurch bay in the English channel.

AVON, a river which rises at Avon Well, near Naseby, in Northamptonshire, and passing through Leicestershire, almost equally divides Warwickshire, being the Avon to which so much celebrity has been given by watering the native place of Shakespeare. From Warwickshire it enters Worcestershire, and after a very devious course in that county, falls into the Severn at Tewkesbury.

AVON, a small river in Monmouthshire, which falls into the Usk, near Caerleon.

AVON, a river in Wales, which rises in the north of Glamorganshire, and falls into Swansea bay at Aberavon.

AVON, a river in Wales, which rises in the county of Monmouth, and discharges itself into Cardigan bay, near Barmouth, is the same county.

AVON-DASSETT, co. Warwick.

P. T. Banbury (20) 6 m. Pop. 342.

A parish in the Burton-Dasset division of the hundred of Kington; living, a rectory exempt from visitation, in the diocese of Lichfield and Coventry; charged in K. B. 1*l*. 1*8s*. 9*d*.; patron, Rev. H. Jesson.

AVONDOW, shire of Dunbarton, S.

The name of a river which issues from the side of Ben-Lomond, and afterwards assumes the name of Forth, one of the most noted rivers in Scotland.

AWF, shire of Argyll, S.

A river which flows from Loch-Awe, and loses itself in Loch-Etive, near Bonaw.

AWLISCOMBE, co. Devon.

P. T. Henton (186) 2 m. W & N. Pop. 612.

A parish in the hundred of Hemyock; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter; val. in K. B. 12*l*. 10*s*. 10*d*. church ded. to St. Michael; patron, the Duke of Bedford.

AWNBY. See Holywell, co. Lincoln.

AWRE, co. Gloucester.

P. T. Blakeney (183) 2½ m. ENE. Pop. 1138.

A parish in the hundred of Blideslow; living a vicarage (with Poulton), in the archdeaconry of Hereford and diocese of Gloucester; charged in K. B. 10*l*. 5*s*.; church ded. to St. Andrew; patrons, the Haberdasher's company, London. The woollen cloth factories employ a great many of the inhabitants of this parish.

AXBRIDGE, co. Somerset.

London, 130 m. W & N. Wells, 10 m. W. Pop. 1004. M. D. Nat. Pairs, Feb. 23; Mar. 23, for cattle, sheep, cheese, and toys.

A borough market town and parish, locally situate in the hundred of Winterstoke; but with separate jurisdiction. It is built on the banks of the river Axe, from which it takes its name, on the south-west ridge of the Mendip hills. It is a borough by prescription, and one of the most ancient in England, but has sent no member to Parliament since the reign of Edward III. when the burgesses prayed to be released from representation, on the ground of expense. It consists principally of one street, running in a winding direction from east to west, at the east end of which is the market-house. Although so small it is governed by a corporation, consisting of a mayor, bailiff, ten aldermen, and twenty-two burgesses, with a recorder, town-clerk, and other officers. The living is a dis. rectory, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Wells; val. in K. B. 11*l*. 4*s*. 4*d*. patron, the Bishop of Bath and Wells. The church, which is ded. to St. John the Baptist, is seated on an eminence near the market-house. It is a large handsome Gothic edifice, in the form of a cross, at the west end of which is a fine tower, decorated with two statues in niches, the one of a king, the other of a bishop, upon whose names even tradition is silent. Many hose are knit at this place, but there is no manufactory of importance. It has a good market, especially for cows, sheep, and pigs. Here is an almshouse and other charities, endowed to the amount of 100*l*. per ann.

AXE, a river which rises near Chiddington, in Dorsetshire, and entering Devonshire at Ford, falls into the British Channel at Axmouth.

AXE, a river in Somersetshire, that rises in two small branches from the Mendip hills, one of which has its source in a cavern called Wokey's Hole. It takes a north-west direction, and after a short course, falls into the Severn, near Uphill.

AXFORD, co. Wilts.

P. T. Marlborough (70) 3 m. ENP. Pop. 429.

A tything in the parish and hundred of Ramsbury.

AXHOLME, Isle of, co. Lincoln.

Length 10 m. Breadth 4 m.

No. of Acres 37,000.

An island formed by the rivers Trent, Don, and Idle, in the western division of Manley wapentake. It comprises the parishes of Althorpe, Belton, Crowle, Epworth, Haxey, Liddington and Ouston, (which article see). It is divided into thirteen constabularies, the principal of which is Elsworth. Alabaster and flax are produced here; and the bodies of oak, fir, and other trees are often found at a few yards from the surface.

AXMINSTER, co. Devon.

London 147 m. WSW. Bridport 19 m. W. Exeter 26 m. Pop. 2742. M. D. Nat. Mail arr. 1.30, a. Mail dep. 1, a. Pairs, St. Mark's day; April 30; Wed. after June 24; Wed. after Oct. 10.

A market-town in the hundred of the same name. It received its name from the river Axe, on the banks of which it is situated, and a minster, founded by King Athelstan. It is a large and irregularly built town, but the streets are open and the air is deemed very salubrious. The living is composed of a rectory and vicarage united, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter; the former charged in K. B. 40*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*., and the latter 4*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*.; patrons, the Prebendary of Warhill, in York Cathedral, and the Chancellor of York. The church, which is dedicated to St. Mary, exhibits specimens of various styles of architecture, and a part of it has been deemed as ancient as the reign of its original founder, Athelstan. The major part of the inhabitants of this town are employed in carpet-weaving, and the manufacture of broad and narrow cloths, cotton, tapes, druggets, and gloves; with other articles in leather. Here is a Roman Catholic chapel, and places of worship for Methodists and Independent dissenters, with an endowed charity-school, and other minor charities.

AXMOUTH, co. Devon.

P. T. Colyton (150) 3 m. S. Pop. 329.

A parish in the hundred of Axminster, sie on the coast between Lyme and Sidath. The living is a vicarage in the hdeaconry and diocese of Exeter; arged in K. B. 227. 19s. 2d.; patron, the

v. J. Comyns, and others. Here is a ad bay, formerly much resorted to for etter by shipping. The fall of the river e into the sea at this place has given it he name it bears.

AYCLIFFE-GREAT, co. Pal. of Durham.

P. T. Darlington (241) 6 m. N.
Pop. of Pa. 1370. Of To. 507.

A parish and township in the South-east division of Darlington ward; the former including the additional townships of Brufferton, Preston-le-Skerne, and Woodham.
The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Durham; charged in K. B.
207.; patron, Dean and Chapter of Durham. The church ded. to St. Acca, occupies an elevated site south of the village which is one of considerable antiquity, and part of the possessions of the ancient see of Lindisfarne.

AYCLIFFE-SCHOOL, see School Aycliffe.

AYDON, co. Northumberland.

P. T. Hexham (278) 6 m. E. Pop. 84.

A township in the parish of Corbridge, and east division of Tindale ward, situate on the South-Tyne, over which there is a bridge.

AYDON-CASTLE, co. Northumberland.

P. T. Hexham (278) 5½ m. E. & N. Pop. 31.

A township in the parish of Corbridge, and east division of Tindale ward. The ruins of the castle, from which it takes its name, stands on the west side of a deep dale. The extent of these remains prove it to have been a place of great size and strength.
Langley castle, once the seat of the Ratcliffe family, is also in this vicinity. It is seated on an eminence, and was also deemed a fortress of considerable strength in the feudal times.

AYLBURTON, co. Gloucester.

P. T. Blakeney (123) 4½ m. SW. Pop. 353.

A chapelry in the parish of Lidgate and hundred of Blideslow; living, a chapelry not in charge, in the archdeaconry of Hereford and diocese of Gloucester; church ded.
to St. Mary; patronage with the vicarage of Lidgate.

AYLESBEAR, co. Devon.

P. T. Ottery St. Mary (161) 5 m. WSW.
Pop. of Pa. 854. Of To. 373.

A parish and township in the hundred of East Budleigh; the former including the tything of Newton-Poppleford. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter; val. in K. B. 167. 2s. 4d.;
ann. val. P. R. 1127.; church ded. to St.
Christopher; patron and incumbent (1829)
the Rev. W. H. Marker.

AYLESBURY, co. Buckingham.

London, 39 m. NW. (through Edgeware);
Buckingham, 19½ m. SE. Pop. 4100. M. D.
Sat. Mail arr. 12.40 m.; Mail dep. 2.10 m.
Fairs, Fri. after Jan. 18; Sat. before Palm
May 8; June 11; Sep. 25; Oct. 12, Pt. 2.

A borough, market-town, and pa-hundred of the same name, pleasantly situated on a small eminence near the centre of the county, and of the rich tract of land called the Vale of Aylesbury. It consists of several streets and lanes irregularly built.
The county-hall is a handsome brick building, in which the quarter session and Lent as-sises are held; and an elegant market-house, of comparatively recent erection, is constructed upon the model of the Temple of the Winds, at Athens. This town, the Aylesberg of the Saxons, was a manor royal, in the reign of the Conqueror, who granted parcels of it to different persons, under the curious tenures of furnishing straw for his bedchamber, three eels for his use in winter; and in summer, straw, rushes, and two green geese, thrice in the same year, should he visit Aylesbury so often. In the reign of Henry VIII. it became the property of Sir John Baldwin, chief justice of the Common Pleas, who was a great benefactor to the town,
and by his influence removed the assizes from Buckingham. The summer assizes have been restored through the interest of the Temple and Grenville families; but the county goal still remains at Aylesbury. This town was rendered a borough in the reign of Mary I., by a charter, which vested the government in a bailiff, nine aldermen, and twelve burgesses, who were to elect the representatives; but this corporation having been dissolved for neglect, the right is now enjoyed by all the inhabitants who pay scot and lot: returning officers, the constables chosen at the court leet of the Lord of the Manor. At the last election the number of voters were about 1,200, who acted under the joint influence of the Grenville and Cavendish families. The parish is a preben-of the same name in the cathedral of Lincoln; living, a dis. vicarage in the archde-conry of Bucks and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 247. 18s. 17d.; patron, the prebendary. The church, which is ded.
St. Mary, is an ancient structure, built the form of a cross, with a tower rising from the intersection of the nave and tra-sept, which, although low, owing to the elevated site of the town, is seen from many miles around. The methodists, baptists, and independents have meeting-houses here.
This town is also distinguished for the nu-ber and extent of its charities, which, by attracting strangers, have tended to increthe population. Among the principal of these is a free grammar-school, erected by Mr. Henry Phillips in 1711, and endowed with 50007. Lands producing a considerable revenue have also been bequeathed by Mr.
John Bedford, and the minor ones are very numerous. Much lace is made here; and many of the inhabitants derive employment from a peculiar manner of rearing young ducks for the London markets in the winter season, when they cannot be otherwise obtained. The weekly market is a very plentiful one for provisions, and much business is done at the various annual fairs. The parish of Aylsbury includes the hamlet of Walton, the population of which is returned with that of the town.

AYLESBY, co. Lincoln.

P. P. Great Grimsby (183) 4 m. W. Pop. 149.
A parish in the wapentake of Huddry-Haverstoe, parts of Lindsey; living, a curacy in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln, certified value 10*l.*; church ded. to St. Laurence; patron (1829) T. D. Drake, Esq.

AYLESFORD, co. Kent.

P. T. Maidstone (21) 3½ m. NNW. Pop. 1126.
A parish in the hundred of Larkfield and lath of Aylesford, situated on the banks of the river Medway, by which the parish is divided. It was called Ægelsford by the Saxons, and it has been the scene of several battles between those invaders and the Britons, and especially of the memorable conflict between Vortimer and Hengist and Horsa, in which Horsa was slain. Alfred and Edmund Ironside also defeated the Danes in this vicinity. The north part of the parish is an ancient demesne, and under the government of a separate constable. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Rochester; charged in K. B. 10*l.*; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Rochester. The church, which is ded. to St. Peter, is a handsome building, so singularly situated in respect to the village, from being placed on a suddenly rising ground, that persons in the church-yard can almost look down the chimneys of the houses. It contains monuments of various members of the Colepepper, Duke, Banks, Rycant, and Sedley families, all of whom have possessed this manor. Aylesford priory, which on its dissolution was granted by Henry VIII. to the elder Wyat, on the attainder of his son was given to the Sedleys, from whose possession it passed to that of the Rycants and the Banks, the last of which converted the remains of the priory into a conventual abbey. This by marriage became the property of the family of Finch, Earls of Aylesford, who take their title from this place, and by whom it is still retained. Here is an hospital for six poor persons, founded by Sir Wm. Sedley, and also a charity-school. A remarkable cromlech, called Kita-Coty House, stands about a mile north-east from the church, which some antiquaries regard as the tomb of Catigern, the brother of Vortimer, and others, that of Horsa, the Saxon. Sir Charles Sedley, of partial and dissolute notoriety, was a native of this parish; as also Sir Paul Rycant, the celebrated eastern traveller, and author of "The State of the Ottoman Empire," and other works.

AYLESTONE, co. Leicester.

P. T. Leicester (66) 3½ m.
Pop. of Pa. 718. Of To. 340.

A parish and township in the hundreds of Guthlaxton and Sparkenhoe, the former containing the additional township of Glen Parva. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Leicester and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 31*l.* 6*s.* 11*d.*; church ded. to St. Andrew; patron (1829) the Duke of Rutland.

AYLMERTON, co. Norfolk.

P. T. Cromer (110) 2 m. WSW. Pop. 281.
A parish in the hundred of North Erpingham; living, a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry of Norfolk and diocese of Norwich; valued in K. B. 6*l.* 11*s.*; church ded. to St. John the Baptist; patron (1829) Admiral Wyndham.

AYLSHAM, co. Norfolk.

London 118 m. NE. (through Reepham); Norwich 13 m. N. W. Pop. 1833. M. D. Tu. Fairs, March 21; last Tu. in Sep., for lean cattle, ordinary horses, and pedlery; Oct. 8, for cattle.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, situated on the southern side of the river Bure, which has been rendered navigable hence to Yarmouth. During the reigns of Edward II. and Edward III. this town was celebrated for the manufacture of linen, and in that of James I. for woollen articles, all which have been superseded by recent practices and inventions. At present the chief employment of a manufacturing description is that of weaving and knitting stockings. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Norwich; charged in K. B. 17*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.*; patron, the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury. The church, which is ded. to St. Michael, was built by John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, the court of whose duchy was once held in this town, the land of which and of the parish is held chiefly by copyhold from the same duchy at this day. It is a regular pile, with a nave, two aisles, two transepts, a square tower, and a small spire. There are many curious ancient monuments therein, and a modern one to Humphrey Repton, who obtained so much distinction by his works on gardening and architecture, and who resided in this town. Here is a free-school, originally founded in 1517, by Richard Jannys, Mayor of Norwich; and Archbishop Parker founded two fellowships in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, one of which was restricted to a scholar educated at Aylsham. There is a spa in the neighbourhood, the water of which has obtained considerable reputation for its medicinal properties in chronic disorders.

AYLSHAM. See Haulsham, Sussex.

AYLTON, co. Hereford.

P. T. Ledbury (120) 4 m. W. Pop. 100.
A parish in the hundred of Radlow; living, a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Hereford; valued in K. B. 3*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 75*l.*; patron (1829) the Earl of Oxford.

AYMESTREY, co. Hereford.

P. T. Leominster (137) 9 m. NW.
Pop. of Pa. 812. Of To. 717.

A parish and township, the former partly in the hundred of Wigmore, and partly in that of Stretford, and including the additional township of Conhope. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Hereford; valued in K. R. 7*l.* 1*4s.* 2*d.*; church ded. to St. John and St. Alkmund; patron, the Lord Chancellor.

AYNHIO, co. Northampton.

P. T. Brackley (43) 6 m. WSW. Pop. 719.

A parish in the hundred of King's Sutton; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Northampton and diocese of Peterborough; charged in K. B. 25*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.*; church ded. to St. Michael: patron (1829) W. R. Cartwright, Esq. This village is built upon a rocky eminence, whence issues a powerful stream of water, called the Town's Well, which passes along the vale below to the river Charwell. From this spring, the place receives its name of Ayn-ho, softened into Aynbo. At the east end of the village traces remain of the Roman vicinal road, called Portway. Here is a free-school, founded by John Cartwright, Esq. and endowed with a rent charge of 20*l.* per annum.

AYOTT ST. LAWRENCE, co. Herts.

AYR, shire of S.

N to S. 80 m. W to E. 37 m. No. of acres 665,000. Pop. 137,300. Districts or Stewartries 3. Parishes 43. Royal Burghs 2. Mem. of Pt. (see cu. and burghs) 2.

A maritime county of Scotland, bounded by Renfrewshire on the north, the counties of Dumfries and Lanark on the east; by Wigton and the Stewartry of Kirkcubright on the south; and by the Irish channel, and the Firth of Clyde on the west. It is divided into the three districts of Cunningham on the north, Kyle in the center, and Carrick on the south; the latter of which, although the least fertile, abounds most in picturesque beauty. The soil varies considerably: towards the sea-shore it is for the most part sandy, with an occasional intermixture of rich loam. More inland, it is composed of a large proportion of stiff deep clay, which, when properly cultivated, is highly productive. In some parts this clay is only superficially spread over a substratum of schistus and till, and in a few places, a gravelly soil prevails. Towards the east, the country is hilly, naked, and unfruitful, with the exception of patches of rude pasturage and fern and peat moss. Most of the rivers in the south of Scotland rise from the ridge of which the mountains in the district of Carrick, rising from 1000 to 2000 feet above the level of the sea, form a part. Of these, the Ayr, the Doon, the Lugar, the Stinchar, and the Girvan, intersect this county, and discharge themselves into the Irish channel. In the district of Kyle is Lake Doon, six miles in length, from which issues the river of the same name. The sea-coast, which is the most thickly interspersed with towns and villages, possesses the six harbours of Ayr, Irvine, Saltcoats, Ardrossan, Troon, and Dunure. That of Troon has been much improved by the recent construction of a pier, and is further benefited by the formation of a rail-road to Kilmarnock. The principal towns and villages are the royal burghs of Ayr and Irvine, Kilmarnock, Beith, Kilwinning, Dalry, Catrioe, Largs, Girvan, and Ballantrae. On the shores of Carrick are several remarkable caves, and the stupendous rock of Ailsa (which article see) rises nearly opposite Girvan. Agriculture has been much advanced in this county of late years, principally owing to the establishment of the Douglas and Heron Bank, which, by affording temporary facilities to landed proprietors, induced them to plant and improve their estates, although in several instances with very fatal results to themselves, when that too sanguine speculation failed. Roads were opened, and canals formed by similar assistance, to the great benefit of the county, however unfortunately for individuals. Tillage is most productive near the coast, the interior and mountainous parts being chiefly dedicated to the rearing of cattle, which are produced in great numbers and highly valued. This shire is also celebrated for the best cheese in Scotland, of which it exports great quantities. The most important mineral found in Ayrshire is coal, seams of which are discovered in almost every parish, so that 100,000 tons have been exported annually. It also abounds in lime-stone, free-stone, iron-stone, and lead-ore, of which the most considerable mines are in the parish of New Cumnock. To the above must be added, copper-ore, plumbago, barytes, crystal of zeolite, gypsum, agates, and a kind of whet-stone, called water-of-Ayr stone, much valued by cutlers. In most of the lakes there is plenty of marl, and great quantities of seaweed are thrown ashore which is manufactured into kelp. The abundance of fuel in the county renders it peculiarly adapted to manufactures, and accordingly those of cotton, woollen, thread, and muslin, are carried on to a great extent, in addition to considerable iron-works at Muirkirk and other places. The salmon fisheries, in which species of fish most of the rivers abound, likewise form a considerable source of profit to the different landed proprietors, while the sea-coast abounds with all kinds of white fish, and one or two companies are formed in the town of Ayr for curing them. Ayrshire is the seat of many noted Scottish families, among which may be enumerated the Kennedys, the Cunninghams, the Cochrans, the Stewarts, the Montgomerys, the Hays, and the Campbells. The monuments of antiquity are numerous, including cairns, encampments, Druidical circles, and the remains of various castles, one of the most remarkable of which is that of Kilbirnie, in the district of Cunningham, near a beautiful lake. The patriotic William Wallace, and the poet Burns, were natives of this county, the natural beauties of which the latter, whom it was once customary to call the Ayrshire ploughman, by the magic of his verse has rendered familiar to readers of every description.

A Y R, shire of Ayr, S.

A river rising in the parish of Muirkirk, which runs a course westward thirty miles, intersects the district of Kyle and finally loses itself in the firth of Clyde, below the town of Ayr.

A Y R, shire of Ayr, S.

Pop. 7433.

A parish, to which is annexed the ancient parish of Alloway, in the district of Kyle. It includes also the town of Ayr (which see) and is watered on the north by the Ayr, on the south by the Doon, both rivers falling into the firth of Clyde, which bounds it on the west. The soil is well cultivated and adorned with fine seats and plantations. The firth and rivers abound with fish, the trade in which is carried on with success. Here are coals in plenty and a noted chalybeate spring found to be efficacious in scorbutic and scrofulous disorders. The living consists of two charges in the presbytery of Ayr and synod of Glasgow and Ayr; patron of the first, the Crown, of the second, the Town Council and Session. Johannes Scotus, the celebrated schoolman, the Chivalier Ramory, and the poet Burns, were natives of this parish. The house in which the latter was born, stands within half a mile of Ayr, between that town and the village of Alloway. It is pointed out to the notice of travellers by a sign-board and inscription. A monument has been erected to the memory of the same gifted individual on a height between the Kirk and the bridge. It is built of pure white stone, in the form of a Grecian temple, and within are some relics connected with the poet, and his portrait. The group, by Thom, of Tam o' Shanter, Souter Johnny, &c. is intended to be placed here.

A Y R, shire of Ayr, S.

Edinburgh 78 m. S.W. Pop. with Parish. Weekly Markets, 2. Fairs, First Tuesday (O. S.) Jan.; last Tuesday (O. S.) June; 3d Tuesday Oc.

A royal burgh, sea-port, and market-town capital of the shire, and seat of the High Court of Justiciary for the southern circuit, also of the presbytery. It is situated in the parish of the same name and district of Kyle, on the southern bank of the river Ayr, near its confluence with the firth of Clyde. At the mouth of the harbour are two reflecting lights, its channel, however, is too shallow to admit vessels drawing more than twelve feet water, besides which, the navigation is much impeded by a shifting bar of sand. About 6000 tons of shipping, from 200 tons downwards, and 500 seamen belong to this port. Ayr is an irregularly-built town, approaching to the form of a crescent. The principal streets are spacious, and many of the buildings handsome. There are two churches, and a few other places of worship, belonging to sectarians, a general post-office, a theatre, a library, a reading-room, a public academy, a savings-bank, a dispensary, gaol, and court-house. The government of the town by charter of William the Lion granted in 1180, is vested in a provost, two bailies, a dean of guild, a treasurer, and twelve councillors. It is one of the contributory burghs with Irvine, Inverary, Rothsay, and Campbelltown, in returning one member to Parliament. Its trade is chiefly with Ireland; the exports consisting of cottons, woollens, iron, coal, whetstones, paint, &c. and the imports of grain, spirits, timber, slates, bricks, and lime. Ship-building is carried on to some extent, also tanning, boot and shoe-making, and the manufacture of soap. Companies are established here for catching and curing white fish, which abound in great variety in the flats and sand-banks along the shore; the salmon fishery is also prosecuted with success. This is a considerable resort of the gentry, particularly at the seasons for holding the Caledonian hunt and the races, which are numerously attended. The celebrated Wallace here commenced his patriotic exploits, and a strong garrison was placed in the town by Edward I. The tower of the ancient church of St. John, where a Parliament sat and confirmed Robert Bruce's title to the Crown, and which Cromwell converted into a citadel, still remains, but there are no traces of the old castle, except the mount whereon it stood. Ayr given title of Viscount to the Earl of Dumfries.

A Y S G A R T H, N. R. co. York.

P. T. Middlesham (234) 8 m. W.

Pop. of Pa. 5621. Of To. 203.

A parish and township in the wapentake of Hang-West, the former of which contains eleven additional townships. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Richmond and diocese of Chester; charged in K. H. 19l. 6s. 8d.; ann. val. P. R. 122l. 11s. 10d.; church ded. to St. Andrew; patron, Trinity College, Cambridge. The village, which is situated on the river Ure, possesses the finest waterfall in this county, called Aysgarth-Force, where the whole of the river pours over an irregular ridge of rocks. Above the fall is a bridge of one arch, which spans seventy-one feet. The view from this structure is peculiarly romantic and picturesque; comprising a succession of waterfalls, amidst intermingled rocks and foliage, and the steeple of the church emerging from a copse to give a human interest to all the rest. The parish of Aysgarth is twenty-five miles in length, and nearly half as many in breadth.

AYSTON, co. Rutland.

P. T. Uppingham (89) 2 m. NW. Pop. 110.

A parish in the hundred of Martinsley; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Northampton and diocese of Peterborough; charged in K. B. 8*l.* 7*s.* 8½*d.*; ann. val. P. The church, which is ded. to St. Mary, is a neat Gothic structure, possessing a very fine window of modern coloured glass, and some ancient monuments.

AYTON, shire of Berwick, S.

Edinburgh 47½ m. E b S. Pop. 1520. Berwick-upon-Tweed 7½ m. N. b W. Fair, Oct. 12.

A parish and village situated on the North Sea, and intersected by the great road from London to Edinburgh through Berwick-upon-Tweed. The soil is fertile, even the hills produce corn and grass, and are mostly enclosed. From its contiguity to Berwick and Eyemouth, ready markets are found for the general produce of the farms. The sea affords a good supply of fish, and kelp is manufactured to a great extent on the coast. The living is in the presbytery of Chirnside and synod of Merse and Teviotdale; patron, the Crown. The village of Ayton is seated on an eminence, gradually descending towards the south, at the foot of which runs the river Eye. It is neatly built, and besides the church, which stands on the southern bank of the river, has burgher and anti-burgher places of worship. Here is also a general post-office. No traces remain of its ancient castle, the capture of which by the Earl of Surrey in 1197, led to the signature of the noted seven years' truce between the two kingdoms. In the vicinity are vestiges of several camps, supposed to be Roman, Saxon, Danish, and Pictish.

B. 8*l*. 1*s*. 8*d*.; church ded. to St. John the Baptist; patron and incumbent, the Rev. W. D. Bromley. Here is barely to be traced the site of the castellated residence of Sir Wm. Bagot, a firm adherent to Richard II., at which mansion the Duke of Hereford, afterwards Henry IV., lodged the night previous to his projected personal contest with Thomas Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, in the presence of the King, on a spot now called Gosford Green, where the lists were formed. In the reign of James I. this manor was purchased by Wm. Bromley, Esq., one of whose descendants was Secretary Bromley, the able servant of Queen Anne. While this gentleman was attending his duty in Parliament, he received news that his family mansion of Baginton was burnt down, when such was the respect in which he was held, a handsome sum was voted the same evening to assist in its reconstruction. The estate is still possessed by the descendants of this family.

BAKEWELL, co. Derby.

London 133 m. NW.; Derby 26 m. NNW.; Chesterfield 11 m. W. Pop. of Pa. 6103. Of To. 1799. M. D. Fri. Fairs, East Mon.; Whit Mon.; Aug. 20; Mon. after Oct. 10; Mon. after 22d Nov. for cattle and horses.

A parish and market-town in the hundred of High Peak, the former containing various townships, chapelries, and hamlets, besides the market-town, which stands on the river Wye, near its influx with the Derwent. It derives its name from Bathewell, so called from a bath, which there is reason to believe was visited for medicinal purposes under the Saxon kings. The town itself was founded by Edward the Elder, although from various productions occasionally discovered it is also supposed to have been a Roman station. At the conquest it was granted to the Peverels, from whom it passed to the Gernons, who in the reign of Henry VII. sold it to the Vernons, and from them it descended to the Dukes of Rutland. Here is a cotton manufactory, and many of the inhabitants are employed in the various mines of coal, lead, and zinc, and quarries of stone, which abound in the vicinity; as likewise in the working of marbles. The market, which has ceased to be of any importance, was formerly held on Monday, but now on Friday. The parish of Bakewell is very extensive, being upwards of twenty miles in length, and eight in breadth. The living is a dis. vicarage and a peculiar of Lichfield; valued in K. R. 40*l.*; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Lichfield. The church, ded. to All Saints, is an ancient structure, situated on an eminence, and built in the form of a cross, with an octagonal tower in the centre, from which rises a lofty spire. Here is a free-school, supported by subscription. About three miles from Bakewell stands Chatsworth House, the celebrated seat of the Dukes of Devonshire, and built by the first who bore that title on the site of the mansion originally erected by Sir William Cavendish, of Suffolk, and finished by his widow in the reign of Elizabeth, in which house Mary Queen of Scots was imprisoned for thirteen years. The present structure stands on a gentle acclivity, near the bottom of a high hill, finely covered with wood. Its form is nearly a square, to which one wing has recently been added, including a large quadrangular court, having a fountain in the centre. Tw principal entrance is on the west, by a noble flight of steps, to a terrace which extends the length of the whole building, and has a fine effect. The river Derwent runs before the principal front, over which is a stately stone bridge. The water-works are inferior only to those at Versailles; one fountain throws water ninety feet high. A description of Chatsworth, which is deemed one of the wonders of the Peak, would fill a volume. On the east of Chatsworth is a very lofty mountain; and here commences a moor, sixteen miles in length, which is deemed impassable without a guide. Haddon Hall, the noble and venerable mansion of the Duke of Rutland, is situated on a bold eminence which overlooks the river Wye, and is deemed the most complete of the ancient baronial residences now remaining. The town of Bakewell is much resorted to by anglers on the Wye.

BALA, co. Merioneth, N. W.

London (194) m. NW b W. Pop. 1163.
Fairs, May 14; July 10; Sep. 11 and 22;
Oct. 24; and Nov. 8. M. D. Saturday.

An ancient town in the parish of Llan-y-al and hundred of Penllys, situate near the lake of the same name (which art. see) about twelve miles distant from the London and Holyhead road, the road to which passes through the celebrated valley of Eidernion. It consists principally of one wide street, and has a chapel, market-house, two good inns, and a few handsome houses. It is governed by two bailiffs and a common-council, and the assizes are held here and at Dolgelly alternately. The weekly market is well supplied, and considerable trade is carried on at the annual fair in woollens, gloves, stockings, and worsted wigs. Near this town is Rhiwlas, the fine seat of Colonel Price. The old parish church is about a mile from the town.

BALAGISH, shire of Renfrew, S.

A mountain, the summit of which is 1000 feet above the level of the sea, containing ores of silver and lead, and great quantities of sulphat of barytes.

BALA LAKE, (LLYN TEGID, or PIM-BLEMERE), co. Merioneth, N. W.

The largest lake in North Wales, being four miles in length by one in breadth; it is in the hundred of Penllyn, near the town of Bala, in the source of the beautiful and noble river Dee; is supplied with pike, eels, tench, trout (but rather scantily), and the fish called the gwyniad, but contains no salmon. The fishery of the lake, in the thirteenth century, was the property of the Abbey of Basingmont, but now belongs to the Wynnes of Wynnstay. On the bank of the lake are the fishing-lodges of Sir W. W. Wynne, the proprietor of the fishery, and of R. C. Hoare, the learned antiquary. The immediate scenery is not picturesque, but the distant views are remarkably sublime. A Roman road passed near the margin of the lake, and some curious tumuli are still extant in the vicinity; the most remarkable is called "Tommen-y-bala," at the S. E. extremity of the town of Bala.

BALA-SALLA, Isle of Mann.

P. T. Castletown 2 m. NNE.
Pop. with Castletown.

A village in the parish of St. Malew or Castletown, pleasantly seated on the eastern bank of the river above that town. Here are several mills, but the cotton manufacture established by Messrs. de la Prime has been abolished for some years. This is the seat of the Deemster for the southern division, before whom are brought all pecuniary litigations of a greater amount than 40s.; also prosecutions for defamation and assaults, upon which he either gives judgment at once, or sends them to be decided by a jury at common law, himself sitting as one of the judges. In the vicinity are ruins of the ancient abbey of St. Mary of Rushen, founded in 1098 by Mac Manis, whose wisdom and virtue raised him to the sovereignty. It was enlarged and richly endowed by some of his predecessors, Kings of the Isles, whose remains were interred here. Contiguous is a narrow bridge of two arches over the river. It is of great antiquity and supposed to have belonged to the abbey. Here is the fine mansion of Mr. Moore, chief Deemster of the island, whose father built it, and converted parts of the abbey into offices, which still possess an air of venerable grandeur.

BALBEIGGIE. See Kinnoul.

BALBIRNIE, shire of Fife, S.

P. T. Kirkaldy (13) 7½ m. N. Pop. with Pa.

A considerable village in the parish of Markinch, and district of Kirkaldy, situated on the river Leven, over which there is a bridge. It is chiefly occupied by the colliers employed at the extensive coal works in the vicinity. Here is a manufactory of linseed oil, and a bed of shell marl of some extent. Near this place is the commodious family residence of the Balfours, in a situation extremely romantic.

BALBRIGGAN, co. Dublin, Leinster, I

Dublin 19 m. N. Pop. 3124.

Fairs, 29th April; 29th September.

A sea-port town in the parish and barony of Balrothery, archdiocese of Dublin. owes its origin to Baron Hamilton. cotton manufactory did exist here, and several cotton mills have lately been established. The town has been somewhat injured by the diversion of the great north road into the Ashbourne line. Here is a classical school and six charity schools. It is a good fishing station, and has a pier, built partly by Parliamentary aid, with a small harbour and a light at the pier head. Vessels of 2000 tons can discharge at the quay.

BALBY, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Doncaster (162) 2 m. SW. Pop. 305.

BALDOCK, co. Hertford.

London 37½ m. NW. Hertford 10 m. NW. Pop. 1550. M. D. Thurs. Fairs, Mar. 7; last Thurs. in May; Aug. 5; Oct. 2; Dec. 11, for cheese, cattle, and household goods. Mail arr. 12.31 m. Mail dep. 2.10 m.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Broadwater, situate near the source of the river Rhen, on the great north road, at its intersection with the Roman Icknield street. It was originally built in the reign of King

Stephen, by the Knights Templars, whose influence obtained the market, and five annual fairs, from John and Henry III. It is a neat and pleasant town, the principal street being wide, and many of the buildings respectable. Being a great thoroughfare, it has always been celebrated for the number and goodness of its inns, and still continues so. The living is a discharged rectory, in the archdeaconry of Hunts and diocese of Lincoln; valued in K. B. 10l. 8s. 9d.; ann. val. P. R. 76l. 14s. 8d.; patron, the Lord Chancellor. The church, dedicated to St. Mary, is a spacious and handsome building, with three chancels, erected on the site of that originally founded by the Knights Templars, of whom some stone coffins and monumental vestiges still exist. Besides the advantages enjoyed by the inhabitants of this town, from its position as a thoroughfare, they are extensively engaged in milling; and the weekly market for corn is noted for the extent of the business transacted. Here are six well-endowed almshouses, and various minor charters, including a rent-charge of 10l. per annum for the distribution of bread every Sunday.

BALDON-MARCH, co. Oxford.

P. T. Oxford (54) 5½ m. SE. Pop. 312.

P. T. Howth (9) 1 m. W. Pop. 1437.

A parish and village in the barony of Coolock; living, a curacy in the archdiocese of Dublin. The village is agreeably situated on the east coast of the county, and is inhabited by persons engaged in the fisheries solely, with the exception of a few occasional visitors during the bathing season.

BALDRASHANE, or BALLYRASHANE, cos. Antrim and Londonderry, Ulster, I.

P. T. Coleraine (139) Pop. 3375.

A parish, partly in the barony of Lower Dunluce, co. Antrim, and partly in the liberties of Coleraine, co. Londonderry; living, a vicarage in the diocese of Connor and archdiocese of Armagh; value in K. B. 10s. Here are two Sunday schools for the education of 216 children.

BALDUNGAN, or BALDONGAN, co. Dublin, Leinster, I.

P. T. Balbriggan (10) 5 m. SE. Pop. 106.

A parish and townland in the barony of Balrothery; living, a rectory in the archdiocese of Dublin; valued in K. B. 3l. 7s. 8½d.

Here stands a noble castle built entirely of flint stone, erected in the thirteenth century by Richard Bermingham, whose heiress married a Lord of Howth, by whose family it is now possessed. The situation is commanding, and the castle is perfect, although besieged by Oliver Cromwell in the civil wars, who attempted to batter it with cannon from an adjacent hill. The ruins of a spacious chapel and nunnery adjoin the castle. The inhabitants of this district are said to be descended from the Danes.

The central barony of the county of Wicklow, comprising 96,847 acres and nine parishes, and is wholly encumbered by mountains, the highest of which, Lugnaquilla, is 3,070 feet above the sea. The principal villages of this barony are Rathdrum, Tinschely, Aughrim, Carysfort, Ananoe, and Roundwood. It contains seven large lakes, only useful for the purposes of draining the extensive bogs in this region, and as affording considerable supplies of small trout. The chief rivers are the Droca, Avonmore, Avonbeg, and Aughrim. The glens of this wild district abound in romantic scenery, and are also remarkable in the ancient history of Ireland. The most celebrated are Glendalough, Glenmalur, Glenmacanua, Lugnala. Rich mines of copper exist, and have been wrought, in Croubane mountains and the adjacent district; valuable lead mines are now worked to advantage by "The Mining Company" at Loganure; and, an old and profitable mine is still wrought in the wild and extensive defile called Glenmalur. The geological features of this mountain district are simple, it being a granite region purely. A profitable trade might be carried on by the exportation of the fine grained stone from Bray or Arklow. The only manufacture existing here is that of flannel, which is of a remarkably fine texture. The barony is divided from north to south by the military road, and from east to west by the new line from the Seven Churches to Holywood.

BALLYCASTLE, co. Antrim, Ulster, I.

Dublin (190) m. N. Pop. 1480.

Fairs, July 15; Aug. 29; Nov. 3; and Dec. 1.

A town in the parish of Ramoan and barony of Carey, situated on the sea-coast, anciently called Ballycashlain, or Castletown, from a castle erected there in the sixteenth century, by M'Donnell, Viscount Dunluce. The town is divided into upper and lower; the latter is usually called the Quay, where are the ruins of the glass-house, breweries, tanneries, &c. all of which became totally useless upon the destruction of the pier, erected in the harbour by Mr. Boyd, aided by a grant of 23,000*l.* from Parliament. The barrack, in this part of the town, was formerly the custom-house, but the trade of the place is now lost, and the small cove choked up with sand. The upper town contains several genteel residences and two comfortable inns. The collieries, which are within one mile of the lower town at Fair Head, are well situated in the lofty cliffs overhanging the bay, if the great swell of the Atlantic and the want of shelter for vessels, did not preclude exportation. The coal is of the flaming kind, and appears, from the discovery of mining tools and old levels, to have been worked at a very remote period. In the upper town stands a neat church with a spire, erected by Mr. Boyd, the sole founder of Ballycastle, and adjacent to this a charter-school for sixty girls, endowed by Mrs. Rose Boyd with 20*l.* per annum, and by H. Boyd, Esq. with twenty acres of land, rent free. Here are two mineral springs, one a chalybeate, the other an aluminous vitriolic water. The ancient abbey of Bona Margy is one mile east of the town, and the ruins of the castle that gives name to the place are but trifling. Here are Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, and Methodist chapels. See Bona Margy and Fair Head.

BALLYHEIGE BAY, co. Kerry, Munster, I.

A spacious and open bay on the coast of the barony of Clannaurice, having Kerry Head at its north side, and the Seven Hogs, or Magharae Isles, on the south. The strand, which is six miles and a half in length, forms an agreeable ride; the coast is composed of several sand hills, on which sedgy grass grows, and forms a considerable preventive to the devastation that would otherwise be occasioned by the waves upon the shore. The strand is flat, and in westerly winds breakers of great magnitude roll in upon it, so that no vessel can live. The north end of the bay has the deeper water, and mariners who cannot weather Kerry Head, should try to run in at that part of the bay. Many shipwrecks happen here.

BALLYHEIGE or KERRY HEAD, co. Kerry, Munster, I.

Lat. 51. 24 N. Long. 9. 17 W.

A cape in the barony of Clannaurice, at the extremity of the Promontory which separates Ballyheige Bay from Shannon Mouth. It was unluckily too frequently mistaken for Cape Lane, or Loop Head, on the north side of Shannon Mouth, but the erection of a light-house at the latter has, in a great measure, removed the difficulty.

BALLYHIGHLAND, co. Cavan, Ulster, I.

P. T. Killeshandra (90) m. Fairs, the day before Trinity Sunday; and May 21.

A hamlet in the barony of Tullaghonoho.

founded by St. Palladius, the first bishop sent from Rome to Ireland. Whaley Abbey, the mansion of Mr. Whaley, now occupies the same site.

BALLYLAGHAN, co. Mayo, Connaught, I.

P. T. Foxford (173) 11½ m. S. Pop. with Templemore.

A hamlet in the parish of Strade and barony of Gallen, situated on the river Guishda, and near the banks of Lough Conn. It lies on the high road from Foxford to Ballinrobe.

BALLYLAHEEN, or BALLYLANEEN, or BALLYANEEN, co. Waterford, Munster, I.

P. T. KilmacThomas (100) m. Pop. 2977.

A parish in the barony of Upperbird, bounded on the east by the river Mahon, and extending three miles in length by two in breadth. Nearly in the centre of the parish stands a strong square tower, enclosed by a curtain wall, built by one of the Jordans, who erected ten castles in different parts of the country, for his ten sons. The living is a rectory impropriate,

BALLYLAUGHAN, co. Carlow, Leinster, I.

P. T. Leighlin Bridge (57) m.
Pop. not specially returned.

A townland in the barony of Idrone. Here was one of the ancient castles of the kings of Leinster.

BALLY-LEAN-CLIATH, co. Dublin, Leinster, I.

Also, Lean Cliath, the fishing harbour, the ancient name of the town and harbour of Dublin, derived from lean, a harbour, and cliath, a hurdle, or piece of wickerwork. Wiers for catching fish made of wicker-work were then in general use on the sea coast, hence the term cliath, or cliabth, is frequently found attached to the names of such places as had fishing-wiers, or fisheries established at them. Ballylean-Cliath then means literally the town of the hurdles or wicker, but figuratively, the Fishing Town.

BALLYLENNAN, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

P. T. Taghmon (103) 3½ m. SW. Pop. with

BALLYMOON, co. Carlow, Leinster, I.

P. T. Leighlinabridge (37) 6 m. Pop. not especially returned.

A townland in the barony of Idrone. Here stands a very ancient castle, or more properly a bawn (being used principally for the protection of cattle), which belonged to the Kavanaghs. Situated in this wild district, it was applied to the double purpose of securing the cattle, and of guarding the mountain pass. The walls, built of rude masonry, were originally thirty feet in height, but are now diminished of that altitude by ten feet at least, and they enclosed an area of 110 feet square. The entrance, which was protected by a portcullis, was in the south side. Two towers, several small apartments lighted by cruciformed windows, walled wells, and other appendages to a regularly fortified structure still remain. The castle is elevated on the apex of a lofty, rocky eminence. At this place (Bealla Mughna) was fought the famous battle, which decided the fate of the crown of Cashel, in the year 908, between Flann, king of all Ireland, Cearbhal, king of Leinster, Cathal, king of Connaught, on the one side, and Cormac-mac-Cuilinan, king and bishop of Cashel, aided by the princes of Munster and Ossory on the other. In this violent conflict King Cormac was slain, by one Fiacha, and 6000 of his adherents were cut in pieces. The date of the battle was the 16th of August, A.D. 908.

BALLYMORAN, or MORANSTOWN, or ALMORITIA; co. Westmeath, Leinster, I.

P. T. Ballymore (72) 4 m. NNE. Pop. 711.

BALLYMORE, co. Armagh, Ulster, I.

P. T. Tanderagee (40) m. N. Pop. 547.

A parish in the barony of Orior, lower half, called sometimes Tanderagee parish. Here is a school of 130 boys and 100 girls, supported by Miss Sparrow, the pupils being instructed on the plan recommended by the Education Society. The living is a rectory in the diocese and archdiocese of Armagh, having a church, glebe-house, and 520 acres of glebe. The towns of Tanderagee, Acton, and Poyntzpass are all in Ballymore parish.

BALLYMORE, or BALLIMORE-LOUGH-SEUDY, co. Westmeath, Leinster, I.

Dublin 72 m. W b N. Pop. of Pa. 232. Of 1*a.* 6*d.* Fairs, Whit-Mon.; and Oct. 14 M. D. Saturday.

A parish in the barony of Rathconrath, and a town, partly in the parish of the same name, and partly in the parish of Killare. The town is situated near the small lake, which assists in distinguishing this place from several other places having the same name in Ireland. This was anciently a place of some importance. In the year 1204, Theobald De Vernon, lord of the manor of Ballymore, obtained a grant of a weekly market, and a fair, to continue for fifteen days, for this town. An abbey appears to have been founded here before the year 700; and a monastery, in honour of the Virgin Mary, for Gilbertin canons, which order consisted of canons of the Premonstrer order, and nuns of the rule of St. Benedict, was erected here by the family of Lacie. The living is a rectory in the diocese of Meath and archdiocese of Armagh. It is called St. Owen's of Lough Seudy, or Ballymore, and is valued in K. B. 14*l.* 12*s.* sterling; amount of commutation for tithes 323*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* It is united with the chapelries of Bonova, Forguey, and St. Thomas of Lough-Seudy; has a church, glebe-house, and thirty acres of land. The name is properly written Seudy.

P. T. Thurles (95) 5 m. SSE. Pop. 124.

A parish in the barony of Eliogarty. The living is a vicarage in the diocese and archdiocese of Cashel, being part of the union of Thurles; the amount of commutation for tithes is 200*l.*, of which the lay impropriator receives 60*l.* There are 1644 acres of land included in this vicarage.

BALLYMORE-EUSTACE, co. Dublin, Leinster, I.

P. T. Blessington (14) 4½ m. SW. Pop. of Pa. 1200. Of 1*a.* 7*d.* Fairs, Aug 20; Sep 20.

A parish, including a town of the same name, in the barony of Newcastle. This parish is insulated by the counties of Wicklow and Kildare, and wholly detached from Dublin county, yet it is called a part of

The town is situated on the river Liffey, over which there is thrown a very handsome bridge. It is of ancient origin, being founded shortly after the introduction of the English under Henry II., by the family of Eustace, whence the name, which signifies The Great Town of Eustace; and the ruins of Eustace's castle, a building formerly of great extent and wonderful strength, still remain. This little place has sustained a serious loss by the diversion of the mail coach road, which formerly passed through it, to the town of Kilkullen. The commons of Broadlaine, covered with Druidical remains, are in this parish. The picturesque waterfall, called Pool-a-Pneca, is within two miles of the town, and the magnificent mansion of Russborough at a somewhat greater distance. The living is a vicarage in the diocese and archdiocese of Dublin, episcopally united to the vicarages of Ballybought and Yagoe.

BALLYMOTE, co. Sligo, Connaught, I.

Dublin 119 m. N.W. Pop. 881. Fairs, last Mon. in Jan.; May 11; 1st Mon. O. S. in June; Sep. 2; 1st Mon. O. S. in Nov.; and 2d Mon. O. S. in Dec.

A town in the parish of Emlyfad and barony of Corran; possessed of a tolerable trade in linen cloth. Here is a castle 150 feet square, and flanked by six towers of great strength, built by Richard De Bourc, second Earl of Ulster, in the year 1300. It capitulated to Ireton in 1652. The sept of McDougha erected a monastery in this town, for Franciscan friars of the third order. At the suppression of religious houses its possessions were granted to Sir Henry Broucard, who assigned them again to Sir William Tansie, knt. A considerable part of the building, which was of excellent workmanship, still survives, and the eastern window is remarkably curious.

BALLYMOTE, co. Galway, Connaught, I.

P. T. Eyrenewat (80) m. W. Fairs, May 21; Oct. 31; and Nov. 16.

P. T. Oughterard (150) m. NW b W.

Pop. of Barony 19,403.

A barony, having in it a village of the same name. The northern part, together with the barony of Ross, is usually called Joyce's Country; and the southern part is better known by the name of Connemara, i. e. the Bays of the Ocean. This district is the most uncultivated part of Ireland, being one continued tract of bog and mountain, not more than one-twentieth of which is arable. The banks of the different lakes are the most improved parts, and let as high as land in other parts of Ireland; and some of the mountainous land produces 15s. per acre per ann. The population is for the most part resident along the sea shore, the moory districts affording but little inducement to habitation. In Joyce's Country also the upland districts are uninhabited. The climate is wet, and three-fourths of the surface not more than 100 feet above sea-level. Lime-stone is scattered through the barony, and calcareous sand along the sea shore. The supply of fuel, from bog, is inexhaustible. The harbours are not exceeded by any in Europe, and both soil and climate are peculiarly adapted to the rapid growth of timber. The village of Ballynahinch, as well as the seat of Mr. Martin, the chief proprietor here, are situated near the beautiful lake of the same name. See Connemara.

P. T. Mallow (103) m. S b E. Pop. 3361.

Fairs, Whit. Mond.; Aug. 21; and Dec. 5.

A parish, containing a village of the same name, partly in the barony of Barretta, partly in the barony of Fermoy, and partly in the barony of Muskerry East. Here was formerly a preceptory of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, founded in the reign of King John, under the invocation of St. John the Baptist, by an Englishman called Alexander de Sancta Helena. The Irish called the preceptory, Monaster na Mona. Its extensive lands were granted to Trigo Mac Carty, but were forfeited by his descendants in the rebellion of 1611. The ruins of the ancient church, 180 feet in length, still remain, and the ground plan of the preceptory, which occupied several acres, is discoverable. There is a remarkably elegant parish church at Ballynamona, having a steeple and spire built in 1717, partly at the expense of Sir Matthew Deane. The living is a rectory and vicarage in the diocese of Cloyne and archdiocese of Cashel; patron, the King. The whole tithes belonged to the preceptory, and the master of the order was patron to the rectory of Moviddy, in the diocese of Cork.

BALLYSADERE, or BALLYSEDERE, or BALLYSDARE, (i. e. the town of the two cataracts), co. Sligo, Connought, I.

P. T. Colony (126)  $3\frac{1}{2}$  m. NW.
Pop. of Pa. 5281. Of Vb. 625.
Fairs, Aug. 4; Nov. 12; and Dec. 13.

A parish and village, both partly in the barony of Leacy, and partly in the barony of Tiraghirl, situated upon the Bay of Ardglass. In the village is a London Hibernian Society's school of fifty-eight boys and forty girls; and a Baptist Society's school of forty-five boys and twenty-seven girls. Within a short distance and on the margin of Ardglass Bay, is the picturesque ruin of Eas-dara, or Ballysadare Abbey. It occupies the site of a church founded here in the seventh century by St. Feichin, or Fechin, the founder of the great abbey at Fore, in Westmeath, to whom it is dedicated. It is still a ruin of much interest, and was early endowed with vast tracts, called Tearmann Feichin, i. e. the Sacred Lands of Fechin. The river Union, which is supplied by the overflow of Lough Arrow, is here joined by three minor streams, when a succession of waterfalls is formed; and, ultimately, the united waters are carried in a noble cataract over a grand ledge of serpentine rock into the bay. The living is a vicarage and prebend in the diocese of Achonry and archdiocese of Tuam; and possesses a church and twenty acres of glebe. Amount of commutation for tithes 46*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.*, of which the lay impropriator receives 230*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* A lead mine was formerly worked here, and the ore found to contain a large per centage of silver, but the influx of water, and the imperfection of machinery at that period, occasioned its abandonment.

BALLYSHANNON, co. Donegal, Ulster, I.

Dublin 127 m. NNW.; Donegal 11 m. S.; Sligo 25½ m. NNE.; Enniskillen 24 m. NNW.; Pop. of To. 2102. Of the Port 1349. Fairs, April 4; Tues. bef. June 11; Sept. 18; and Tues. af. Nov. 11.

A town in the parish of Kilbarron and barony of Tyrhugh; a part of the town, called the Port, which lies on the opposite side of the river, and is connected by a bridge of fourteen arches over the Erne, is in the parish of Ennismacraint. There is a school in the town supported in part by Colonel Robinson's fund, and another in the Port supported by the Hibernian Society. The parish church is seated on the summit of the steep hill on which the town is built, and was erected in 1720. The market-house stands in a central position, and over it is the assembly-room in which the petty sessions are held. This place is also a permanent military station. Here are an extensive distillery, a private classical school, a Roman Catholic chapel, and a Presbyterian meeting-house. One of the most remarkable objects is the fall of the river Erne a little below the bridge; there is a fine fall above the bridge also, where eels are taken in great quantities, but the great fall is below it. At low water the height of the former is twelve feet, which is constantly attained by the salmon ascending the river, but at high water it is only three. The quantity of water at all times is so great, that the idea of grandeur always accompanies the view. The fishery is let at a rent of 1000*l.* per annum, and the taker disposes of the salmon to a purchaser for the Liverpool and London markets. The harbour of Ballyshannon is obstructed by two banks, called the Summer and Winter Bars, and it is difficult of approach when the wind blows off Treling-head; but there is safe lying for vessels, once in, at the deep pool below the great fall. The town is rather improving, and contains several good houses and two comfortable inns. At a distance of about one mile are the ruins of the ancient abbey of Ashroe, situated upon a stream plentifully fed from springs, and built on a very curious rock of secondary limestone. The ruins of Lord Tyrconnel's castle are still visible in the town. George Farquhar, the comic dramatist, was born here.

P. T. Macroom (101) 8½ m. W b N.

Pop. 2351. Fairs, May 10; Sep. 10; Nov. 10.

A parish, containing a village of the same name, in the barony of Muskerry West, situated on an eminence overhanging the south bank of the river Sullane. Here are the ruins of a church, 104 feet in length by 24 in breadth, dedicated to St. Gohnate, who was chosen abbas of a nunnery of regular Canonesses here, in the sixth century, by St. Abban. Within thirty yards, west of the church, is a small stone cross, having a little indenture, for the reception of an image of St. Gohnate, which used to be set up therein, on the 14th of February in each year, the patron day of the saint. The stones adjacent to the cross are worn by the knees of pilgrims, who payed their devotions at this station. Near to the cross is a well, also dedicated to the patron saint, and not far distant the foundations of an ancient round tower. There are also the ruins of a castle in this place. Adjacent to the altar-table may be seen the tomb of the O'Hierlyns, once the lords of all this district. The living of Ballyvourney is a rectory and vicarage in the diocese of Cloyne and archdiocese of Cashel; valued in K. B. at 17. 10s.; it is united to four other parishes, constituting therewith the union of Clenore.

BALLYWALTER, co. Down, Ulster, I.

P. T. Newtonards (110) 4 m. S b E. Pop. 701.
Fairs, June 22, and Nov. 8.

A village in the barony of Ards, and a parish in the union of St. Andrews: the former contains 143 houses, is situated upon the Irish sea, and enclosed by a dangerous reef called "Ballywalter Long Rock." Here is a good slate quarry. The living, a vicarage, has long been united to the parishes of Ballyhalbert, Inishargy, and St. Andrews, in the diocese of Down and archdiocese of Armagh. The vicarage contains 2433 acres of land.

BALLYWILLAN, co. Antrim, Ulster, I.

P. T. Coleraine (150) m. Pop. 1175.

BALMACLELLAN, stewartry of Kirkcudbright, S.

P. T. New Galloway (80) 14 m. NE. Pop. 012

A parish and village, intersected by the river Ken, and watered by five lakes well stocked with fish, Loch Brack being noted for containing trout of uncommon size and excellence. Much of the surface is covered with heath, but the soil where cultivated yields abundantly; living, in the presbytery of Kirkcudbright and synod of Galloway; patron, the Crown. This parish derived its name from the Maclellans, its ancient proprietors, of which family there were twelve knights at one time in the reign of James II.

BALMAGHIE, stewartry of Kirkcudbright, S.

P. T. Castle Douglas (87) 5 m. NW.
Pop. 1301.

A parish, watered by the rivers Ken and Dee, and by five lakes, abounding with perch, pike, and trout, the principal of which, termed Loch Grannock, or Woodhall, is two and a half miles in length, by a quarter in breadth. Much of the surface, being covered with heath, morass, and rock, cannot be cultivated; agricultural improvement, however, is proceeding. The military road from the Border to Port Patrick traverses this parish on the south. The living is in the presbytery of Kirkcudbright and synod of Galloway; patron, Thomas Gordon, Esq. Upon an island of the Dee stands the ruins of the stately castle of Thrieff, supposed to have been erected by a Douglas on the site of a more ancient fortress which belonged to the Lords or Reguli of Galloway. In the civil wars the Earl of Nithsdale held this castle, and supported its garrison for Charles I.; after sustaining a long siege, however, he was authorized by the king to surrender upon terms. Lochenbreck well, a strong medicinal water, is much resorted to, and patronized by such of the faculty as are acquainted with its healing effects.

BALMALCOLM, shire of Fife, S.

P. T. Falkland (24) m. Pop. with Pa.

A small village in the parish of Kettle and district of Cupar, situated on the line of road between the Forth and Tay.

BALMANGAN, stewartry of Kirkcudbright, S.

A harbour on the western side of Kirkcudbright bay, into which flows the river Dee, in the parish of Borgue. It is sheltered by the island of Little Ross, hence it sometimes is termed Ross Bay, and has safe anchorage for ships of burthen. At the distance of half a mile west stands the fine ancient tower of Balmangan.

BALMERINO, shire of Fife, S.

P. T. Cupar (30) 7 m. N. Pop. 063.

A parish and small sea-port in the district of Cupar. It is situated on the south side of the river Tay, almost opposite to Dundee, to the customs of which port the harbour is subject, and with which it has a regular communication by ferry twice a week. Much grain is exported hence, and the principal imports are coal and lime in considerable quantities. The salmon fishery is very productive, and with a manufacture of coarse linen established here, afford employment to most of the inhabitants. About two-thirds of this parish are in a high state of cultivation, and here are some fine plantations; living, in the presbytery of Cupar and synod of Fife; patron, the Crown. A sumptuous monastery of the Cisterian order was erected on the margin of the Tay in 1229, which was supplied with monks from Melrose.

BALMUTO. See Kinghorn.

BALNA-HUAIGH, shire of Argyll, S.

Pop. with Pa.

A small island forming part of the parish of Jura and district of Islay. This is one of the Hebrides, in circumference about a mile, and abounding with slate, which is wrought by the few families settled here for the purpose.

BALTIMORE, co. Cork, Munster, I.

P. T. Skibbereen (110) m. Pop. 116.

A village in the parish of Tullagh, and barony of West Carbery, east division. Baltimore, or Deal-ty-moor, the Great House of Deal, having been a sanctuary of the Druids, was also anciently called Dunashad. It is situated in the district formerly denominated Lean-Can, on a headland projecting into the sea, and has the advantage of an excellent harbour, with a breakwater or pier, built, partly by aid from the Fishery Board. Here are the ruins of several castles. This place, now a mere fishing village, containing but thirty-three houses, was formerly a borough town, governed by a sovereign and burgesses, under a charter granted by James I.; but in the year 1631, two Algerine piratical vessels entered the harbour at midnight, piloted by a Dungarvan fisherman, and having plundered the town, carried off some of the inhabitants. Baltimore never recovered the effect of the terror created by this event, and Skibbereen derived the benefit of its partial desertion. Lord Carbery is the proprietor of the district surrounding the town. The first English plantation made here was by Sir Thomas Crusk, who took a lease of an extensive tract in the vicinity from Fiacen O'Driscoll.

BALTINGLASS, co. Wicklow, Leinster, I.

Dublin 31 m. SW by S. Pop. of Pa. 2202.
176 Town 1500. Fairs, Feb. 2; March 17;
May 12; July 1; Sep. 12; and Dec. 8.

A parish and town of the same name in the barony of Upper Talbotstown, situated upon the river Slaney. Baltinglass, probably, means Deal-tinne-glass, the Fire of the Mysteries of Deal, alluding to the fire lighted up on the 1st of May and 1st of August, by the Druids, in honor of the sun. Here are cromlechs and other Druidical remains. An abbey was founded here called the abbey of the Vallis Salutis, in 1511, for monks of the Cistercian order, by Diarmid Mc Murchad O'Cavanagh, King of Leinster, who was buried therein. Parliaments were once assembled here, possibly in the old castle near the town. This town was formerly a borough, and sent two members to the Irish Parliament, but is now

P. T. Belford (322) 5 m. E by N.

Pop. of Pa. 2242. Of to. 242.

A parish and township in the north division of Bamborough ward; the former containing twenty-three additional townships. The living is a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry of Northumberland and diocese of Durham; ann. val. P. R. 1097. 18s. 9d.; church ded. to St. Ardan; patron (1829) Trustees of Lord Crewe, bishop of Durham. Bamborough was formerly a place of considerable note, and sent members v Parliament. It also possessed a market, which has been long disused.

BAMBROUGH, or BAMBURGH CASTLE, co. Northumberland.

P. T. Belford (372) 3 m. E b N. Pop. 61.

A township in the parish of Bambrough, in the north division of Bambrough ward, celebrated for the castle from which it takes its name. The latter is built on a high and rugged basaltic rock, on the sea coast, and is accessible only on the south-east side. It is a very ancient structure, and deemed of Saxon origin, and the site of a palace of the Northumberland kings. The keep is supposed, from its form and other circumstances, to have been erected about the era of the Conquest. In the reign of Elizabeth it was granted to Sir John Foster, in whose family it remained until 1715, when it was forfeited by Thomas Foster, Esq. for his concern in the rebellion of 1715. It was then purchased by Lord Crewe, bishop of Durham, who vested it, with other estates, in the hands of trustees, for charitable uses. In 1757 the latter repaired the great Norman tower, or keep, of the castle, which was found habitable for one of the trustees, and the upper rooms were turned into granaries for corn intended to be sold cheap to the poor in times of scarcity. A constant patrol is kept on the coast every stormy night; and in the event of ships striking, signals are made from the tower, by guns which are fired upon a settled plan, so that the inhabitants may be directed at once to the part where assistance is required. Apartments are provided for the reception of shipwrecked seamen, and every attention paid which can alleviate their sufferings. A storehouse is also assigned for such property as can be saved from the wrecks, and even a fund is formed for the decent interment of the bodies of such unfortunate mariners as the sea may cast ashore.

BAMBURGH. See Bamber.

BAMFORD, co. Derby.

P. T. Rochdale (109) 3 m. WSW. Pop. with Barle 1207.

A township in the parish of Middleton and hundred of Salford, the inhabitants of which are chiefly employed in the cotton factories.

BAMPTON, or BATHAMPTON, co. Devon.

London 161 m. W b S. Exeter 21 m. N b E. Pop. 1033. M. D. Sat. Fairs, Whit Tu. and last Thurs. in October, for cattle.

A market-town and parish, in the hundred of the same name, situated on the borders of Somersetshire, near the small river Bathern, which flows into the Exe. The houses are built of stone, and irregularly dispersed over a space extending to about half a mile. It is governed by a port-reeve, two constables, and inferior officers, all of whom are chosen by the inhabitants. It anciently sent members to Parliament, and possessed two markets in a week, which have ultimately been reduced to one. Here are manufactories of serge and pottery, the former of which gives employment to a large proportion of the inhabitants. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter; valued in K. B. 21*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 95*l.*; patron (1829) J. Wood, Esq. The church, which is a spacious building, and pleasantly situated, is ded. to St. Michael. Near the town is a chalybeate spring, of considerable reputation. John de Hampton, a Carmelite friar, who first read lectures on Aristotle, at the University of Cambridge, died here in 1361.

BAMPTON, or BAMPTON-IN-THE-BUSH, co. Oxford.

London 71 m. WSW. Oxford 10 m. W. Pop. 2304. M. D. Wed. Fairs, March 26; and Aug. 26; for cattle and toys.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name, situated near the river Isis, which is here navigable. It appears to have been a town of some eminence at the Conquest, when it was assessed highly for its market. It is now principally celebrated for its manufactory of articles in leather, particularly gloves and breeches; much fell-mongery business is also done at its weekly market. The living is a vicarage in three portions, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Oxford; value of each portion is K. B. 10*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Exeter. The church, which is dedicated to St. Mary, is spacious, and contains a peal of six bells. Here is a charity-school for twenty poor children. Near this church are the remains of a castle said to have been built in the reign of John.

BAMPTON, co. Westmoreland.

P. T. Orton (276) 9 m. NW. Pop. 611.

A parish and township in West ward, situated on the river Lowther. The living is a discharged vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Carlisle; value in K. B. 7*l.* 5*s.*; ann. value P. R. 107*l.*; church ded. to St. Patrick; patron, the Lord Chancellor. Here is a free grammar-school of some celebrity, founded by Dr. Thomas Sutton, a native of this parish, in 1621. At this school were educated Dr. John Mill, celebrated for his edition of the New Testament; and Dr. Edmund Gibson, bishop of London, who rebuilt the school-house. There is another free-school at Measand, in this parish, founded by Richard Wright, greatly aided by John Law, great-uncle of the bishop, and a preparatory school, at a place called Roughill, which is similarly well endowed with lands and legacies.

BAMPTON-GRANGE, co. Westmoreland.

P. T. Orton (276) 8 m. NW. Pop. with P.

A hamlet in the parish of Bampton, in West ward, in which stands the parish church.

BAMPTON, LITTLE, co. Cumberland.

P. T. Wigton (302) 3 m. N b E. Pop. 172.

BAN

A township in the parish of Kirk-Bampton, in Cumberland ward.

BAN, or RANN, Ulster, I.

A large river, which takes its rise in a plain called the Deer's Meadow, and sometimes the King's Meadow, in the mountains of Mourne and county of Down. After flowing a distance of thirty-eight miles, it falls into Lough Neagh near the Ban-foot ferry, in the co. of Armagh. This part is called the Upper Ban. In its course it passes within two miles of Rathfriland, through McCay's Bridge and Banbridge, by Guilford and Portadown, near which last place it is joined by the Newry canal, and, from thence to Lough Neagh it is navigable by boats of fifty tons burden. The lower Ban (which is the outlet of Lough Neagh) passing by Toome, and winding through a rugged country, tumbles over several ledges of rock, washes Coleraine, and falls into the sea five miles below that town. By means of the Newry navigation the Upper Ban is made subservient to the opening of a communication from Lough Neagh to the Irish sea; and, if the Lower Ban were made navigable, a safe communication would be opened from the Irish sea to the Atlantic, to the incalculable benefit of six counties. The fishery of this river is extremely valuable. The salmon fishery is the property of the Fishmongers' Company of London; their principal weir is at Castlerow Mill, one mile south of Coleraine. The eel fishery is the property of the Marquis of Donegal, whose chief eel weir is established at Toome bridge. There was a pearl fishery in this river, but it was never very productive.

BAN, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

A small river rising in the barony of Gorey, and passing into that of Scarawalsh. It flows by the city of Ferns, and joins the river Slaney, a little to the south of the village of Scarawalsh.

measuring 400 feet in length, with a causeway fifteen feet broad; three of the arches are now forsaken by the river. It is a permanent military station, having a barrack and a fort. Near the town, at a small place called Shannon harbour, the Grand canal communicates by means of a lock with the river Shannon. Banagher formerly sent two members to the Irish Parliament, but was disfranchised by the Act of Union. Here is a classical school, founded and endowed by King Charles I. in the fourth year of his reign. The lands, which are all in the King's county, contained 285 acres, of which 212a. 0r. 18p. valued at 161l. 6s. 9d. per annum, only remain in the possession of the Board of Education. The school-house, which is in an elevated situation, is a modern erection. The number of pupils according to the latest return (1824) was thirty.

A borough and market-town in the hundred of the same name, situated on the river Charwell, which here divides the counties of Oxford and Northampton. It has a cheerful aspect, although irregularly built; and possessed of few or no buildings which advance any claims to architectural distinction. Here was formerly a stately castle erected in 1125, which was sometime the residence of the Bishops of Oxford. It was strenuously defended for Charles I. in the civil wars; but was ultimately obliged to surrender. It soon after fell to decay, and at present a few fragments of the walls alone remain. During the whole of the contest between Charles and the Parliament, the inhabitants of this town, who were so proverbially puritans that the epithet of "Banbury Saint" had previously become a current expression, naturally sided with the latter. It received its first charter of incorporation from Mary I.; but it is at present governed under one granted by George I., according to which the corporation consists of a mayor, high steward, six capital burgesses, and twelve assistants, with a recorder, town clerk, and inferior officers. It returns one member to Parliament, the power of electing whom rests exclusively with the members of the corporation; returning officer, the mayor; patronage in the family of North, Earls of Guildford. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Oxford; value in K. B. 22*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 110*l.*; patron, the Bishop of Oxford. The church, a modern erection, ded. to St. Mary, is more remarkable for size than beauty. Banbury, although it possesses no manufacture of considerable extent, is a place of great trade, and noted for the extent of business transacted at its weekly market and numerous fairs, in cattle, corn, cheese, and all kinds of provisions. It has always been celebrated for the excellence of its cheese, as it is still for cakes and ale. The proximity of the Thames and Severn canal adds greatly to its commercial advantages. Here is a charity-school both for boys and girls, supported principally by subscription; with almshouses for ten poor widows. Roman coins have been frequently found in the vicinity of this town, which once gave the title of Earl to the Knollys family, a claim to the succession of which has recently been advanced without success.

BANCHORY-DAVENICK, shire of Kincardine, S.

P. T. Aberdeen (121) 4 m. SW b S. Pop. 2224.

A parish, intersected from west to east by the river Dee, the northern part lying in the district and shire of Aberdeen. It is bounded on the east by the German ocean, along the coast of which at Dounie, Findon, and Port Lathom are coves for fishing-boats, but no safe harbour for shipping; neither is the Dee navigable here, though it is subject to inundations, and abounds with salmon. Recent improvements have rendered the soil, which is naturally light, tolerably fruitful, and the granite is wrought here with success; living, in the presbytery and synod of Aberdeen; patron, the Crown. Several extensive rains and two Druidical temples are the chief relics of antiquity to be found in this parish.

BANCHORY-TERNAN, shire of Kincardine, S.

Elisburgh 110 m. N b E. Pop. 1728.

A parish and village, situated on the northern bank of the river Dee, which is adorned with fine natural wood and extensive plantations. It is watered also by the rapid river French, over which there is a substantial stone bridge of four arches near its confluence with the Dee. Loch Drum and Loch Leys, each about three miles in circuit, are in this parish; and on an island in the latter are some ruins. The surface is uneven, mossy, and in general covered with heath, and an inferior limestone abounds contiguous to the river. A general post-office is established at the village, where stands the church, an elegant structure of modern date; living, in the presbytery of Kincardine O'Neil and synod of Aberdeen; patron, Sir Robert Burnett, Bart. Here is a school for girls endowed by Dr. Reid, and a grammar school endowed by the same liberal individual and another.

BANDON, or BANDONBRIDGE, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Dublin 100 m. SW. Pop. 10,170. Fairs, May 6; Oct. 20; and Nov. 6. M. D. Wed. and Sat.

A borough town, called by the Irish Droichead, a bridge, in the parishes of Kilbrignan and Ballynolan and barony of Kinalmoraky, situated upon the river Bandon, whence its name. It was built in the year 1610, by Richard Boyle, first Earl of Cork, and had walls, fortifications, two churches, and two market-houses, until demolished in 1690 by the insurgents. It returns one member to the Imperial Parliament; and is a permanent military station. There are a subscription charity-school of 116 boys in the town; a court-house, in which sessions for the riding are held; a Roman Catholic chapel; and an extensive quay. Here is also a classical school, founded by the Earl of Cork and Burlington, and endowed by him with 20*l.* per annum rent charge on his estates, to which his Grace the Duke of Devonshire, the inheritor of the estate, has added a further endowment of 20*l.* per annum. The appointment of head master is vested in his Grace, and the school has lately attained a high character. The manufactures consist of cotton, linen, cambrics, stuffs, with hosiery, tanneries, dyeing establishments, and cotton mills. At a little distance from the town is a famous chalybeate spring; and the old castle of Dundanere is not very remote. From this place the family of Bernard derives the title of Earl, and a branch of the Boyle family takes that of Viscount.

BANDON, river, co. Cork, Munster, I.

A river, which rises near Alaghmore in the barony of Bantry, and flows south by Dunmanway; a little below which town it runs eastward a distance of thirty miles, and falls into the sea at Kinsale. Its banks are remarkably picturesque, and ornamented with many fine seats and ancient castles. It is navigable from Kinsale, to the distance of two miles from Bandon town.

This county is bounded on the north by the ocean, on the west by the shires of Moray and part of Inverness; on the south by Inverness, and on the east by the shire of Aberdeen. The southern part of this county is very mountainous; but the northern part, although agreeably diversified with hill and dale, is comparatively level, and very fertile. The soil is, for the most part, a rich loam, or deep clay, very retentive of moisture. The principal rivers are the Spey and Deveron, the Isla, the Conglass, Avon, and the Fiddich; besides which there are a number of tributary streams, which, although occasionally mischievous by their overflow, add materially to the fertility and ornament of the county. There are several mountains, which rise in altitude as they recede from the coast, the most celebrated being that of Cairngorm, which attains an elevation of 4050 feet above the level of the sea. The climate partakes of the general character of that of the eastern coast of North Britain, with greater severity as the distance increases from the sea. Agriculture is notwithstanding carried on with great spirit, although but little wheat is raised in the inland parishes. The chief crops are bear, oats, flax, turnips, potatoes, and peas. Black cattle are reared in great numbers, and with grain, especially oats, constitutes the principal articles of export. The salmon caught in the Spey and Deveron also constitute a considerable article of traffic, and great quantities of salt cod, ling, skate, and haddock are disposed of on the coast south of Aberdeen. The imports are hemp, corn, wool, wood, with wine, and other articles of luxury and fashion. The chief employment of the inhabitants of a manufacturing description consists in spinning flax for the merchants of Glasgow, Paisley, Dundee, and Aberdeen. White and dyed threads are manufactured to some extent, and on a small scale, woollen and cotton goods, linen, and lace. Among the natural productions of this county, blue-stone is the most prevalent, being diffused over the whole county; marble also abounds in several places, especially at Portsoy, where a species is found, which possesses a brilliancy like the Labrador spar, and in a particular light shows a purple and bluish tint. When polished it exhibits figures which have a remote resemblance to Arabic characters, a quality first remarked in Arabia, where it is also found, and which induced the Arabs to give it the name of "Moses' Tablets," supposing they had found pieces of the tablet on which the decalogue was originally written. Two chimney-pieces were formed of it for the palace at Versailles, and it is still wrought into chimney-pieces, monuments, and toys. Free-stone, marble, slate, and various kinds of granite are likewise productions of this county, and rock crystals and the topazes, called from the mountain of that name, Cairngorms, are found in various districts. The principal land proprietors in Banffshire are the Duke of Gordon, the Earl of Fife, and the Earl of Seafield, all of whom have fine seats therein. The two royal burghs are Banff and Cullen, which send a member to Parliament in conjunction with those of Elgin, Inverury and Kintore.

A parish and royal burgh. The latter, which is the chief town in the county, is pleasantly situated on the side of a hill, at the mouth of the river Deveron. Tradition assigns its foundation to Malcolm Canmore, and it received the same privileges as Aberdeen by a charter granted by Robert II. The town is at present governed by a provost, four bailies, twelve councillors, and other officers to the total amount of twenty-seven, who alone elect a member of Parliament, in conjunction with the corporations of Cullen, Elgin, Inverury, and Kintore, under the influence of the Earl of Seafield. This town has several handsome streets, and is deemed the most fashionable residence north of Aberdeen. The town-house, which was built in 1798, is a very handsome building, with an elegant spire. The ancient castle, which occupies the summit of a mound within the town, exhibits many signs of its former strength, although used at present as a mansion by the Earl of Seafield, once heritable sheriff of the county. The harbour of Banff, which was very defective, has been recently much improved by the exertions of the nobility, magistracy, and gentry of the town and shire, aided by the funds of the Parliamentary Commissioners for the construction of Highland roads and bridges; and under the same auspices the modern bridge of seven arches was a few years ago erected over the Deveron. Manufactures of thread, cotton, stockings, rope, and sail-cloth are carried on here, and many of the inhabitants are occupied in the salmon and white fisheries. Banff possesses an excellent seminary for superior education, which has obtained merited reputation. There is also a valuable establishment for the education of the children of the poor, and an alms or bede-house for eight poor women. In the immediate vicinity is Duff House, the magnificent seat of the Earl of Fife, the grounds of which are very extensive and beautiful. The parish of Banff, which is six miles in length by about two in breadth, is chiefly dedicated to plantation and pasture. The living is in the jurisdiction of the presbytery of Fordyce and synod of Aberdeen; patron, the Earl of Seafield. The church was elegantly rebuilt about forty years ago, on the plan of that of Dundee. There is a powerful chalybeate spring near this town. Dr. James Sharpe, archbishop of St. Andrews, rendered historically conspicuous both by his political inconsistency and violent death, was a native of this parish.

A city and parish in the hundred of Uwchgorffai. The city is situated at the foot of a steep rock, in a narrow and fertile vale, near the northern entrance of the Menai Strait, and adjacent to the mouth of the river Ogwen. It consists of one principal street, nearly a mile in length, and much too narrow for so great a thoroughfare, with several smaller avenues opening into it from the water side. The principal public buildings are the cathedral, which was completed in 1532, the bishop's palace, deanery-house, free-school, market-house, assembly-rooms, and three excellent inns. There are also several meeting-houses of Wesleyan methodists and dissenters. Since the construction of that admirable work of art, the Menai bridge, Bangor has risen into some importance, being visited by upwards of 50,000 persons annually, who remain for longer or shorter periods. Houses are regularly prepared for the reception of lodgers in the summer season. Many neat villas have been erected in the vicinity; and the spacious inn, built by Mr. Pennant, affords elegant accommodation for one hundred inmates at a time. Its proximity to the sea has given Bangor the advantage of becoming a favourite bathing-place; and the views of Beaumaris Bay and the Caernarvon mountains from Garth Point, the promenade of the inhabitants, are of the most picturesque, bold, and sublime character. One of the projected changes in the Welsh judicature is to establish the assizes here for the surrounding counties; if this measure be carried into effect, Bangor will at once become the capital of North Wales. Steam-packets ply between this place and Liverpool during nine months of the year. The name Bangor signifies either High Choir, or White Choir; and the city was called also Bangor Fawr, i. e. Bangor the Great, to distinguish it from Bangor-is-y-coed, Bangor-below-the-wood, in Flintshire. The settlement, which is probably coeval with the see, may be said to owe its origin to St. Deiniol, or Daniel, who founded a college here, of which he became abbot, in the year 525. The diocese comprehends all Anglesea, Caernarvonshire (four parishes excepted), fourteen parishes in Denbighshire, and seven in Montgomeryshire. It has three archdeacons; Anglesea, Bangor, and Merioneth, the two former being generally held in commendam with the bishopric. In 26 Henry VIII. the revenues of this see were valued at 1517. 3s. per annum, or 1317. 16s. 4d. clear; but they are generally considered to exceed 1200l. per annum. The members of the chapter and other persons attached to the cathedral are, the bishop, dean, archdeacon, treasurer, and two prebendaries, endowed; a precentor, a chancellor, and three canons, unendowed; two vicars choral, an organist, lay clerks and choristers, and other officers. The ancient cathedral, dedicated to the founder, was destroyed by the Saxons in 1071, but rebuilt by King John, in 1212. It suffered materially in the wars between Henry III. and the Welsh in 1247, and it was burned down in 1402, during the war which followed the revolt of Owen Glendwr. After a lapse of ninety years, the choir of a new cathedral rose from the ruins of the ancient pile, at the expense of Bishop Deane, or Deny; and in 1532, the pious Bishop Skiffington added the tower and nave. The example of his predecessors was lost upon Bishop Bulkely, the occupant of the see in 1547, who alienated much of the see lands, and actually sold the bells of the cathedral. The present repairs and condition of the building are most creditable and complete. The choir is preserved for cathedral service. In one transept the service is performed in the Welsh tongue; and the nave is fitted up as a parish church, for the accommodation of the greatly increased population, as well as for that of the numerous assemblage of occasional residents in the summer season. The tomb of Prince Owen Gryffyd, beneath an arched recess in the cathedral wall, is still perfect; he was interred here in 1169. The bishop, as lord of the manor, has the immediate jurisdiction of the city. The living is a vicarage, not in charge, with the chapel of Pentir; patron, the Bishop. The church is ded. to St. Deiniol, and the tithes are appropriated to the church of Bangor. Area of parish about five miles square. The trade of this place consists entirely in the export of slates, raised in the quarries of Llandegni, seven miles from the town, and conveyed on a railway to Port Penrhyn, where there is an excellent and convenient quay. There is a tolerable fishery near Garth Ferry, in the Menai strait, and great facility of water carriage, by means of the strait, to places along the coasts of Anglesea and Caernarvon. The free-school, a handsome brick building, was founded in conformity with the will of Dr. Jeffry Glyn, brother of Bishop Glyn, after the year 1557. The salary of the master is 400*l.* per annum. There are private day-schools also for the poor in the city. Adjacent to the city is the demesne of Mr. Pennant, who succeeded to the estates of the late Lady Penrhyn. A castle is now in progress of erection within the demesne, on the site of the palace of Roderic, Prince of Wales, in 720, on a scale of great extent and magnificence. It is built in the pure Saxon style of architecture, from the designs of Mr. Wotton, and at an expense, perhaps, exceeding 100,000*l.* About half a mile eastward of the city stood a strong castle, erected in the reign of William II., by Hugh, Earl of Chester; the ground plan is yet distinct. In the year 1806, at a place called Ty-cloch, within two miles of Bangor, a grit stone, sixteen inches in length, was dug up, bearing an inscription in honour of Antoninus Pius.

Dublin 114 m. N. & E. Pop. of Pa. 6771. (1841). Fair, Jan. 30; May 1; and Nov. 22.

A parish, including a town of the same name, partly in the barony of Arden, and partly in the barony of Castlereagh. The name is also said to be derived from Bein-chor, i. e. sweet music. The town is situated on the Bay or Lough of Carrickfergus, five miles east-north-east of Newtown, and is the property of Warde, Lord Bangor. It is of ancient foundation, and was a borough, governed by a provost and twelve burgesses, in whom lay the right of election of Parliamentary representatives, previous to the union of the two kingdoms. The living is an impropriate cure in the diocese of Down and archdiocese of Armagh. A church was built within the precincts of the abbey in 1623. There is a globe-house, to which twelve acres of land are attached. Bangor is well situated for a fishing station, and a pier has been built for the encouragement of the deep-sea fishery, at the expense of the proprietor. His lordship also supports a school of fifty-six girls in Bangor town, while the Lady Duffrin maintains a school of forty girls within the parish. There is a promising lead mine in the parish, worked by the Mining Company of Ireland. Bangor was anciently famous for its abbey of Cuanon, founded by St. Congall, a person of noble birth and a pupil of St. Fintan, of Clonenagh, A. D. 559. It is asserted, that there were 3000 resident monks at one time, among whom are mentioned Cormac, king of Leinster, who closed his life in this abbey, A. D. 567, and St. Columbanna, who received his education here. It was restored by St. Malachy, in 1120. A small part of the abbey still remains, but the traces of the foundation indicate a building of great extent. The Copeland Islands and the village of Crawfordburn are in this parish.

P. T. Ellice-mere (1604) 5 m. N. Whitechurch 11 m. Pop. 1320.

A village and parish, partly in the hundred of Maclor, county of Flint, and partly in the hundred of Bromfield, in the county of Denbigh. It is beautifully situated on the banks of the river Dee, in an open and fertile country. The living is a rectory in the diocese of St. Asaph; valued in K. B. at 3*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.*; patron, P. L. Fletcher, Esq. This place is the Banchorium Statio of Richard of Cirencester, and is remarkable, in ancient history, for its monastery, said to have been founded by Lucius, the son of Coel, the first Christian king of Britain, previous to the year 180. It is certain that a famous college existed here at the coming of St. Augustine; and it is believed that Æthelfred, king of the East Angles, slew 1200 monks of this monastery, for praying for the overthrow of the Saxon infidels by their Christian fellow-countrymen. Shortly after the Norman Conquest, William of Malmesbury writes that the ruins of many churches and extensive buildings still remained, but all traces of both monastery and city have disappeared.

P. T. Stirling (351) 3 m. S. Pop. with Pa. Fairs, 2d Tues. (O. S.) in June and Oct.

A village in the parish of St. Ninian's, situated on the river Bannock. Most of the tartans used for army clothing, carpets, and cottons are manufactured here. It is celebrated in Scottish history for the glorious victory gained here on the 24th of June, 1314, by the brave King Robert Bruce over Edward II.; also for another battle termed Sauchie Burn, fought on the 18th of June, 1349, between James III. and his revolted subjects, when the king was defeated, and subsequently fell by the hand of an assassin at a neighbouring mill, whither he had fled for refuge.

BANNOW, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

P. T. Wexford (94) 11½ m. S.W. Pop. 1290.

A parish, including a town of the same name, in the barony of Bargo; situated upon Banow-Bay, a little north of the Rag and Bonn Cape, upon which Robert Fitz-Stephen and Harvey de Monte Marisco landed in 1169. A new pier has been erected in the harbour. An agricultural school, the first of the kind attempted in Ireland, was opened here in 1821, by the Rev. Mr. Hukey, which has been attended with complete success, and has proved a useful example. Here is a Protestant charter-school, a Roman Catholic chapel, and a dispensary. The parish contains 1740 acres of land; living, a vicarage in the diocese of Ferns and archdiocese of Dublin; valued in K. BANSTEAD, co. Surrey.

P. T. Ewell (12) 3 m. S.E. Pop. 940.

A parish in the first division of the hundred of Copthorne, situated between Dorking and Croydon, in the vicinity of Epsom Wells. It is highly celebrated for the beauty of the neighbouring downs, the herbage of which is peculiarly grateful to sheep, and favourable to the production of highly-prized and delicate mutton. The extent of the prospect is very commanding, reaching to a distance of thirty miles, and including views of London, Westminster, Windsor Castle, and Hampton Court. On these downs is a fine four-mile course, where Epsom races are annually run in the months of May or June. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Surrey and diocese of Winchester; church ded. to All Saints; patron and incumbent (1829) the Rev. W. Buckle. Among the many elegant seats in this neighbourhood is the Oaks, originally a mere hunting villa, but subsequently improved into a noble mansion by its proprietor, the Earl of Derby. The Oaks, during a large part of the late reign, was celebrated for the spirit, rank, and fashion of its numerous visitors; and it was from an expensive site champagne, given here in 1773, that General Burgoyne was led to compose the musical entertainment called "The Maid of the Oaks."

BANTRY, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Pop. 12,659. Pop. of Berr 10,437.

A barony, generally united to the barony of Berr, or Bear. This district is exceedingly wild, although relieved by the occurrence of fertility in some places and sublime scenery in others. It contains valuable copper mines, where upwards of 500 persons are employed merely in breaking the ore. Limestone is discovered occasionally on the surface, and there is a calcareous schistus on the north side of Bantry bay, that produces a brown lime. The remote situation of this district seems to preclude the practicability of its emerging from its present uncultivated state; yet it is asserted that rents are high. The general produce of the barony consists of barley, oats, flax, black cattle, and hardy mountain ponies. There are many thousand acres of bog, all improvable, and to which purpose the coralline on the shore seems particularly adapted. (See Bantry Town and Bay.) There are only eight parishes in the united baronies. The Earl of Donoughmore is an extensive title proprietor in this barony.

BANTRY BAY, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Lat. 51. 30 to 51. 40 N. Lon. 9. 21 to 9. 13 E.

An extensive bay, in the united baronies of Bear and Bantry. At the entrance is the island of Bearhaven, one mile distant from the mainland on the west, and rather more on the east side. Depth of water in the east passage from thirty to forty fathoms; in the west from ten to sixteen; and up the bay, towards Whiddy Island, from fifteen to twenty-five fathoms. On the north-east side of Whiddy are four islands, called Horse, Hog, Chappel, and Coney Islands. Between the south side of Whiddy and the mainland is the roadstead for ships, in twenty-four, thirty, and forty feet of water, with good anchorage-ground. The island of Bearhaven acts as a breakwater, and keeps the surface still in the south-west winds, which prevail here. It is calculated that all the shipping of Europe might shelter here in deep water. The length of the bay is thirty-three miles, and the breadth from four to six. The security of this asylum has long been known to the French navy, who were engaged at its entrance on the 29th of April, 1689, by the English fleet under Admiral Herbert; and in 1796, the second division of the French armament, under General Hoche, destined against the British Isles, came to anchor in Bantry Bay, off the west quarter of Whiddy Island. The scenery of this bay is considered the most sublime in the kingdom. The lofty hills which rise abruptly from the waters cast an awful gloom on their surface, and the neighbourhood of Glengarriffe affords a scene of the highest beauty and sublimity combined. At this latter place is Sea-court, the seat of Lord Bantry, situated on the south side of the bay, and near to the town; and there are several small and elegant cottage residences along the head of the bay. Amongst the very many objects of interest and curiosity with which this whole district abounds, the great cataract of Hungry-hill is the most astonishing. Several small lakes near the summit of a lofty mountain discharge their water over a precipice 2000 feet above the base of the mountain, for the greater part of which height the fall is almost perpendicular. This grand spectacle is often distinctly visible from the town of Bantry, at a distance of seventeen miles. Along the shore are copper mines, now in full work, and there is a valuable coralline found on the strand, which is useful as manure. See Whiddy Island, Bearhaven Island, Bantry, &c.

BANTRY, town, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Dublin 221 m. SW. Pop. 2650.

Fairs, June 9; Aug. 21; Oct. 13; and Dec. 1.

A town in the parish of Kilmacomogue and barony of Bear and Bantry. It was formerly called Ballygobbin, and also Old Town, to distinguish it from New Town, a place established by Ireton, who erected a fortification with four regular bastions, near to which many persons built houses; but when the fort went to decay, the new town was deserted for the old, which was the chief settlement of the half barony. There was a Franciscan friary here, founded by Dermot O'Sullivan Beare, in 1460; but no remains of the building are visible. The living is a vicarage in the diocese of Cork and archdiocese of Cashel, Lord Donoughmore being the lay impropriator. It possesses fifty-two acres of glebe, but no glebe-house. The town of Bantry formerly enjoyed a valuable pilchard fishery, several thousand pounds worth being annually exported to Spain and Portugal, but for many years back not a single pilchard has appeared on the coast. There is a charity-school in the town of eighty girls, supported by subscription; and a Dublin Association school of twenty-two boys and twenty-two girls; also a charity-school of 120 boys. This place gives title of Viscount to the family of White.

BARDSEY ISLE, co. Caernarvon, N. W.

Lat. 52. 36. Lon. 5. 4 W. P. T. Pwllheli (200)
20 m. NE. of Aberdaron. Pop. 84.

An island, extra parochial, in the hundred of Cymytnaen. It is called, in Welsh, Inys Eulli, the island in the current, from the violence of the stream in Bardsey Sound. It is situated in the Irish Sea, at the northern point of Cardigan bay; measuring about two miles in length by one in breadth, and is the property of Lord Newborough. One third of the surface is occupied by a rugged hill, but the remainder is a level fertile plain, elevated a little above the sea. The inhabitants are occupied in agriculture and fishing. All clerical duties are performed, for the islanders, at the church of Aberdaron, on the Mainland. Dubritius, archbishop of Caerleon, almost worn out with age, resigned his see to St. David, and retired to this island, where he died in the year 612. Here was an abbey dedicated to St. Mary; and the ruins of the abbot's house have been converted into a tolerable dwelling, by several of the resident families. The most perfect of the ecclesiastical remains is the oratory, where prayers are frequently read in tempestuous weather, by the best qualified of the inhabitants. Many learned persons suppose the sanctuary on Bardsey to have been a retreat of the Celdres, who were attached to such remote situations. It is acknowledged that Bardsey was one of the earliest religious establishments in Wales. The revenue of the monastery, at the dissolution, was found to amount to 16*l*. 1*s*. 4*d*. The places for embarkation for the island are Aberdaron and Porth Men-dwy. The breadth of the sound is three leagues, and the only safe landing-place is at a little harbour on the south-east side.

BARDSEY, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Wetherby (101) 3 m. NW. Pop. of Pa. 371. Of 10. (including Bagston) 226.

BARGIE, or BARGY, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

Pop. 11,212. No. of Acres 32,719.

A barony, containing thirteen parishes. It is situated on the sea shore, having the mountains of Forth as its northern boundary. The soil is altogether alluvial, containing mud intermixed with shells. Secondary lime-stone exists here, and also granite. The inhabitants are occupied in agriculture and fishing. There is a very plentiful supply of wild fowl in this district, the most remarkable of which is the species called Barnacle. In the year 1169, Harvey de Monte Maresco, the nephew of Earl Stronghow, having landed at Baganbun Point, and thereby first introduced his countrymen into Ireland, was subsequently rewarded by a grant of the district now called the baronies of Forth and Barchie, or the English baronies. A colony of Anglo-Saxons was then established here, whose descendants have continued to preserve themselves a distinct people, and who speak a language, differing from the Irish generally, to this very day.

BARKING, co. Essex.

London  $\frac{1}{2}$  m. ENE. Pop. of Pa. 6374.
Of to 25*th*. M. D. Sat. Fairs, Sep. 14, 10*th*; and Oct. 22, horses.

A parish and market-town in the hundred of Beacontree; the latter situate on the small river Rhoding, and on a creek which communicates with the Thames. It was a place of some consequence under the Saxons, principally owing to the celebrity of its convent of nuns, which flourished still more after the Conquest, by the patronage of the queens of Henry I. and Stephen. The nuns were of the Benedictine order, and the abbess was one of the four, who were baronesses, in right of their station. On the dissolution of the abbey, the town, which greatly depended upon it, much declined. The parish contains the additional townships of Chadwell, Ilford, and Ripple. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Essex and diocese of London; charged in K. B. 19*l.* 18*s.* 11*d.*; church ded. to St. Margaret; patron, All Souls College, Oxford. Two chapels, the one at Ilford, and the other at Epping Forest, are annexed to this vicarage. The inhabitants of this town are chiefly fishermen, or persons engaged in the conveyance of coal and timber from the Thames. The carriage of the produce of the vicinity, which grows great quantities of potatoes and vegetables, to the London market, also employs many persons, and for which the creek, which has been rendered navigable to Ilford, is very commodious. Here are a market-house, a free-school, and a spacious and convenient workhouse, erected in 1787, under the authority of an Act of Parliament. The lord of the manor, succeeding to the rights of the ancient abbess, claims the deadlands of the hundred, and holds a court every three weeks, in which are tried causes of trespass and debt under 40*s.* Owing to the abundance of manure obtained from the Thames and the Rhoding, the soil around is rich, but the air is deemed acrid and unhealthy. Near this town the Thames overflowed in 1725, and for some years covered 5000 acres of land. Although the abbey and conventual church occupied a large space of ground, scarcely a vestige of them is now discoverable. Above the town, towards Dagenham, an old house is shewn as one in which, according to tradition, the Gundowder plot was concerted.

BARKING, co. Suffolk.

P. T. Needham Market (74)  $\frac{1}{2}$  m. SW.

BARMOUTH, or ABER MAW, co. Merioneth, N. W.

London 222 m. NW. Dolgelly 8 m.

Pop. with Pa. M. D. Tuesday and Friday. Fairs, Oct. 7; and Nov. 21.

A town in the parish of Llan-Aber and hundred of Ardudwy, but, according to the population return of 1821, it belongs to the parish of Corwen and hundred of Eder-nion. It is situated at the mouth of the river Maw, or Mawddach, but more generally called the Afon, i. e. river, which is navigable by boats to Dolgelly nearly. It lies at the foot of a lofty mountain, upon a very steep bank, having the houses built mostly in tiers one above another, which has occasioned the distant view of the town to be compared by tourists to Gibraltar and to Edinburgh, to the latter of which it bears no resemblance whatever. It is also built upon an open estuary, and is the only sea-port in the county; the entrance, however, is obstructed by a bar. There are upwards of one hundred sloops belonging to this place; and it enjoys a tolerable export trade in flannels. In the summer season Barmouth is much frequented for the benefit of sea-bathing; and comfortable accommodation for invalids and visitors is provided here, and public assemblies are held twice a week. The beach is a most agreeable promenade at low water, and the distant mountain views remarkably grand. Iron stone is found on the banks of the Maw, or Afon, and an attempt was once made to establish works here. Marcasite and silver, interlaced with veins of copper, have been discovered in the vicinity. Friars' Island, or Yays-yon, A market-town and township in the parish of Gainsford, in the south-west division of Darlington ward. It is situated on the southern acclivity of an eminence rising with a steep ascent from the river Tees. It takes its name from a castle originally built by Barnard or Bernard Balliol, grandfather of John Balliol, King of Scotland. It sub-ms. sequently came into the possession of the en- crown, and ultimately the castle, houses, ear parish lands, and privileges, were purchased ing by an ancestor of the Marquis of Cleveland, ast to whom they at present belong. The town

B. extends in length nearly a mile; and the ts ; principal street is spacious and well-lookle, a white species of stone. The market cross is a neat octangular free-stone building, open at the sides for public accommodation;

 and here is held one of the largest corn-in markets in the north of England. Many of the l. inhabitants were formerly much occupied in the manufacture of Scottish camblets, and in the weaving of stocking hose, which branches of business are still carried on. The town is also celebrated for the skill of its fabricawith the vicarage of Gainsford, to which it is a chapelry. The church, which is dedicated to St. Mary, possesses no architectural claims to attention. A sulphureous spring issues from a rock in the bed of the river Tees, not far from this town, the environs of which are deemed remarkably beautiful. The remains of the ancient castle occupy a circumference of between six and seven acres.

 The parts of chief strength stand on the brink of a steep rock, about eighty feet per-of is used as a pasture for sheep, and other inclosed parts have been transformed into or-

BARN-ELMS, co. Surrey.

Pop. with Pa.

A hamlet in the foregoing parish, about a quarter of a mile from the church, consisting of two houses, surrounded with majestic elms. In one of these, called Queen Elizabeth's dairy, lived and died the celebrated Jacob Tonson, the bookseller, who built a gallery near it for the occasional accommodation of the fashionable association called the Kit-Cat Club. In this gallery Tonson placed the portraits of all the members, including most of the celebrated wits of the day, painted by Kneller. These have been long removed to Bayfordbury, the seat of William Baker, Esq., near Hertford, and the gallery now forms part of a riding-house. The manor-house at Barn-Elms was granted by Queen Elizabeth to Sir Francis Walsingham, and it subsequently became the residence of the unfortunate Earl of Essex, who married his daughter, the widow of the gallant Sir Philip Sidney. It has been much enlarged and modernized by Sir Richard Colt Hoare, to whose family it still belongs. Cowley, the poet, resided here before he settled at Chertsey.

BARNET-CHIPPING, or HIGH BARNET, co. Herts.

London 11 m. NNW. St. Albans 9 m. SE. Hertford 11 m. NNW. Pop. 1755. M. D. Vm.

Fairs, April 8, 9, and 10, for drapery, mercery, and toys; Sept. 4, 5, and 6, for sheep. Welsh cattle, horses, pigs, mercery, &c. Mail arr. 9. 20. a. Dep. 5. 20. m.

A market-town in the hundred of Cashio, situate on the summit of a hill on the high north road. It formerly belonged to the abbot of St. Albans, to whom the market was granted so early as the reign of Henry II., whence its appellation of Chipping. From its elevated situation, it is exceedingly healthy, and the country around is celebrated for the excellence of its hay. The town is at present governed by a presiding magistrate, a high constable, and subordinate officers. Much business is done at the fairs, and the Monday market is greatly resorted to by graziers with English, Scotch, and Welsh cattle. The inhabitants of this township enjoy a very extensive common right over the adjoining wastes and chace. The living is a curacy, not in charge, annexed to the rectory of East Barnet. The church, ded. to St. John the Baptist, was erected in 1400 by John Moot, abbot of St. Albans; it contains various ancient monuments of the Ravenscrofts and others. Here is a grammar-school, founded by Queen Elizabeth, which was further benefited by the bounty of Alderman Owen; nine children are taught gratis, and the rest pay 5*s.* per quarter. Here are also six almshouses for poor as-cient women, widows or unmarried, founded by James Ravenscroft, Esq. in the reign of Charles II., and as many more for widows only under the will of James Garret, Esq., who, in 1721, bequeathed £800. for that purpose. On the common adjoining the town was a race-course, but owing to an act of inclosure the races have been discontinued, and some recent attempts to revive them have met with little encouragement. In 1171, the decisive battle of Barnet took place between the partisans of the houses of York and Lancaster, in which the great Earl of Warwick was slain. It was fought in an open space of ground, called Glabmore Heath, near this town; in commemoration of which event, an obelisk with an inscription was erected by Sir Jeremy Sambrook, of Gobians, Bart. Some antiquaries, however, including Dugdale, think Friarn Barnet, in Middlesex, was the site of this noted conflict.

A market-town and township in the parish of Silkstone, wapentake of Staincross, and liberty of Pontefract. It was anciently called Black Barnsley, from its exposed situation, which word has gradually been corrupted into that of Black. It is situated on the declivity of a hill, among coal pits and iron works, which is thought to have facilitated the corruption of black into black as above stated. Wire-drawing was formerly the principal manufacture of this town, and it is still carried on to a considerable extent, and it is supposed to supply the best wire for needles in the kingdom. There are also extensive iron foundries, for the casting and construction of iron articles of every description, as also a large manufactory of glass bottles. Of late years, however, the major part of the inhabitants have been occupied in the manufacture of flax, bleaching of linen yarns, and weaving of linen cloth, ducks, dimers, damasks, and kindred articles, which trade unfortunately seems beginning to relax in its turn. Great quantities of free-stone and grind-stone are obtained in this neighbourhood, which also supplies plentiful veins of coal. To add to its commercial facilities, it is favoured by a canal, affording a communication with all parts of the kingdom. The living is a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry and diocese of York; certified value 18*l.* 18*s.*; patron, the Archbishop of York. The church, which is deemed a chapel of ease to Silkstone, has been recently re-built, and a new one has also been just erected, under the authority of the Parliamentary Commission for that purpose. There are a Roman Catholic, and several dissenting chapels; as also a free grammar-school, founded and endowed by Thomas Keresforth, Gent., in 1665. The land in the vicinity of this town is highly distinguished for its fertility; the manor is possessed by the Duke of Leeds.

London 191 m. W. b. S.; Exeter 34 m. SW. Pop. 5420. M. D. Frid. Fairs (not being chartered) called great marks 14 Sept 19; Fri. before April 21; and second Fridy in Dec. for cattle. Memb. of Pt. 2.

A borough, market-town, and sea-port, locally situated in the hundred of Braunton, but possessing a separate jurisdiction. It is seated on the eastern bank of the river Tor, over which is a stone bridge of sixteen arches, in a broad and fertile vale bounded by a semicircular range of hills. It is one of the most pleasant and respectable towns in the county, the streets being spacious and regular, and the houses for the most part built with stone. A handsome quay extends along the river side to a considerable distance, in the centre of which is placed a statue of Queen Ann. From the

at accumulation of sand, the harbour is shallow, and laden vessels of more than tons find it difficult to enter, on which vast much commercial business has been transferred to Rye-ford. This town was a royal demesne before the Conquest; it is said to have been erected into a borough by King Athelstan, who built a castle at the junction of the Taw with the river. Of the fortress no vestiges remain, except the artificial mound on which it was erected. Barnstaple was first formally incorporated by Henry I. from which early date the common burgesses claim various rights by prescription. The charter, by which it is at present governed, was granted by Queen Mary, and ratified by James I. a corporation, under this authority, consists of a mayor, two aldermen, and twenty capital burgesses, with a high steward, clerk, and other officers. The town has returned two members to Parliament since the death of Edward I. the right of electing whom rested in the corporation and common burgesses, resident and non-resident; number of votes about 300; returning officer, the mayor. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter; valued in K. B. 154. 8s. 9d.; from (1829) Lord Wharncliffe. The church, ded. to St. Peter and St. Paul, is a serious building, with a handsome spire. There is a free grammar-school, at which re-educated Bishop Jewel, the poet Gay, and the learned Dr. Musgrave; also a charity-school, for the children of the poor. The town possesses a respectable theatre, and its assemblies are very numerous and fashionably attended. Notwithstanding the defects of the harbour, Barnstaple carries on considerable trade to the Mediterranean, Ireland, Newfoundland, and the various ports in the Bristol Channel. Much employment is afforded by ship-building; and there are manufactures of tanneries, shalloon, lace, silk stockings, pottery, and fishing-tackle, the last of which articles are woven in town. The weekly market, which is well supplied with all kinds of provision, is celebrated for extensive dealings in corn. It is the author of the Boys' Opera, &c. born in the immediate vicinity of Barnstaple.

BARRA, shire of Inverness, S.

P. T. Glenelg (1484) 00 m. Pop. 2303.

A parish in the Hebrides, comprising the inhabited islands of Barra, Berneray, Flodday, Giggay, Keillesay, Mengalay, Palbay, Sanderay, and Watersay, with the smaller and uninhabited isles of Crean-Mulls, Crimonil, Friary, Three Fladdays, Fudia, Griskay, Lingay, Muldonich, Snoassumul, and Wia, most of which are fruitful in corn and cattle, but suffer much damage during the prevalence of south-west winds, and are sometimes inaccessible from the great rapidity of the currents rushing betwixt them. This parish has a church at each of the villages Borge and Kilbar on the main island (Barra), and another on Watersay isle, all being served by the same minister; living in the presbytery of North Uist and synod of Glenelg; the seat of the former distant forty miles, and of the latter ninety; patron, the Crown. The inhabitants of the southern islands profess the Roman Catholic religion. This parish is the property of the chief of the Macneils, to whom it has descended in regular succession from before the invasion of the Danes.

BARRA, or BARRAY, shire of Inverness, S.

Length 8 m. Breadth 2 to 4 m.

An island, one of the Hebrides, constituting part of the parish so named, which see. Its general appearance is rugged and barren, rocks and sand abounding on the entire surface, excepting at the north end, where there is a fine plain not exceeded in fertility by any of a like extent in all Scotland; nor are the higher parts southward deficient in good pasturage. The coast is indented by several bays and by a good harbour on the north-east side, off which there are extensive fishing banks whence cod and ling are taken in abundance. The sale of these, and of the herds of cattle reared upon the hills, with the kelp manufactured at the sea-side is very profitable to the natives. The Gaelic language is spoken in common and in its greatest purity here. At Borge there is a church dedicated to St. Michael, and at Kilbar two, one belonging to the Protestants, and the other to Roman Catholics. Here is a school supported by the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge. On Kisimul bay are the remains of a castle, formerly the residence of the lairds of Barray. Several Druidical temples and Danish duns are scattered here and there, and mineral springs are frequently to be met with on the island.

BARRAGH, co. Carlow, Leinster, I.

P. T. Cloncal (67) 3½ m. W b N. Pop. 3370.

A parish, partly in the barony of Forth and partly in that of St. Mullins. It is situated near the banks of the Slaney, and includes the village of Kildavin and part of the village of Newtown Barry. The living is a vicarage in the diocese of Leighlin and archdiocese of Dublin; value in K.B. at 12s. 3½d., and producing by commutation of tithes 692l. 6s. 2d., of which the lay impropriator receives 461l. 10s. 9½d.

BARRANSTOWN, or BARONSTOWN, or BARONSTON, co. Westmeath, Leinster, I.

P. T. Ballinacargy (57) m. W b N.

Formerly the seat of the Lords Sunderlin, (a title now extinct) in the barony of Moygoish. The demesne is at present occupied by Richard Malone, Esq. This branch of the Malones derive their origin from Mal-Koin, who was an immediate descendant of the O'Connors, kings of Connaught, and they are supposed to have been upwards of six centuries in possession of these precise lands.

BARRASFORD, co. Northumberland.

P. T. Hexham (274) 6 m. N. Pop. 103.

A township in the parish of Chollerton and north-east division of Tindale ward.

BARREL OF BUTTER, shire of Orkney and Shetland, S.

One of the Orkney islands and part of the parish of Orphir. Its ancient name was Carlin Skerry, its present is derived from an annual tack-duty of a barrel of butter paid by the tenant to the proprietor.

BARRELS, ROCKS, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Lat. 51. 27 N. Lon. 6. 20 W.

A collection of rocks in the centre of Court-masherry bay, off the coast of the barony of Barryroe. They lie south of Culmene, or Coolmain Point, and half-way between the Seven Heads and the light-house on the Old Head of Kinsale.

BARRELS, ROCKS, co. Wexford, Leinster, I.

Lat. 52. 0 N. Lon. 6. 21 W.

A considerable village in the parish of Neilston. An extensive manufacture of cotton is carried on here.

BARRIE, shire of Forfar, S.

P. T. Dundee (104) 0 m. ENE. Pop. 1237.

A parish, intersected from east to west by a verdant hill dividing it into two districts, the northern producing only a scanty pasture for sheep, while the southern is extremely well cultivated and fruitful in corn. It lies on the northern side of the entrance to the firth of Tay, where are two light-houses kept up by a trifling tonnage paid upon vessels inward bound; one is built of stone, the other of wood, placed upon rollers for the convenience of moving as the sands shift in the channel, care being taken that both lights be seen in one direction before navigators can proceed in safety. The beach is considered a good landing-place, but there is no harbour. This place has long been noted for its superiority in the manufacture of brown linen, most of which is stamped and finds a ready market at Arbroath; living, in the presbytery of Arbroath and synod of Angus and Mearns; patron, the Crown. Here are many tombs found to contain human skeletons in a perfect state; also the cairn of Heroes, a camp of great extent, where Canus the Dane was totally defeated by Malcolm II.

BARROW, RIVER, Leinster, I.

A navigable river, anciently called Birga, Brera, and also Breba, but, in after ages Barragh, or boundary river, forming for many years the boundary between the English Pale and the Irish Septs. It rises at Glenbarrow, in the Sliebh-bloom mountains, and constitutes a most valuable line of inland navigation, passing through the King's and Queen's counties, through the counties of Carlow, Kildare, Westmeath, Kilkenny, and Wexford. It opens a communication with the sea to the towns of New Ross, Graignemanagh, Wells, Carlow, Leighlin-bridge, Castledermot, Maryborough, Monasterevan, Kildare, Clonbullock, Philipstown, Edenderry, Kinnegad, Mullingar, and other places. A few miles north of New Ross it receives the river Nore, and below the city of Waterford it falls into the river Suire, and so reaches Waterford Haven and the Atlantic. The tolls on this line of navigation amount to 4500l. per annum. The confluence of the rivers Barrow, Nore, and Suire, opposite Cheek Point, are introduced in a beautiful stanza by Spenser, in his episode on the Marriage of the Thames and the Medway.—Fairy Queen, b. 4, cant. xi. v. 43.

BARROW-GOURNEY, co. Somerset.

P. T. Bristol (111) 3½ m. SW. Pop. 255.

BARROW-UPON-SOAR, co. Leicester.

P. T. Mount Sorrel (105) 2 m. N.

Pop. 5500. Of To. 1368.

A parish and township in the hundreds of East and West Goscote, the former including the chapelries of Mount Sorrel, Quorndon, and Woodhouse. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Leicester and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 15l. 2s. 8d.; church ded. to the Holy Trinity. Barrow has for centuries been celebrated for a hard blue stone which calcines into excellent lime or cement, which is used in the construction of dams, flood-gates, &c.; for which purpose much of it is exported to Holland and other places. Among the natural curiosities of the vicinity may be numbered various kinds of fossil fish and plants, one of which, a remarkable specimen of a flat-fish, is preserved in the museum at Cambridge. The Leicester navigation passes through this parish, which was the native place of the celebrated Bishop Beveridge.

B A R

The inhabitants of this township are principally employed in the cotton factories of the vicinity.

BARRY, co. Glamorgan, S. W.

P. T. Cardiff (100) 9 m. NW. Pop. of Pa. 67.

A parish containing a village of the same name, in the hundred of Dinas Powys. It is situated upon the Bristol Channel, and comprehends about 430 acres of land: the living is a rectory not in charge, in the diocese of Llandaff, and of the certified value of 26*l.*; ann. val. P. R. 6*l.*; patron (1829) John Edwards, Esq. The church is dedicated to St. Nicholas. The population of this parish has decreased.

BARRY ISLE, co. Glamorgan, S. W.

P. T. Cardiff (100) 10 m. NW & N.

A small island in the parish of Barry, and considered to be in the hundred of Dinas Powys. It is situated in the Bristol Channel, opposite to the little village of Barry, from which it is separated by a narrow channel, passable for carriages at low water. The surface occupies an area of 300 acres; rabbits forming the principal produce. The rent is about 40*l.* per annum. There is but one farm house in the island, and this is frequently fitted up for the reception of lodgers during the bathing months. There was a chapel on the centre of the island dedicated to St. Barne, and a second, the ruins of which are discoverable at low water. Lead and calamine are found here. The noble family of Barry, in Ireland, are supposed to have derived their name from this islet.

BARRYMORE, ISLAND. See Great Island.

BARRY, co. Longford, Leinster, I.

P. T. Colahill (63) 4 m. W & W. Pop. 136.

A village in the parish of Tashinney and barony of Abbeysnel.

BARRYMORE, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Pop. 50,361.

A barony, containing thirty parishes and 315,103 acres of land. It may be called an inland barony, not touching the sea at any point, with the exception of the Great Island, situated in Cork harbour, which is considered to be part of the barony. In the southern part it is traversed by a vein of limestone extending from Cork to Imokilly, and the northern district is occupied by a similar vein. The substratum of the remainder of the barony is a brown, or rather red stone, and the surface of the latter is coarse, moory, and mountainous. The central portion is rather high but the soil is deep and proves productive. The only town of consequence in the barony is Cove, which owes its origin and prosperity to the protracted war with France. See Cove. The western part of Barrymore was anciently possessed by the McCurtys, and the eastern by the O'Lehans, whose chief seat was Castle Lehan, now called Castle Lyons. Soon after the arrival of the English, the greater part of the barony was granted to the Barrys, who came over with Earl Strongbow, and who derive from the barony the title of Earl.

B A R

BARRY POINT, or BARRY'S POINT, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Lat. 51. 43 N. Lon. 8. 21 W.

6 m. E. of Kinsale. 3 m. E. of Oyster Haven.

A cape in the parish of Nohoval and barony of Kinnalea, on the southern coast of Ireland.

BARRYROE, co. Cork, Munster, I.

Pop. 23,311.

A barony, containing thirteen parishes and 31,591 acres of land. It is situated nearly in the centre of the southern coast, extending along the shore for seventeen miles, and is divided into eastern and western Barryroe, by the strand of Cloghnakilly and the island of Inchidony. The first division is called Ibawne, i. e. the fair country, from its superior fertility; while Barryroe, so called from the Barrys, is coarser, more elevated, and inferior in productiveness. The only town of any note in the barony is Timoleague. The fisheries give much occupation. Pilchards, mackerel, and salmon frequented the coast in large shoals not many years ago, but the first have totally deserted it. The manufactures here are those of frieze and linen, of the coarser kinds, and chiefly for home consumption. The principal landed proprietors are Lord Carbery and the Earls of Shannon and Bandon. The coast possesses many navigable creeks and safe asylums for small craft; of these the most remarkable is the semi-circular estuary called Courtmasherry Bay. Here are several white cliffs, which are found not to contain calcareous matter. See Timoleague, Courtmarsherry, &c.

BARSHAM, co. Suffolk.

P. T. Beccles (100) 2 m. W. Pop. 192.

A parish in the hundred of Wangford, situated near the river Waversey; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry of Suffolk and diocese of Norwich; charged in K. B. 15*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; church ded. to the Holy Trinity; patron (1829) S. Lillistone, Esq. This village was the native place of Dr. Laurence Echard, divine and historian.

BARSHAM, EAST, co. Norfolk.

P. T. Fakenham (100) 2½ m. N. Pop. 303.

London 167 m. N. Lincoln 35 m. N b E.

Hull 7 m. S. Pop. 2400. M. D. Monday.

Fair, Trinity Thursday, for cattle.

Mail arr. 3 a. Mail dep. 11. 15 m.

A market-town in the north division of the wapentake of Yarborough, pleasantly situated on the south side of the Humber, about a quarter of a mile from the river. It was once surrounded by a rampart and fosse, some remains of which are still visible. It was a place of considerable trade previously to the foundation of Kingston-upon-Hull by Edward I. by which its maritime importance was greatly diminished. The modern town, which consists of several irregularly built streets, is now principally noted for being the site of the ferry, on the great north road, across the Humber to Hull, a distance of about six miles and a half. The principal trade of the place is in corn and flour, and a great many persons are employed in extensive manufactories of bricks, tiles, and Paris whiting. The manor belongs to the crown, and a court-leet is held half-yearly for the cognizance of offences committed in the town, and a court baron every three weeks, for the recovery of small debts. It is generally described as consisting of two parishes, but the church of St. Mary is only a chapel of ease to the parish church of St. Peter; although repaired and attended by the inhabitants of a separate district. The living is a discharged vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln; value in K. B. 19*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*; patrons (1829) Mr. and Mrs. Appleby. The mother church is deemed as ancient as the Conquest; that of St. Mary is more modern and spacious. Besides the weekly market on Monday, there is one every fortnight for fat cattle.

BARVAS, shire of Ross, S.

P. T. Stornoway 16 m. NW. Pop. 2264.

A parish in the Hebrides, constituting an extensive tract of the northern part of the Isle of Lewis. The surface in general is flat and watered by several rivulets flowing through little glens, and its variety of soil has been rendered very productive by recent improvements in agriculture; it is destitute of wood, but peats are plenty. The sea coast, abounding in myriads of aquatic fowl, is rugged and precipitous, and open to the violent western swells of the ocean, there being no harbour, or even anchorage for ships, and only a few creeks for fishermen, who are employed in taking the dog-fish, from the liver of which much oil is extracted. The living is in the presbytery of Lewis and synod of Glenelg; patron, the Crown. Besides the church, lately rebuilt, there is another at Ness, twelve miles from the Manse, dedicated to St. Peter. Remains of several Roman Catholic chapels may be traced, the grounds about which are still used for sepulture. Here is a charity-school, also two spinning-schools erected and kept up at the expense of Lady Seaforth, who has likewise established annual premiums to be given to the best artizans. The Gaelic is the only language used in common.

BASING, OLD, co. Southampton.

P. T. Basingstoke (45) 2 m. ENE. Pop. 1022.

A township and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Basingstoke; living, a curacy, not in charge, annexed to the vicarage of Basingstoke; chapel ded. to St. Mary. Here was anciently a castle of very large dimensions, which was rebuilt by the first Marquis of Winchester of the name of Paulet, lord-treasurer in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, in a style of princely magnificence and splendour. It was this castle, called Basing House, which, under the fifth Marquis of Winchester, sustained so long and memorable a siege against the Parliamentary forces in 1646.

the reign of Charles I. until ultimately taken by storm by Cromwell in 1645, who burnt it to the ground. It appears from a survey taken in 1798, that the area of the works, including the garden and intrenchments, included upwards of fourteen acres of ground. Blackwood Hall, in this vicinity, the property of Lord Bolton, by a marriage with the heiress of the last Duke of Bolton, possesses many portraits of the Paulet family, and among the rest, one of the first Marquis of Winchester, by Holbein, and of Lavinia Fenton, the original Polly in the Beggar's Opera, who married the third Duke of Bolton, and died his widow in 1760.

BASINGSTOKE, co. Southampton.

London 15 m. W.W. Southampton 20 m. N.E. Pop. 3165. M. D. Wed. Fairs, Easter, &c. for cheese and cattle; Whit. Wed. for poultry; Sep. 23, for cattle; Oct. 11, for cattle and hiring servants. Mail arr. 12. 55 a. Mail dep. 1. 20 m.

A market-town and parish in the hundred and division of Basingstoke, situated in a pleasant and well wooded part of the county, and commanding a considerable trade from its standing at the junction of five important roads. It possesses a handsome market-place, and town hall over it, where the sessions for the town are held twice a-year, and the magistrates meet weekly for the transaction of business. This town is mentioned in Domesday-book as a royal manor, and possessing a market. It early became incorporated, and the government at present is vested in a mayor, recorder, seven aldermen, seven capital burgesses, a high steward, and other officers. The living is a dis. vicarage, with the chapelries of Old Basing and Upper Nately annexed, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; value in K. B. 30*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*; patron, Magdalen College, Oxford. The church, ded. to St. Michael, a spacious and handsome building, was erected under the superintendence of Fox, bishop of Winchester. Several eminent men have been vicars of Basingstoke, including Sir George Wheeler, the celebrated eastern traveller; and the father of Dr. Joseph and Thomas Warton. Here is a free-school and three charity-schools, one of which is supported by the Skinners' Company of London. The town formerly possessed a considerable manufacture of druggets and shalloons, but the principal business carried on at present is mulling and the corn trade, the transit of which articles is greatly facilitated by the canal, which extends from this place to the Wey in Surrey, which river, communicating with the Thames, opens a water passage to London. This useful piece of inland navigation, which is of the length of forty-four miles, has tended greatly to increase the trading facilities of the entire vicinity. On an eminence at the northern extremity of Basingstoke, is situated the remains of Holy Ghost chapel, founded for a fraternity of the Holy Ghost, by Lord Saulys, and Fox, bishop of Winchester, under a license from Henry VIII. It was dissolved in the reign of Edward VI., but revived by Philip and Mary, and a portion of the estate still remains for the support of divine service and the instruction of youth; to which, however, it has by no means been regularly appropriated. Basingstoke has been the native place of several eminent men, including John de Basingstoke, a celebrated scholar of the thirteenth century; Sir James Lancaster, the navigator; and the brothers Joseph and Thomas Warton.

BASINGWICK, co. Flint, N. W.

P. T. Holywell (202) 1 m. E. Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of Holywell and hundred of Colleshill. Here is a celebrated abbey, situated on an eminence overlooking the deep and narrow vale, watered by the very rapid overflowings of St. Winifred's Well. It was erected in 1131, by Ranulph, Earl of Chester, and was in preservation until 1720, when the greater part was taken down by order of the proprietor. It was granted to the Cistercian monks by Henry II. in 1159; and at the dissolution of the monasteries its possessions were valued at 150*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.* per ann. In the 32d of Henry VIII. it was granted to Henry ap-Henry, of the tribe of Ednowain Harle; whose only daughter, Anne, marrying William Mostyn, of Talacre, Esq., brought the property into that ancient family, by whom it is still possessed. The remains of the refectory are considerable, and the chapel for knights templars, founded by Henry II. is spacious and elegant. The church is totally destroyed, but the Grange-house, which is built of brick, is entire, and continues to enjoy its original name and destination.

BASLICK, co. Roscommon, Connaught, I.

P. T. North Berwick (25) 1 m. NE.

An insulated rock off the mouth of the Forth, forming part of the parish of North Berwick. Rising abruptly from the sea to a stupendous height, it is inaccessible at all points, save one, and is perforated from north-west to south-east by a gloomy cavern, having a deep pool of water in the middle. Myriads of aquatic birds (among which is the Solan goose) frequent this spot, during the season of incubation, covering with their nests and progeny the entire surface, except where there is pasture for a few sheep, and a rabbit-warren. On the summit is a fine spring of water convenient to a castle which stood here, and was converted into a state prison for the Cameronians in the time of Charles II. and his brother James. After the Revolution, a desperate crew of pirates got possession of this island, and held it for James II. the last of any place in Great Britain.

BASSALEG, co. Monmouth.

P. T. Newport (114) 3 m. W. Pop. 1239.

A parish in the upper and lower hundreds of Wentloog, including the hamlets of Duffrin, Rogerston, and Gracy. The living is a dis. vicarage, with the chapels of Henllys and Ribea annexed, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff; valued in K. B. 14*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*; church ded. to St. Basilus; patron, the Bishop of Llandaff.

BASSENDEN, shire of Berwick, S.

P. T. Greenlaw (36) m. Pop. with Westruther.

An ancient parish, united soon after the Reformation to Westruther. The ruins of the church, which stood near the Mansion-house, are still visible, and enclose the remains of the Houses, who have long possessed the estate.

BASSENTHWAITE, co. Cumberland.

P. T. Kewick (201) 3 m. NW. Pop. 327.

A parish in Allerdale ward, below Derwent; living, a curacy in the archdeaconry and diocese of Carlisle; certified value 22*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 112*l.*; church ded. to St. Bridget; patrons, Dean and Chapter of Carlisle. The village is situated near the beautiful lake called Basmenthwaite water, in the picturesque vale of the same name, with the lofty Skiddaw on the east, and on the west a range of humbler mountains, termed Winthrop Brows, which terminate abruptly at the water's edge. The parish is divided into two constabliwicks, one of which is called the High-side and the other the Hawes.

BASSET HOUSE, co. Leicester.

P. T. Hinckley (22) m. Pop. 13.

An extra-parochial liberty in the hundred of Sparkenhoe.

A city, locally situate in the hundred of Bathforum at the north-eastern extremity of the county, on the borders of Wiltshire and Gloucestershire. It is partly built in a pleasant vale, and partly on the acclivity of the hills which rise like an amphitheatre around it. The river Avon, which is navigable hence to Bristol, winds through a considerable portion of the city and suburbs. The antiquity of Bath reaches the remotest period of record, and even of tradition; and at all times its celebrity has been closely connected with the opinions entertained of the efficacy of its waters. The reported discovery of its hot springs by the British king Bladud, nearly nine centuries before the British era, is now deemed a mere fiction by the most credulous. It is certain, however, that they were known to the Britons previously to the arrival of the Romans, whose attention they immediately attracted, and who built a city, which became a favourite station, being the Aqua Solis, and the Fontes Calidae of Ptolemy and Antoninus. Here they formed splendid baths, the foundation of which was discovered in 1755, twenty feet below the present surface of the ground. In the fifth century, when the Romans quitted Britain, the city was 12,000 feet in length, by 1250 feet in breadth, and surrounded by a wall, nine feet thick, and thirty feet high, a fragment of which is still observable. When the Saxons prevailed, the Latin name gave way to that of Hot Bathun, and Ake-manceaster, the city of sick men; and in the seventh century a monastery was founded therein by the Saxon king Osric. At the conquest, Bath was retained as a royal demesne, having been such under Edward the Confessor, of whose neglected queen Editha, daughter of Godwin, earl of Kent, it formed part of the dower. In 1106, William Rufus sold it to John Villula, bishop of Wells, who removed the seat of the see to Bath, and rebuilt the monastery. In the reign of Edward III. and subsequently, the abbey became exceeding rich, and during this season of prosperity the monks are said to have introduced the woollen manufacture. On the dissolution of monasteries, the site of that of Bath became private property, and one of its early possessors gave the dilapidated building to the corporation for a parish church, which it still remains. The government of Bath, which was long administered by a steward, has been variously modified, but it received its present charter from Queen Elizabeth, to which some additional privileges were granted, in 1791 by George III. In the commencement of the civil wars under Charles I. Bath held out for the king, but was ultimately obliged to surrender. In the reign of James II. its gates were shut against the duke of Monmouth, and a strong predilection for the exiled family was exhibited by a large part of the inhabitants so late as the Rebellion of 1715. It is at present governed by a corporation, consisting of ten aldermen, the mayor being one, and twenty common councilmen, with a recorder, town-clerk, and other officers. It has sent members to Parliament with little, and that voluntary, interruption from the 23d of Edward I.; but the elective franchise is strictly confined to the mayor, aldermen, and common council, who also fill up all vacancies among themselves without the least participation on the part of the inhabitants at large. Bath, united with Wells, forms a bishopric, which includes the whole county of Somerset, with the exception of a small part of Bristol, and contains 388 parishes, sixty of which are impropriated. The ecclesiastical dignitaries under the bishop, are a dean, a subdean, precentor, treasurer, three archdeacons, a chancellor, six canons residentiary, forty-two prebendaries, and four priest vicars. The bishop's palace is at Wells. The city includes four parishes, properly so called, the livings of which are all in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bath. That of the Abbey, or St. Peter and St. Paul, is a vicarage, charged in K. B. 20l. 17s. 11d.; that of St. Swithins, or Walcot, a rectory; and those of St. James's and St. Mary's curacies, not in charge. The whole, are, however, consolidated into one, with the vicarage of Widcombe and Lincombe annexed; the patronage of which rests in the corporation. Besides the parish churches, there are several free churches and chapels of ease; the principal of which are the free church, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, and the chapels of St. Mary, St. Margaret, All Saints, St. Mary Magdalen, Christ church, the Octagon, Kensington, and Laura. There are also places of worship for the Catholics, Wesleyan and Calvinistic Methodists, Baptists, Independents, Moravians, Quakers, and Unitarians. The free grammar-school was founded by Edward VI., but the present handsome edifice was erected in 1752. Ten boys, sons of the freemen and inhabitants of Bath, are classically educated here, and the right of nomination is exclusively in the corporation. The other establishments for gratuitous education are very numerous, including blue-coat schools for fifty boys and fifty girls, founded by the pious Robert Nelson, author of "The Fasts and Festivals;" national, Lancasterian, infant, and adult schools, in addition to Sunday schools to almost every chapel, and other minor institutions of a kindred description. The public charities, exclusive of those connected with education, are also very numerous, and well supported. Among these the most important are the general infirmary for patients from all parts of the country, to whom the waters may be useful; an excellent general dispensary; a child-bed charity; a humane society; a female penitentiary; with societies for the suppression of vagrants, for the relief of persons imprisoned for small debts; and various others; all of which are supported by subscription. Bellot's hospital, for the use of poor men, coming to Bath for the benefit of the waters, was founded by an individual of that name in the reign of James I. It supports about twelve patients, who are nominated by the corporation. The Bimberies, or Black Alms hospital, was founded by Edward VI. for ten paupers, of both sexes, who receive 3s. 6d. per week each, and a black gown once in two years. The old building having become very dilapidated, a new structure, in a neat Gothic style, has recently been completed on a neighbouring site, wherein the inmates obtain greater comforts and superior accommodation. Partis's College, situated on Newbridge Hill, has been founded by a lady of that name, pursuant to the will of her deceased husband, for thirty reduced gentlewomen, ten of whom must be widows or daughters of clergymen of the church of England: each enjoys a separate house and garden with an annual allowance. Bath is the head-quarters of the Bath and West of England Agricultural Society; and also possesses a literary and philosophical institution, one or two harmonic societies, and a public library. Although, owing to the sanative properties of its waters, Bath has, from the Saxon times downwards, been occasionally visited by more sovereigns and personages of high rank than any other town in the kingdom, with the exception of the metropolis; it was in other respects a comparatively small and inconsequential place before the commencement of the last century. Until that period it possessed neither assembly-room nor public amusements; and although a few families of distinction visited it for six or seven weeks in the spring; a ball, with ten couple, was thought a large assembly. It was then held in the town-hall, under the direction of Captain Webster, a resident, patronized by the duke of Beaufort. To this gentleman, very fortunately for Bath, a successor was found in the eccentric Richard Nash, usually termed Beau Nash. By a peculiar union of good sense, effrontery, wit, vivacity, and perseverance, this celebrated prototype of the modern master of the ceremonies acquired an ascendancy among the votaries of rank and fashion, which rendered him a species of modish despot to whose decrees it was deemed a part of the loyalty of high breeding to yield implicit submission. From this time Bath has steadily maintained the lead as relates to the conventional arrangements adapted to places of fashionable resort in Great Britain; and its attraction increasing with its character, the extension of buildings commenced, which has gradually rendered it one of the handsomest cities in Europe. Independently of the beauty and general elegance of the more modern edifices, which are all constructed of the stone so plentiful in this vicinity, the picturesque nature of a great portion of the site shews them to peculiar advantage. On the Lansdown and Claverton hills, in particular, handsome ranges of houses are seen rising one above another, in progressive elevation to the production of an architectural display, which, as regards perspective attraction at least, might be deemed worthy the pencil of a Martin. Of the more ancient part of the city, the most interesting object is the Abbey church, founded on the site of the Saxon fabric, by Bishop Oliver King, in 1495, and finished under Bishop Montague, in 1532. It is in the ornamental Gothic style of that late period; the form is that of a cross, with the tower rising from the centre, 162 feet high, in which there is a fine peal of bells and chimes. The interior consists of two parts, the nave and the choir; the former of which is separated from the side aisles by twelve clustered pillars supporting elliptic arches; and the roof is peculiarly singular in design and beautiful in execution. The monuments are very numerous, and not a few interesting. It is highly creditable to the public spirit of the corporation, that the numerous buildings, which have for a long time deformed, and almost shrouded, this noble temple, are in the course of removal. Of the other parish churches, St. James's, an elegant freestone building, in the modern Gothic style, claims the most attention, and several of the modern chapels and places of worship are neat, if not magnificent structures. The Guildhall, situate on the east side of High-street, is a very handsome building, containing a public hall below for the city sessions, court of record, justices' meetings, court of conscience, and other public business; and a handsome banqueting and ball-room with a music gallery, &c. above stairs. Behind this building, are the markets, which are spacious, commodious, well-paved, and under cover. In the south-east part of the town is Orange Grove, a spacious area, planted with elms, near to which are the North and South Parades. The finest parts of the city, as regards locality, are however, on the eminences of Lansdown and Claverton, on the north and east. Among the noble ranges of residences in the former direction are, the King's Circus, the Royal Crescent, St. James's Square, Somerset Place, Camden Place, Portland Place, Sion Hill, Lansdown and Cavendish Crescents. On a commanding point of the hill, above Lansdown Crescent, Mr. Beckford, the late distinguished owner of Fonthill Abbey, has constructed a fine Saxon tower, which commands one of the most extensive and varied prospects in the west of England. On the east of the city is Pulteney Bridge, leading to Laura Place; Great Pulteney Street, and Sydney Gardens, (the Bath Vauxhall,) the grounds of which expand up the sides of Claverton Hill, and form an attractive place of summer resort. Near Sydney Gardens is Sydney Place, another handsome row of dwelling-houses in the immediate neighbourhood of the elegant church of Bathwick. At the entrance of the town from the London road in the north-east, are also many handsome buildings, including Grosvenor Place, Kensington, and Walcot Parade. On the west or lower side of the town, the streets, although less imposing, are open and handsome, and the rides in all directions, but especially on Lansdown and Claverton, are deemed pleasant in the extreme. The Public Baths, the origin of all the importance of this city, are now in number five: the King's Bath, the Queen's Bath, the Hot Bath, the Cross Bath, and the Kingston Bath, erected by Earl Manvers; all of which are fitted up and prepared for the accommodation of the highest ranks of society. According to the best chemists, the Bath waters contain a small quantity of the carbonic and azotic gases, some sulphate and muriate of soda, selenite, carbonate of lime, siliceous earth, and a very small portion of oxide of iron. The taste is not unpleasant, and they are deemed serviceable in bilious and nervous disorders, paralysis, rheumatism, and gout. The spring and fall of the year are the seasons for bathing. The Pump Room, which was built in 1797, is eighty-five feet long, forty-six feet wide, and thirty-four feet high. The interior is supported by columns of the Corinthian order, carved with a rich entablature. In a recess at one end is a music gallery, and at the other the statue of Beau Nash. The upper assembly-rooms, which are spacious, elegant, and commodious, were fitted up in 1791, at a great expense. They are situated near the Circus. The lower assembly rooms, which stood in the vicinity of the Parades, were burnt down in 1820, and have not been rebuilt, but a literary and scientific institution has arisen in its stead. When both suites existed, there were masters of the ceremonies to each establishment. The citizens of Bath, not being admissible to the upper rooms, have, during the season, assemblies, which are held in the Guildhall. Public concerts are frequent, for which performers of the first-rate talent are engaged, both vocal and instrumental. The Bath Theatre is a handsome structure, very elegantly fitted up within, and the company is usually deemed the best out of London. To all these amusements are to be added the Sydney Gardens in summer; the Riding School in wet weather; Lansdown Races in April and July; and occasional temporary exhibitions and spectacles of various kinds.

Besides the Public Library, the circulating libraries are numerous and well supplied; and the harmonic concerts and local institutions of a scientific and literary character easily accessible. As might be expected, the major part of the inhabitants of Bath are dependent on the visitors; lodging-houses and accommodations for every rank of which abound. It has long been a reproach to this city, that it offered no shady walks or retreats from the influence of the summer sun; but this objection is now about to be obviated by a marked and splendid improvement. The common fields in the neighbourhood of Marlborough Buildings are to be converted into a park, affording numerous rides and walks, and ornamented with fountains and extensive plantations; the great expenses of which measure will be defrayed by a munificent subscription of 100*l.* per annum, on the part of the corporation, aided by the liberal donations of the visitors and inhabitants. Persons employed in the ornamental lines of business are of course very numerous, and as many families resort to this city for the advantage of the superior education which its various scholastic establishments afford, masters of languages, professors of music, and of every species of accomplishment are settled in Bath. Hackney-coaches and chariots are established on the same principle as in London, with sedan and wheel chairs for the convenience of ladies and invalids. From similar causes the market is peculiarly well supplied, and plentiful in every species of provision, and may virtually be deemed an every-day one. The trade of Bath is much benefited by the Kennet and Avon canal, which completes the inland navigation from Bath and Bristol to London, through the counties of Somerset, Gloucester, Wilts, Hants, Berks, Bucks, and Middlesex. The monuments and remains of Roman antiquity which have from time to time been discovered at Bath are very numerous and interesting. They consist of ancient coins, statues, altars, and inscriptions, which have been judiciously collected by the corporation and deposited for public view, in the vestibule of the Literary Institution. The celebrated persons, who have made Bath their residence, are too numerous for insertion; but it would not be proper to omit the names of the celebrated Sir John Harrington, in the reign of Elizabeth, Dr. Harrington, Christopher Anstey, author of "The New Bath Guide," and John Palmer, the inventor of the plan which has so signally succeeded, of mail-coaches.

BATHAMPTON, co. Somerset.

P. T. Bath (105) 2 m. N.E. Pop. 213.

A parish in the hundred of Hampton and Claverton, situate on the north side of the Avon opposite to Batheaston. Since the erection of the bridge across that river to Bathwick, like the latter it may be deemed a part of Bath. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bath; valued in K. B. 7*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*; church ded. to St. Nicholas; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Bristol.

BATHANS, St. See Abbey St. Bathans.

BATHEALTON, co. Somerset.

P. T. Wivelacombe (183) 2 m. E. Pop. 106.

A parish in the hundred of Milverton; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bath; charged in K. B. 7*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*; church ded. to St. Bartholomew; patron, the Bishop of Bath and Wells.

BATHEASTON, co. Somerset.

P. T. Bath (103) 2½ m. N.E. Pop. 1230.

A parish in the liberty of Bath and hundred of Bathforum, pleasantly situated on the great road from London. It is situated on the north bank of the Avon, near the Kennet and Avon canal, and may now almost be deemed a part of Bath itself, the line of houses being uninterrupted. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bath; valued in K. B. 9*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*; patron, Christ Church College, Oxford. The church, which is ded. to St. John the Baptist, is an elegant Gothic building, at the west end of which rises a handsome embattled tower, of excellent workmanship, containing a peal of twelve bells. At a small distance from the village is Batheaston Villa, once distinguished for the literary character of the amusements carried on there under the auspices of its owners, Sir John and Lady Miller. Salisbury Hill in this vicinity rises nearly 600 feet from the banks of the river, and is surmounted by a circular entrenchment, supposed to be of Saxon origin.

BATHFORD, co. Somerset.

P. T. Bath (145) 4 m. E.N.E. Pop. 604.

A parish in the hundred of Bathforum, very pleasantly situated on the road to London, through Devizes. It is placed to the left of the Avon, and its name is derived from a ford across that river. In the vicinity is a picturesque eminence, called Hampton Cliffs, the views from which are peculiarly beautiful. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bath; valued in K. B. 8*l.* 1*s.*; church ded. to St. Swithin; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Wells. A Roman hypocaust, two altars, and other remains of antiquity, were discovered in this parish towards the close of the seventeenth century.

BATHGATE, shire of Linlithgow, S.

Edinburgh 14 m. W.S.W. Pop. 3261.

M. D. twice a week. F. first, 2d Wed. Apr.; 1st Wed. after Term in May; 4th Wed. June; 2d Wed. July; 3d Wed. Aug.; 4th Wed. Oct.; and 1st Wed. after Martinmas in Nov.

A parish and post-town, on the road from Edinburgh to Glasgow; the chief part of which occupies the southern acclivity of one of the Bathgate hills, which are the most elevated in the county, but where the surface is more level the soil is good and productive. Here coal-pits and quarries of free-stone are wrought to a considerable extent, and the woads are inexhaustible; living, in the presbytery of Linlithgow and synod of Tweeddale; patron, Earl of Hopes-town. The church was erected in 1739, besides which there is a burgler meeting-house. The town is considerable, and the markets are well supplied. The inhabitants are chiefly employed in weaving for the Glasgow trade, the manufacture of muslin, formerly the principal support of the place, having gradually declined. The barony was given by Robert Bruce in 1316, in part dowry with his daughter Margaret, to Walter, high steward of Scotland, vestiges of whose residence are still discernible in the moor, near the town.

BATHLEY, co. Nottingham.

P. T. Newark (124) 4 m. N.W. Pop. 173.

A township in the north division of the wapentake of Thurgarton.

BATHWICK, co. Somerset.

P. T. Bath (103) ¼ m. N.E. Pop. 4000.

A parish in the hundred of Bathforum, contiguous to Bath, to which it is united by the bridge across the Avon, and of which it virtually forms one of the most admired parts, including Great Pulteney Street, Laura Place, Sidney Place, &c. (See art. Bath.) The living (with Wootley) is a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bath; charged in K. B. 3*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*; patron (1829) the Marquis of Bath. The church, ded. to St. Mary, is a modern structure of considerable elegance.

BATLEY, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Wakefield (102) 7 m. N.W.

Pop. of Pa. 0151. Of To. 3717.

A parish and township, the former partly in the wapentake of Aghrigg, and partly in that of Morley, and the latter in Morley alone. It is a place of great antiquity, but its modern consequence is derived principally from the woollen manufactures in the district, which employ the major part of its inhabitants. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of York; valued in K. B. 16*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 150*l.*; patrons, Lord de Grey and the Earl of Cardigan alternately. The church, built in the reign of Henry VI. and ded. to All Saints, contains many ancient monuments of the Saviles, Fitzwilliams, and other leading families. Here is a free-school, founded by the Rev. W. Lee, in the tenth of James I., and endowed by him with an estate, from the funds of which the school was handsomely rebuilt in 1818.

BATSFORD, co. Gloucester.

P. T. Moreton (60) 2 m. N.W. Pop. 100.

A parish in the upper division of the hundred of Kiftgate; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Gloucester; charged in K. B. 13*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patron, Christ Church College, Oxford.

BATTERLEY, co. Stafford.

A hamlet in the parish of Barthomley and hundred of North Pirehill.

BATTERSLY, N. R. co. York.

P. T. Stokesley (237) 5 m. E b S. Pop. 87.

A township in the parish of Ingleby-Greenhoe, west division of Langbaugh liberty.

BATTERSEA, co. Surrey.

London 4 m. SW. Pop. (includ. Penge) 4002.

An extensive parish in the west half-hundred of Brixton, situate on the southern bank of the Thames, across which is a wooden bridge to Chelsea, erected in 1771. It has long been celebrated for the quantity of vegetables raised therein for the London markets, and is recorded as the first place in England where asparagus was produced. There are many pleasant houses and small handsome villas in the vicinity; but it is too low and flat towards the Thames to be particularly inviting. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Surrey and diocese of Winchester; charged in K. B. 13l. 15s. 2½d. In consequence of the extent of garden-ground, and tithes collectable therefrom, it is one of the most valuable near London; patron (1829) Earl Spencer. The church, ded. to St. Mary, is a neat modern structure, in which there is a monument by Roubiliac to the memory of the celebrated Henry St. John, Viscount Bolingbroke, and his second wife, the niece of Madame de Maintenon. Monumental flattery is too common to merit particular investigation, or it might be doubted if history will sanction the praise here bestowed upon this highly gifted nobleman for his zeal to maintain liberty. Another monument to the memory of Sir Edward Winter, an East India captain in the reign of Charles II. is remarkable for the extraordinary exploits it records of him. One of them consisted in killing twenty Moors singlehanded, and another in keeping a furious tiger, which had attacked him on the brink of a pond, under water until it was drowned. Collins, the author of the Peerage, and Curtis, the celebrated botanist, are also buried here. A handsome new church has recently been erected by the commissioners for building new churches; living, a curacy subordinate to the vicarage. Battersea was the native place of Lord Bolingbroke, the venerable seat of the St. Johns, in which he was born, having been situated on the banks of the Thames, on the site subsequently occupied by the distillery and bullock houses, since removed, of Hodges and Co.; as also of an extensive and remarkable air-mill for grinding malt. At this family mansion, which contained forty rooms on a floor, the poet Pope was a frequent guest; and here the accomplished owner, and last of its family possessors, finished his eventful life in 1751, at the age of seventy-nine. Battersea possesses a free-school, founded by one of the St. John family, for twenty boys.

BATTLE, or BATTEL, co. Sussex.

London 36 m. SE. Tunbridge 26 m. SE. Pop. 2432. M. D. Th. Fairs, Whit. Mon.; Nov. 22, for cattle and pedlary; and 2d Tues. every month for cattle.

A parish and market-town in the hundred of Battle, rape of Hastings. This town, anciently called Epiton, assumed its present appellation from the celebrated battle of Hastings, between William of Normandy and King Harold, in which the latter lost both his crown and life. In commemoration of this momentous victory the Conqueror founded the Abbey of Battel, for the support of which he granted the land, a league around, and endowed it with very extraordinary privileges, including that of the sanctuary. The abbot was also of the dignity called mitred, and sat as a lord in Parliament. The existing ruins of this great establishment attest its former magnificence, being nearly a mile in circumference. The gate-house, which remains entire, has been made fit for holding the sessions and carrying on other public business; and on one part of the site stands the family mansion of the Websters, the representative of whom, as lord of the hundred, has succeeded to many of the dues of the ancient abbots. The modern town of Battle, which owes its origin to the abbey, consists of one street, seated in a valley, running from north-west to south-east. Except the remains of the abbey and the church, there is little to claim attention. It was granted a weekly market so early as in the reign of Henry I., and the petty sessions for the hundred are held here. The living, which is a vicarage, but termed a deanery, is in the archdeaconry of Lewes and diocese of Chichester; charged in K. B. 24l. 13s. 4d.; patron, Sir Godfrey Webster, Bart. The church, ded. to St. Mary, is a handsome edifice, consisting of a nave, chancel, two aisles, and an extensive tower. It contains a noble altar monument to the memory of Sir Anthony Browne, into whose possession the manor came soon after the dissolution of the abbey. Here is a charity school for forty boys. Several extensive gun-powder mills are erected in the neighbourhood of Battle, and much business is done at the monthly markets and cattle fairs. Near the town is Beacon or Standard Hill, where the flag of the Conqueror was first planted.

BATTLE, co. Brecon, S. Wales.

P. T. Brecon (171) 3 m. NW. Pop. 142.

A parish, containing a small village, in the hundred of Merthyr. It is situated upon the river Eskir, a little north of its junction with the Usk. The name Battle is said to be derived from the battle fought here, in which Rhys ap Tudor, prince of South Wales, was slain by Robert Fitzhamon and Jestyn ap Gwynant, lord of Glamorgan, or from the invasion of Breconshire, by Bernard de Newmarch. It may also be so called from Battle in Sussex, where was the mother church to the priory of Brecon, a cell, founded by Bernard de Newmarch. The living is a perpetual cure, not in charge; certified value 5*l.* 5*s.*; patron (1829) Thomas Mitchell, Esq.

A market-town and chapelry in the parish of Netherbury and Bridport division of the hundred of Beaminster, situated in a fertile vale on the banks of the river Birton. It is a place of considerable antiquity, the local history of which has been rendered remarkable by repeated sufferings from fire, having been nearly burnt down no less than three times; viz. in 1614, 1684, and 1781; to which calamities, however, may partly be attributed its present handsome appearance. The free-school and chapel are the principal buildings. The living is a curacy, not in charge, annexed to the vicarage of Netherbury and a peculiar of the church of Sarum. The chapel, ded. to St. Mary, is a stately structure, erected on an eminence on the south side of the town. The tower, which is nearly one hundred feet high, is ornamented with carvings illustrative of the crucifixion, resurrection, and ascension, and contains a peal of eight bells. Here is a free-school for twenty poor boys, founded by Mrs. Frances Tucker, four of whom are to be annually apprenticed, and one at least to the sea. The Rev. Samuel Hood, father of Lords Hood and Bridport, was once master of this school. There is also an almshouse, founded by Sir John Strode, for the support of six poor persons. A great portion of the inhabitants are engaged in the manufacture of sail-cloth, and in the production of iron, tin, and copper ware. Beaminster was the native place of that able but pliant and temporising prelate, Thomas Sprat, Bishop of Rochester.

London 109 m. NE. Ipswich 41 m. NE. Pop. 3193. M. D. Sat. Fairs, Whit Mon. June 29; and Oct. 2, for horses and pedlary.

A market-town in the hundred of Wangford, but having separate jurisdiction; situated on the river Waveney, which is navigable hence to Yarmouth. It is a large and well-built town, consisting of several streets, terminating in an area or square, in which the market is kept. The town-hall, in which the great sessions are held, is a handsome building. The manor of Beccles formed part of the ancient possessions of the abbey of Bury, together with an extensive common, which, on the dissolution of monasteries, Henry VIII. granted for the use of the inhabitants, who enjoy a valuable right of pasturage thereon. The town is governed by a corporation consisting of a portreeve and thirty-six burgesses, distinguished by the appellation of the twelve, and the twenty-fours; the portreeve being chosen from the former. Its business is much favoured by the water communication to Yarmouth, which enables it to carry on a considerable trade in the vicinity, in coals, grocery, and other commodities. Beccles is nominally divided into two parishes, that of St. Mary Endgate, and that of St. Michael, which have long been consolidated; the church of St. Mary no longer existing. The former is a dis. vicarage, valued in K. B. 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; the latter a rectory, similarly charged, 21*l.* 12*s.* 3½*d.*; both are in the archdeaconry of Suffolk and diocese of Norwich; patron (1829) the Earl of Gosford. The church of St. Michael is an elegant Gothic structure, with a steeple detached, containing a fine peal of twelve bells. Here are two free-schools, the one founded by Sir John Leman, alderman of London, in the reign of James I. for the instruction of forty-eight boys in writing and arithmetic; and the other a grammar-school, by Dr. Falconberg, who died in 1731. The latter has ten exhibitions at Emanuel College, Cambridge. Here are also a theatre, assembly-room, and a well-conducted gaol.

P. T. Caernarvon (213) 12 m. S.E. (by way of Bangor.) Pop. of Pa. 607. Fairs, August 16; Sep. 23 and 27.

A parish, including a village of the same name, mostly in the hundred of Eriocoyd, partly in the hundred of Uchel-Gorsai, and partly in that of Ardudwy, in the county of Merioneth. The village is situated at the junction of the rivers Colwyn and Glaslyn, and is celebrated as being one of the most retired and beautiful valleys in Wales; it is enclosed on every side by lofty and precipitous mountains. The village contains twenty-three cottages, a Methodist chapel, one respectable residence, and a good inn. Some of the cottagers improve their circumstances by acting as guides to the summit of Snowdon in the summer months, and the inn is almost wholly supported by tourists. The living is a curacy, not in charge, in the diocese of Bangor; ann. val. P. R. 897. 10s.; patroness (1829) Mrs. Hughes. The church, which is dedicated to St. Mary, is in perfect repair. Here was anciently a priory of Black Canons, dedicated to St. Mary, deemed the oldest religious house in Wales, except Bardsey; it now belongs to the Earl of Radnor. The name Bedd-Gelart, signifies the Grave of Gelart, and tradition states that this valley is so called from Gelart, a favourite hound of Llewellyn, last Prince of Wales, that with remarkable fidelity and equal courage preserved the infant son of his master from the fangs of a wolf, but was itself unhappily slain by Llewellyn, who mistook its intentions. The repentant prince is said to have caused his faithful dog to be buried in the centre of the valley, now called from his name, near to a stone which is shewn as marking the spot, and his praises have frequently been celebrated in poetry. The sublime defile, called the "Pass of Aberglaslyn" is within one mile of the village.

BEDDINGHAM, co. Sussex.

BEDDINGTON, co. Surrey.

London 12 m. N. Pop. of Pa. 1227. Of To. 100.

A parish and township in the hundred of 182

Wallington, inclusive of the populous hamlet of Wallington. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Surrey and diocese of Winchester; charged in K. B. 137. 16s. 8d.; patron (1829) W. Pellatt, Esq. The church, ded. to St. Mary, is deemed of the age of Richard II. It contains many ancient monuments of the Carewe family, and among others of Sir Francis Carewe, who died at an advanced age in 1611. This knight, who entertained Queen Elizabeth more than once at his seat at Beddington Park, was peculiarly attached to horticulture, and is said to have raised the first orange trees seen in England, from the pips of that fruit supplied him by his illustrious brother-in-law, Sir Walter Raleigh.

An inland county, bounded on the north by Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire; on the west by Buckinghamshire; on the south by Buckinghamshire and Hertfordshire; and on the east by Hertfordshire and Cambridgeshire. Its limits are devious and irregular, the only natural boundaries being the river Ouse for a short distance on the east and west, and a small rivulet on the south-west. The face of the country is pleasingly diversified with a gentle alternation of hill and valley, few of the former being high, or of the latter extensive. The soil on the north and north-east consists chiefly of a sandy loam, celebrated for its excellent cultivation and fertility in the production of corn, especially barley. On the south is a rather lofty ridge of chalk hills, the lowlands in the vicinity of which are cold and sterile. Some rich dairy lands extend from the middle to the south-east corner of the county, the farms on which produce great quantities of excellent butter. The western side is flat and sandy, but produces beans in great plenty, and is also favourable to turnip culture, the Swedish species in particular thriving here exceedingly. Vegetables are also grown in favourable parts of this county, which are principally conveyed to the markets of London and Cambridge. On the whole, the agricultural produce of Bedfordshire consists principally of wheat, barley, green crops, vegetables, and butter. The proportion of wood land was formerly very great, and several fine woods still remain, the timber of which is occasionally felled and conveyed by the river Ouse to the sea-coast. The principal rivers are the Ouse, the Ivel, and the Lea. The former rises near Middleton-Cheney, in Northamptonshire, and winding through a great part of Buckinghamshire, enters this county near Turvey, and flows on in a very devious course to Bedford. Hence it is navigable, and proceeds in a north-east direction into Huntingdonshire and Cambridgeshire, passing in its course the towns of Huntingdon, St. Ives, and the city of Ely. It next enters Norfolk, eight miles below Downham, and ultimately reaches the sea at Lynn Regis. The course of this river, which receives a great many smaller streams, is remarkably slow; and after heavy rains it is subject to great overflows, the occasional mischief of which is compensated by the increase of fertility which follows them. Much corn and other produce of the county is conveyed by the Ouse to the port of Lynn. The Ivel rises in Hertfordshire, and passing by Baldock and Biggleswade, where it becomes navigable, falls into the Ouse at Tempsford. The Lea rises near Luton in this county, and soon after enters Hertfordshire at Hide-Mill. The Grand Junction canal touches on the county near Leighton-Buzzard; but the chief part of the articles raised for the London markets reach the metropolis by land carriage. The principal mineral products of Bedfordshire are, limestone, coarse marble, coal (sparingly) and fullers' earth, which last article abounds more especially in the neighbourhood of Woburn. At the time of the Roman invasion, this part of the country was inhabited by the British tribe called Catteuchlani, or Cassii, whose chief, Cassibelannus, was chosen to command the united force of the Britons against Julius Caesar. Under the Romans it formed a part of the province of Flavia Caesariensis, and during the Saxon heptarchy was included in the kingdom of Mercia. It is at present divided into the nine hundreds of Barford, Biggleswade, Clifton, Flitt, Manshead, Redburn, Stoddon, Willey, and Wixham-Tree. It possesses one borough, that of Bedford, and the market-towns (several of them very small) of tional school, almshouses, and various other benevolent objects. There are likewise a surprising number of minor endowments, on the part both of members of the establishment and dissenters, including schools, almshouses, and similar charitable gifts and institutions. The more general charities are a well-constituted house of industry, or general workhouse; a general infirmary; a lunatic asylum, which are chiefly erected without the town, as are also the county gaol and county penitentiary. The erection of the county gaol and the infirmary were mainly assisted by the munificence of the elder Mr. Whitbread. Here is much business done in the corn trade, the neighbourhood of the town being singularly productive in wheat and barley; the former of which is chiefly conveyed to the markets of Hitchin and Hertford, and then ground into meal, and sent to London. The trade in coals, malt, timber, and iron, between Bedford and Lynn, is also very considerable, by means of the navigation of the Ouse. The ancient barony of Bedford, which belonged originally to the Beauchamps, entitled its possessors to the office of hereditary almoner to the king, in descent from which ancient family it was claimed by the Marquis of Exeter, at the coronation of George IV. Bedford gives the title of Duke to the noble family of Russell.

BEDFORD LEVEL.

A large and fenny tract of country in the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Huntingdon, Northampton, Lincoln, and Cambridge, so called from its successful drainage by William, duke of Bedford, under the protectorate of Cromwell, and in the reign of Charles II. It comprises no less than 300,000 acres of land; and an act of Parliament was passed to establish a corporation for its preservation and protection. Under this act 83,000 acres were vested in the manor of East Greenwich, in free and common soccage; 10,000 in the king, and 2000 in the earl of Portland. The greater part of this extensive tract has gradually been brought into excellent cultivation, and produces good herbage, and considerable quantities of grain, flax, and colseed. A great profit is also made of the decoys for wild fowl, vast numbers of which are annually taken and forwarded to the London markets.

orough, market-town, and parish, in hundred of Kinwardstone, situated on banks of the Kennet and Avon canals.

A place of great antiquity, and is sup-d to have been the Leucomagus of Roma. Under the Saxons it was deemed y, and at the Conquest retained many previous privileges. Being deemed a bor-h by prescription, it has sent two mem-to Parliament from the 23d of Edward I.
right of election is in the freeholders solders of ancient burgage tenures, all hich are virtually the property of the quis of Ailesbury, the lord of the or, at whose court-leet the portreeve, ayor, who is returning officer, is an-ly chosen. It is a place of very little ess; the market having been nearly racked by that of Marlborough. This h, which is extensive, contains several surrounding hamlets. The living is vicarage and a peculiar of the Dean dlsbury; valued in K. B. 8l. 10s. 10d.; val. P. R. 116l.; patron, the Mar-of Ailesbury. The church, ded. to St.
s, merits attention for its great anti-
; it is in the form of a cross, and com-chiefly of flint-stones, strongly creed, and the walls are supported by buttreases, some of which are comparatively modern. It contains several very ancient monuments, the most conspicuous of which is that of Sir John Seymour, father of Queen Jane Seymour, and the protector Somerset.

Dr. Thomas Wallis, an eminent physician and medical writer of the seventeenth century, was a native of this place.

BEDWIN, LITTLE, co. Wilts.

BEERALSTON, co. Devon.London 212 m. WSW. Tavistock 6 m. SSW.
Pop. with Beer-Ferris. Memb. of Pt. 2.

A small borough-town in the parish of Beer-Ferris and hundred of Roborough, situated near the navigable river Tamer. It is an ancient borough by prescription, although it did not return two members to Parliament before the reign of Elizabeth. The elective franchise is nominally in those who hold land in this borough, and pay threepence acknowledgment to the lord of the manor.

There are, however, no real landholders, except the latter, who grants burgage tenures to qualify voters, which tenures are usually resigned when the election is over; returning officer, the portreeve, who with other officers, are chosen annually at the lord's-court, held under a large tree; patron, the Earl of Beverley. There are several lead mines, the ore of which is occasionally impregnated with silver. The number of inhabitants is between three and four hundred, who are principally employed in agriculture and mining.

Pop. 953. M. D. Wed. Fair, Sep. 10.A market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Blandford division. It has been deemed the Urnium of the Romans, a conjecture which is favoured by the traces of a large circular intrenchment on Woodbury hill, in the immediate vicinity. The market is very ancient, having been confirmed to the inhabitants by King John. The annual fair held on September 18, and the four following days, on Woodbury hill, was formerly a very great one for cattle, horses, hogs, cheese, and all sorts of goods; and although the business has much decreased of late years, it is still of considerable consequence. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Dorset and diocese of Bristol; valued in K. B. 25*l.* 5*s.*; patron, Balliol College, Oxford. The church, which is ded. to St. John the Baptist, is a handsome edifice, and contains several monuments to the memory of the Turbervilles, to whom the lordship once belonged. There are many minor charitable donations here, for the benefit of the poor. Cardinal Morton was a native of this parish.

at one time proverbial, owing to the precipitous nature of the rock on one side, and the manner in which the more gradual ascent on the other was fortified. It was erected in 1224, by Ralph de Blundeville, earl of Chester, and consisted of an outer and an inner area. It was further defended by a grand gateway, and a strong wall, with numerous round towers, remains of which still subsist. The area contains five acres, and the lower side was long rendered unapproachable by a very wide ditch. It was last used as a fortress, in the civil wars, in the reign of Charles I., when it sustained a lengthened siege, or rather blockade, from the Parliamentary forces; and on its ultimate surrender the Parliament ordered it to be dismantled. This castle is a conspicuous object to all the surrounding country, and the view therefrom is in return highly varied and extensive; including the estuaries of the Dee and the Mersey, and all the level country of Cheshire.

Pop. 412. St. D. Fri. Fair, Aug. 30, for horses.

A post-town and parish in the district of Cunningham. The former is situated on a small eminence, and is tolerably well built; and its new church, built on the south of the town, forms a picturesque object for many miles round. A considerable trade is carried on here in the manufacture of white thread and the weaving of muslin. The parish, which extends into the county of Renfrew, is about five miles in length and four in breadth. It has long been celebrated for the skill of its dairy farming, and the production of excellent cheese. Coal is wrought here to advantage; freestone is plentiful, and the limestone quarries inexhaustible. Rich veins of iron-stone also abound. There is a small lake in the north-west of the parish called Killost Loch, in which the fish are very numerous. The remains of a stately castle, the residence of the Montgomeries of Giffan, is in this parish.

 d. A sea-port town in a parish of the same name, partly in the upper and partly in the lower half of Belfast barony. It is situated at the mouth of the Lagan river, and at the extremity of Belfast lough, or, as it is sometimes called, Carrickfergus bay. It is considered to be the third town in Ireland in magnitude and wealth, and is more rapidly advancing in commercial importance than any other port in the kingdom.
 Here are many regular and handsome streets, two well-finished squares, and several public buildings. The parish church is a neat brick building, but the chapel of ease is a handsome stone edifice, the graceful portico in front of which was formerly the entrance to Lord Bristol's spacious palace of Ballyscullion, in the county of Londonderry. The new Commercial Buildings are also faced with cut stone, and contain a commodious reading-room, with many public and private offices. The old exchange is in a dilapidated condition ; it contained a large and convenient assembly-room. The linen-hall, academical institution, Roman Catholic chapels, meeting-houses of Dis-

Edinburgh 62 m. WSW. Paisley 11 m. W.
Pop. 4472. M. D. Fri. Fair, Aug. 20, for horses.

A post-town and parish in the district of Cunningham. The former is situated on a small eminence, and is tolerably well built; and its new church, built on the south of the town, forms a picturesque object for many miles round. A considerable trade is carried on here in the manufacture of white thread and the weaving of muslin. The parish, which extends into the county of Renfrew, is about five miles in length and four in breadth. It has long been celebrated for the skill of its dairy farming, and the production of excellent cheese. Coal is wrought here to advantage; freestone is plentiful, and the limestone quarries inexhaustible. Rich veins of iron-stone also abound. There is a small lake in the north-west of the parish called Kilborne Loch, in which the fish are very numerous. The remains of a stately castle, the residence of the Montgomeries of Giffan, is in this parish.

BELLECK, co. Fermanagh, Ulster, I.

P. T. Ballyshannon (127) 2 m. E b S.

Pop. of Pa. 2159. Of VIII. 224. Of Com. 234.

A village in a parish of the same name, in the barony of Lurg, situated on the river Erne, just where a noble cataract is formed by the discharge of the waters of Lough Erne, called the falls of Belleck. The aver- age quantity of power expended here is equi- valent to that of 15,000 horses, yet there is no factory on the spot. The bed of the fall is secondary limestone, and, being much con- tracted near the exit from the lake, is there crossed by a small bridge. A fort was erected near the head of the fall by General Knox, but abandoned subsequently from its ill chosen position. An attempt was made to construct a canal from the lake to the sea at Ballyshannon, but relinquished from want of capital; the distance is only five miles, the supply of water inexhaustible, and the country remarkably level. The living is a rectory and vicarage in the diocese of Clog- her and archdiocese of Armagh, the parish extending into the county of Donegal. Here is a church and 490 acres of glebe. A school of sixty-one pupils is supported by sub- scription, and another of sixty pupils by the London Hibernian Society.

BELLFLEWSTOWN, co. Meath, Leinster, I.

P. T. Drogheda (20) 4 m. S. Pop. not separated.

A hamlet in the parish of Colpe and barony 152

chiefly of brick. There are many excellent private residences in the modern part of the town, and Donegal-place is a very graceful and spacious city avenue. Belfast is well sheltered by the lofty mountain of Divis, which hangs over the town on the west, and attains an elevation of 1473 feet. The bridge which crosses the Lagan here was commenced in the year 1682, but was early injured by the passing of Duke Schomberg's heavy artillery, at the period of the Revolution, and it is now reported to be in a dangerous state. The county boundary is supposed to pass through the third arch on the Antrim side. The bridge measures 2562 feet in length, consists of twenty-one arches, and unites the counties of Antrim and Down. The name Belfast is a corruption of Bala-ferad, i. e. the town at the mouth of the river. Randolphus Lane dwelt in the castle, the early history of which is lost, in the reign of Elizabeth; but it appears that Sir Thomas Smith obtained a grant of both castle and lands from that queen, on condition of maintaining a troop of horse and a company of foot for her majesty's use, and to attend her summons. In the reign of James I. Smith neglected the summons, and the castle was thereupon granted to Sir Arthur Chichester, lord deputy, whose descendants continue to enjoy the lordship. In the fifth year of the same king a charter was granted, constituting Belfast a corporation; the franchise to be vested in a sovereign, twelve burgesses, and a community, with the privilege of sending two members to Parliament. Since the legislative union the franchise has been restricted to the election of one member only. There is a regular garrison stationed here. The living is a vicarage in the diocese of Connor and archdiocese of Armagh; amount of commutation for tithes 996*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.* of which the lay impropriator receives 600*l.* There is a glebe-house in the town, and twenty acres of glebe at the distance of one mile. An inland trade is carried on by means of a communication with Lough Neagh. This line of navigation consists of eighteen miles of still water, and ten of river, forming but an imperfect mode of conveyance. New and improved lines of road connect this town with Dublin, Antrim, Coleraine, Donaghadee, and the towns along the coast of Antrim; and a canal is now in progress, the object of which is to unite Lough Neagh with Lough Erne, by which important measure, the north of Ireland generally will be materially benefited. The trade in grain is healthy and prosperous at this port. A direct trade also in cotton and wool exists between Belfast and North America, the West Indies, Holland, and the Mediterranean; as well as a considerable reciprocal dealing with Scotland. Much linen is manufactured here, and vast quantities exported; but the cotton manufacture appears to have spread itself most extensively in the vicinity. There are factories of glass, vitriol, potte-ries, sugar refineries, breweries, distilleries, &c. The exports are various, those of an agricultural nature are considerable, such as butter, oatmeal, and pork. The gross amount of duties paid into the customs for three successive years, is as follows: 1826, 161,470*l.* 19*s.* 10*d.*; 1827, 351,361*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.*; 1828, 200,694*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* The ballast office returns indicate an increase in the foreign trade. Number of vessels entered in 1827, 2208, registry 219,118 tons. Number entered in 1828, 2428, registry 255,258 tons; and there are fifty vessels in the foreign, besides 131 engaged in the home trade, belonging exclusively to the port of Belfast. The navigation of the Lough, or Bay, is intricate, but not dangerous; there is a deep pool below the town, where vessels wait the flood, where vessels drawing thirteen feet may reach the quays. The principal seminary here is the Belfast academy, founded in 1810 and built by subscription. It is supported by the fees from pupils, and a grant from Parliament, and possesses a collegiate character, supporting professors in all branches of science, classics, and general literature. The Belfast academy is of more ancient institution, and attained a high classical reputation in the mastership of Dr. Bruce. There are several private seminaries, and many charity schools. The principal charitable institutions are the poor-house infirmary, a dispensary, a fever hospital, a school for the industrious blind, Waring-street Sunday-school, and a lunatic asylum, situated on the Falls road, occupying thirteen acres of land, containing 100 cells, and built from a design of the late president of the Royal Hibernian academy, P. Johnston, Esq. The commercial spirit of the inhabitants is equalled only by their zeal for elegant and useful acquisitions. Two journals are supported; a museum is in progress of formation, and a botanic garden on an extensive scale is forming, to be supported by public subscription; the latter is patronized by the Marquis of Donegal, the proprietor of the town. The family of Chichester descends the title of Earl from Belfast.

BELFAST LOUGH, or CARRICKFERGUS BAY, co. Antrim, Ulster, I.

Lat. 54.35 N. Long. 5.40 W.

A spacious entrance on the east coast of barony of Belfast; it is also called Carrickfergus Lough, and is, probably, the Vindictus of Ptolemy. The entrance is 12 miles in breadth, i. e. between Groomsport and Ballybarnet bay, in the county of Down, and Whitehead, in the county of Antrim, and its length from this line to Belfast quay is twelve miles. The mountain of Divis protects the Lough from the west winds, which are the most prevalent in this district; and in the pond of Lough Erne there is good anchorage, where vessels ride afloat at low-water, within a cable's length of the dry ground. The ridge of sunk rocks, lying half-way between the openings of the Forth and the Tay, eleven miles south-west of the Red-head, twelve miles north-east of Fifehead, and thirteen north-east of the May lighthouse, and thirty north by east of St. Abb's head. It extends nearly a mile in length, and half-a-mile in breadth, and has been, from time immemorial, the dread of mariners, until in 1810 a light-house was erected on it, on the plan of that of the Elystone, under the able direction of Mr. Rennie. It is composed of solid granite, in the form of a truncated cone; and rises to the height of 106 feet. It exhibits a revolving light of three colours, and during hazy weather, bells are rung at the intervals of half-a-minute.

BELVOIR, co. Leicester and Lincoln.

P. T. Grantham (1116) 7 m. W & W. Pop. 83.

An extra-parochial liberty, partly in the hundred of Framland, county of Leicester, and partly in the soke of Grantham, parts of Kesteven, county of Lincoln. Here is situated Belvoir Castle, the celebrated mansion and domain of the Duke of Rutland. The grounds include the site of the ancient priory, and comprise 600 acres of wood, meadow, and pasture lands. The original edifice was built soon after the Conquest; but of this little remained owing to a continual succession of re-erection and improvement until the recent fire which has rendered another renovation necessary. The fertile vale of Belvoir extends from within a mile of Grantham into the counties of Lincoln, Leicester, and Nottingham, and there are no less than sixteen manors attached to the castle, which are peculiarly enriched with veins of lead and coal. This extensive domain was granted to the Manners family on the dissolution of the Priory by Henry VIII.

BEMPSTONE, co. Somerset.

P. T. Cupar of Angus (33½) 1½ m. N. Pop. 700.

A parish situated in the vale of Strathmore, on the borders of the shire of Angus, or Forfar, and extending from the Grampian to the Sidlaw hills. The length of the parish is about twelve miles, its breadth six, and it is bounded by the river Isla to the east, and divided by the Froch into districts. The banks of the Isla are fertile, but it often overflows and causes much chief. The low grounds throughout fertile, but the elevated parts over the Grampians are used only for pasture. It abounds with excellent free-stone and much granite, but fuel is expensive. Loch Stornoway, and several smaller lakes produce good manure. A fine stone bridge of five arches is thrown over the Isla on the road from Cupar-Angus to Fort George. The living is in the presbytery of Meigle and synod of Angus and Mearns. Here is a large cavern and several Pictish and other similar remains of antiquity.

rish is about twelve miles, its breadth nearly six, and it is bounded by the river Isla on the east, and divided by the Froch into two districts. The banks of the Isla are fertile, but it often overflows and causes much mischief. The low grounds throughout are fertile, but the elevated parts over the Grampians are used only for pasture. It abounds with excellent free-stone and some granite, but fuel is expensive. Loch Stornont and several smaller lakes produce good manure. A fine stone bridge of five arches is thrown over the Isla on the road from Cupar-Angus to Fort George. The living is in the presbytery of Meigle and synod of Angus and Mearns. Here is a large cavern and several Pictish and other similar remains of antiquity.

BENDRIDGE, co. Northumberland.

P. T. Morpeth (248) 2 m. Pop. 37.

A hamlet in the parish of Nutford, and west division of Morpeth ward.

BERKELEY, co. Gloucester.

A hundred, situated between the hundreds of Grimbald's Ash and Longtree, and the south bank of the Severn, containing twenty-five parishes, and the market-towns of Berkeley and Wotton-Under-Edge.

BERKELEY, co. Gloucester.

London 114 m. W & S. Gloucester 16 m. SSW. Pop. of Pa. 3423. Of To. 340. M. D. Wed. Fair, May 14, for cattle and pigs.

A market-town and parish in the upper division of the hundred of the same name. The town is situated on a pleasant eminence, surrounded by a branch of the Little Avon, in the midst of the fertile vale of Berkeley, and about a mile east of the Severn. It consists principally of one street, of indifferent buildings, with a large and handsome church, from which its lofty tower is disjoined. Its origin is remote, being termed a royal demesne and free borough in Domesday Book. It was granted by the Conqueror to Roger de Berkeley, whose grandson was deprived of it by Henry II. for adhering to King Stephen. It was bestowed by the same king upon Robert Fitzharding, said to be descended from the ancient kings of Denmark, progenitor of the noble family by whom it is still possessed. Berkeley, although so small, is a borough by prescription, and governed by a mayor and twelve aldermen. It also possesses a court for the recovery of small debts, which is held every three weeks, by the steward of the manor. It carries on considerable trade in timber, coal, malt, and cheese; being much favoured by a cut to the Gloucester and Berkeley canal, which enters the Severn near this place, and terminates, after a course of eighteen miles, on the south side of Gloucester. The vale of Berkeley is celebrated for the excellence of its dairy farms, and the production of the double Gloucester cheese. The parish contains several populous townships, besides the market-town of Berkeley. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Gloucester; charged in K. B. 32*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patron the Earl of Berkeley. About three quarters of a mile south of the town, seated on a rising ground, and commanding a delightful view of the surrounding country and river Severn, is the celebrated castle, which, ever since its foundation at the Conquest, has formed the baronial residence of the holders of the manor, who lay claim to a barony from the fact of possessing it. Its form approaches to that of a circle, and the whole of the pile, which is very extensive, is surrounded by a moat. The keep, which is the most ancient part, is flanked by three semicircular towers and a square area, of more recent construction. This castle, which has subsisted seven centuries, has been the scene of various remarkable transactions, the most melancholy of which was the barbarous treatment and murder of Edward II. in 1327. A small apartment over the flight of steps, leading into the keep, is pointed out as the dreary place where this dire cruelty was perpetrated. During the civil wars it was held for Charles I., but surrendered to the Parliament in 1645. Berkeley is the native place of Dr. Edward Jenner, the celebrated discoverer of vaccination.

BERKELEY, co. Somerset.

P. T. Frome (103) 3 m. ENE. Pop. 550.

A parish in the hundred of Frome; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Wells; charged in K. B. 7*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patron and incumbent (1829) Rev. I. Rogers. A priory of Augustine's was founded here in the reign of John, which lasted until the general termination of monasteries.

BERKENHEAD. See Birkenhead.

BERKHAMPSTEAD, GREAT, co. Hertford.

London 26½ m. NW.; Hertford 2½ m. W by S. Pop. 2310. M. D. 8at. Fairs, Shrove Mon. Whit. Mon. for cattle; Aug. 5, cheese; Sept. 20, Oct. 11, statute.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Dacorum. The town is situated on the west side of the river Gade and the Grand Junction Canal, which here run together on a line with the high road from Watford; by the aid of which navigation it enjoys a considerable trade. It is a large and handsome town, although chiefly consisting of one street, with houses of brick, disposed with little regularity. It was called by the Romans, Durobrivæ; and became a place of some eminence under the Saxons. The remains of a castle still exists on an eminence on the north of the town, where the kings of Mercia resided. The honour and castle of Berkhamstead, which consists of fifty-five manors in the counties of Herts, Bucks, and Northampton, was granted by the conqueror to the Earl of Montaigne, his half-brother; and it reverted to the crown from time to time, until ultimately granted by Edward III., with the duchy of Cornwall, to the eldest sons of the kings of England, and whom the lessees of the estate continue to hold it. The town was deemed a borough in the reign of Henry III.; and sent members to one Parliament in the reign of Edward III. It was incorporated by James I. but the corporation, which consisted of a bailiff and twelve burgesses, was so impoverished by the civil contests in the following reign, it ceased to exercise its functions. The little manufacture which is carried on here consists chiefly of the turnery of bowls and the construction of shovels, spoons, and similar articles of hardware. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Herts and diocese of Lincoln; charged in K. B. 20*l.*; patron, the King. The church, which is dedicated to St. Peter, is a Gothic structure of considerable elegance, and possesses several small chapels and oriels, which still exist in a detached state. The monuments are also numerous and interesting; and, among others, there is one to John Sayer, chief cook to Charles I., who erected six almshouses for poor widows in this town. Here is a free school, founded in the reign of Henry VIII. by John Ince, dean of St. Paul's, and formally incorporated in that of Edward VI.; the master of which is appointed by the crown. A charity school is also supported by subscription and various minor donations exist for the benefit of the poor.

The church, which is dedicated to St. Peter, is a Gothic structure of considerable elegance, and possesses several small chapels and oriels, which still exist in a detached state. The monuments are also numerous and interesting; and, among others, there is one to John Sayer, chief cook to Charles I., who erected six almshouses for poor widows in this town. Here is a free school, founded in the reign of Henry VIII. by John Ince, dean of St. Paul's, and formally incorporated in that of Edward VI.; the master of which is appointed by the crown. A charity school is also supported by subscription; and various minor donations exist for the benefit of the poor.

abbey in 1399, by Pope Boniface IX. In this abbey, in 1437, died Catherine of France, queen of Henry V., and relict of Owen Tudor; and in 1486, Elizabeth, the widow of Edward IV.—a termination of their days in a species of confinement being the lot of both these queens. On the dissolution of monasteries, a part of the site of this abbey was granted to Sir Thomas Pope; and another to the last abbot, who became bishop of St. Asaph, and built a house here, termed the abbey-house, a part of which still remains; as also, until lately, a gateway and some buildings, traditionally, but with little foundation, regarded as a part of a palace belonging to King John. This suburban parish long retained a very antique air, from the age of several of its streets and houses; but this is gradually yielding to the general spirit of improvement. An act of parliament, which passed in 1823, for watching, paving, cleansing, and lighting, has also produced considerable amelioration. In this district, the occupations of tanning and fellmongering are carried on to a greater extent than in any other place in England; and it abounds with curriers, woodstaplers, parchment-makers, and other lines connected with the main branches above-mentioned. A considerable portion of the parish, extending along the south bank of the Thames, between Horseleydown and Rotherhithe, is distinguished for all the branches of employment connected with the water, including coal and timber-merchants, boat-builders, sail-makers, wharfingers, lightermen, and kindred avocations; and upon the whole, it is a district of great industry and business. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Surrey and diocese of Winchester; charged in K. B. 15*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*; patroness (1829) Mrs. Hambley. The present church, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen, was erected in 1680. It is constructed of brick, faced with stucco, and is a plain structure, altogether destitute of architectural pretensions. In consequence of the great extent and population, a new church has been lately erected at a convenient distance from the mother church, under the authority of the act for that purpose; the living of which, as in all such cases, is subordinate to the original rectory. Here is a free school, founded by Mr. Josiah Bacon, and endowed with a revenue of 1*0*l. per annum, for the education of sixty boys; also a charity school, for children of both sexes.

above 300 children are taught gratis, besides a charity school, a school of industry, a dispensary, and various charitable donations. Great quantities of corn, pickled pork, and eggs, are shipped here for London, but the principal trade of the place is in salmon, pickled or sent in ice to the metropolis. It possesses a few manufactures of linen, damask, cotton, muslin, stockings, carpeting, and sail-cloth, but not any which are very extensive. The harbour is inconvenient, admitting ships of small burthen only across the bar, neither is there safe riding in the offing. Berwick is a garrison-town with a regular governor, whose appointment is a military sinecure. The ruins of the castle which occupy an eminence on the north bank of the Tweed, are peculiarly venerable. There were no less than ten religious houses in this town before the Reformation.

BETCHWORTH, co. Surrey.

P. T. Reigate (21) 2 m. W & S. Pop. 200.

A parish in the first division of the hundred of Reigate; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Surrey and diocese of Winchester; valued in K. B. 7*l.* 8*s.* 11*½d.*; church ded. to St. Michael; patrons, the Dean and Canons of Windsor. This village is very pleasantly situated, and the manor formerly belonged to Abraham Tucker, Esq., author of "The Light of Nature pursued;" from whom it descended to his grandson, Sir Henry Mildmay, Bart. who has sold it to H. Peters, Esq.

BETHERSDEN, co. Kent.

P. T. Ashford (22) 2½ m. WSW. Pop. 1001.

A parish in the hundred of Chart and Longridge, lathe of Scray; living, a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Canterbury; charged in K. B. 12*l.*; ann. val. P. R. 100*l.*; patron, the Archbishop of Canterbury. The church, which is ded. to St. Beatrice, contains many brasses to the memory of the Lovelaces, to whom the manor once belonged. This parish was formerly celebrated for its marble quarries, which article was in much request for slabs, chimney-pieces, and ornaments. It is of the grey turbinated kind, and is often confounded with that of Petworth, which it much resembles.

BETNAL-GREEN, co. Middlesex.

London 1½ m. NE. Pop. 43,076.

A parish in the Tower division of the hundred of Ossulston, and situate within the bills of mortality. It was originally only a hamlet to Stepney, but was formed into a distinct parish, by act of Parliament, in 1743, and the church, ded. to St. Matthew, was built under the authority of the Commissioners for erecting fifty new churches. The living is a rectory, not in charge, of the clear yearly value of 200*l.*; patrons, Bruzenose College, Oxford. A handsome district church has been recently erected, under the authority of the existing Commission for building churches, the curacy of which is subordinate to the primitive rectory. Chapels abound here for every class of dissenters, including a place of worship for converted Jews. The population of this parish has increased in an extraordinary manner within a few years, owing to an extension of buildings, and to its forming, like Spitalfields, a convenient place of abode for the operative silk-weavers. The hospital called the Trinity Houses, founded in the year 1695, for twenty-eight ancient seamen, who have been masters of ships, and their widows, is in Bethnal Green. The funds arising from the ballast-office, light-houses, buoys, beacons, &c. are appropriated by Parliament to this corporation. Each of the inmates receives 16s. a month, 20s. a year for coals, and a new gown every second year. The well-known ballad of "The Blind Beggar of Bethnal Green," was written in the reign of Elizabeth, and founded on a legend, recording the supposed adventures of Henry de Montford, son of the famous earl of Leicester, who lost his life at the battle of Evesham, in the reign of Henry III. This story is a great favourite with the inhabitants; and the blind beggar not only forms a well-known sign, but is painted upon the staff of the parish beadle.

BETLEY, co. Stafford.

P. T. Newcastle under Lyme (130) 7½ m. W & N. Pop. 137.

A parish in the hundred of North Pirchill. It was formerly a market-town, but the market has long been discontinued. The houses are very neat, and much improved by two handsome seats in the immediate vicinity. The living is a perpetual curacy, not in charge, in the archdeaconry of Stafford and diocese of Lichfield and Coventry; ann. val. P. R. 101*l*. 9*s*. 6*d*.; church ded. to St. Margaret; patron (1829) George Tollett, Esq., a gentleman celebrated as an experimental agriculturist, to whom the manor belongs. The remains of Healy Castle, belonging to Lord Audley, are situated on a rock about a mile south-east of Betley.

M. D. Wed. and Sat. Fairs, Th. before Old Valentine; Holy Th.; July 3; Nov. 5, for horses and sheep; and every alternate Wed. for horned cattle. Memb. of Pt. 2.

A borough, market-town, and township, within the liberties of the same name, in the Hunsley Beacon division of Harthill, situated at the feet of the Wolds, about a mile from the river Hull. Its name is derived from Beverlac, signifying the place or lake of beavers, which animals once abounded in the vicinity. Beverley is a pleasant well-built town, and inhabited by many highly respectable families. It is about a mile in length, and the principal street, which is wide and spacious, terminates in an ancient gateway; it is well paved and lighted. The market-place occupies four acres of ground, and is adorned by a handsome cross, supported by columns of freestone. Its trade, which principally consists in coals, corn, malt, oatmeal, and leather, is much forwarded by the canal, called Beverley Beck, communicating with the Hull, and made navigable before 1311, in which year it is first noticed in the corporation records. Being deemed the capital of the East Riding, the quarter-sessions are held in the Guildhall here, and there are also a registry for wills, a sessions house, a theatre, and town and county gaol; the erection of the latter cost 12,000*l*. On Hurn Moor is a small race-course. The importance of Beverley as a town originated in the piety of St. John, archbishop of York, who in the year 700 erected a church here, which he subsequently changed into a monastery of Benedictines. In the early part of the tenth century, both town and monastery received many privileges from King Athelstan, who granted the latter a sanctuary, and built a college for secular canons. It was also much enriched by Edward the Confessor and William the Conqueror; and became, in the sequel, of great power and consequence. At its dissolution, the society consisted of a provost, eight prebendaries, a chancellor, a precentor, sixteen rectors and vicars choral, with many chantry priests, officers, and servants; the revenues of the whole amounting to 598*l*. 8*s*. 9*d*. The monastery of Black Friars was founded in this town before 1299, the Austin Friars in 1287, and the Knight's Hospitallers in 1301. The town returned members to all the parliaments of Edward I. but to none subsequently, until incorporated by a charter granted by 5th Elizabeth. The corporation consists of a mayor, twelve aldermen, and thirteen capital burgesses; the latter of whom are chosen annually by the freemen on the Monday before Michaelmas Day: there are also a recorder and town-clerk. A court of record is held in the Guildhall, called the Provost's Court, in which all causes may be tried within the liberties of this borough, except titles to land. The freedom of the borough is acquired by birth, servitude, and purchase; the price of the latter is from thirty to fifty guineas, but it is granted only at the discretion of the corporation. The birth and apprenticeship must take place within the liberties of Beverley, which include the townships of Eske, in the wapentake of Holderness, Molescroft, Storkhill with Sandholm, Thearn, Tickton and Hull-bridge, Weel, Woodmansay, Beverley Parks, and a part of Aike. The right of election is in the resident freemen (about 1400); returning officer, the mayor. For some years past the borough has not felt the influence of any predominant patron. A singular privilege is attached to the free burgesses of Beverley, each of whom possesses a right of pasturage over 1174 acres of fertile land, for thirteen head of cattle, at a very trifling charge. The town and liberties stand in four parishes, which by union are reduced into two; of these St. Martin's, united to the minster, or collegiate church of St. John, is a perpetual curacy in the gift of the corporation, of the certified value of 21*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*. It is served by a perpetual and two assistant curates. The living of St. Mary's is a vicarage, charged in K. B. at 11*l*. 2*s*. 8½*d*.; united to the rectory of St. Nicholas, similarly charged at 5*l*. 0*s*. 10*d*.; patron, the Lord Chancellor. All these livings are peculiars of the collegiate church. The ancient churches of St. Martin and St. Nicholas no longer exist; that of St. John, popularly called Beverley Minster, is pronounced by many antiquaries and architects to be inferior to York Minster in size alone. It appears by an inscription discovered on a sheet of lead, which inclosed the reliques of the founder, that the original structure was destroyed by fire in 1183, which circumstance refers the date of the present building to the thirteenth century. It possesses the advantage of standing completely insulated; and is peculiarly celebrated for the beauty of its western front and northern porch. The general character of the architecture is early English, with many introductions in the decorated and perpendicular styles; of the last of which the west front is deemed the completest specimen in England. It received a great repair at the commencement of the last century, when a new Gothic screen was erected between the nave and the choir, which, however, is thought by many persons to be inferior to that which it superseded. In the body of the choir is a monument to a female member of the Percy family, of exquisite workmanship; and in the south transept of the church hangs an ancient table exhibiting the portraits of St. John of Beverley, and King Athelstan, with this device, from which the burgesses claim exemption from toll throughout England:

"Als free make I thee,
As hert may thyuke, or egh see."

There are also some very remarkable reliefs on the moveable seats in the choir, the comic tendency of which is singular.

inconsistent with their situation. This church is kept in excellent repair, a great portion of the estates of the minister, which net about 3000*l.* per annum, being appropriated to the due maintenance of the minister. St. Mary's church is also a handsome building in the same style; but owing to the superiority of the minister, it attracts little attention. This church has also a reputation fund, which produces 200*l.* per ann. Here are places of worship for the Catholics, Methodists, Independent Baptists, and the Society of Friends. The grammar-school is of very ancient date, but the revenues are trifling, and the founder unknown; it possesses, however, by the munificence of various benefactors, two fellowships, six scholarships, and three exhibitions to St. John's College, Cambridge. There are besides a free-school for both sexes, founded by the Rev. James Groves, and a national school, supported by subscription. Of the charitable establishments, which are numerous, the principal are those of Mrs. Ann Routh, Mr. Warton, Sir Michael Warton, and Tymperon's hospital, for poor widows and others. John Alcock, bishop of Ely, founder of Jesus College, Cambridge, who died in 1500, was a native of this town, as was also the celebrated victim to the intolerance of Henry VIII., Fisher, bishop of Rochester. It was likewise the birth-place of John Green, bishop of Lincoln, who died in 1779, an elegant writer in his day, and one of the authors of the "Athenian Letters," published by the earl of Hardwicke. Beverley gives the title of Earl to a collateral branch of the Percy family.

charged in K. B. 2*l.* ann. val. P. R. 182*l.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patrons, Dean and Chapter of Carlisle. Newcastle is celebrated for horse-dealing. There is a very ancient obelisk in the church-yard, supposed to be of Danish construction.

BEWDLEY, co. Worcester.

London 120 m. Kidderminster 3 m. N.W.

Worcester 14 m. N. & W. Pop. 2725.

M. D. Sat. Fairs, April 23; July 28; and Dec. 11, for cattle, horses, cheese, and linen and woollen cloth. Memb. of Pt. 1.

A borough town in the hundred of Doddingtree, but with separate jurisdiction. It is pleasantly situated on the descent of a hill, on the western bank of the Severn, over which there is a very handsome stone bridge. The principal street is well-built and paved; and the navigation of the river is busy and commodious, with extensive wharfs on each side. The town-hall is a handsome modern building, erected over three arches, with handsome iron gates, leading into the market-place. The principal occupation of the inhabitants is more or less connected with the carrying trade on the Severn. Tanning and malting are also much pursued, and there is considerable business transacted in salt and iron ware. Bewdley has continued a royal domain since the reign of Henry VII., and from the reign of Charles II. it has been held by several houses from the crown. It was first incorporated by James I., which charter was surrendered to Charles II. and James II., but restored by Queen Anne. The government is vested in a bailiff and twelve capital burgesses, assisted by a recorder, town-clerk, and other officers. The bailiff and burgesses fill up the vacancies which occur among themselves, without reference to the inhabitants at large, and also vote exclusively for the single representation of this town; returning officer the bailiff. The parish of Bewdley is a chapelry to Ribblesford; living, a curacy, not in charge, subordinate to that rectory; ann. val. P. R. 31*l.* The chapel, ded. to St. Andrew, is a handsome modern erection. Here is a well-endowed free-school, and a new general charity-school, very liberally supported, with several almshouses, and numerous donations to the poor. There is a mineral spring near the town, and the whole vicinity is deemed in the highest degree pleasant and salubrious.

BEWERLEY, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Ripley (215) 4 m. N.W. Pop. 1408.

A township in the parish of Ripon, in the wapentake of Claro, chiefly occupied by the miners employed in the neighbouring lead mines.

BEWICK, NEW, co. Northumberland.

Eyborne, lathe of Aylesford; living, a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Canterbury; valued in K. B. 5*l.* 10*s.*; ann. val. P. R. 120*l.*; church ded. to St. James; patron, the Lord Chancellor.

BICKNOR, ENGLISH, co. Gloucester.

P. T. Colford (125) 2 m. N. Pop. 531.

A parish in the hundred of St. Briavells, on the banks of the river Wye. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Gloucester; valued in K. B. 13*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*; church ded. to St. Mary; patron, Queen's College, Oxford. Several mines of coal and iron are worked in this vicinity, which is also remarkable for fine orchards and meadow lands. The church stands within the fosse of an ancient fortification, beyond which is a jetting promontory, round which the river romantically winds.

BICKNOR, WELSH, co. Monmouth.

P. T. Ross (120) 11 m. S b W. Pop. 57.

A parish in the lower division of the hundred of Skenfreth; living, a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Hereford; valued in K. B. 4*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; church ded. to St. Margaret; patron, the Lord Chancellor.

BICKTON, co. Devon.

P. T. Sidmouth (130) 4 m. W b S. Pop. 201.

A parish in the hundred of East Budleigh; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Exon; valued in K. B. 12*l.* 13*s.* 3*d.*; church ded. to the Holy Trinity; patron, Lord Rolle. The tenure of the manor of Bickton was to keep the gaol of the county.

BICKTON, co. Salop.

P. T. Shrewsbury (153) 3 m. NW.

Pop. with Pa.

A chapelry to the vicarage of St. Chad in the liberty of the town of Shrewsbury; living, a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry of Salop and diocese of Lichfield and Coventry; certified value 20*l.* 4*s.*; ann. val. P. R. 47*l.* 10*s.*; patron (1829) the Rev. Thos. Stedman.

BIDDENDEN, co. Kent.

P. T. Cranbrook (49) 5 m. E b N. Pop. 1541.

A parish in the hundred of Barclay, lathe of Serny; living, a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Canterbury; valued in K. B. 35*l.*; ann. val. P. R. 108*l.*; church ded. to All Saints; patron, the Archbishop of Canterbury. Here is a free-school endowed with a revenue of 20*l.* per ann., and a gift of 20*l.* per ann. from two maiden sisters of the name of Preston, to be distributed in bread to the poor. An impression stamped on the Biddenden bread, representing the two sisters side by side, gave rise to an absurd tradition that they came into the world connected together by the hips and shoulders. As no record exists of a phenomenon so extraordinary, it is now justly discredited, although the arrival of the two Siamese youths in London revived the story.

BIDDENHAM, co. Bedford.

A remarkable remnant of antiquity, called the Bradestones, is situated in this parish, consisting of eight upright freestones, six of which form a circle round the other two. Here are also artificial caves curiously paved with stones.

BIDEFORD, or BIDDEFORD, co. Devon.

London 201 m. W b S. Barnstaple Dm. 8W. Pop. 402. M. D. Tues. Fair, Feb. 14; July 13; and Nov. 13, for cattle.

A market-town, seaport, and parish, in the hundred of Shebbear, but possessing separate jurisdiction, situate on the east and west banks of the river Towridge, which a little lower joins the Taw and falls into the bay of Barnstaple. The greater part of the town is built on a steep acclivity on the west of the river, and the remainder at the foot of a hill on the eastern side. They are connected by an ancient bridge of twenty-four arches and 220 yards in length, which was erected in the fourteenth century, and has been endowed with lands to keep it in repair. The houses formerly had a mean appearance, being built indifferently of timber, brick, and mud, and covered with coarse slate, or thatch; but they have been much improved of late years, and the streets are open, airy, and owing to their sloping situation very clean. The market-place is spacious, and the town-hall, erected in 1698, has prisons under it both for criminals and debtors. There is a noble quay which is very convenient, being situated near the head of the town, which, except at ebb-tide, may be reached by vessels of 500 tons burthen, and near the quay is the custom-house. Although the name of the town is Saxa, signifying by the ford, there is no known account of it before the Conquest. Soon after that event, it was bestowed upon Richard de Granville, a Norman knight, in whose posterity it continued in possession until the year 1750; when it was alienated by one of the co-heirs of William Granville, the third Earl of Bath. It was deemed a borough-town in the reign of Edward I. and sent members to several Parliaments, but regarding the support of them a grievance, it got excused. It remained a place of little consequence until the reign of Elizabeth, when it began to participate in the advantages of the American and Newfoundland trade, and, by the interest of the Granville family, obtained a charter of incorporation, which was confirmed with additional privileges by James I. The corporation consists of a mayor, seven aldermen, and seven capital burgesses, assisted by a recorder, town-clerk, and other officers. This charter grants the burgesses a power of arrest in the town for any sum without limitation. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter; charged in K. B. 27*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*; patron, J. Fortescue, Esq. and others. The church, ded. to St. Mary, is a plain neat structure which has been repeatedly enlarged to accommodate the increasing population. Here are also several meeting-houses for dissenters. A free grammar school was founded early in the seventeenth century for the education of ten boys appointed by the corporation; besides which there are charity and Sunday schools, and several small donations for distribution among the poor inhabitants. The commercial importance of this town has much increased since the comparative decline of Barnstaple, and it enjoys a considerable share of both coasting and foreign trade. Much capital is em-

A market and post-town in the parish of the same name. It is small, but the main street, although not regular, is otherwise broad and spacious. The only building claiming notice is the church, which was collegiate and founded by Malcolm Lord Fleming, in 1545, who liberally endowed it for a provost, eight prebends, four singing boys, and six poor men, and ded. it to the Virgin Mary. It is in the form of a cross, with a tower in the middle, but the steeple was never finished. The living is in the presbytery of Biggar and synod of Lothian and Tweeddale. The employment of the people chiefly consists in weaving and in the conveyance of lead from the lead hills. The parish, which extends in length about six miles by about three and a half in breadth, is partly hilly and partly level, and a considerable portion of it remains in natural pasturage. Here are the vestiges of three Roman camps and a large tumulus; and the remains of Biggar castle are situated in a bog about a quarter of a mile south of the town.

London 121 m. NW. Wolverhampton 2 m. SE. Pop. 17,703.

A township and chapelry in the parish of Wolverhampton, north division of the hundred of Nersdon, situate on the road from London through Shrewsbury to Holyhead. There are considerable mines of coal, iron stone, quarry stone, and clay; and furnaces for smelting iron ore, forges and slitting mills, worked by steam engines, abound. Its manufactures consist principally of japanned and enamelled goods, which are much favoured by its vicinity to the Birmingham, Staffordshire, and other canals, by which it has communication with the Mersey, Dee, Ribble, Ouse, Trent, Derwent, Severn, Humber, Avon, and Thames. An orange-coloured sand is found here, which is much used in the casting of metals. The village extends a mile and quarter in length, and, owing to the number of forges, collieries, and works of a kindred description, it presents a very sombre but impressive appearance. At Bradley adjoining this village, a fire which rises from a stratum of coal, about seven feet thick and thirty deep, has continued burning half a century, and several acres of land have been reduced thereby to a cinder. The living is a curacy within the jurisdiction of the Dean of Wolverhampton; chapel ded. to St. Leonard; patronage in the inhabitants at large. Here are also two places of worship for dissenters, an excellent charity-school, and a lunatic asylum.

Pop. 40.

A township in the parish of St. Andrew Auckland, in the north-west division of Darlington ward, situate on the brow of an eminence, rising on the western bank of the river Wear. This village is deemed by most antiquaries to have been the Roman station called Vinovium, by Antoninus, and Binovium, by Ptolemy; and the Watling Street either passed through it, or close on its western side. A great number of Roman antiquities have, from time to time, been discovered here, consisting of coins, altars, urns, lachrymatories, vases, and fragments of pottery and sculpture. Here have also been found some seals, cut in coarse cornelian, on one of which is the figure of Bacchus with a thyrsus.

A market-town in the Birmingham division of the hundred of Henningford, situate on the side of a hill, by the river Lea, in the north western extremity of the county. Its name is often pronounced Brommagem, and in old writings it is sometimes spelt so as to justify that appellation. It was a place of some consideration at the time of the Conquest; and gave name to the ancient family of Birmingham, who then and long after purchased the lordship, and obtained a market from Henry II., and two fairs from Henry III. Its first considerable increase in size and population took place in the reign of Charles II., which is said to have been caused by the operation of the five-mile act, which drove the non-conformist ministers from the corporate towns, several of whom settled at Birmingham, and were followed by their congregations. This town is not associated with any historical events of much importance. It sided warmly with the parliament against Charles I., but exhibited a very contrary spirit in 1791, when a furious riot occurred in consequence of a false rumour of the breaking out of the French Revolution. During this disturbance, which lasted some days, the mob burned down the houses of many wealthy dissenters and others, in the town and vicinity, whom they deemed favourable to the revolutionary cause; and among the rest the abode of the celebrated Dr. Priestley. The damage, on this disgraceful occasion, was estimated at 60,000*l.*, which was made up to the sufferers by act of Parliament, and two of the ringleaders were executed. The chief street of the ancient town is that called Digbeth, which is in a low and watery situation. The more modern portion is, on the contrary, approached by an ascent on every side, except the north-west. No prodigious has been the diffusion of building, that from 1700 to 1821 the number of houses increased from 2501 to 17,323, excluding the out-parishes, but including the hamlets of Deritend and Bordesley. The town is now two miles long, and new houses are continually building. A new street leading from Worcester Street to Bromsgrove Street, has been recently laid out; new lines of communication have been opened between Lower Ashford and various parts of the town and its environs; and from Bell-barn Road to the Five Ways; and from the Bristol road to Baball Heath. Here are two crosses, the one called the Welsh, and the other the High Cross, over which the Court of Requests is held. Great improvements are now proceeding, especially in the construction of a new and enlarged market, for which many houses have been taken down, under the authority of an act of Parliament, in High Street, Spicall Street, Bell Street, Philip Street, and Worcester Street, and it is intended that separate divisions should be assigned for the sale of hay and cattle. The same Act also contains provisions for a separate corn-market, towards the erection of which no steps have yet been taken; and it is expected that when all shall have been completed, no town in England will excel Birmingham in these conveniences. A new shire-hall, or sessions-house, is also about to be constructed, on a scale of considerable magnitude, the site of which is not yet fixed upon. Here the quarter-sessions will in future be held, so far as regards the trials of offences cognizable by that authority, in the town of Birmingham, which, at a great expense as regards the removal of prisoners, have hitherto been tried at Warwick. The town is watched, paved, and lighted with gas, under the provision of a recent act of Parliament. The flagging of the footpaths is gradually proceeding, and the edging of the flags with scored iron curbs, the invention of a native of the town, adds both to its neatness and durability. Among the more recent embellishments are a handsome new bridge over the Lea at Deritend; a bronze statue of Lord Nelson, by Westmacott, which decorates the market-place, and the Birmingham Institution for promoting the fine arts, which is a chaste and elegant structure, the two fronts of which are supported by ranges of bold projecting fluted columns. The Society for the Encouragement of the Fine Arts, connected with the more elegant branches of manufacture of the district, has been chiefly constituted for the culture of native talent, and does great honour to the spirit and intellect of the wealthy and respectable inhabitants who compose it. This town possesses a handsome theatre, superb assembly-rooms at the principal inns; most eligible suites of baths for hot and cold bathing; and every thing which may be deemed essentially conducive to the comfort and amusement of an active and enlightened community. Music meetings are from time to time held here, on a great scale. Two Public Libraries are established, as also a Philosophical Society, the members of which occasionally deliver lectures; and a Mechanic's Institution. To these may now be added, a species of social and political union, the exact bearing of which cannot yet be duly estimated. The immediate vicinity of the town is much occupied by garden-ground, in the cultivation of which, in small detached portions, many of the artisans and other inhabitants take a very rational pleasure. Extensive and important as it has become, it is governed simply by two constables, a high and low bailiff, with inferior officers, chosen annually at the court-leet of the lord of the manor. So decidedly, however, has this great town prospered by the absence of corporate or chartered privileges, it has uniformly declined them. Birmingham is divided into two parishes, but contains four BISBROOKE, co. Rutland.

P. T. Uppingham (20) 2 m. E. Pop. 222.

A parish in the hundred of Wraggdiike; liv-

district and other churches, and several chapels of ease; all of which are in the archdeaconry of Coventry and diocese of Lichfield and Coventry. The living of St. Martin's parish, which, until the reign of Anne, included the whole town, is a rectory charged in K. B. 197. 32. 64d.; patrons (1829) the Executors of the late T. Hawkes, Esq. The church, which was built of stone in 1300, has been subsequently cased in brick. It is situated in the lower and more ancient part of the town, and contains several monuments of the family of Birmingham. The parish of St. Philip was constituted out of that of St. Martin, by act of Parliament in 1711. The church, which is of an embellished, but chaste and elegant style of architecture, stands in an open area, on an elevated site, by which means it is seen to considerable advantage. The church-yard occupies four acres, and is pleasantly planted with trees. The interior is also correctly elegant, and the vestry contains a library, bequeathed by the first incumbent, Mr. Higgs. The living is a rectory, not in charge, annexed to the treasurership of Lichfield cathedral, and in the gift of the Bishop. The remaining churches and chapels are those of Christ, St. George, St. Peter, St. Thomas, recently finished, St. Bartholemew, St. Mary, St. Paul, St. James, and St. John; the last of which is however in the out parish of Aston. The living of St. George is a rectory in the gift of the Executors of T. Hawkes, Esq. The rest are all curacies, in the patronage of the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, the Rector of St. Philips and St. Martins, and of peculiar trustees. Here are places of worship for Roman Catholics and dissenters of almost every denomination, beside two Jewish synagogues. The free grammar-school was founded by Edward VI. in 1552, who granted for that purpose the revenues of an ancient gild, called the Gild of the Holy Cross, which now amount to 3000*l.* per annum. The number of boys admissible on the foundation is 130, and there are ten exhibitions of 35*l.* per annum each attached to the school, which may be held for seven years at any college in either university. Several inferior schools in the town are assisted by the funds of this rich establishment. There are besides a blue-coat school for both sexes, national and Lancasterian schools, various Sunday schools, supported both by members of the establishment and dissenters, and a school for the education of the deaf and dumb. The General Hospital is one of the most handsome structures in the town, as is also the General Dispensary, both which establishments are liberally supported by subscription. Almshouses were founded here for poor men and women in the reign of Henry VIII. by William Lench, which charity has been of late years extended by the accommodation of a greater number. As regards the manufacturing importance of this town, it was celebrated for the skill of its smiths and artisans in iron-ware so early as the reign of Henry VIII., as recorded by Leland, and was also a great emporium for leather. It was not until the reign of Charles II. however, when the toy trade began to flourish, that the career of ingenuity and industry was entered upon which has acquired Birmingham such a high degree of manufacturing renown. It was in the reign of William III. that muskets were first made here, which business during the late war was carried on to an immense extent. Working in brass was introduced in 1740, and one branch after another from time to time, until every species of hardware, plated articles, jewelry, trinket and toy-making was, as at present, included. The celebrated Solihull works of Messrs. Bolton and Watt, which, although in the county of Stafford, are only a mile and a half from the town, have added greatly to the fame of Birmingham. There consist of four squares with connecting ranges of shops; and besides the manufacture of steam engines, which has rendered the name of the firm known throughout the world, a very great variety of Birmingham articles are made here. The inland position of this large town might have been unfavourable to the transaction of business on a large scale, but owing to the extension of canal navigation this difficulty has long been entirely superseded. The old canal opens a communication with the Severn to Shrewsbury, Gloucester, and Bristol, and by the Trent to Gainsborough, Hull, and London. A junction has also been made between this canal and the grand line running through the Staffordshire Potteries to Manchester and Liverpool; thus opening a water communication to the leading ports in both seas. The new Birmingham or Fazely canal provides a similar water conveyance by Tamworth, Atherstone, Nuneaton, and Coventry, to Oxford; and hence by the Thames to London. The central position of this town is also highly favourable to its commercial and manufacturing prosperity, which it now and then affected by temporary fluctuations and depressions, seems founded on too many natural and acquired advantages ever to be permanently assailed. The last annual valuation of its rental, which took place in 1826, was 239,107*l.* Although forges and furnaces so much abound, the air of Birmingham is deemed pure and salubrious, which is possibly owing to the dryness of its red and sandy soil. The vicinity abounds with many pleasant villas and retreats of its opulent manufacturers, which so far as they demand attention will be adverted to in the accounts of the respective parishes in which they are situated.

BISHOP AUKLAND, co. Pal. of Durham.

London 219 m. N & W. Durham 10½ m. SW. Pop. 2140. M. D. Th. Fairs, Assen. Day, for horned cattle; following day, for sheep and horses; Corpus Christi and following day, ditto; Th. before Oct. 10, ditto. Mail arr. 7 c. Mail dep. 4 a.

A market-town in the parish of St. Andrew Auckland, in the north-west division of Darlington ward, which derived its name from the oaks which once abounded here. It is very favourably situated on an eminence, bounded on the north by the river Wear, and on the south-east by the river Ganness, which flows into the former a little above the town. The descent from the ground whereon it stands, to the plain below, is nearly 110 feet; which space is pleasantly laid out in hanging gardens, that give a very picturesque effect to the buildings towering above them. Although a borough by prescription, its importance chiefly originated in its having been made the principal residence of the Bishops of Durham, whose palace, or castle stands at the north angle of the town, and with its courts and offices covers a surface of five acres.

It was bestowed by Parliament in the interregnum, on Sir Arthur Haselrigge, who pulled down and rebuilt a great portion of it, which the conscientious Bishop Cosin, on his restoration to the see, destroyed in turn, and assigned the materials to the ancient destination, by building the present elegant chapel. The entrance from the town is through a handsome gothic gateway, erected by James Wyatt. The parsonage and demesne lands belonging to the church, which is built upon a hill, amount to 800 acres. The parish church of St. Andrew is about a mile distant, but there is a common diaconal chapel of ease in the town, ded. to St. Anne; living, a curacy, not in charge, the patronage of the Bishop. The Independent, Society of Friends, and Methodist, have chapels here. A grammar school was founded in the reign of James I. on the petition of Ann Swyft, whose benefaction of 10l. per ann. has been since increased by the bounty of various prelates who have held the see. Here are also a national school and a school for industry, founded by the late Bishop Harrington; with an almshouse for poor men and women, and other minor charities. The petty sessions are holden here the first Monday in every month, and a court baron once a year, in October, for the recovery of small debts. Here are factories in the linen and wool branches, and the retailers in all the principal lines of business are numerous. But its inhabitants derive much employment from the vicinity around. On the west of Bishop Auckland is Newton Crag, a stately bridge of two lofty arches, erected across the Wear, by Bishop Skirlaw, in 1390.

BISHOP'S WALTHAM, co. Southampton.

London 63 m. NW. Southampton 10 m. ENE. Pop. 1770. M. D. 5-12. Fairs, 2d Feb. May; July 20; 1st Fri. aft. Old Mich.; and Oct. 24, for horses, stockings, cheese, and toys.

A market-town and parish in the lower half hundred of the same name, Portdown division. It is small, but much business is done in tanning and matting. Here formerly stood a castle of the Bishops of Winchester, founded by Henry de Blois, brother of King Stephen, which was destroyed in the civil wars in the reign of Charles I. and the remains afford proofs of its ancient magnificence. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; charged in K. H. 26l. 12s. 8½d.; church ded. to St. Peter; patron, the Bishop of Winchester. Here is an endowed free-school and various minor charities. Waltham gives name to a forest in the vicinity, which, in the beginning of the last century, was infested by so determined a gang of deer-stealers, that their audacity gave rise to the celebrated Black Act, so called from the association having obtained the name of Waltham Blacks. On account of this law, which comprehended more schemes than had ever been included in a single one before, Bishop Houlley refused to stock Waltham Chase, observing, that "it had done mischief enough already."

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Broughin, situated on the river Stort, from which circumstance, and that of the manor having belonged to the bishops of London, from the Saxon times, it takes its name. The town is built in the form of a cross, the two principal streets intersecting each other at right angles, with the market-house in the centre. The surrounding land being very fertile in corn, much is accumulated here, and the making trade is carried on to a great extent. The general business of the town is much facilitated by a canal communicating with the Lea, which favours the conveyance of heavy articles to and from the metropolis. Here are several good inns, and the importance of the place has much increased within the last thirty years. It was incorporated by King John, who wrested both town and manor from the bishops of London. Although subsequently restored, the privilege was retained; and in the reign of Edward II. and Edward III. Bishop Stortford sent two members to Parliament, a right which it seems never to have subsequently exercised. At present the Bishop of London appoints a bailiff to maintain jurisdiction throughout the liberty. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Middlesex and diocese of London; charged in K. B. 12*l.*; patron, the Precentor of St. Paul's Cathedral. The church, which is ded. to St. Michael, stands on a rising ground, and possesses a fine lofty tower, with twelve bells. Here are a free grammar-school, almshouses, and several annual charities. On the east side of this town are the remains of a castle, which existed in the reign of the Conqueror, and is supposed to have been erected by the Saxons, or a Roman site, as several Roman coins have been found here. It was subsequently used as a gaol, and for the last time, by the venerable Bishop Bonner.

BISHOP WEARMOUTH, co. Pal. of Durham.

P. T. Sunderland (208) 1 m. SW.
Pop. of Pa. 11,512. Of To. 9177.

A parish and township in the north division of Easington ward. The township may virtually be regarded as a part of Sunderland, there being no interruption of building from one to the other. The more ancient part of Bishop Wearmouth occupies the southern the church, which was the mother church of Sunderland, and is ded. to St. Michael.

The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Durham; charged in K. B.
1097. 12s. 1½d.; patron, the Bishop. The several manufactories and collieries in the neighbourhood account for the large population, a great part of which consists of the families of coasting mariners. For an account of the celebrated cast iron bridge erected over the river Wear, by the late Rowland Burdon, Esq. being the greatest curiosity in this part of the county, see article Sunderland. The parish contains the additional townships of Bishop Wearmouth, Pans, Burdon, Ford, Ryehope, Silksworth, and Tunstall, respectively described in their proper places. Nearly the whole village of Bishop Wearmouth is held by copy of court roll from the bishop's manor of Houghton-le-Spring.

Pop. 5121. M. D. Th. Pairs, May 4, and Nov. 12, for cattle, sheep, and horses.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name. The latter is very extensive and includes the chapelry of Chalfont, where the clothing business is carried on very largely. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Gloucester; valued in K. B. 19*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*; patron, the Lord Chancellor. The church, ded. to All Saints, is built on an eminence, which renders it conspicuous for many miles round. Here is a free-school for boys, and a benefaction for the clothing of six widows. The canal, uniting the Thames with the Severn, passes through this parish, on the verge of which commences the excavation, which is continued more than two miles and a half under Salperton Hill. The market, owing to difficulty of access, is little attended and scarcely worthy the name. The cattle fairs are of greater consequence.

Fairs, March 11 and 12; and Oct. 17, for horses, horned cattle, and toys. Mail arr. 10 a. Mail dep. 7 a.

A market-town and parish in the lower division of the hundred of the same name. The town is situated on a naturally barren and sandy flat, although much improved by cultivation, on the bank of the small rivulet from which it receives its denomination. It is very irregularly built, partly owing to the intermixture of glebe and other lands, and partly arising from the sacrifice of beauty to convenience, which necessarily prevails in manufacturing places. Here is a theatre and a cloth-hall; and the Leeds and Liverpool canal passing near the town, greatly facilitates its commercial intercourse. The living is a vicarage, valued in K. B. 8l. 8s. 8d., in the archdeaconry and diocese of Chester; patron, the Archbishop of Canterbury. The church, ded. to St. Mary, has been recently rebuilt with the exception of the steeple, which is of the age of Edward III. Three district churches have been demanded by the rapidly increasing population; the living of one of which is a vicarage, and of the other two curacies, which, with all the out-chapelries in this parish, are in the patronage of the Vicar. Here are besides a Roman Catholic chapel and nine places of worship for various classes of Protestant dissenters. A free grammar-school was founded here by Queen Elizabeth, which educates from twenty to thirty boys, and is governed by a trust composed of fifty of the inhabitants. The school-house, a neat stone building, was rebuilt in 1819. Here are also a national school for 800 boys, a charity school for ninety girls, and various Sunday Schools. The independent academy is a kind of collegiate institution for the education of congregational dissenters. A general dispensary, a Ladies' Society for the relief of married women in child-bed, a Savings'-bank, and a Linnæan Society, are among the charitable and beneficial establishments. The town was distinguished for the manufacture of a mixed species of linen and cotton goods, called Blackburn checks and greys, so early as the time of the commonwealth. It is, however, by the fabrication and printing of calicoes, and since the invention of the machinery by which that manufacture has been so greatly facilitated, that it has obtained its present eminence. It has been estimated that in some years Blackburn has manufactured to the amount of two millions sterling, and afforded employment to 10,000 persons in the cotton line alone. The market here is plentiful, but a convenient site for it is much wanted. The police, and the lighting, paving, and cleansing of the town are under parliamentary regulation. The parish contains fourteen additional townships and eight chapelries.

BLACKBURN, shire of Linlithgow, S.

P. T. Livingston (14) 2 m. W. Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of Whithorn through which the Glasgow road passes. Blackburn is also the name of a small river in this county, forming the principal branch of the Aron.

BLACKBURN, shire of Roxburgh, S.

A river in the parish of Castletown, celebrated for its beautiful cascades and a natural bridge of stone, which united the opposite hills, thirty-one feet above the water. This bridge, which appeared to be formed of several square stones united in the centre, gave way in April, 1810.

Pop. 12,509.

A hundred in the lathe of Sutton at Hone, containing four parishes.

BLACKHEATH, co. Kent.

London 3 m. SE. Pop. returned with the several parishes.

A hamlet, principally in the parish of Greenwich, but also extending into the several parishes of Lewisham, Lee, and Charlton. It is a fine elevated heath, particular parts of which command very noble prospects, including a beautiful view of Greenwich Park, with the hospital and the river Thames. Owing to its vicinity to the metropolis, it has been the site of many me-notable transactions in English history. Here the Danes formed an encampment, as also the followers of Wat Tyler and Jack Cade. Henry VI. pitched his camp thereon previously to one of his battles with his competitor Edward of York; and here Lord Audley and the Cornish rebels were defeated by Henry VII. It has also been the scene of much pageantry; it being customary for the lord mayor and corporation of London, and sometimes even for the king and court, to meet illustrious visitors from the Continent on Blackheath. On the east is Morden College, founded by Sir John Morden, a Turkey merchant, who died in 1708, for decayed merchants, who each receive 20*l.* a year, and apartments in the college, which is a large brick building, with two wings. The inmates dine at a common table, and none can be admitted under sixty years of age. Beautiful villas abound on the heath and its neighbourhood, belonging to the nobility and others; and here once stood the magnificent mansion of Sir Gregory Page, since sold by auction, and pulled down. On the side of the ascent to the Heath, from Deptford, a cavern was discovered in 1780, consisting of seven large chambers, from twelve to thirty-six feet wide, which communicate with each other by arched avenues. The descent is by a flight of steps; the sides and roof are of chalk, and the bottom is formed of a fine dry sand; 170 feet from the surface of the ground is a well of water twenty-seven feet deep. Much fine gravel is obtained from Blackheath, for ornamental gardening and other purposes.

BLACKHEATH, co. Surrey.

Pop. 7112.

A hundred in the southern extremity of the county, on the borders of Sussex, containing eleven parishes.

BLACKNESS, shire of Linlithgow, S.

P. T. Linlithgow (10) 4 m. NE.
Pop. with Pa.

A village in the parish of Carridor, possessing a castle, which stands on a promontory, projecting into the Firth. It was once a royal fortress, and by the act of Union is one of the four garrisons still to be kept in repair. It has a governor and deputy-governor, which situations are sinecures, being occupied only by a few invalids. This was anciently a Roman port.

BLACKPOOL, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

P. T. Poulton 230 1 m. SW.
Pop. with Layton 719.

A small village and bathing-place in the township of Layton and parish of Bispham, in the hundred of Arunderness. It is pleasantly situated on the coast of the Irish Sea, and presents fine smooth sands, which besides the advantages to bathers, are admirably adapted both for walking and riding. Here on a fine day may be seen the promontory of Furness, the fells of Westmoreland, the crags of Lancashire, the hills of Cumberland, the mountains of Wales, and even the Isle of Man. The summer visitors sometimes amount to 800 during the season, chiefly from Manchester; for whose accommodation three hotels are established, and for this period two coaches run daily from Preston to this place. Here is a chapel of ease to Bispham, and a national school on the Madras system. Near the ruins of the house called Vauxhall, once

BLACKWALL, co. Middlesex.

London 3 m. E. (from St. Paul's Cathedral)

Pop. with Poplar 12,213.

A hamlet with Poplar, in the parish of Stepney, in the hundred of Ossulston, situate near the mouth of the river Lee. Here are the extensive Wet Docks, founded in the Isle of Dogs, and surrounded with commodious warehouses, in which several hundred ships of the largest burthen might load or unload at the same time. By a double-cut, vessels entering these docks may proceed either up or down the river, and avoid the tedious circuit round the Isle of Dogs, by Greenwich. The East India Docks are also situated here, which were first opened for shipping in 1802, and are constructed to receive twenty-eight India ships. Both the inner and the outer docks are surrounded by a substantial thick wall, and communicate with each other by a lock and gates. The import dock measures 1410 feet from east to west, and 560 feet from north to south. The export dock, which was originally of the same dimensions, was in 1807, rendered much larger. Adjacent to the docks, on the south side, within the inclosure, are the extensive salt-petre warehouses of the East India Company, and on the opposite side other warehouses for the accommodation of the private trade. Here are conveniences for landing the cargoes of Greenland ships, and cauldrons for extracting the blubber, as also warehouses for storing up the oil and whalebone; and an extensive building for laying up the salt and rigging of India ships. At a short distance from the East India Dock, are the large ship-yard and warehouses of Sir Robert Wigram, and below these premises, the Trinity Buoy Wharf, for storing and repairing the boats and beacons, under the authority of the Trinity House. On the banks of the river Lee, in the adjoining parish of Bromley are some very considerable copper-works.

P. T. Dunkeld (35) 20 m. NW. Pop. 2103. Fair, Feb. 1.

A Highland parish and village, the latter of which is situated on the river Tilt, on the road from Edinburgh to Fort Augustus. The parish, united with that of Strowan, extends thirty miles in length, by eighteen miles in breadth; living, in the presbytery of Dunkeld and synod of Perth and Stirling. A great part of the surface is in a high degree rude and mountainous; but the glens between the hills are capable of cultivation, and yield tolerable crops. The principal mountains are Ben Deirg, Ben Lyle, and Strathgray; and the rivers, the Tummel, Garry, Erchty, Bruar, and Tilt. There is no extensive wood; although it is supposed that the whole formed a part of the ancient Caledonian forest. Athol house, or Blair Castle, is situated near the banks of the Tilt. It sustained a siege against the rebels in 1745, but has been since modernized. Limestone and granite abound here, with several remains of antiquity, such as forts, cairns, and tumuli. The Gaelic language prevails among the mass of the population.

BLANDFORD FORUM, co. Dorset.

London 103 m. S.W. Dorchester, 10 m. S.E. Pop. 2013. M. D. Sat. Fairs, Mar. 7; July 10; Nov. 8, for horses, sheep, and cheese. Mail arr. 7 51*f.* Mail dep. 8. 40*a.*

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Pimperne, Blandford division, but possessing separate jurisdiction; also called Blandford Chipping, or Market Blandford. It is situated on a bend of the river Stour, near the Downs, in the centre of the north-east parts of the county. It is a very ancient place; but owing to the numerous fires which have taken place, its construction exhibits few marks of antiquity. The last of these calamities, which occurred in 1731, destroyed the church, town-hall, almshouses and free-school, and left but forty houses standing. The damage was estimated at between 30,000*l.* and 40,000*l.* and the then royal family handsomely contributed to the expense of rebuilding it. It is at present a handsome well-built town, and possesses a neat town-hall, constructed of Portland stone. Within the building is a pump, over which is a marble tablet, with an inscription, commemorative of the fire, and of the erection of this pump by John Bastow, a pious sufferer, to supply water in the event of a similar calamity. In ancient records, Blandford is styled a borough, but it sent members to parliament twice only. It received a charter from James I., which both confirmed and enlarged its former privileges. It is at present governed by a bailiff and ten capital burgesses, two of whom preside in a court, which has power to determine suits for sums not exceeding 10*l.* The corporation is entitled to purchase and hold lands in fee, and possesses a common seal. Blandford derives its principal support from travellers; from the expenditure of a rich surrounding gentry; and from its market and fairs. It possesses little manufacture, except that of shirt buttons, which are chiefly made by females. The races held annually in July or August, since the year 1729, on a down in the parish of Tarent Monkton, are also deemed beneficial to the town. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry of Dorset and diocese of Bristol; charged in K. B. 12*l.* 8*s.* 14*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 145*l.* 8*s.*; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Winchester. The church, ded. to St. Peter and St. Paul, is built in the modern style of architecture; the tower is eighty feet high, and surmounted by a cupola. Here are two free-schools, supported by endowments, as also a charity-school, founded by Archbishop Wake. There are several other charities, including almshouses, founded by George Ryves, Esq. in 1682, for ten poor persons, with a fund to apprentice poor boys; a similar fund was also bestowed by William Williams, Esq. in 1621, for articling boys to the sea, and other benevolent purposes. At the east end of Blandford are the remains of Damory court, once the stately mansion of the baronial family of that name, who were the ancient lords of the demesne. Near these ruins stood the celebrated Damory oak, which in 1747 was seventy-five feet high, and the trunk twelve feet in diameter. A hollow, or cavity in the latter would contain twenty persons, and it served as a temporary abode for a family, after the fire. Archbishop Wake, the Rev. Christopher Pitt, the translator of Virgil; and Thomas Creech, the translator of Lucretius, were all natives of

BLANTYRE, shire of Lanark, S.

P. T. Hamilton (38) 4 m. NW. Pop. 3030.

A parish and village in Middle Ward; the latter of which is chiefly employed by artisans in the cotton factories. The parish, which is about six miles in length, and one in breadth, is fertile, except towards the south, where it becomes a deep peat moss. Iron-stone of an excellent quality is produced here, and wrought to great advantage. The living is in the presbytery of Hamilton and synod of Glasgow and Ayr. Here is a mineral spring, which is deemed very salutary in scorbutic cases. On the top of a rock, which rises perpendicularly from the Clyde, are the ruins of the priory of Blantyre, founded before 1296. Urns have been dug up at different times, in various parts of this parish.

BLARIS. See Lisburn.

BLARNEY, co. Cork, Munster, I.

P. T. Cork (108) 4 m. NW. Pop. of Pa. 1851. Of To. 333. Fairs, Easter Mon. and Tues.; June 3 and 9; Sept. 16; and Nov. 11.

A market-town in a parish of the same name, the latter being partly in Barnett's barony and partly in Muskerry East, situated upon the river Blarney. The town, which is in architectural good taste, was designed and erected by the late Mr. Jefferies, the proprietor. Linen, cotton, and paper are manufactured here. The living is a rectory and vicarage in the diocese of Cloyne and archdiocese of Cashel; valued in K. B. 1*l.*; united by act of council to the rectory and vicarage of Greengagh. It possesses a church, glebe-house, and thirty-one acres of land. The parish is otherwise called Garrycloyne. At Blarney is a famous castle built by Cormac M'Carty, the walls of which are eighteen feet in thickness; it was besieged and battered by King William's army.

BLECHINGLEY, or BLETCHINGLEY, co. Surrey.

London 21 m. R. Pop. 1187. Fairs, June 22 and Nov. 2, for horses, cattle, and toys.

A borough and parish in the first division of the hundred of Tandridge, near the foot of the chalk hills, which divide the county. It had formerly a market, which is now disused; but it has uninterruptedly sent members to Parliament since the 23d Edward I. The right of election is vested in the resident burgage holders, whose tenures being all the property of one individual, he possesses the nomination of both members. What is very remarkable, his bailiff being declared by a resolution of the House of Commons, to possess no concern in the election, there is no returning-officer. The major part of the inhabitants are occupied in agriculture; and at the two annual fairs, great numbers of lean cattle are brought from Scotland and Wales. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Surrey and diocese of Winchester; charged in K. B. 27*l.* 19*s.* 4½*d.*; patron, the King. The church, which is ded. to St. Mary, consists of a nave, with a south aisle and double chancels, the south part of which contains a magnificent monument to the memory of the first Sir Robert Clayton and his lady, which spirited merchant, magistrate, and senator, represented this borough in Parliament. A free-school was founded here in 1683, by Thomas Evans, for the education of twenty boys of the borough. There are also eleven almshouses for poor persons, and other similar charitable donations. Here stood a castle, which was destroyed so early as the reign of Henry III. The ancient manor-house, called Blechingley Place, was the residence of Stafford, duke of Buckingham, beheaded by Henry VIII., to whom the lordship belonged; and here those real or pretended conversations were said to have taken place, as to his claim to the crown, which produced his destruction. It has long been pulled down, with the exception of the porter's lodge, which has been transformed into a farm-house.

Woodstock (61) m. Pop. 66.
An extra-parochial hamlet, but locally situated in the parish of Woodstock and liberty of Oxford, being the demesne and containing the magnificent house and park bestowed by national gratitude on the celebrated John Churchill, Duke of Marlborough. The honour of Woodstock, which had for many centuries belonged to the crown, having been conferred by Queen Anne on that great commander for his eminent services, Parliament granted the sum of half a million sterling to erect a suitable family seat. The building was intrusted to Sir John Vanbrugh, and called Blenheim, from the great victory obtained by the duke over the French and Bavarians, near a German village so named, on the 2d of August, 1704. The grand serjeantry by which the manor is held, consists in the presentation at Windsor Castle on each anniversary of that event, by the Duke of Marlborough and his descendants, of a flag embroidered with Jeune de-lis. In this park once stood the royal palace of Woodstock, where Alfred is said to have resided, and which was the favourite residence of Henry II., who erected a house in the park for his favourite mistress, Rosamond Clifford, whence the well known legend of Woodstock-bower, Queen Eleanor, and the fair Rosamond. Here the same monarch received the homage of Malcolm, King of Scotland, and Rhys, Prince of Wales. Edward III. was also much attached to this palace, in which his eldest son, the illustrious Black Prince, was born, as well as his youngest son, Thomas Duke of Gloucester, usually called Thomas of Woodstock, from that event. Richard II. likewise kept his court here, at which time the poet Chaucer resided at Woodstock in a house which stood near the present entrance to the park.

When alarmed by the conspiracy of St. Thomas Wyat, Queen Mary placed her sister the Princess, afterwards the great Queen Elizabeth, in the palace at Woodstock, under the superintendence of Sir Henry Hollesfield. During the civil wars of the seventeenth century, it was for some time defended for the king; but it ultimately surrendered, and was much injured and dismantled by the Parliamentarians. The great hall remained and was tenanted so late as the reign of William III., and existed until the commencement of the last century, when the whole was removed. The usual approach from Blenheim to Woodstock is through a triumphal arch or portal, from which the advance to the mansion is very fine. In front of the building stands a sculptured column 130 feet high, surmounted by a statue of the duke, whose victories and achievements are recorded on tablets around the base. The front of the house measures 318 feet from wing to wing, and although architectural critics find many faults in detail, the general effect is in the highest degree noble and commanding. The interior is also extremely magnificent; the hall, which is supported by Corinthian pillars, is sixty-seven feet high; and the ceiling is painted by Sir James Thornhill, the design representing Victory crowning the Duke. The gallery and bow-window room abound in portraits by the most eminent masters, both foreign and English. On the tapestry of the latter are figured the various battles gained by the same great general, and more especially that of Blenheim. The saloon is a noble and spacious apartment, which communicates with the hall, and occupies the entire breadth of the centre. The lower part is lined with marble, and six of its compartments are decorated with pictures by La Guerre, representing the inhabitants of the different nations of the world in appropriate costume. On the ceiling is a representation by the same artist of the victorious Duke arrested in his career by Peace and Time. The remaining principal subjects of admiration are the library, the theatre, the state drawing-room, the blue and green drawing-room, the grand cabinet, the dining-room, and the dressing-room, a description of the contents of which, including pictures, statues, grand articles of vertu, and splendid furniture, would occupy a volume. In the chapel, which forms one of the wings, is a fine marble monument by Rysbrack to the great duke and his almost equally celebrated duchess, Sarah. The gardens and grounds, which are exceedingly spacious, were laid out by Brown, who contrived to make a most admirable use of the small river Glyme in the formation of a lake, or piece of water, which is justly deemed one of the greatest beauties of the place. It is crossed by several arches and at the middle or grand approach is a magnificent bridge, the space of the centre arch of which is 101 feet. At one of the extremittee of the garden is a fountain designed from that in the Piazza Navona at Rome. It is decorated by four finely executed river gods, personifying the Danube, the Nile, the La Plata, and the Ganges; a leading river in each quarter of the globe. The park contains a fine succession of adorned home scenery; and altogether this domain supplies a specimen of national munificence towards great desert at once honourable to the country which gave, and to the great man who received it.

A small seaport-town and township in the parish of Earsdon, in the east division of Castle ward. It is situated on the river of the same name at its confluence with the German Ocean. A considerable portion of the town extends into the township of Cowper, in the parish of Horton, which increases the population of Blyth and its suburbs to 3000. The harbour is very safe for ships of small burthen. Nearly 100 vessels belong to this port, which possesses a custom-house under the control of that at Newcastle. The chief trade is in coals and salt; the average annual export of the former from Blyth and Hartly being from 50 to 60,000 chaldrons. Stationary lights are exhibited on the right of the harbour while there are eight feet water on the bar. A neat chapel of ease was erected by Sir Matthew White Ridley in 1751, to which a Sunday school is annexed, and there are four places of worship for dissenters. There are also two ship insurance companies.

A tything in the parish and hundred of Lambourn. Half a yard-land is held in this tything on the remarkable tenure of keeping six damsels (meretrices) for the king's service; which feudal accommodation some writers have transformed into handresses, lotrices, although the most accurate research has but too much tendency to countenance a less favourable construction.

BOCKING, co. Essex.

P. T. Braintree (00) 2 m. NE. London 41 m. E. Pop. 2700.

A parish and extensive village in the hundred of Hinchford. The latter, which is situated on the river Pant, consists principally of one considerable street extended along the high road. The manor was presented in the reign of Ethelred, to the cathedral of Canterbury, and continued thence to that see until the dissolution of monasteries by Henry VIII. The living rectory and a peculiar belonging to Archbishop of Canterbury, and is subject only to his special jurisdiction, or to that of his commissary, who is styled Dean of Bocking. It is charged in K. B. 35l. 10s. 10d.; patron, the Archbishop. The principal business of this place is caused by its situation as a thoroughfare from the metropolis to the eastern counties. There are several corn and fulling mills on the river, and some remnant of its former flourishing laize manufactory still exists. Here is an hospital or almshouse, founded by John Doreward, in the reign of Henry VI. for seven poor persons, as also a charity-school, endowed by Dr. Gauden, Bishop of Worcester, for the education of thirty boys; with various minor benefactions for the general benefit of the poor.

BODMIN, co. Cornwall.

London 123 m. WSW. Launceston 20½ m. SW. Pop. of Pa. 3274. Of To. 2007.
M. D. Sat. Palm, Jan. 23; Sat. bef. Palm Sunday; Tu. and Wed. bef. Whit Sunday; and Dec. 6, for oxen, sheep, and cloth.
Mail art. 2. 3 f. Mail dep. 11. 3 a. Memb. of Pt. 2.

A borough, market-town, and parish, in the hundred of Trigg, occupying the northern face of a hill. It consists principally of one long street, running east and west, a part of which is exceedingly narrow and uneven, although much improved by new houses and buildings within the last few years. It is situated in nearly the centre of the county, and at almost an equal distance from the St. George's and Bristol Channels. This town, in the Cornish language called Bosmenas, seems to have been a place of great consideration under the Saxons, and in 903 was made the seat of the bishop of the diocese, now that of Exeter. It once contained thirteen churches or free chapels, of which at present there remains but one. It was erected a borough by a charter, granted by Richard earl of Cornwall, brother of Henry III., which privilege was confirmed by his nephew, Edward I. It received a later charter from James I., under which it was governed by a mayor and thirty-six burgesses, who were altered, by one granted in 1799, by George III., to a mayor, eleven aldermen, and twenty-four common-counsellors. It has returned two members to Parliament ever since the 23d Edward I., and the elective franchise is possessed by the corporation alone; ascendant influence, that of Lord De Dunstanville; returning officer, the mayor. The summer assizes and quarter-sessions are held here, as also the registry and court of the Archdeacon of Cornwall. It was anciently a stannary town, and possessed the privilege of stamping, which was acquired by Lostwithiel. The county gaol and bridewell, a handsome building, commenced in 1799, stands about half-a-mile north-west of the town. The wool trade is much pursued, and there are some manufactories of serge. The wool is washed, sorted, and spun here, and in the neighbouring parishes, whence it is sent for subsequent manufacture, chiefly to Ashburton, and other towns in Devonshire. The living is a dis. vicarage, in the archdeaconry of Cornwall and diocese of Exeter; valued in K. B. 1376s. 8d.; patron (1829) Sir William Prideaux, Bart. The church, which is the ancient priory, ded. to St. Peter, is one of the largest in Cornwall; and although the outside possesses little architectural beauty, the interior is fair and handsome. It contains a curiously sculptured monument to the memory of Thomas Vivian, bishop of Megara, one of its latest priors. Here are the remains of several ancient religious establishments, and among the rest, of a monastery of the regular canons of St. Austin, which existed until the dissolution, when the site and demesnes were granted by Henry VIII. to Thomas Sternhold, one of the first translators of the Psalms into English metre. Near the town are some monumental stones, regarded by Stukeley as the remains of a druidical temple. There is also a well of remarkable pure water, the specific gravity of which is deemed heavier than that of other spring-water. This town formed the head-quarters of Perkin Warbeck, the pseudo son of Edward IV. Besides the Carists mentioned at the head of this article, 12 more are kept annually on August 21, and October 30, originally granted with 2000 lands, for the benefit of lepers.

adjoining the Parliamentary road. The living is a curacy, not in charge, with the curacy of Holyhead, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Bangor; patron, Jesus College, Oxford. The church is dedicated to St. Twrog.

BOGIE, shire of Aberdeen, S.

A river which rises in the lower part of the Cabnach hills, and running through the beautiful vale called Strathbogie, falls into the Deveron, about sixteen miles from its source. It abounds with trout, and a fine bridge of three arches is thrown across it at Huntley.

BOGNOR, or HOTHAMPTON, co. Sussex.

London 67 m. SW. Chichester 7 m. SE.

Pop. with Pa.

A hamlet to the parish of South Bersted in the hundred of Aldwich, rape of Chichester; but rendered a market-town by an act of parliament passed in 1822. So late as 1781 it possessed only a few fishermen's huts, and was known chiefly as the resort of smugglers, when, owing to the attraction of the site as a place for sea-bathing, an extensive erection of modern villas was projected by its enterprising proprietor, the late Sir Richard Hotham, with the express view of making the company more select than at other bathing-places, in which plan he materially succeeded. It has since acquired an hotel, assembly-rooms, a library, a neat chapel, warm sea baths, and most of the usual establishments for convenience and amusement, which distinguish other bathing places. The air is salubrious, the roads in the vicinity good, and the walks and rides from the beauty of the surrounding country, exceedingly pleasant. On the death of Sir Richard Hotham, in 1799, it was sold in lots to various persons.

BOHARM, shire of Banff and Elgin, S.

P. T. Keith (150) 7 m. SW. Pop. 1200.

A parish partly in the shire of Banff and partly in that of Elgin. It is about nine miles in length by three in breadth, and the soil for the most part is a stiff rich clay, on a bed of limestone. Here the rivers Fiddich and Spey flow through an extensive valley, which is surrounded by lofty mountains, the most conspicuous of which is Benlanger. The living is in the presbytery of Aberlour and synod of Moray. Here are the ruins of the castle of Galival, termed in the year 1200 Castellum de Bucharin. It formerly possessed a chapel in its own ground, supposed to be the parent of the present parish church, which, since the union of a part of the parish of Dundureos with Boharm, has been erected in a more central situation, two miles eastward. James Ferguson, the celebrated astronomer, received the rudiments of his education here.

lued in K. B. 24l. 13s. 4d.; church ded. to St. Nicholas; patron, Bishop of Durham.

BOLDRE, co. Southampton.

P. T. Lymington (89) 2 m. N. Pop. 2190.

A parish in the east half hundred of New Forest, east division; living, a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; valued in K.B. 12l.; church ded. to St. John; patron (1829) J. P. Shrubh, Esq. This parish, which is very extensive, was eminently benefited by its benevolent rector, the late Rev. William Gilpin, who founded two schools here for the instruction of twenty boys and as many girls. To defray this charge Mr. Gilpin appropriated the whole of his drawings and sketches, which produced much more than had been estimated. The church, which is very ancient, displays some very interesting remains of its primitive architecture.

BOLSOVER, co. Derby.

London 145 m. N b W. Derby 9 m. E.

Pop. 1355. M. D. Fri. Fairs, East. Mon.; June 25; and Nov. 1.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, pleasantly situated on the borders of Nottingham. Here was a celebrated castle, supposed to have been founded at the Conquest by William Fereverel, on the site of which, on the brow of a steep hill, stands the present castle, built by Sir Charles Cavendish, in 1613. Here a superb entertainment was given by his son William Cavendish, Duke of Newcastle, in 1661, to Charles I. and his queen, when the scenery and masques were devised by Ben Jonson. The living is a dis. vicarage, in the archdeaconry of Derby and diocese of Lichfield and Coventry; charged in K. B. 67. 19s. 4d.; ann. val. P. R. 1177.; patron, the Duke of Portland, under whom a copyhold court is held every three weeks, which appoints the constable and two headboroughs, by whom the town is governed. Here are manufactories of tobacco-pipes; but the occupation of the majority of the inhabitants is chiefly connected with agriculture.

A township in the parish of Calverley, in the wapentake of Morley.

BOLTON ABBEY, or EAST BOLTON, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Skipton (216) 6½ m. N.E. Pop. 127.

A township in the parish of Skipton, to which it is a chapelry, in the east division of the wapentake of Staincliffe and Eweross. The living is a curacy annexed to the vicarage of Skipton in the archdeaconry and diocese of York; certified value 327. 10s.; chapel ded. to St. Mary and St. Cuthbert; patron (1829) the Duke of Devonshire. Here is a free-school founded by the Hon. Robert Boyle. Bolton is much celebrated for the remains of its priory, originally founded at Embay in this county, by William de Meschines and Cecilia his wife; and thirty years afterwards, owing to the following melancholy accident, translated to Bolton by their daughter Adeliza, married to William Fitzduncan, nephew of David, King of Scotland. In the woods between Bolton and Hardin, the river Wharfe is suddenly contracted by lofty rocks to a channel little more than four feet, through which fissure the water pours with extreme rapidity. At this place, from the habit of daring persons leaping across it called the strid, a noble youth, the only son of the above-mentioned Adeliza, was bounding over with a greyhound in his leash, when the frightened dog drew back and precipitated his unfortunate master in the torrent below. This melancholy event induced his afflicted parents to remove the monastery from Embay to the spot where the calamity occurred, a site which is deemed one of the finest in England. The building was seated upon a beautiful curvature of the river Wharfe, the devious and romantic course of which gives so remarkable a character to the scenery around. Both on the north and south the views are extremely fine and extended. The principal remains of the priory now standing were parts of the church, and the nave is still used as a parochial chapel. On its dissolution in 1540, it was granted by Henry VIII. to Henry Earl of Clifford, by a marriage of the heiress of which family it devolved to the first Earl of Burlington, whose daughter and heiress marrying the Duke of Devonshire in 1743, it became the property of the ducal family of Cavendish, in whose possession it still remains.

BOLTON, GREAT, or BOLTON-ON-THE-MOORS, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

London 107 m. NW. Manchester 11 m. NW. Lancaster 10 m. SSE. Pop. of Pa. 50,107. On Tu. 24,007. M. D. Mon. Fair, July 30, 31; and Oct. 12, 13, for horses, horned cattle, and cheese. Mail art. 6 a. Mail dep. 8. 17 a.

A market-town, parish, and township, in the hundred of Salford, situated among the moors. By far the larger part of the town is of modern origin, and it includes the townships and chapelry of Little Bolton, which is only divided from it by the small river Croul. The manor of Bolton came into the possession of the Pilkington family so early as the reign of Henry I., the head of which, Sir Thomas Pilkington, lost both his estate and his life for adhering to the cause of Richard III. In the civil war between Charles I. and the Parliament, it adhered to the latter, and was in consequence stormed by Prince Rupert and James Earl of Derby, and carried with much slaughter. Here too, the same active noblemans was decapitated on being taken prisoner in Cheshire after the battle of Worcester. When the young Pretender Charles Edward penetrated into the heart of the kingdom, through Preston and Manchester, Bolton experienced considerable alarm. So early as the reign of Henry VIII. this town and its vicinity were celebrated for producing what Leland calls cottons, which were however woollens, the vegetable cotton not being introduced until the reign of James I. Velvets entirely made of cotton, were first made here in 1756, and muslins and cotton quiltings in 1763. A few years afterwards the spinning-jenny was invented by Thomas Highs of Leigh, and brought gradually into general use by Sir Richard Arkwright, the original patentee, then a barber and a resident of Bolton, who carried the invention into Derbyshire and realised an immense fortune. Here also Mr. Samuel Crompton, a weaver, invented the machine called a mule, which combined the powers of the spinning-jenny and water-frame; which piece of ingenuity led to such manufacturing facilities that Parliament ultimately decreed him a reward of 5000l. Spinning factories succeeded but only on a small scale, owing to a scarcity of water, which difficulty being superseded by the introduction of the steam-engine, Bolton rapidly arose into its existing state of consequence. At present the muslin, quilting, and dimity branches, seem most to prevail, and bleaching is carried to so great an extent, that the quantity annually bleached in the town and vicinity has been estimated at six millions of pieces. A large proportion of the cotton fabrics manufactured here are bought up by the Manchester merchants, which has gradually transferred the cotton market to that town. The principal streets of Bolton unite at the market-place, and the houses being for the most part modern, are regularly built and handsome. Owing to its increasing wealth and population, new streets and squares are in daily progress, and local improvements of every description succeed each other with great rapidity. Town-halls for the transaction of public business have been recently erected in both townships, and here are a theatre and assembly and concert-rooms. The town is paved, watched, and lighted (with gas), under the authority of provisions introduced into the acts of Par-

Hamlet for Inclosing Bolton-Moor. The market is well supplied with provisions, and the cattle fairs much attended. The canal from Manchester, a branch of which runs to Bury, has added materially to the prosperity of the place; and it has been further benefited by a new rail-road, affording facilities for a more cheap supply of coal from the neighbouring collieries. Each of the townships of Great and Little Bolton has a separate police, consisting of a borough-reeve and two constables, with inferior officers, who are annually elected at the court-leet; and the parochial concerns of the two townships are as distinct as their municipal affairs. The privilege of holding a court-baron for the recovery of debts under 40s. is vested in the lordship of the manor of Bolton, which is now divided, but the Earl of Derby still remains the largest proprietor. Besides a Monday meeting of the magistrates of the hundred, a petty session is held every Friday. The living of Great Bolton is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Chester; charged in K. B. 10l. 3s. 1½d.; patron, the Bishop. The church, ded. to St. Peter, is an ancient structure, the windows of which are painted with the shields of the Chetham and Bridgeman families. A new and handsome district church in the Gothic style has lately been erected in Bedford Square, and ded. to the Holy Trinity; living, a curacy subordinate to the vicar of Bolton (for All Saints and St. George's chapels, see article Little Bolton.) The number of dissenters' places of worship, in both townships, amounts to sixteen, including the Roman Catholics and all the leading classes. Here is a free grammar-school, founded in 1611, by Robert Ever, a native and citizen and clothier of London; at which school Robert Ainsworth, the celebrated Latin lexicographer, was educated. Another school was founded in 1693, by Nathaniel Hulton, another native of this place and alderman of London, for the instruction of thirty boys and thirty girls; as also a free reading school for twenty children, by Thomas Marsden, in 1752. Besides these institutions, between seven and eight thousand children are instructed at the various madras schools. The principal charities are a dispensary, lying-in and clothing charities. The parish of Bolton contains no less than fourteen populous townships, in addition to the two which form the town; and although the soil is sterile, the plentiful supply of coal, looking to the manufacturing character of the vicinity, forms an ample compensation.

BOLTON, LITTLE, co. Pal. of Lancaster.

P. T. Great Bolton (107) m. adjacent.

Pop. 9254.

A township in the parish of Great Bolton, of which it is a chapelry, and in the hundred of Salford. The living is a curacy, not in charge, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Chester; chapel ded. to All Saints; patron (1829) G. Gartside, Esq. St. George's was erected in 1796, the patronage of which is in the gift of the trustees of the original proprietors. Little Bolton is only separated from Great Bolton by the small river Croul, and may virtually be deemed a part of that town, although governed by its own borough-reeve, annually elected.

A market-town and parish in Allerdale ward above Darwent, the latter of which extends six miles on the coast of the Irish sea. The town, which is small but neat, consists principally of one short street of good houses, situated about two miles from the shore. The living is a rectory in the archdeaconry of Richmond and diocese of Chester; charged in K. B. 19*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*; patron (1829) the Earl of Lonsdale. The church, ded. to St. Michael, is a small ancient structure, but remarkable for nothing except an antique octagonal font of black marble. Here is an independent chapel, with a Sunday-school; and also a small school supported by benefaction and subscriptions, in which a few children are taught gratuitously. The soil of the parish is very fertile; and large quantities of corn, pork, and bacon, are forwarded to the Liverpool market. About one mile from Bootle begins the ascent of the mountain Black-Comb, which stands near the sea and commands views of Scotland, North Wales, the Isle of Man, and fourteen counties in England. Several very remarkable Druidical circles and remains are found in this vicinity.

Fairs, April 27 and 28, for horned cattle and sheep; June 22 and 23, ditto, with horses and hardware; and Oct. 23, horned cattle and sheep. Memb. of Pt. 2.

A borough, market-town, and township in the parish of Aldborough, in the wapentake of Claro, situated on the south bank of the river Ure, over which there is a stone bridge. The houses are well-built, and the town possesses many good inns; its consequence having originated in its position as a thoroughfare on the great north road, from which, and from its manufacture of hardware, the principal business of the inhabitants is still derived. It early obtained a market, and in 1577 was constituted a borough, with the privilege of sending two members to Parliament. The right of election is in the burgage-holders, who are nominally between seventy and eighty; but the appointment of the two members is actually enjoyed by the Duke of Newcastle; returning officer, the bailiff of that nobleman, who also governs the town. Boroughbridge is a chapelry to the parish of Aldborough; living, a curacy in the archdeaconry of Richmond and diocese of Chester; annexed to the vicarage of the northern church. About half a mile south of the town are three stupendous obelisks, called the Arrows, respectively, eighteen, twenty-two and a half, and twenty-two feet high, and each computed to weigh from thirty to thirty-six tons. They are formed of coarse rag stone, and a great diversity of opinion exists among the antiquaries as to the purpose for which they were erected, and by whom. The major part of these authorities, however, assign them to the Romans, and deem them the metae, or stones round which the chariots were turned in the chariot races. In the year 1321, a sanguinary battle was fought near this place between the forces of Edward II. and the insurrectionary barons, headed by the earl of Lancaster, in which the latter were defeated, and the earl and several more noblemen taken prisoners and executed. Here are annual races.

BORROWSTOWNNESS, shire of Linlithgow, S.

Edinburgh 18 m. W.N. Linlithgow 3 m. N.
Pop. 3014. Fair, Nov. 16.

A parish and burgh of barony, the former of which is united to that of Kinneil. The town, which is situated on a low peninsula, washed by the Forth, possesses two principal streets running from west to east, which are narrow and irregular, and the houses old-fashioned and mean. Here are manufactories of vitriol, soap, and pottery, and in the vicinity are very extensive salt works and collieries. The harbour is one of the best in the Firth of Forth; a few Greenland ships belong to it, and it also possesses a small share of Baltic trade; some business likewise takes place in shipbuilding. Here are a general post office and a custom-house. The parish extends four miles in length by two miles and a half in breadth; the surface is various, and the soil a rich and well cultivated loam. Besides several productive coal-pits, there are extensive beds of inferior limestone, with quarries of freestone and granite. The living is in the presbytery of Linlithgow and synod of Lothian and Tweeddale; patron, the Duke of Hamilton, whose elegant mansion of Kinneil is a great ornament to the vicinity. The Roman road, called Graham's Dyke, ran through the high grounds, the whole length of the parish, and traces of it are still visible on the east bank of the Avon.

BORSTALL, co. Buckingham.

BORTHWICK, shire of Edinburgh, S.

P. T. Middleton (15) 1 m. SE. Pop. 1343.

A parish, the average length of which is six miles by four miles in breadth. It is situated in a pleasant valley, and the soil varies from a light loam to a mossy soil on a cold till bottom; but the state of cultivation is very good, and the neighbourhood of Dalkeith affords a good market to the farmer. Lime and coal abound in this parish, which contains Middleton and Ford, two small villages, at the former of which there is a general post office. The living is in the presbytery of Dalkeith and synod of Lothian and Tweeddale. Near the church, erected in 1770, in lieu of one burnt down in 1775, and seated on an eminence, are the ruins of Borthwick Castle, built in 1456, and surrounded on every side by water, except the west, which was defended by two strong towers. Here the Earl of Bothwell and Queen Mary took refuge until after the battle of Carberry hill; and it was besieged in 1650 by Oliver Cromwell, to whom it soon surrendered. This parish has produced several eminent men, including the late historian, Dr. Robertson, the several Dundases of Arncliffe, and James Small, a very ingenious and inventive mechanic.

Mem. of Par. 2.

A borough with Trevena in the parish of Tintagell, in the hundred of Lesnewth. It is situated partly on an isthmus, and partly on an island, and consists of little more than a group of cottages, the country around which is bleak and rugged in the extreme. Trevena which unites with it, in forming the borough, is about a mile distant, and of very similar dimensions. It is governed by a titular mayor and burgesses, the former of whom has no other duty to fulfil than that of returning-officer. It has sent members to Parliament since the reign of Edward VI.; and the right of voting is possessed by the nominal mayor and burgesses, being freeholders, who usually amount to eight or nine persons, and for the most part, belong to one family. Here are the ruins of a castle, said to have been the birth-place of the celebrated King Arthur, and the seat of the British dukes of Cornwall, to the modern duchy of which name it still appertains.

Memb. of Pt. 2. Mail arr. 11. 50 f. Mail
dep. 4. 30 a.

A parish, borough, sea-port, and market-town, in the wapentake of Skirbeck, parts of Holland, situated on each side the river Witham, near its confluence with the sea. The town has been much improved of late years by the erection of new houses, by the deepening of the river, the enlargement of the harbour, and the erection of a handsome bridge across the river, consisting of one arch, eighty-six feet in the span, and of the breadth of thirty-nine feet. This spirited undertaking, which was executed by Rennie, cost the corporation 22,000*l*. The town is well paved, watched, and lighted, and possesses a handsome theatre and a public library. The market-place, which is spacious, is ornamented by a handsome cross, and in the town-hall are commodious assembly-rooms. Like most towns near the sea, it is but indifferently supplied with water; that acquired from the wells, with a few exceptions, being somewhat brackish. The early history of Boston is obscure; but it is believed that the Romans built a fort at the mouth of the Witham; and it is certain that the word Boston is a corruption of Botolph's town, so called from a Saxon of that name, who built an abbey here. In the early part of the reign of Edward II. a staple was established for wool, leather, tin, lead, and other articles. In the following reign it supplied sixteen ships to the royal fleet, but subsequently it much declined, owing to the navigation of the river being choked with silt. The cutting of a new canal from the town to Dogdyke, rapidly produced the most salutary consequences; and with the improvement of the port, has added greatly to the wealth and commercial importance of the town. The drainage of the neighbouring fens, which in some places are fifty and at others thirty miles broad, has also increased the coasting trade of this port in a very great degree, owing to the vast quantity of rich marsh land thereby brought into cultivation. Its exports in this branch consist chiefly of corn and provisions, with a return of coals from Sunderland and Newcastle. Its foreign trade is principally with the Baltic, from which it imports deals, battens, barks, hemp, and iron. It is also much favoured by an inland navigable communication with Lincoln, Gainsborough, Nottingham, and Derby. The cattle fairs are likewise very important. The town was incorporated by Henry VIII., and Elizabeth gave it an admiralty jurisdiction over all the neighbouring coast. The corporation is composed of a mayor, twelve aldermen, and eighteen common councilmen; assisted by a recorder, a judge, a marshal of the admiralty, a coroner, and other officers. Although it deputed to three councils in the reign of Edward III. it did not send members to Parliament until that of Edward VI. The elective franchise is vested in the members of the corporation and resident freemen, paying scot and lot; number of electors, about 400; returning officer, the mayor. The influence for a long time rested exclusively in the corporation, but it may now be deemed an open borough. The living is a vicarage, in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln; charged in R. B. 33*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*.; patrons, the corporation. The church, which is ded. to St. Botolph, is a spacious and interesting pile of architecture, and it is generally believed that its handsome tower was built after the model of that of the great church at Antwerp. At the summit of this tower is a beautiful lanthorn, which serves as a sea-mark in the dangerous navigation of the Boston and Lynn deeps. It is supposed to be the largest church without cross aisles in the kingdom; the nave is exceedingly elevated and grand, and the ceiling, representing a stone vaulting, is of oak. The chancel, which is spacious and lofty, has ranges of stalls on each side, the seats of which are ornamented with grotesque carvings. It possesses a fine organ, a set of chimes, and eight bells. There was formerly a second church, called St. John's, of which the burial ground alone remains; and there are places of worship for most of the leading classes of dissenters. A free grammar-school was founded here in the reigns of Mary and Elizabeth, as also a charity-school for the children of free burgesses, by a freeman of the name of Laughton; to which are to be added a blue-coat school for boys and girls, with one or two other schools, supported by subscription, a general dispensary, and various minor charities. John Fox, the celebrated martyrologist, was a native of this town.

BOSTON, W. R. co. York.

P. T. Tadcaster (100) 4 m. W.
Pop. with Pa.

A hamlet in the township of Clifford and parish of Brauham, and situated in a beautiful and romantic vale on the south side of the river Wharfe. It derives its origin and celebrity from a saline mineral spring, first discovered in 1744. The first house was built in 1755, and it now possesses hot and cold baths and a pump-room, with other conveniences, and has become a place of fashionable resort. The water issues from a limestone rock, which partly overhangs the river. An episcopal chapel was erected here in 1811.

BOSWELLS, ST. shire of Roxburgh, S.

P. T. Melrose (35) 5 m. SE. Pop. 636.
Fair, July 18.

A parish and village in the district of Melrose, extending along the banks of the Tweed, where the soil is excellent, and that of the parish in general very good. St. Boswell's fair is the largest in the south of Scotland. The village of Lessuden is within this parish, which sometimes is called after it. The living is in the presbytery of Selkirk and synod of Merse and Tiviotdale; patron, the Duke of Buccleugh.

BOURNE, co. Lincoln.

London 97 m. N & W. Lincoln 35 m. SSE. Pop. of Pa. 2,112. Of To. 2,020. M. D. Sat. Fairs, March 7; May 6; and Oct. 20. for horses and cattle.

A market-town and parish in the wapentake of Aveland, parts of Kesteven. The town is situated contiguous to the Fens, near a spring remarkable for its purity, called Bournwell Head, forming the source of a river which runs through it towards Spalding. It is poorly and irregularly built, and possesses no buildings which claim attention, except the church and town-hall. Here were formerly a castle and an abbey, of the latter of which some small fragments still remain. The petty sessions for the parts of Kesteven are held here. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Lincoln; valued in K. B. 8*l*.; patron (1829) the Earl of Pomfret. The church, which is ded. to St. Peter, is large and handsome, consisting of a lofty chancel, a nave, with side aisles, and a short transept. Here are a free-school, and almshouses for six poor men and six poor women. The principal business carried on here is in woolstaple and tannery, and there is a considerable intercourse with Boston, by means of a canal for boats of ten tons burthen. The cattle fairs are also of considerable importance. Bourne is the native place of two very opposite characters; the great statesman, Cecil Lord Burleigh, and the unfortunate Dr. W. Dodd, who was executed for forgery.

A parish, about five miles in length by one mile and a half in breadth, and containing about 3000 acres, one-half of which is arable and well cultivated, on the modern system of green crops and summer fallow. The sea bounds the parish for nearly three miles, and a thriving fishery, called Whitehill, is built in one of the creeks. The ruins of Boyne Castle in the parish are romantically situated on a high perpendicular rock, on the south side of a deep and gloomy ravine, through which flows the river Boyne, the banks of which are wooded to the water's edge. It was formerly the baronial castle of the district, and the residence of the Ogilvies, Earls of Findlater and Seafield.

BOYNE RIVER, Leinster, I.

A river (the Bubinda of Ptolemy), which rises one mile south of Edenderry, in the county of Kildare, and meanders through Westmeath, Louth and Meath. It is adjacent to the towns of Mullingar, Kinnegad, Clonard, Trim, Navan, and Slane, and falls into the Irish sea below Drogheda. Its altitude at the fountain head is 225 feet above sea-level, and its length is forty-five miles. It drains a surface of about 700 square miles, and discharges about 3000 cubic feet of water per second, in ordinary times, at Drogheda bridge. On the banks of the river the final battle was fought for the crown of England, between William III. and James II. (see Oldbridge); and from this place the family of Hamilton derives the title of viscount.

A borough and market-town in the hundred of King's Sutton, situate on a descent near a branch of the river Ouse, by which it is separated from Buckinghamshire. It consists of one street, about a mile in length, extending from the bridge up the side of the hill, and the houses are chiefly constructed of rough stone: the market-house is handsome, and the market well supplied. It is supposed to have been a flourishing town under the Saxons, until destroyed by the Danes, and after the conquest it became one of the greatest staples for the sale of wool in the kingdom. It is on record as incorporated by Henry III., but it was not until the reign of Edward II., that its first magistrate received the title of mayor. The corporation consists of a mayor, six aldermen, and twenty-six burgesses, and the mayor is chosen by the burgesses at the annual court leet of the lords of the manor. This borough did not send members to Parliament until the first of Edward VI., and the elective franchise is confined to the members of the corporation, whether resident in or out of the borough. The patronage is possessed by the Marquis of Stafford, and the heirs of the late Earl of Bridgewater. The town is divided into two parishes, the one of which is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Northampton and diocese of Peterborough; valued in K. B. 19*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.*; church ded. to St. Peter; patron (1829) the Marquis of Stafford. The second, St. James, is a chapelry to St. Peter; living, a curacy, not in charge, subordinate to the vicarage. Here is a free-school, founded in the reign of Henry VI., and an hospital, the estates of which are bestowed on Magdalen college, Oxford, without the necessity of attending to the conditions on which they were originally granted, or to any other in lieu of them. An almshouse for six decayed widows was founded here by Sir Thomas Crewe, by whose bounty, and that of his grandson, Bishop Crewe, each receives 6*l.* per annum. In the vicinity of this town is a piece of land, called Bayard's Green, where, in the martial days of feudality, tilts and tournaments often took place, under royal patronage. Samuel Clarke, a distinguished oriental scholar, in the seventeenth century, was a native of this town. Old

London 100 m. W. Salisbury 31 m. NW.
Trowbridge 2 m. NW. Bath 7 m. SE.
Pop. of P. 10,241. Of To. 3700. M. D.
Mon. Fair, Trin. Monday, for cattle and millinery.

A parish and market-town in the hundred of the same name, situated on the banks of the river Avon, commonly called the Lower Avon. Part of the town is built on an eminence, which rises abruptly from the north side of the river, and the remainder on the south side, which divisions receive the names of the Old Town and the New Town. The houses are built of the stone so plentiful in the vicinity, but the streets are for the most part narrow. Here is an ancient bridge of nine arches, which is mentioned by Leland, as also a more modern one, of four arches. Bradford, equivalent to Bradensford, or Brondford, was a place of considerable eminence under the Saxon sway; and by a synod convened here, the celebrated St. Dunstan, in 954, was elected bishop of Worcester. It was one of the towns selected to send members to Parliament by Edward I., which privilege it only exercised once. There is no record of its having been incorporated, and the government at present is under the superintendence of two justices of the peace. It has long been celebrated for the quality of its broad cloths, and especially for the most approved mixtures, the water of the Avon being deemed peculiarly favourable to the production of good colours and superior dying. The business of the town is much advanced by the Avon, which passes Trowbridge, Devizes, and Bradford, in its progress to Bath and Bristol in the one direction, and to the Thames in the other. The parish is very extensive, and contains five additional tythings and chapels, some of which are very populous. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury; charged in K. B. 12*l.* 13*s.*; patrons, the Dean and Chapter of Bristol. The church, which is ded. to the Holy Trinity, is an ancient and spacious edifice of stone, with a tower and small steeple at the west end. It contains several fine marble monuments, a good organ, and a fine altar piece, with a painting representing the Lord's Supper; as also some modern painted windows, presented by John Ferret, Esq. a native of the town, in 1770, which have been much injured. Here are two charity-schools, one of which is endowed with lands, and the other supported by subscription; with two sets of almshouses, and various minor benefactions for the relief of the poor inhabitants. The banks of the Avon below this town are replete with picturesque beauty; the sides of the hills, which are covered with a profusion of trees, often rising boldly and romantically from the very margin of the river.

BRADFORD, W. R. co. York.

London 190 m. NSW. York 31 m. SW.
Leeds 10 m. Pop. of P. 52,954. Of To. 13,001.
M. D. Thurs. Fairs, May 3 and 4, for horned cattle and household furniture; June 17, 18, 19, for ditto and sheep; Dec. 9, 10, 11, a large fair for hogs and pedlary.

A parish and market-town, situated in the heart of the manufacturing district, and forming nearly a central point from the towns of Halifax, Keighley, Leeds, Wakefield, Dewsbury, and Huddersfield. The town, which is pleasantly situated at the junction of these vallies, is built almost entirely of stone. It was formerly a part of the Saxon parish of Dewsbury, and its importance is comparatively modern. It embraced the side of Parliament against Charles I., and twice repulsed a large body of the king's troops from the garrison at Leeds. Its existing consequence is entirely of manufacturing origin, and partly arises from the coal and iron ore abounding in the vicinity. Here are two extensive iron founderies, in which the most ponderous works are executed in malleable and cast iron. Worsted stuffs form the staple commodity of this town and neighbourhood; but broad and narrow cloths, wool-cards, and combs, are likewise made to a considerable extent. The cotton branches have also been latterly introduced here. The piece-hall, for the exposure of stuff goods on market-day, has proved highly beneficial as an established mart; and a cut from the Leeds and Liverpool canal to the heart of the town adds greatly to its trading facilities. The Midsummer quarter sessions are held in this town. The parish is very populous, and contains twelve additional townships and four chapels of ease. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of York, charged in K. B. 20*l.*; patron (1829) Richard Fawcett, Esq. The church, ded. to St. Peter, is a Gothic structure of the age of Henry VI., but the tower is of later date, not being finished until the twenty-third of Henry VII. A new church, called Christchurch, has been erected within these few years, the living of which is a curacy, subordinate to the vicarage; certified value 32*l.* Here are chapels for most of the leading classes of dissenters. The free grammar-school was chartered and liberally endowed by Charles I., for the gratuitous instruction of the boys of this parish; and a new and elegant school-house was erected in the year 1818, which forms a great ornament to the town. This is one of the twelve schools entitled to the privilege of sending candidates for Lady Elizabeth Hastings's exhibition at Queen's College, Oxford. Archbishop Sharpe, the episcopal opponent of Dean Swift, was a native of this town.

London 40 m. NE.; Chelmsford 11 m. N b E. Pop. 2983. M. D. Wed. Fairs, May 3; Oct. 2; and Oct. 3, for cattle, butter, cheese, &c.

A market-town and parish in the hundred of Hincford, pleasantly situated on a rising hill, and extending on the north to Bocking. It was constituted a market-town in the reign of John; and it derived much of its early consequence from its situation as a thoroughfare, and the passage of pilgrims to the shrine of St. Edmund at Bury, and to our lady of Walsingham. It was further benefited in the reign of Elizabeth by a settlement of Flemings, who fled from the merciless persecution of the Duke of Alva, and introduced the baize manufacture, a remnant of which is still preserved; although the town continues to be principally benefited by its position as the high road to the eastern counties. Straw plaiting is also carried on here. The town is governed by a select vestry, composed of twenty-four of the inhabitants; who, so early as 1581, were termed the town magistrates. The living is a dis. vicarage in the archdeaconry of Middlesex and diocese of London; valued in K. B. 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*; the church, ded. to St. Michael, is a spacious structure, seated on an eminence south of the town. ### BRAMBER, co. Sussex.

London 50 m. S; Steyning ½ m. SE. Pop. 98. Memb. of Parl. 2.

A borough and parish in the hundred of Steyning and rape of Bramber, situated on the river Adur, which is here navigable for small vessels. It contains only between twenty and thirty houses, and is governed by a constable, chosen annually at the court leet of the lord of the manor. It is a borough by prescription, and formerly returned members to Parliament, in conjunction with Steyning; but now each of these small places enjoys the privilege. The right of election is in persons inhabiting ancient houses, or in the inhabitants of houses erected on ancient foundations, paying scot and lot; number of voters about twenty; returning officer the constable; proprietors of the burgage tenures, Lord Calthorpe and the Duke of Rutland, who nominate a member each. Here is neither market nor fair. The living is a dis. rectory in the archdeaconry and diocese of Chichester; valued in K. B. 10*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; ann. val. P. R. 100*l.*; patron, Magdalen College, Oxford. The church, ded. to St. Nicholas, is extremely ancient, and is deemed a remnant of the former Alien priory. Here were the remains of a bridge and castle, the last of which was erected by William de Braose, soon after the Conquest. History is silent as to the period of its destruction.

BRAMPTON, co. Cumberland.

Luton 311 m. N b W. Carlisle 10 m. N E. Pop. of Pa. 2721. Of To. 2118. M. D. Tu. Fairs April 20; 2d Wed. aft. Whit-Sund.; 2d Wed. in Sep.; and Oct. 23, for horses and horned cattle.

A parish and market-town, the latter of which is seated in a deep and narrow vale. It consists of three streets, and the market-place, in which stands a neat octagonal town-hall, erected in 1817, by the Earl of Carlisle. In it is a spacious apartment, in which are held the courts for the great barony of Gilsland. The petty sessions are also held in this town, which is chiefly supported by its weekly market and annual fairs. The late Earl of Carlisle extended a rail-road from the collieries at Tindal Fell to the town, by which it has been materially benefited. There is little recorded in history of this place, except that in 1745 the young Pretender rested here a considerable time. The parish, which lies between the Irthney and Gell rivers, contains the additional townships of Easty and Naworth. Excellent coal is found at Tindal Fell, near which is a small lake called Tindal Tarn, two miles in circumference. The living is a vicarage in the archdeaconry and diocese of Carlisle; charged in K. B. 8*l.*; patron (1829) the Earl of Carlisle. The old parish church, ded. to St. Martin, about a mile from the town, is now abandoned, and a parochial chapel in the town has been enlarged, and is used in lieu of it. When Brampton Common was inclosed in 1777, land was assigned to the vicar in lieu of all tithes, except 7*½d.* annually from each house. Here are chapels for presbyterians, independents, the Wesley and the primitive methodists. This place possesses a small grammar-school, a national school for 300 children, an infant school, and twelve almshouses for six poor men and as many women, founded by the Countess Dowager of Carlisle in 1688, with a salary of 12*l.* per annum for a chaplain. A lofty conical mount at the east end of the town, called the moat, bears marks of an ancient fortification, but is now covered with trees.
